

$1.50 TAX BILL BECOMES NEW INDIANA LAW

MEASURE REMAINED UNSIGNED ON GOV. LESLIE'S DESK FOR THREE DAYS

REFUSES TO VETO BILL

Governor Had Warned Legislators That Measure Would Bring "Collapse Of Government"

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 9, (UP)—The emergency $1.50 tax limitation measure which Governor Harry G. Leslie predicted would bring "collapse of government" became a law in Indiana last night.

After delivering a special message warning the legislature against passage of the bill, the governor refused to veto it. It became a law automatically after having lain on his desk for three days.

As the result of the bill, the Indiana state levy next year will be limited to 15 cents and levies against property will not exceed $1.50 for each $100 valuation.

It was learned that the governor took the attitude that he had given the legislature ample warning and sufficient time to recall the measure. In his special message he characterized it as cause for "genuine alarm" and said frankly that it would not meet executive approval.

The new law provides, in addition to the $1.50 and 15 cent limitations, that when emergencies exist, local levies may exceed $1.50 with the county tax board empowered to determine when an emergency exists; that an increase set by the board may be appealed by 10 taxpayers to the state board, and that the 15 cent levy limit may not be appealed.

The senate amended the house salary reduction measure by re-writing it and applying a formula for uniform reduction of all salaries. It adopted the report of the committee of the whole meeting and placed the bill on second reading.

Four measures were passed by the house.

By a vote of 81 to 1 the Hoffman-Lochard bill easing penalties on delinquent property tax payments was passed and sent to the governor.

The Babcock bill, which would provide for diversion of 2 per cent of all interest accrued on public deposits into a state sinking fund, passed 93 to 0. It would provide that any public money lost in bank failures could be substituted by money from this fund.

The Stanton-Babcock measure which would grant cities and towns 10 years to pay for improvements by the state highway commission passed 81 to 6.

The senate bill which would repeal the act authorizing formation of holding companies for construction of schools passed 83 to 0.

Officers alleged they found four small children of Pierce's at home in destitute circumstances. Frye is also alleged to be involved in the passing of a forged check at the Farm Bureau elevator in north Greencastle.

SEND WATER SAMPLES TO STATE BOARD, EGAN URGES

Due to numerous inquiries regarding water as result of several cases of typhoid fever in this community, Dr. John Egan, county health officer, today stated that persons desiring their drinking water tested should get in communication with the Indiana state board of health.

According to Dr. Egan, the state board at Indianapolis will send bottles to hold samples of water if requests are sent. Upon receipt of the bottles, if they are filled with the cistern, well or spring water and returned to the state board of health laboratory, an analysis report upon the healthful condition of the sample will be forthcoming within a very few days.

Dr. Egan urges that any one in doubt as to their drinking water should send samples to Indianapolis immediately. This action may prevent serious illness and possible loss of life in some cases.

U. S. To Uphold Pact Says Stimson

SECRETARY OF STATE SPEAKS ON KELLOGG-BRIAND PACT IN NEW YORK

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9, (UP)—Secretary of State Stimson has made it clear that the United States intends to uphold the sanctity of the Kellogg-Briand pact in the far East.

In a speech before the council of foreign relations in New York, last night, he interpreted the pact as an active International alliance against war, and added:

"The American people are serious in their support and evaluation of the treaty."

Stimson's speech was interpreted here as having three distinct motives:

1. To warn Japan that the United States would continue to uphold the pact and oppose recourse to arms to accomplish national aims.

2. To inform American public opinion, especially authorities on foreign affairs, of the legal basis of the state department's intervention in the far eastern dispute.

3. To assure the small nations of Europe, main supporters of American policy in League of Nations circles, that the United States can be counted upon not to side with any nation branded by the League as an "Aggressor."

The secretary's speech was considered particularly significant at this time. The Lytton commission, appointed by the League of Nations to investigate conditions in Manchuria, is expected to report soon. If it holds Japan guilty of aggression, the United States and the League must consider what diplomatic measures they can take to protect Chinese sovereignty.

Also, there are reports that Japanese troops plan an advance into the Peking area of China. With these developments in sight, Stimson sought to place the Briand-Kellogg pact on an impregnable basis. He pictured a changing concept of International law, under which neutral nations would not draw a ring about warring countries as though they were duellists.

TOKIO, Aug. 9, (UP)—Explanations will be asked of Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson regarding his speech before the Council of Foreign Relations in New York, Japanese government spokesmen indicated today.

Viscount Yasuya Uchida, foreign minister, was reported indignant over Secretary Stimson's speech, in which the United States' attitude toward the Kellogg peace pact was clearly defined.

U. S. BUSINESS LEADERS SEE BETTER TIMES

MEN PROMINENT IN INDUSTRY AND FINANCE BELIEVE UPWARD SWING HAS BEGUN

SEVERAL ISSUE STATEMENTS

United Press Finds Leaders Are Growing More Hopeful Of Prosperity's Return

NEW YORK, Aug. 9, (UP)—A United Press survey today showed American business leaders are more hopeful of improvement than they have been in months, but are frank in saying the stock market and commodity price boom still have not yet been reflected in more orders or increased employment.

Rising commodity prices and better stock and bond figures are creating new hopefulness, these leaders admitted. This very atmosphere may be the "tonic" needed to pull America out of a depression complex, and start the nation on the road to better days, they said.

Some leaders questioned by the United Press indicated a belief that restoration of confidence, at least, is occurring. While some of the price increase may be due to currency inflation, it is generally viewed as putting the farmer-consumer, for instance, back into the buying market.

Statements made either directly to the United Press in its survey or in public announcements recently, follow:

Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., president, General Motors Corporation—In view of the fact that lack of confidence has had such an important influence in increasing the severity of the depression, this change in sentiment, if sustained, is bound to have a wholesome influence in accelerating the turn in affairs which we are so anxiously awaiting.

John N. Willys, chairman of the board, Willys-Overland Co.—The depression has reached bottom and a definite upturn is under way.

Newcomb Carlton, president, Western Union Telegraph Co.—Western Union business does not yet show an appreciable increase, but it does clearly reflect the new tone and disposition of business and trade.

Calby M. Chester, president, General Feeds Corporation—I feel that we have reached a level that has discounted all cuts in raw material prices and any possible further reductions.

Eugene C. Grace, president, Bethlehem Steel Corporation—The improvement in sentiment has not yet been reflected in the volume of orders booked by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation.

Roy D. Chapin, Secretary of Commerce—A vast reservoir of buying power is backed up behind public caution, ready to flood the United States with a new wave of prosperity once it is released.

M. H. Cahill, chairman and president, Missouri-Kansas-Texas railroad—I look for a substantial increase in traffic and earnings in the territory served by the Missouri-Kansas-Texas. In June there was some increase in the movement of grain and grain products. This improvement has continued in July in livestock and cotton.

Arthur W. Cullen, grain trader—I believe business has definitely turned the corner for the better. I think prices are going to be much better later on.

James T. Phelan, partner, Hornblower & Weeks—Courage is the great essential to progress and success. It is fast returning throughout the country. As confidence replaces fear, it will record itself in increasing business activity and higher security prices.

A. Atwater Kent, president, Atwater Kent Manufacturing Co.—I see a sounder, healthier business basis than America has enjoyed in recent years as a result of readjustments brought about by the recent depression.

Harry M. Warner, president, Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc.—The motion picture industry is on a solid foundation.

Cabinet Decides On Stern Penalty

DEATH SENTENCE CONFRONTS FUTURE POLITICAL OFFICIALS IN GERMANY

BERLIN, Aug. 9, (UP)—Germany's "all-monocle cabinet" moved today to halt terrorism among warring political parties by decreeing the death penalty for all persons convicted of political acts of violence.

Members of the cabinet signed a decree so drastic that it provides execution for any person caught with a weapon in his hand where someone has been killed, even though the holder of the weapon did not commit the murder.

The death penalty is decreed for any person found guilty of political rioting, treason, arson, investigation of explosion or floods, or damaging railways or railway equipment.

The decree will go into effect immediately after President Paul von Hindenburg affixes his signature to it.

That official Berlin is apprehensive over continued bandings and other acts of violence was evident today when police appeared along the Wilhelmstrasse and in other government quarters equipped with rifles for the first time.

Inquiries concerning this display of arms elicited the reply that police were carrying rifles only temporarily, that the action had been taken merely for added security after rumors were heard that Adolf Hitler's militia is concentrating.

Hitlerites admitted the storm troops were concentrating, but said it was merely a movement to keep the militiamen off the streets.

A second decree signed by the cabinet provides for the establishment of special state courts to try all prisoners accused of violence as quickly as possible after the charges have been filed.

It is understood these courts would be created in northern and eastern Germany, especially in East Prussia, Silesia, Schleswig-Holstein and Brandenburg. Under present plans no such courts would be set up in southern Germany.

NEW TAX BILL CREATES "DANGEROUS SITUATION"

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 9, (UP)—Marion county budget-making officials today regarded the new $1.50 tax limitation law as creating a "dangerous situation."

Timothy P. Sexton, treasurer, said he believed the situation was the most dangerous the county has ever confronted. "With valuation decreased 20 per cent this year," Sexton said, "this new law places the county in danger of bankruptcy."

Officials predicted that at least 25 cents of the $1.50 rate would be necessary for poor relief bills.

LIBBY POSTS BOND; BACK INTO HIDING

WIDOW OF REYNOLDS TOBACCO HEIR DISAPPEARS AFTER GIVING $25,000 BAIL

DISCARDS MOURNING ENSEMBLE

Charged Jointly With Secretary As Responsible For Death Of Young Smith Reynolds

WINSTON SALEM, N. C. Aug. 9, (UP)—Libby Holman Reynolds, freed on bond to await trial as the alleged slayer of her husband, suddenly changed from her black mourning garb to an attractive tan ensemble early today and vanished—fled from the public whose adoration she once sought as a Broadway star.

The widow identified jointly with Ab Walker, young friend of her wealthy young husband, Smith Reynolds, had been cloistered in the little inn at Reidsville, about 48 miles from here. She had planned, it was said, to spend the night there.

About 2:15 a. m. today a blond young man entered the lobby, looked around, approached the sleepy clerk and asked:

"Any reporters in the lobby?"

"They're all in bed."

With that, the stranger hurried upstairs to Libby's room, and a few moments later he came down with her, accompanied by a young man said to be her brother, and by her nurse.

Libby, who had been heavily veiled, and dressed in black, wore a tan hat, tan sweater, tan shirt, white shoes and stockings. She also wore gold rimmed spectacles such as she never wore on Broadway.

The four hurried across the lobby, rushed outside, stepped into a waiting sedan, and sped away northward.

Libby's father, meanwhile, slept in the hotel here at Winston Salem.

When she entered court at Wentworth yesterday afternoon to obtain her release on bail she raised the black veil only once. That was when she exposed one eye so she might see to sign her name upon the bond which won her freedom.

She had surrendered in the cool living room of Mrs. Muna Reid's home a room furnished with old furniture, a spinning wheel in the corner and neat with doilies and mats. She had rested a half hour as the guest of Mrs. Reid, who had been named a special matron to attend Libby. Then she had crossed the street to the court house. She walked past the Crepe Myrtles which bloomed in great profusion. She was a sepulchral, almost fearsome figure garbed entirely in black.

The crowd came with Libby and fought to enter the courtroom. Judge A. M. Stack was ready to hear her.

The accused Broadway singer sat low in her chair at the counsel table. Many in the courtroom never gained a glimpse of her. She rubbed her forehead through her veil nervously as her attorney extolled her as a brilliant woman, in love with her husband, and now both a widow and an expectant mother.

She bowed to the judge and accepted his proffered hand when led to the bench to sign her bond of $25,000. The judge, in what impressed all as a sincere act of Southern chivalry, gave her his seat, and stood while she signed the papers. Then Libby bowed again and moved out of the courtroom into a heavily curtained car which roared away to Reidsville with her.

At Reidsville she soon was in seclusion in her hotel. A nurse and a maid were with her and her father. In the evening he returned to Winston Salem saying he would take the first possible train today back to the Holman home in Cincinnati. There was general belief that Libby would join him on the train at some way station and she too, would go to Cincinnati, probably to the waiting comfort of her sister, Mrs. Myron Kahn.

BARKLEY RENOMINATED

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 9, (UP)—Alben W. Barkley has been renominated by Kentucky democrats for United States Senator by a majority that may reach 50,000 votes.

Barkley was far out in front of George B. Martin, a former state senator and who challenged the sincerity of Barkley's change in prohibition attitude almost on the eve of the primary. Barkley had been an avowed dry, but favored repeal in a pre-primary campaign speech. The third candidate, Dr. J. F. Wright, was not a serious contender.

Judge Crater's Disappearance
Now Two-Year-Old Riddle

Though a Quarter of a Million Dollars Has Been Spent Searching for the Vanished Member of the New York Supreme Court Bench, the Mystery Still Baffles Police and His Friends.

JUDGE CRATER. MRS. CRATER.

AT CRATER SUMMER HOME IN MAINE
Where is Judge Crater? If there is any one who knows whether the vanished New York Supreme Court Justice is alive or dead he hasn't told in the two full years since the night of August 6, 1930, when the jurist stepped into a taxicab in New York City and completely disappeared. Justice Joseph Force Crater was an unusual looking man. Six feet tall and weighing 185 pounds he wore high and close-fitting collars on his abnormally long neck. Judge Crater possessed $50,000 in cash and money due him, a $25,000 a year job. His appointment was only a temporary one but at the time he vanished he expected to be nominated by Tammany Hall for the full 14-year term of office. His wife, Stella M. Crater declared she could give no reason for his mysterious disappearance. Police said he was very friendly with a clothing saleswoman named Connie Marcus but that this friendship had no relation to his abrupt leaving-taking of friends and family and prominent position. He drew a large sum of money from the bank the day he disappeared. The police, newspapers and his friends have spent a quarter-of-a-million dollars searching for him. But the world still asks "What became of Judge Crater?"

Hugenberg's "Kaiserism" Appeal
Step Towards German Monarchy

Speech of Nationalist Leader, Urging Germans to Seek "Place in the Sun," Seen as Bid for Return of Hohenzollerns.

DR. HUGENBERG. PRES. VON HINDENBURG.

Significant to political observers is the recent speech of Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, leader of the German Nationalist Party, during which he issued an appeal to his countrymen for the return of "Kaiserism" as the only means whereby Germany could attain her rightful "place in the sun." Hugenberg's oration followed closely upon that of Adolf Hitler, Fascist leader who recently declared that the days of democracy in Germany would soon be a thing of the past. It is well known that both the Hitler and Hugenberg blocs have long been leaning towards a return of the monarchy in Germany, as has also the President of the Republic, Field Marshal Paul von Hindenburg, who, according to reports, has offered to step aside on many occasions to make way for a member of the Hohenzollern family. Since the recent move by Chancellor von Papen, placing Prussia under a dictatorship, the monarchist party has been in greater power than ever since the abdication of the Kaiser. Most of the present German Cabinet are men who formerly stood high in Imperial councils, so it is believed that all these factors combine to make the restoration of the monarchy a simple matter. However, it is unlikely that the ex-Kaiser will ever again hold the scepter in Germany. It is far more reasonable to suppose that Crown Prince Wilhelm will be the member of the Hohenzollern family, if any, to take the reins in the Fatherland. But regardless of the one on whom the honor falls, the question in Germany now is not "Will the monarchy be restored?" but when will the restoration take place?

IT JUST DIDN'T MEAN

A THING TO ELIZA

PORT WORTH, Tex., (UP)—Those big words "mawgare fo-closh" didn't mean a thing to Eliza Anderson, 102-year-old negro.

When police ejected her from her home after the foreclosure, Eliza moved right back in, catching the new tenant, Suella Jackson out. A second removal was too much for Eliza. She bombarded the house with rocks. Suella abdicated amid a shower of window panes.

And to add to Eliza's misery, police charged her with "malicious mischief."

OHIO WOMAN REVIVES

OLD EXCHANGE PLAN
CLEVELAND, (UP)—A program of exchange, something of a revival of the ancient principle of barter and exchange, is being carried out here.

Mrs. Ethel Standiford-Mehling, a photographer, is the sponsor and lists 36 persons and firms who stand willing to exchange their services or merchandise for something they need but haven't the cash to buy.

According to Mrs. Mehling's plan the exchange may work two or three ways. A dentist may give his services to a dressmaker to fashion a gown for his wife in even exchange. Or the dentist may want shoes, the shoe dealer a dress for his wife, and the dressmaker dental services.

Registrants include physicians, architects, ministers, jewelers, a hotel, a concert pianist, tailors, garages, construction companies and electrical repair concerns.

TOURISTS KICKED ON

BEER WITH A KICK

HAMILTON, Ont., (UP)—Tourists from the United States complained to the Chamber of Commerce that when they had asked for 44 beer at refreshment stands, they were served real beer and charged 50 cents for it.

Under the Canadian laws anyone may purchase 44 beer, but to purchase the real beer a permit is necessary.

One tourist said he stopped at a wayside restaurant for a meal and was asked if he wanted a bottle of beer. He drank the beer thinking it was 44 beer. He charged that when the time came to pay the bill he was charged 50 cents for the beer.

Albie Booth's Secret Bride Does Not Fear Film Vamps

The Romantic Details of Just Why the "Only Girl" of Yale's Great Halfback Stayed Home in New Haven While the "Mighty Atom" Went to the Coast to Make a Football Talkie.

A little over a month ago Albie Booth, Yale's "mighty atom" and three-sport star, was married to his childhood sweetheart, Miss Marion Noble, a stenographer in a New Haven telephone company office. But even their parents didn't hear of the nuptials until a few days ago when the bride quit her job to buy furniture for their home. Albie is making a football movie in Hollywood but is Marion afraid one of the movie queens in the film capital will steal his heart away? Not a bit of it. She writes him every day—but does no transcontinental phoning. "Too expensive," she says. Albie quit the Eastern All-Star College Team that was to meet a Western aggregation in connection with the current Olympic Games at Los Angeles to do some end-running and forward-passing for the movie cameras. In a few weeks he will be back at New Haven to finish his studies. Unless kept him from winning that precious sheepskin in June but he wants to finish up his studies. It is expected that the Yale officials will waive their "no married men" rule to allow the "mighty atom" to graduate. He wants to become a lawyer but if his picture is a hit he may be offered a long term acting contract. Maybe he will accept, maybe not. At any rate no matter what happens Albie and the missus won't be separated much longer. If he's in Hollywood to stay for a year or two she'll join him there.
