Fifteen members of the Syracuse Past Matrons Club enjoyed a May Day breakfast at Louie's Grill Saturday 4 May.

The table was cleverly decorated with a Maypole centerpiece. Ribbons extended to each place and were held there with a corsage.

M. E. CIRCLE NO. 2

Mrs. Eloise Prevett was hostess to Circle No. 2 of the Methodist W.S.C.S. Thursday. The meeting was opened in regular form with the hostess giving devotions.

Mrs. Frank Bates presented the lesson by reading the Layman's View of Religion by Ray D. Everson. She concluded her program by reading the following poem: entitled "Members":

Some are like wheelbarrows, they need to be pushed.

Some are like a canoe, they need to be paddled.

Some are like a kite if you don't tie a string on them they fly.

Some are like a football, you can't tell which way they'll bounce.

Some are like a balloon, full of wind and likely to blow up.

Some are like trailers, no good unless pulled.

Some are 100% attendance and very cooperative.

CIRCLE NO. 3

Mrs. Ralph Thornburg, Jr., entertained Circle Three of the Methodist Women's Society on 2 May with Mrs. Joseph Shewmon as a guest. Members welcomed back from her winter vacation in Panama Mrs. Melville Smith.

Devotions were given by Mrs. Ben Crews, who used Easter and Mother's Day as her theme. President, Mrs. Horace Gottschalk, read several Mother's Day poems which were very appropriate.

A committee of four was appointed to serve for the summer food sale being planned by the entire Women's Society. Those appointed were Mrs. Ben Crews, Mrs. Robert McClintic, Mrs. Edith Rhode and Mrs. Clifton Kinder. Mrs. James Ridgeway is general chairman of this project.

Reflecting the beauty of the seasons in the furnishings of your home can be a refreshing trick—and a delightfully practical one, at that.

One of the new Ficks Reed sectional sofas in natural rattan carries a set of cushions in a two-tone durable grass-green fabric. Reverse sides of both seat and back cushions are of an equally durable fabric in a strikingly beautiful geranium print.

Covers zip on and off for easy cleaning—or, later, for a modest sum, an extra set of covers to capture the spirit of fall and winter!

Beautiful? Indeed!

Practical? Even more so!
