SHORT COURSES PROVE POPULAR IN INDIANA

Kosciusko County Gets One In December.

Kosciusko county people are to find soon that there is something new under the sun. The Agricultural Extension Service of Purdue University will this coming winter put on eight short courses in agriculture and home economics at various points in Indiana. Here they are: Mishawaka, December 12 and 13; Warsaw, December 24 and 15; Noblesville, January 25 and 26; Kentland, January 30 and 31; Corydon, February 6 and 7; North Vernon, February 8 and 9; Decatur, February 13 and 14, and Hartford City, February 15 and 16.

Short Courses constitute one of the largest and most important of the various Agricultural Extension enterprises operated in Indiana. Last season the average attendance of different persons per short course held was 2,318, with attendances ranging from 975 to 4,600. Commonly upwards of 700 attend the sixteen instruction sessions on agriculture and home economics for men and women, 1,200 to 4,500 attend the home talent concert which is another feature of every program, and 300 the goodwill get-together banquet of the last night.

Kosciusko county, by request of representative men and women of town and country, will on December 12 and 13, 1933, hold a short course in agriculture and home economics.

ber 14 and 15, hold one of these short courses at Warsaw. For this preparations are now being made. There is no cost whatever for those attending, except for the banquet. Anyone may attend from Kosciusko county or neighboring counties. The affair is in all respects a point and cooperative town-country enterprise, and in point of attendance, should make a good showing in comparison with the short courses held in neighboring counties.

LOCAL CONSERVATION CLUBS RELEASE MINNOWS TO STATE

Last Friday, the local Conservation clubs drained the hatching ponds which are located at the rear of the water plant and seined out over nineteen thousand bluegill minnows which were turned over to the State Department of Conservation. The small fish were released in Syracuse lake that evening. Several breeders, large bluegills were turned back to the State Department and will be used next season for breeding purposes.

It was stated that only about half of the minnows were taken because the club will receive $10.00 for two-year-old minnows but only $5.00 for the 1-year-old fry, per thousand.

Bill Jarboe, secretary and Lloyd Disher, of the local clubs, aided the state men with the work. Besides bluegill minnows, many tarpoles and perch were also caught in the seines.
