SAVIN' for a rainy day is swell—if it don't stop you from enjoyin' the sunny ones.

LILLIE MAE says to me: "Granma, how kin I be sure of gettin' a top quality margarine?" And I answers her in jes' two words, "Table-Grade." Yep, Nu-Maid Table-Grade Margarine is fine as can be. Made 'specially for the table.

BEN TUMBLEWEED, travelin' man says, you kin jes' about tell what kind of a woman will come to the front door of a farm house by lookin' at the front yard flowers and shrubbery.

*$5 will be paid upon publication to the first contributor of each accepted saying or idea for "Grandma Speakin'." Address Nu-Maid Margarine, Cincinnati 2, Ohio.

In these days of inflation and high-cost-of-living, wouldn't you like to have yellow margarine at the same price as white margarine? Write your Congressman and ask their help.

Inflationary Trends

IT IS NOT LABOR with its continued increased wage demands; industry seeking exorbitant profits; transportation in its efforts to meet increasing costs; the distributing agencies, wholesale or retail, adding to their "mark ups" on merchandise or the farmers demanding increased prices for food products that are fundamentally responsible for the inflation for which we are paying. The actual culprit, at whose door we can lay the blame for it all, is the legislative and administrative branches of the federal government.

The cause is the deficit government financing policy followed by congress and the executive branch of government from 1931 to 1946. Today we are paying, in the form of devalued money, not only for the war expense but for all those boondoggling costs of the depression years.

To have the government operate on a deficit basis meant the continuous expansion of our volume of printing press currency. Today we have in circulation close to 160 billion of such currency as against about 17 billion of real dollar value currency of 1936. All of the expenditures of the boondoggling and war years had to be paid for at the time the expenditures were made. The people of the United States had to pay either then or later. To avoid a howl from the people because of increased taxes, congress and the administration resorted to the deceptive method of creating more money with which to pay the bills.

The government called them bonds. They were placed with the banks and the banks turned those bonds into bank notes—printing press—money.

It is bank note—printing press—money which is the underlying cause of today's inflation. It is authorized government currency and, like all of our money today, has nothing back of it other than the government's promise to pay. Today we have in circulation close to 160 billion of currency, none of it having any intrinsic value, as compared with about 17 billion in 1931, all of which was backed by gold or silver, and any part of which could be exchanged by the holder for the bullion with which it was backed.

From 1931 to 1946 the government deficits amounted to $6,000, as an average, for each consumer (family) unit in the nation. All of it was covered by bogus money, in exchange for which the holder could get other bogus money, with constantly declining values.

Prices are not up. It is the value of our printing press dollars that is down. It takes more and more of our cheap dollars to buy what we are accustomed to for our needs. For that cheapening of our money congress and the administrative branch are responsible.

F. A. Harper, recognized as a reliable and conservative economist, gives 224 billion dollars as the total of the deficits of the federal government from 1931 to 1946. That represents what congress and the administration spent over and above what was collected during that period.

The bill was paid with printing press money. Now we must redeem that printing press money, and pay the high prices the issuing of that money has brought upon us. We are paying twice for what we should have paid only once.

The present administration, or the present congress, is doing all too little to remedy the condition. The way to stop inflation is to save every excess dollar of government spending and retire that excess currency. That would cure the disease from which we are suffering. That, and that only, can save us from much more inflation. Government economy is the one road to honest, full value, money.

People of California do not admit there can be such a thing as clouds in a California sky. Clouds to them are but a "high fog." When that fog settles down to the ground, it is a good time to keep the car in the garage.

More than two million federal civilian employees scattered about over the nation can mean from six to eight million votes next November.

GENERAL GRANT IS BETTER KNOWN in history as a weak president than as a great soldier. General Eisenhower will be known in history as a great soldier and a worthy and patriotic American. He might have suffered the fate of General Grant.

We may think no one in Russia is dumb enough to believe the lies that are told about America, but silly as they seem to us, some of the Russians will believe.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

By LOUIE D. NEWTON, D. D.

Christian Character

Lesson for March 14, 1948

WHO is the most valuable person in your community? In many communities it has come to be the custom to select the Man of the Year or the Woman of the Year, the idea usually being to name the person, through a process of sampling of public opinion, who has rendered the outstanding service of the year.

Dr. Newton

Sunday's lesson is a dramatic scene out of the long ago, picturing a community's tribute to a truly great man, the apostle Paul. Read Acts 20:17-38, and you will have the story.

LOVED AND HONORED THE first impression I get from this story is the fact that these people of Ephesus loved Paul. They loved him enough to lay aside their work and hasten to the seaport of Miletus to see him for the last time, and to bow down in his presence and honor him.

Why did they thus love Paul? Because he had told them about God. You need not read again the record of Paul's ministry in that important city of Ephesus to be reminded of how greatly he had served them in the name of Jesus.

Loved and honored! What a tribute to the worth of Christian character! Wouldn't you appreciate the tribute which they paid Paul as the goal out yonder to which you strive? Boys and girls of today may thus be honored tomorrow, if they will live for Jesus as Paul did.

THE POWER OF RIGHT LIVING PAUL not only told the Ephesians how to live, but illustrated day by day in his own life what he preached to them. The most eloquent sermons are not spoken, but lived. "What you are speaks so loudly I can't hear what you say."

The boy and man who plays the game straight are putting into practice what the teacher and preacher proclaims on Sunday. The power of right living will win its way today, just as it did in the long ago when Paul witnessed for Jesus in Ephesus.

It was not easy to live for Christ in Ephesus, nor is it easy to live for him in Chicago or Los Angeles or Boston or Miami, but it is the one way to ultimately impress the world of the reality of Christianity.

PAUL'S CONSUMING PASSION WE ARE what we are becoming, and never was this axiom of life more powerfully illustrated than in the case of Paul. "I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus," Philipians 3:14. And in Ephesians 5:6-21, Paul reviews the qualities of conduct which produce worthwhile character, admonishing all Christians to strive for these qualities.

"I live, yet not I, Christ liveth in me," is another of Paul's watchwords, and still again, "I can do all things through Christ, who strengtheneth me."

It was the consuming passion of his life to embody the teachings of Christ in his words and in his works. It is conceivable that the people at Ephesus had come to see Christ in the life of Paul, and that his daily ministry in their midst convinced them that God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself.

WHAT AM I WORTH? THE question then emerges. What am I worth to my community? When I come to the end of the journey, will the people who know me best honor and love me for what I have done?

I can see the people of Ephesus bowing on the dock at Miletus, kissing this weary old servant of the Lord. It is a beautiful scene. This tribute meant more to Paul than all the gold of Ephesus would have meant. It was compensation of abiding worth to him. And what is vastly more important, it was glory to God which must have evoked the praise of the angels about the great White Throne.

On God's Word John Wycliffe, in the introduction to his translation of the Bible into English in 1380, wrote as follows: "When the teachings of the Bible are generally accepted and acted on, then shall we have a government of, for and by the people." Four hundred years later the American republic was established—the first great democracy—and it was successful because the Constitution and the Bill of Rights were founded on God's Word.

SHORT STORY

Seventh Inning Stretch

By FERN AUBLE

THE stadium was filled to capacity for the opening game and a swelling chorus of voices filled the air. The sun was a brilliant ball in a sky of blue. But Johnny Longstreet sat hunched in the dugout, his huge hands hanging loosely between his knees. The banter of his teammates was a meaningless babel to him.

"I wonder how she is by now," he thought miserably. His blue eyes darkened in despair as he thought of the interminable afternoon before him. He groaned and glanced over at Corky Blanton.

It was too bad that Chuck Leighton had sprained an ankle. Doc said he'd be back in the lineup by next week, but next week was too late and Corky was depending on Johnny to pitch this opening game.

"How's it going, Johnny?" Corky dropped down on the bench beside him and laid a comforting hand on his knee.

"Gosh, Corky, I don't know. The Doc said he'd be all right, but I wish to Heaven I could be there with her. His knuckles whitened as he clenched his hands; and Corky watched him with troubled eyes.

As Johnny took the mound for the top half of the first inning, a cheer rose from the stands. His heart warmed at the sound and some of the sag lifted from his shoulders. He looked at Windy Norton, who was catching, and nodded as he caught the signal. As he started his wind-up, a fleeting vision of Milly's scared little face crossed his mind. He knew when the ball left his hand, it was a stinker. Sure enough, Bill Lofton, the big Pirate shortstop, laid on it for a three-base hit. A groan went up from the crowd.

He got hold of himself and fanned the next three men up, leaving Bill Lofton stranded on third. As he faced the first man up in the second inning, Johnny's arm felt like lead.

"If I just knew how she was," he thought. "If I just knew she was all right."

He tried desperately to keep his mind on the game, to keep from thinking about Milly, but, in spite of himself, he failed miserably. He simply couldn't keep her out of his mind.

IT HAPPENED in the sixth inning. He walked the first man and the next batter up hit for a single, putting a man on first and third. A sacrifice hit brought in the first run of the game for the Pirates.

As the seventh inning came up, and the boys trotted out to their positions, Corky turned impatiently as someone tapped him on the shoulder. He took the note handed to him. His face spread into a huge grin and he ran out to the mound. "Well," Johnny thought, "here's where I get yanked and I don't blame him. Any rookie pitcher could toss rings around me today."

But Corky simply handed Johnny the paper. Johnny read it and let out a whoop. The fans watched in bewilderment as they saw Johnny go into a dance. Then they saw his teammates come running in and cluster around him to break away with howls and back-thumpings.

Finally, everyone back in position, Johnny toed the mound and signaled at Windy, waiting for the signal. As it came, he gave a satisfied nod and started his wind-up. The ball whizzed over the plate and you could almost see the smoke trailing it. The next one was a beautiful slow ball that broke just right. Johnny grinned happily as the batter took a healthy swing at the next one and missed.

The Reds got two runs in the eighth, giving them a one-run lead over the Pirates and Johnny put them away one, two, three in the ninth. Not a very big lead, to be sure, but big enough, especially when you consider that Johnny hadn't really pitched much of a game before Corky'd brought him that little slip of paper at the beginning of the seventh.

Ob yes, the note? Well, it really wasn't a very big message; that is, not very big in words. It merely said: "It's your turn, Johnny. See that you make them proud of their Daddy today. And it was signed, 'Milly'."
