Indiana Mileage Death Rate Drops to Record Low in '55

Indiana's traffic death rate dropped last year to an all-time low of 6 deaths for every 100 million miles of motor vehicle travel. State Police Supt. Frank A. Jessup has announced. In 1945, the ratio was 11.5 deaths per 100 million miles; it was 19.3 in 1937. It represented a 45 percent decrease (see chart) in the state-wide mileage death rate in the last 10 years, and was achieved in spite of heavy increases in motor travel, vehicles and drivers.

Fish and More Fish

With the Lenten season here, many Homemakers are searching for menus planned around meatless dishes. And what could be more appetizing than fish? With so many forms on the market, Barbara Gribler, Home Demonstration Agent says it is easy to serve a different recipe every time. Available supplies include frozen, fresh, and canned varieties.

About 20 per cent of the edible portion of the fish is protein. A 3-oz. serving supplies the same protein as one serving of meat. It also contains some iron, thiamine and riboflavin - fish from the sea contain iodine.

Fish is marketed in various forms for different uses. Knowing these forms or cuts is important in buying fish. The best known market forms are: Drawn fish is marketed with only the entrails removed. The head, tail and fins may be removed if desired, and the fish either split or cut into serving size portions, except in fish intended for baking.

STEAKS are cross section slices of large sized dressed fish and ready to cook as purchased. A cross section of the backbone is usually the only bone in the steak. FILLETS are the sides of the fish, cut lengthwise away from the backbone. They are practically boneless and require no preparation for cooking. STICKS are pieces of fish cut lengthwise or crosswise from the fillets or steaks into portions of uniform width and length.

Because fish is perishable it needs special care. Fresh fish should be wrapped in moisture-proof paper or a tightly covered dish and placed promptly in the refrigerator. It should be used within a few days. Frozen fish should be stored at freezing temperatures. Once fish has been thawed, it should be cooked immediately. If it is thawed during the cooking process - be sure to add a few extra minutes to the cooking time. Canned fish keeps best in a cool place. After the can has been opened store it as you would fresh fish.

Fish is naturally very tender and needs to be cooked only to develop flavor. Cook it just long enough that it flakes easily with a fork. Over-cooking often makes it tough and dry. It should be prepared at low or moderate temperatures.

Before touching fish, thoroughly chill hands in cold water. This will prevent any raw fish odor from clinging to the hands. After handling fish, wash hands with hot water and salt. Do not use soap until after the salt has been rinsed off the hands.

THAT'S THE LIMIT

Well Spring can't be far away if we judge by the return of the migratory birds. The redwing blackbirds are back. Meadow larks can be seen on fence posts now.

The first flocks of ducks and geese arrived last week. I've been watching a flock of 55 Canada geese daily on the Elkhart river. These big honkers are sure a sight for a duck hunter's sore eyes.

Now is the time for you nature lovers and bird watchers to get close to the birds. Last Thursday afternoon I picked up Mr. Maloney, who works in the Al-bion bank and showed him some geese and a concentration of ducks on the river. He's a member of the Audubon Society and has identified some birds that stumped me. You old duck hunters will find ducks on the marsh now, that you won't know. In the last week, I've seen redheads, ringnecks, pintails, widgeon, mallards, blacks and goldeneye. If you have any trouble identifying ducks or geese, I'd like to recommend "Sports Afield" pocketbook "Know Your Ducks and Geese." It is on the magazine stands for 50 cents.

The hawks have increased their activities. Twice last week I saw hawks make kills. The first was by a marsh hawk who quartered a field and hovered for 15 minutes, as I watched, before he got his mouse. The second was a sparrow hawk who took his mouse to the top of a nearby telephone pole to feed on.

Many of you don't know it but all hawks and owls are now protected in this state. The only exception is when the bird is doing specific damage to a landowner or tenant. This means no more road hunting for these birds. Too many cannot tell the difference between the bird and mouse hawks. The little bird hawks are seldom seen by the hunter. You wing shooters that have itchy fingers can get some good practice on crows now. The black devils are back in numbers to guarantee shooting for a good caller. An owl decoy shows up in the bare branches of a tree. Crow shooting also aids us of a bad nest predator.

You'd better be checking your fishing tackle. The spin fisherman are already throwing dare devils into the open water that exists.

A few warm days may bring out the fly fisherman. You TV watchers are missing

ACCIDENTS WILL HAPPEN!

A child's roller skates left on the stairs . . . a man deeply engrossed in his paper . . . one more step . . . fate closes in!

But it isn't fate. Just the careless, thoughtless preoccupation of humanity.

No religion can guarantee our safety from accidents like this one.

But the Christian Church offers man safety from greater perils. It teaches him the dangers inherent in his own impulses . . . it shows him his responsibility for the lives and faith of others . . . it stimulates his soul-deep yearning to know God . . . it assures him that life has eternal meaning through Jesus Christ.

Accidents will happen—but spiritual tragedy need not! For the eternal safety of all men, the careless, the thoughtless, the preoccupied: Christ died.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

"The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and conscientiously. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
