Remember the Mothers March of Dimes for the Polio Fund on Thursday evening 30 January, and be sure to turn your porch light on between the hours of 7 and 8 p.m. Fast time, if you want to contribute to this nation-wide drive. Members of each of the four Syracuse Mothers Club are aiding the drive by donating their time and service that evening.

Mrs. Frank Stefanski, Chris Kohler and Woodrow Robinson left yesterday for Hammond where they have been called for grand jury duty. Despite the sometimes grim and serious nature of their duties, we'll wager that this trio will manage some laughs, somewhere along the line!

Received your new telephone book yet? We think a great improvement in both size and looks of the book has been made this year—congratulations to the United Telephone Company of Indiana for producing such a good looking directory.

Bill and Mary Hare, assisted by Kent Hare and Don Nnie, are holding the fort again this winter at Galloways grocery, while Ruby and Frosty Galloway vacation near Orlando, Florida. The recent pleasant sunny weather has brought customers of "almost like summer time" to the popular store, which is a "meeting and greeting" spot for weekenders and ice fishermen, as well as the daily regulars.

Skaters almost outnumbered the fishermen during the week end on Wawasee and Syracuse Lakes especially. Local people as well as out-of-towners have taken advantage of the weather and excellent skating conditions that seem better this year than for a number of years. Iceboats and ice-wings added to the fun of winter sports, even automobiles have played (?) on the ice-covered areas. When so many summer residents come for winter week ends to fish, skate and sail on the ice, makes one wonder if more emphasis should be placed on this Hoosier vacationland as a year round resort.

As the last of the Waco structure was dismantled and carried away Saturday, it brought back memories to many who either had worked on the construction of it or had known Waco since its active days. Among these in particular were Russell Warner, Tom Schlecht, and George Mellinger. Warner and Mart Landis, deceased, assembled the steel structure for the building and it was done the hard way, not with the assistance of present day power equipment. Schlecht and Mellinger were the carpenters on the job. Saturday, these three men watched a huge crane transfer each piece, as the structure was disassembled, to a large truck which transported the pieces to South Whitley. The Montel brothers, who have purchased the steel structure for use in another building, accomplished the work in only a few days time.

Speaking of Waco, do you remember its grand opening on the night of 25 May 1923?

Fred Hoopingarner reported seeing four or five robins in his back yard early this week. Bright winter weather in Indiana must be nicer than the cold days and nights southern visitors

Introducing

MADAME PRESIDENT

Serving for the second time as president of The Ladies of the Round Table is Mrs. Noble Blocker. A member of the literary club or twenty-three years, Mrs. Blocker has contributed to the club in many capacities, and served as treasurer, secretary and vice-president in the three years immediately preceding her first term as president in 1939-1940.

Organized in 1923, the first president of the Round Table was Mrs. C. R. Hollet. It later became affiliated with the Kosciuszko County Federated clubs. Its main project in addition to the regular program is the sponsorship of the Junior Ladies of Round Table whose membership is drawn from girls in the Syracuse high school and lasts until graduation.

Born in Fairmount, Indiana, 12 miles from Marion, Mrs. Blocker was nine years old when her mother died and she went to live in Monessen, Pennsylvania, with her sister, Mrs. Willard Elkins, now a Syracuse resident of several years. When she was ready for high school the family was living in Birmingham, Alabama. After her freshman year they moved to Etna Green where she was a sophomore. Her third year of high school she attended the Warsaw school and during her senior year they lived in Sweetzer, Indiana.

It was in Sweetzer that she began her banking experience when she started working there after graduation. For many of the sixteen years that she was employed in the Sweetzer bank, she was assistant cashier. It was here that she met, Noble Blocker, whose father was minister of the Methodist church. After their marriage in 1927 the Blockers moved to Marion where their two sons, John and James, were born.

The family moved to Syracuse in June 1934 when Mr. Blocker became associated with Syracuse Bank as cashier. In 1944 when their youngest son, Jimmy, was nine and school hours corresponded with bank hours, Mrs. Blocker accepted a position in the bank where she has been employed for the past thirteen years.

Their two sons are now grown and each has completed his tour of duty in the U. S. Service at home and abroad. John, the older, is now employed at the Syracuse State Bank and Jimmy is with the American Fletcher National Bank in Indianapolis where he is training in the Cost Accountant department.

Her greatest pride among club activities is the origin of the mothers club in 1935 a year after moving to Syracuse. Instrumental in forming the group, Mrs. Blocker said it proved so popular and the membership was so large that a second club was formed. Later a third group organized. The original group became known as Senior Mothers and the other two groups are the Intermediate and Junior mothers clubs. Two years ago, the Primary Mothers club was formed. Many of the original members still belong to the senior group and are now grandmothers.

Participating actively in whatever club she joins, Mrs. Blocker has a full program almost every week with membership in the Business and Professional Women's Club of which she was president last year, the Eastern Star, Senior Mothers Club, Circle No. 2 of the Methodist Church and other church activities in addition to the Round Table.

As for hobbies, she says shopping is her favorite and on vacations Mrs. Blocker usually goes to a city new to her where part of the time is always spent browsing in department stores and specialty shops. In the last few years she has visited New York City, New Orleans, cities in Florida, California and Utah. Each year she plans to go to a different place. Perhaps the lovely decorations in her home at Christmas time is the result of this hobby as well as her love for all things that are beautiful, sparkling and dainty.

Never does one see this very capable lady when her costume is not enhanced with a stylish hat and a pretty sparkle of jewelry which goes very well with the sparkle in her eyes and her charming manner.

As a presiding officer, Mrs. Noble Blocker, is a very efficient as well as entertaining Madame President.

PARDON, MY ERROR!

GRASSROOTS OPINION

CATSKILL, N. Y., ENTERPRISE: "Statistics are working in favor of older employees in industry and the premise that they are less productive is being continually disproved. The Industrial Bulletin, published by the New York State Dept. of Labor, opines that 'output man-hours show little significant variation among age groups.' The magazine gives figures to show that older workers have a better attendance record than younger employees and that older workers have fewer accidents on the job. Hiring older workers is good sound business practice. Their experience gained through the years is indispensable."

HARMONY, MINN., NEWS: "To train children at home, it's necessary for both the parents and children to spend some time there."

LAKE CITY, IOWA, GRAPHIC: "The federal government owns billions of dollars worth of . . . businesses that are not paying any taxes. It takes our tax dollars to keep them operating. These should be sold and applied to our public debt. Six to ten billions in taxes could be saved in this manner."

LINDSBORG, KAN., NEWS-RECORD: "Anza-Amen Lema, whose home is in Tanganyika East Africa . . . is attending Bethany College. Lema told me that one of the greatest problems in his country was to make his people believe that a government could be operated the way ours is, in the United States. That is, that everyone can take a stand on government operation, can vote for the individuals, in our free elections, can criticize our governmental operations if they are not in agreement with what our lawmakers are doing. These things, he stated, are difficult to get across to his people and it is his belief that our government is going to have to make a definite effort to get these things across to the peoples of many foreign countries if we are to halt the spread of Communism."

NORWALK, CONN., HOUR: "In 1887, the first federal regulatory agency in this country was set up with the establishment of the Interstate Commerce Commission to regulate the railroads. In the 70 years since . . . there are . . . no fewer than 115 lesser bodies with authority to make rules and regulations, investigate complaints and judge the findings. They are rightly called quasi-judicial agencies . . . It is now the personification of big government."
