GREATEST NEWS
IN YEARSChronic Mastitis is Being Cured

If you have ever lost a valuable cow to the butcher because of Garret, or Mastitis (due to Streptococcus agalactiae)—if your milk checks have been reduced because of this dread disease, then you'll welcome this news: Mastitis is being cured. Yes, it is being cured through a new discovery, the use of Novoxil Liquid—produced by the laboratories of F. R. Squibb & Sons. The treatment consists of injecting the Novoxil Liquid into the infected quarter through the teat canal. Dairywomen, through the use of this treatment and by practicing an adequate sanitation program, report cures in a high percentage of infected cows. Come in and get the complete story of this great Squibb contribution to the dairy industry. It's in booklet form. Ask for "Mastitis is Being Cured."

In the estate of Bertha E. Darr, who died here Dec. 24, sons Kenneth J. and Gordon W. Hapner, of Syracuse, have been named as administrators. Personal property is valued at $750 and real estate at $8,000. Another heir in addition to the sons is the husband, John W. Darr.

The estate of Warren Rupie, who died June 27, 1942, near Leesburg, has been opened in circuit court, with Everett E. Rasor qualifying as administrator. Personal property is valued at $5,000 and there is no real estate other than that owned by the decedent and the widow and only heir, Mariette G. Rupie, now Mrs. Palmer, of Columbus, O., a tenant in the entirities, it is set out. The widow sold property from the farm and paid the debt of the estate and took proper steps regarding inheritance taxes, it was learned, assuming that no formal administration would be necessary. She then married. Now, however, it develops that $8,300.50 is due the estate from proceeds collected from Edgar Grossman, a resident of Hazelridge, Manitoba, Canada. This sum can be sent to the U. S. only to an administrator appointed for the estate in the state of Indiana. Hence opening of the estate is necessary.

SIMON BELL ASKS NEW TRIAL OF CLAIM CASE

Simon Bell, of Syracuse, whose $1,420 claim for damages against Geo. L. Kinde's, administrator of the estate of Daniel R. Wolf, was rejected by a circuit court jury at Warsaw Dec. 1, when it found for the defendant, has filed a motion for a new trial, holding that the verdict was contrary to law—not being sustained by sufficient evidence, and that the claimant has discovered new evidence not available during the trial. Bell claims that an automobile, driven by Daniel Wolf, now deceased, struck him on road 13 near Syracuse on July 29, 1942. Wolf was intoxicated and was driving of the berm when Bell was struck, it is charged. The new facts were learned after evidence was completed at the trial, it is stated. If a new trial is granted, it is set out in the motion, Hazel Gordon, at whose home Bell states Wolf spent some time on the evening of the accident, will testify that Wolf was intoxicated; and Cecil Gunderlock, who Bell says was in the Wolf auto at the time of the accident, will testify that Wolf was driving off the berm when his car hit Bell. Bell will also be able to produce the testimony of a road maintenance man who will state that he saw auto tracks on the berm at the scene of the mishap the next morning, the claimant states. Bell also states that a juror, Roy Fort, was guilty of misconduct in testifying that he did not know the claimant Bell sets out that he, as Turkey Creek township justice of peace, once fined Fort on illegal fishing charges. The claimant states he was unable to secure supporting affidavits from Hazel Gordon and Cecil Gunderlock since the former is confined with influenza and the latter is in Chicago.

A Look at the Liquor Situation

North of the border, according to the American Business Men's Research Foundation of Chicago, Americans recognize the liquor traffic to be a cause of absenteeism, accidents, social unrest, a waste of raw material, and a cause of crime. The Canadian government has boldly taken the stand that the less drinking Canada does, the better will be its war effort. This is not a moral or religious move; it is simply a tremendously successful economic and war time treatment of the age old problem. The Canadian Government through its leader, Premier King, advocates temperance, it limits saloons to eight hours a day; it forbids all liquor advertising by radio, movies, newspapers and magazines. Its government policy is to decrease during war time the use of intoxicating liquor.

South of the border, the Government of the United States has issued no warning statement against the use of liquor. Saloons stay open from 16 to 20 hours a day. Liquor advertising is unlimited; the strength of the drink is unlimited; restrictions on ordinary business are sometimes softened (for a while at least) for the brewer and the distiller, and it is kind of attitude of Uncle Sam is neither a moral, a social or an economic move. No word of justification can be found for it. And a horde of rats are gnawing at our national efficiency.

The above advertisement prepared by the American Business Men's Research Foundation, Chicago, is paid for by the Anti-Liquor Association, P. O. Box 308, Goshen, Ind.
