JUST TALK

Everyone, young or old, likes to have someone or thing to talk about every day. To us, one of the finest things we can think of to talk about is our own little town of Syracuse. Here is a subject that has great possibilities for any one of us, whether we are graduates of college, graduates of high school, or whether we have had no schooling whatever. We all know how to talk.

Let's mention the beauty, the location, the accommodations, the conveniences, size and environment, the quality of our citizens and business people, at every opportunity that comes our way. Let's tell every one we meet from out of town, about Syracuse; how it is fast becoming one of the best known towns of its size in the country. Tell about the kind of co-operation that is prominent among the business people and the citizens, show the beauty of the homes and business houses, the school, the churches, the scenery.

Telling your friends about Syracuse will, in an indirect manner, help the business, and "what helps business helps you." So, let's talk about Syracuse to someone every day.

HIGHER ARMY RANK

By a recent act of Congress, the rank of lieutenant general on the active list of the Army was revived, and the four senior major generals now in service have been advanced to that rank. They were already in command of the four field armies stationed in the continental United States.

They are Hugh A. Drum, Stanley H. Ford, Stanley D. Embick and Albert J. Bowley, all holders of the distinguished service medal for "exceptionally meritorious and distinguished services" during the World War. Of the four, only Embick and Bowley are graduates of West Point. Drum received his academic training at Boston College, while Ford is a graduate of Ohio State University.

General Drum commands the First Army, with headquarters at New York; General Ford, the Second at Chicago; General Embick, the Third at Atlanta; and General Bowley (the Fourth) at San Francisco.

The only active officer with higher rank than these four lieutenant generals is the chief of staff, who is a full general, at present General George C. Marshall, who was elevated to the Army's highest post this month. There are several full generals and lieutenant generals on the retired list.

The United States Army has never had an officer of the rank of field marshal, which is the highest of all military ranks, although most of the other larger powers have several.

PARK ATTENDANCE SHOWS 50,000 GAIN

A gain of fifty thousand in state parks attendance this year was reported today by Virgil M. Simmons, commissioner of the Department of Conservation, after comparing 1938 and 1939 figures. One of the highest percentages of increase in attendance is being registered this year at Spring Mill state park.

If weather conditions remain favorable during the autumn, it is anticipated that another record for state park attendance will be established during 1939.

Shuffling along a parkway near Hartsdale, N. Y., Charles Karr, who was job hunting stumbled on a valise containing jewels valued at $25,000.

MATRIMONIAL TANGLE

One of the strangest matrimonial mix-ups on record is reported from Pittsburgh. John Murphy and Frances Jones wanted to get married, but on account of Murphy's extremely youthful appearance he feared to apply for a marriage license, so a friend named Leffingwell volunteered to secure the coveted document in Murphy's name, which was done.

To complete his good turn, Leffingwell also went through the marriage ceremony with Miss Jones, representing himself to be Murphy, then turned the happy bride and wedding certificate over to Murphy and called it a day.

Later on, meditating no doubt over his friend's happiness, Leffingwell took unto himself a bride of his own, but their matrimonial bark soon went upon the rocks of incompatibility and a divorce was the result. Meditating again, Leffingwell was reminded that he had really been married to the supposed Mrs. Murphy, confronted her with the fact, and suggested that she fly with him. She flew. Tiring, Leffingwell flew again, but alone. In the meantime, Murphy has also disappeared.

Now Mrs. Murphy, or it may be Mrs. Leffingwell, if either finds herself in a predicament and is asking these questions: Has she a husband at all? Or has she two? Or, if one, which? And why?

Dave Elman, who runs the Hobby Lobby radio program, had a letter from a man whose hobby is collecting war weapons. He wrote: "Under separate cover I am sending you a bomb."
