BROWNIE SCOUT NEWS

The Brownies held their regular weekly meeting Tuesday evening, with 17 members present. These girls are working under the leadership of two Girl Scouts, Barbara Bowser and Cynthia Frevert. The roll call has 23 members listed at present. They are: Peggy Pustl, Norma Jean Sloane, Darlene Rogers, Marilyn Hursey, Charlene Stump, Jane Kroh, Janet Kitson, Kay Bryan, Marcia Hursey, Joy Nolan, Linda Davis, Linda Sawyer, Patricia Charters, Ann Hilbert, Mary Miner, Alice Glingrich, Connie Sudlow, Marlene O'Haver, Patty Tauber, Marlene Cripe, Alice Wagner and Carolyn Mulhola.

Due to some misunderstanding we make the following explanation: The organization is open to all girls between ages of seven and ten. Girls may become members at any time, if they are this age or have just had a 7th birthday. The yearly dues are 50 cents. Girls are asked to earn their own money for dues. However, girls who want to join but are unable to earn their dues money, may do so and a way will be found to pay them.

The organization is sponsored by the Senior Mothers club, as is the regular Girl Scout troop, and is in reality a junior girl scout troop. The regular meeting time is every Tuesday after school until 4:45.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Jan. 28, 1946
Nappanee, Ind.

The Wawasee Journal, Syracuse Ind.

Gentlemen: Today something happened on Syracuse lake that we think worthy of front page news. It's to do with a Syracuse gentleman's idea of Sportsmanship. You can use it or not, but it is being related exactly as it happened to five Nappanee ladies this afternoon during their first experience at ice fishing. Incidentally, they've never been informed to any great extent on the ethics of ice fishing as to who cuts who's holes or who uses who's holes in the absence of who. We'll sign our names and back up this story should you care to know more about it. It will be news this week and thought it would be best to send it now in the event you get as much fun out of it as we have and care to use it.

We drove to the lake at 11:00 a. m., and saw two men coming off the lake. To be friendly (or was it unfriendly?) we asked how the fish were biting. They answered that they hadn't started fishing yet. These are the same two men that returned later in the day. One seemed like a gentleman and we didn't learn his name. The other acted like a spoiled boy and we know his name.

Here's the story:

We started on the lake in front of cottage at 2 p. m. Now an ice fishing hole is tiresome to cut especially if you are unaccustomed to it—the ice is thick. We laboriously cut one hole by all taking turns—a small one. Then we began looking around for holes, that were deserted and already cut. After hunting some time we found four—big ones plenty of room for two people if necessary, we thought.

But—someone had forgotten to take their little wooden stick that had a long cord rope attached and a good-sized fish (but an undesirable eating type) on the hook. Since the hole was plenty large each lady dropped her line in next to what had been left by a deserter of three hours before, and proceeded to stand by for action. No luck. About 3 o'clock a nice looking man drove up in a truck. He came toward the five ladies and quietly made the rounds of the four large holes. We thought he was not too careful for he seemed to claim the lines and yet proceeded on his way with no remarks. Just sort of trusted us we thought. Leaving tackle and bait all with no attendant. Then it must have kept eating at him. (whatever eats at a fisherman) and in about an hour he came back, not nearly so nice looking this time.

He went to each hole, wrapped up each line hauled in each wiggling fish, that was pike bait—he said, and that's why the holes were of a good size, we learned. Then by the time he had the fourth one in and had caught no big ones he "got madder" and "madder." Said something about women being poor sports and went over to a nice shiny new minnow pall of ours that contained a dollars worth of bait and kicked a great hole in it. That was mean enough, but it wasn't enough. He picked it up, took off the lid and dumped the minnows on the ground or ice or whatever you call the distance around a hole some man cuts and claims until the spring thaws come and ruin his possession.

It was really and truly a terrific sight! We hadn't touched or neglected his lines but something burned him up.

Three of us own cottages and the incident took place in front of them. We didn't think we had been a bit assuming, but our guess is that (?) was the poor sport. Our names are Mrs. Huffman, Mrs. Fletcher, Mrs. Oyler, Mrs. Metzler and Mrs. Howenstein.

AROUND TOWN

(with J. B. C.)

A "tame" red fox put in an appearance near the Sam Larson machine shop recently. Several people fed it—one tried to pick it up, and Mr. Fox nipped him—or her—just to show his real attitude.

The fire whistle blew Tuesday but before the firemen were ready to leave—a phone call from the George Bryan home said it was a "false alarm."

A large number of friends of John Ferris are planning to surprise him this Thursday night, (Jan. 31)—his last night here as manager of The Pickwick Lounge. Mr. Ferris tells us that part of the information as carried in the Journal last week about him was wrong. He says he is not ill and does not intend to enter a hospital. This week Mr. Ferris received a letter from his brother in Athens, Greece, the first time he has heard from him in over five years. His mother, aged 80, is in good health. Another brother was killed while serving his country. Mr. Ferris says he intends to continue to make Syracuse his home.

Advertisement: No local business can grow without the aid of The Journal. A business CAN coast along without the local newspapers' help. But there is only ONE way of successfully reaching the buying public here and that is through the columns of the local newspaper. Three thousand adults read it weekly. If YOU have anything to say, they will read your message, too. Goshen, Warsaw and firms in other cities are doing their best to draw local trade away from Syracuse, through their own newspaper advertisements. Hundreds of thousands of dollars will be spent by local folks in next few months. Mr. Merchant, what are YOU doing to hold this business here?

Pfc. Harry D. Smith, who has been on Okinawa, was discharged last Friday at Camp Atterbury and returned home Monday.

Lavent Tom and family were on the sick list last week.

Glen Smith, wife and son Ivan, who recently was discharged from the army, were guests Saturday evening at the home of the former's mother and the Arnold LeCount family.

JUNIOR LADIES MEET

The Junior Ladies are now official members of the National Federation of Sub-Deb Clubs. We received our membership and seal last week.

The last meeting was held Jan. 25, at the home of Elizabeth Miles. We had a short meeting after the New Paris basketball game, followed by a slumber party at Elizabeth's home. Thirteen of the girls attended and we are sure the rest missed a lot of fun. The party broke up Saturday morning. Many good eats and refreshments were served.
