With the coming of the new sealed beam headlight it is going to be more important than ever that motorists who have this type of light dim their lights when approaching oncoming cars. More and better light will be given by this improved headlight, which makes it more convenient for the driver of the car; but it will be necessary that he dim his lights so that they will not obscure the vision of the drivers coming in the opposite direction.

A great many motorists do dim their lights, and much credit and commendation goes to them for this act of courtesy. But those who are indifferent to this rule and who flatly refuse to dim their lights make it not only inconvenient but dangerous to themselves and others.

Courtesy is the answer. It will promote safety for everybody.
