The Facts Of Public Life

The Journal is in receipt of a letter from J. Barton Cox, secretary of the Syracuse Plan Commission, taking issue with a letter published previously concerning the zoning of certain property in the south end of town.

In his letter, Mr. Cox hits at the management of the Journal for personally attacking him, as he calls it, and he wonders in print as to whether the members of the Journal staff sit around the office composing letters to the editor just for the fun of getting under his skin.

We are surprised that Mr. Cox, himself a newspaper publisher for a number of years, is so naive as to think this. We are equally surprised that Mr. Cox is unaware of the aims and motives of any newspaper and its "Letter Box" columns. Indeed, he says he is even unaware who the owners of the Journal are.

In reply, we would like to point out that the names of the owners of the Journal have appeared in print any number of times, and if Mr. Cox is a bit befuddled over who they might be, he can stop by the office and someone will be glad to find those editions of the paper and point out the necessary paragraphs.

It should hardly be necessary to point out to Mr. Cox, a public official now for several years, and, as we have said before, a newspaperman here and elsewhere before that, that it is common practice to withhold the names of persons who write letters to the Public Letter Box columns and request that their names be withheld.

If Mr. Cox is unaware of this practice, we would like to note that it happens every day, in any number of newspapers—daily and week-alike—for the obvious reasons that not everyone who writes the editor a letter wants to step out into the open for a garbage-hurling match. Most of these people are just honest citizens with an occasional gripe or suggestion, and the fact that they prefer to remain anonymous should not shade the value of their opinions. It is an American tradition that suggestions should be judged on their merit, not on the personality or position of those who suggest them.

And along that line, we would also like to point out another thing which Mr. Cox seems to prefer to forget—when a man or woman feels it is his duty as a citizen to take over the responsibilities of an office of public trust, he opens himself to criticism from others and from the press not as another citizen, but as a public office-holder.

Mr. Cox seems unable or unwilling to realize that any criticism of the local government is anything but a personal crack at him. This is indeed a peculiar attitude for a public official. Mr. Cox was not drafted for any public office; if he did not think at the time that he could stand the pressure, it was his choice, and his alone, to take it or turn it down. Having accepted an office of public trust, it seems to us that Mr. Cox should learn to live with it. As a newspaperman, he certainly has learned that public officials can and should be criticized—indeed, it was Mr. Cox's criticisms in this very newspaper that can be credited for some of the forward steps made by the community in the 1940s. We sincerely doubt that the officials he was so ready to criticize in those days all thought he personally "had it in for them."

If, after a critical evaluation of the office of public trust that he holds, Mr. Cox still feels that anyone with a suggestion, complaint, or even a slap at the figure of Mr. Cox as plan commission secretary is also slapping at Mr. Cox as an individual, it might be best for him to decide that he is not ready for public office, nor it for him.

Domestic Relations

The Wall Street Journal

There has been speculation in recent months about this question: Is young Jack Kennedy big enough for the White House?

After reading about his family on the march—his mother, grandmother, brothers, sisters, in-laws and other assorted kith and kin—we wonder if the question shouldn't be put the other way.

was enclosed.

The letter explained that the land was contracted for last year but that a Rotary club cannot hold title to property and that the club was therefore transferring the deed to the town of Syracuse boy scouts.

In accepting the deed the Town Board included the provision that the land would be used for Syracuse scouting as directed by the Rotary Club which sponsors the Boy Scout organization here.

Ernest Buchholz, town clerk, read a letter from the State Board of Health which refused a request by the town for a grant for the sewage disposal project.

Lawrence Firestone, speaking for the fire and police department benefit association, asked permission to hold a carnival next year on the same ground as was used this year. Permission was given.

Firestone also mentioned that another street light was needed on North Huntington in the area just north of the intersection with SR 13. The board agreed to consult with Northern Indiana Public Service for such a light.

Marshal Don Enyeart suggested that the three parking meters across from the telephone exchanged building be removed as cars parked in these spaces present a hazard. The meters could be used on Main Street in front of the Hoppingarner property since the space there is no longer needed by the fire department. It was agreed that the meters should be transferred to Main Street with Huntington Street space marked for no parking.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Zirgow and family, were guests Sunday of Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Fosbrink.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Longenecker and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Neer and family were visiting in St. Joe, Michigan Sunday.

WRC PLANS FOR ANNUAL DINNER IN AUGUST

At the regular meeting of the Women's Relief Corps July 18 plans were made for the 11th annual picnic meeting at the Alva Nicolai home August 18. Guests at this meeting will be from the Nappanee, Bremen and Ligonier Corps.

At the close of the session, members continued with a social hour at the Dixie Restaurant where refreshments were served.

Owners Must Have Registration Records

Lake patrol officials have announced that boat registration certificates must be in the boat at all times the same as car certificates.

Earl Money, conservation officer, said that many warnings have been issued and will continue to be as long as people do not have their registration in the boats. The numbers on the registration certificates must be the same as those on the boat.

Mrs. John Sparling was hostess to six ladies for breakfast at Howard's Monday honoring Mrs. Martha Pryor of Pasadena, former resident who is here for the summer with her sister, Mrs. Elsa Grieger.
