UNIVERSITY
ENROLLMENT

NUMBER REGISTERED SATURDAY 1389 AS COMPARED WITH 1196 A YEAR AGO

MEN OUTNUMBER THE WOMEN

Freshman Activities Ended Friday And Student Body Goes Through Class Schedule

A definite increase in the number of students registering in the DePauw University college of liberal arts and the music school as compared with those on the same date last year revealed Friday night in the report of Vera Worth, registrar. The total number registering at the university administration building Friday was 1389 as compared with 1196 in 1931 and 905 in 1930. Registration will continue Saturday and the final report will not be known for some time.

Freshman activities ended Friday and the entire student body went through the week's class schedule Saturday. The arrangement is new on the DePauw campus which has been planned wholly to familiarize the students with their professors and to receive assignments for the regular recitations and lectures scheduled to begin Monday.

Friday's registration of 902 men as compared with 485 women showed the men students outnumbering the women more than two to one. The greatest difference in the number of women and men students is seen in the junior class. The difference is comparatively less in the other three classes.

Increased campus activity was seen Friday night with the opening of the fraternity rushing days. All fraternities were open for both dinner and evening engagements with the first-year men. The period ends Sunday evening with the sorority rushing beginning Saturday night and continuing through Friday for one week of rush parties. Up to date all fraternity and sorority houses are opened for the school year.

RUSSELLVILLE
MAN ATTEMPTS TO END LIFE

JOHN CARRINGTON, 75, CUTS THROAT, WILL RECOVER HOSPITAL REPORTS.

John Carrington age 75 years, well known northwest Putnam resident, attempted to end his life Saturday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lora H. McGaughey in Russellville, by slashing his throat. He is expected to recover, it was said.

Attendants at the hospital in Crawfordsville, to which he was taken, stated that Carrington was brought to the hospital about 11:30 a. m., suffering of cuts about the throat. Although his condition is serious as a result of his advanced age and loss of blood, he is expected to recover, they stated.

It was reported that Mr. Carrington's health has been failing rapidly the past few years, he having been stricken blind recently. Despondency over his physical condition and inability to see was believed to have caused the attempted suicide.

Details were not learned but it was said that the aged man used a razor or other sharp knife to slash his throat. He was rushed to the hospital as soon as his act was discovered.

Mr. Carrington has spent his entire life in Russell township, retiring several years ago from his farm near Hebron cemetery. He was active in the Republican party and was a member of the Putnam county board of review a few years ago.

20 Years Ago
IN GREENCASTLE

Miss Margaret Gilmore spent the day in Indianapolis. Charles Rockwell was here from Cloverdale on business. Miss Bonnie Miller is visiting in Terre Haute. Miss Mildred Rutledge, a member of the DePauw Music School faculty, has been granted a year's leave of absence. She will spend the year studying in the East. Mrs. Racer Bittles and family have returned home from a visit in Dunkirk.

Named for Governor

Nominated by the State Republican convention at New Haven as candidate for Governor of Connecticut, former Governor John H. Trumbull (above) will oppose Governor Wilbur L. Cross at the coming elections. Trumbull was described by one of the delegates as being "wringing wet" in sentiment. Senator Hiram Bingham, another wet, was enthusiastically renominated for the U. S. Senate.

WAS INSPECTED ON JULY 2ND

Investigators Hear Reports Of Overcrowding, Unsafe Practices And Other Dangerous Conditions.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10, (UP)—Four investigations of the terrific explosion of the ferry Observation, which previously caught fire twice and sank twice, tried to fix the blame today for the death toll of 37 or more.

As the usual after-the-tragedy investigators began their work, reports of warnings, of protests against overcrowding, of unsafe practices and of dangerous conditions cropped out to make bitter the hearts of grieving relatives.

But no actual knowledge of what caused the 44-year-old excursion steamer to blow up in the East river yesterday while loaded with 150 men going to work, was forthcoming.

"It might have been dynamite, for all we know," John L. Crane of the U. S. steamboat inspection service, said.

The steamer had been "thoroughly inspected" as late as July 2. Apparently everything was ship shape. However, the Ornamental Iron Workers Union whose members were forced to use the ship because the regular municipal ferry was overcrowded, had protested that the Observation was overcrowded, "unmanned and unseaworthy."

And one engineer whose name was not made public was quoted by fellow workers as saying that "Harry Hires, the engineer of the Observation, quite often placed his foot on the safety valve to make sure of enough steam to pull the boat out of the dock."

Hires was listed among the missing.

Aside from such an unverified dangerous practice as reported by the unidentified engineer, there were these possible causes of such a terrific explosion:

Use of salt water instead of fresh water in the boilers because of its convenience. Salt water weakens the seams.

To much steam pressure, the result of defective safety valves or carelessness in watching the gauge.

While the investigations got under way to determine if negligence which might result in manslaughter charges against those responsible, the steamer's captain lay injured under guard. His father was killed.

Alexander Forsythe, the captain is 24. His father, George, was 66. They had owned and operated the combination excursion steamer-ferry for several years.

It was doubtful if the exact cause and responsibility ever would be determined, so terrific was the force of the explosion. It virtually splintered the wheezy old steamer, and it sent some men's bodies whirling more than 100 yards.

USED CLUB IN ATTACK, CHARGE

Alleged to Have Inflicted Injuries to Silas Morrison With Weapon Saturday Morning

Charles Higgins, age 40 years, Commercial Place resident, was arrested at his home Saturday morning by Sheriff Alva Bryan on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill, as a result of an altercation earlier in the morning during which Higgins is alleged to have assaulted Silas Morrison with murderous intent.

Higgins was lodged in the county jail to await arraignment on an affidavit filed by Grace Morrison, charging that he attacked Silas Morrison with a wooden club with intent to kill him.

According to reports to Prosecutor Marshall Abrams, Morrison is said to have gone to the Higgins home about 6 o'clock Saturday morning after a 16 year old daughter who Higgins was alleged to have kept out all night. It was said Higgins objected to giving up the girl and in the argument stated he would kill the girl, Morrison and himself unless the girl consented to marry him.

When Morrison was said to have insisted on his daughter accompanying him home, it was reported that Higgins seized a baseball bat and attacked Morrison, beating him severely. Mrs. Morrison later filed an affidavit against Higgins on which a warrant for his arrest was issued.

The altercation is said to have occurred within a short distance of the home of Mrs. Lillie M. Bennett where Ruby Douthitt is alleged to have severely cut Mrs. Bennett and four other persons in an altercation August 29. Miss Douthitt is now held in the county jail on a charge of assault and battery with intent to kill following a not guilty plea to the charge before Judge James P. Hughes in circuit court.

SUICIDE OF WOMAN LINKED
WITH BERN

KNOWN AS DOROTHY MILLETTE

Lived For Ten Years As "Mrs. Paul Bern," Jean Harlow Pathetic Figure At Last Rites.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 10, (UP)—While police sought the body of Paul Bern's "other wife," believed to have followed the screen executive in self-destruction, the veil was lifted today from bewildering and mysterious circumstances of Bern's tragic end, the suicide which left his glamorous bride of two months, Jean Harlow, a widow.

As the silvery-haired star, distraught and weeping, attended the private funeral services for her strange husband, San Francisco and Sacramento police were investigating the reported suicide of Dorothy Millette, one-time stage star who for ten years carried the name of "Mrs. Paul Bern," and who was the beneficiary of his will.

But if mystery surrounded the disappearance from a Sacramento river steamer of this woman in Bern's past, it remained for Henry Bern, his brother, to brush aside the veil which hid their life together.

San Francisco police reported that a woman who took the river steamer Delta King for Sacramento Tuesday night was not aboard when the boat docked at California's capital Wednesday morning. She had checked out of the Plaza hotel, San Francisco, Tuesday.

She had lived there since May 4, when she registered as "Dorothy Millette, New York." She reserved a stateroom aboard the Delta King sailing Tuesday evening.

But Capt. W. J. Atthog, the vessel's master, reported that her bed was found undisturbed after the ship docked, that her clothes were heaped in confusion about the cabin, and that a pair of stockings and shoes were found in the companionway leading from her cabin to the ship's rail.

Authorities believed this indicated she had leaped to her death perhaps shortly after the Delta King left San Francisco and darkness shrouded the slow flowing waters of the Sacramento.

Discovery of her clothes and the discarded shoes and stockings led to the belief that she may have ended her life unclad, just as Bern shot himself while standing nude before a

U. S. BANK IS ABSOLVED OF

PHOTOS OF JAPANESE INDUSTRIAL PLANTS FOR ADVERTISING PURPOSES ONLY

UCHIDA ISSUES STATEMENT

Clears National City Bank Of Charge That Photos Were For U. S. War Department

TOKIO, Sept. 10, (UP)—A statement absolving the National City Bank of suspicion in connection with a series of photographs of industrial plants it had taken for publication in advertising matter was issued today by foreign minister Uchida after a conference with Joseph Clark Grew, United States ambassador to Japan.

Ambassador Grew had called upon the minister for a complete investigation into charges published by the vernacular press that the photographs were for foreign military use.

Grew today asked for a formal statement from the imperial Japanese government repudiating such charges.

Sections of the Japanese press claimed that the National City bank took the photographs of industrial Osaka for the American war department.

The intense suspicion of the military of all foreigners taking photographs in Japan; a possible effort by European business interests here to profit at the expense of an attack on an American bank, and resentment in some quarters of the ratio of the yen to the American dollar combined in expanding the minor incident into a subject of diplomatic protest.

Foreign minister Count Uchida was understood to have intimated to the hostile editors that their attack was harmful to Japanese-American relations after Ambassador Grew asked repudiation of the charges.

Members of the Japanese gendarmery were understood to be confident that the photographs were for war purposes. The war office, which controls the gendarmery, told the United Press it was confident the photographs were not for military use, but said it was always possible that photographs might be taken for a hostile purpose. The war office therefore requested the bank to avoid photography in the future.

Editors of responsible papers realized that the charges were absurd. Katsuji Debuchi, Japanese ambassador to Washington, now in Japan, deplored the campaign.

The excitement among part of the native press, however, was even greater than that of last year when Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, American round the world fliers, were accused of taking motion pictures of Japanese fortifications.

MURPHY RITES SUNDAY

The body of Thomas Francis Murphy who died in Chicago Friday of heart trouble, was brought to the old home on Jackson street Saturday afternoon over the Monon railroad and the funeral services will be held from the St. Paul's Catholic church Sunday afternoon at half past two o'clock with Father Mullins in charge. Burial will be in Forest Hill cemetery.

Mr. Murphy had been living in Chicago for the past fifteen years, having gone there from Greencastle. He was doing railroad work in that city. He had been in failing health for some time, but his condition was not thought to be serious. He was taken to the hospital late Wednesday and never rallied. He is survived by the widow, Mrs. Bernice Stewart Murphy, one daughter, and a brother, Tim F. Murphy of this city. He was born and reared in Greencastle and has many friends here. He visited here early in August.

The body left Chicago Saturday morning, following a funeral service held from the Chapel of St. Dorothy's church at 8:30 o'clock.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10 (UP)—The hunt for Raymond Robins, social and prohibition worker who disappeared en route to a luncheon engagement with President Hoover, was redoubled here today when two friends of the missing man reported they saw him here Thursday.

W. W. Haupt, and old friend of the prohibition crusader, told authorities he saw Robins and spoke with him just half an hour after the time he was reported seen by Mrs. W. Requa Bryant, another long-time acquaintance.

The two meetings occurred a block apart on busy State street Thursday afternoon.

Haupt's revelation set police, department of justice agents and many of the social worker's friends to checking closely through the districts with which Robins was familiar here several years ago as a social worker.

Hospitals, hotels and lodging houses were scrutinized. It was believed Robins might have come here suffering from amnesia. In such an event they believe it likely he might have returned to the tenement neighborhoods where he strove to better conditions in the years following the turn of the century.

Haupt told police he was positive the man he met and spoke with was Robins.

"I was walking north on State street," he said, "and met Robins just as I was passing the Palmer House. I recognized him and said, 'Hello, Mr. Robins.' He answered my greeting, nodded and continued on his way."

"I had seen him just a few weeks ago at the time of the national political conventions and thought nothing of his failure to stop and chat with me."

"Robins was walking alone. He carried no brief case or satchel. He wore a black cloth hat and gray suit."

Mrs. Bryant previously had told authorities of seeing Robins about half an hour earlier Thursday afternoon at State and Adams streets, a block south from where Haupt reported meeting him.

"He was preoccupied," Mrs. Bryant said. "He was hurrying along and appeared worried. I was about to speak to him when the traffic light changed and I had no opportunity."

Both Haupt and Mrs. Bryant have known the missing man for nearly 20 years and were positive they could not have been mistaken in their identification.

A night-long search of Robins' old haunts failed to bring any trace of him.

Adding to the belief of investigators that Robins was in Chicago was the fact he had an appointment here early this week with dry workers.

He failed to appear at this conference. Robins also had been scheduled to attend a prohibition convention here late this month and make several addresses.

EXTORTIONISTS TRAPPED
CHICAGO, Sept. 10 (UP)—Police early today trapped a man and woman in what they charged was an extortion plot which had threatened to disrupt a fashionable society wedding this afternoon.

The wedding was that of Ann Ashcraft, debutante daughter of Edwin M. Ashcraft, Jr., millionaire Evanston attorney, and Raymond Otis Mitchell, son of John R. Mitchell of Minneapolis.

Officers arrested a man who gave his name as Rudolph Diez, 32, a toolmaker, when he appeared at the scene where a dummy package supposed to contain the $3,000 demanded in an extortion letter had been placed.

After questioning Diez, officers took his wife, Bertha, into custody. Police said Diez made a full confession of the plot.

The society couple whose wedding today is one of the events of the North Shore social season have been under police guard since receipt of a blackmail note Sept. 5.

Township Roads Are Taken Over
TOTAL OF 148 MILES TRANSFERRED TO JURISDICTION OF COUNTY SATURDAY

The new law transferring all township roads to jurisdiction of the counties resulted in the addition of 148 miles of township roads to the county highway system in Putnam county Saturday. The act transferring the roads was passed by the recent special session of the legislature and became effective Saturday.

The act was passed to eliminate the township gravel road levies in Indiana. The measure also was expected to reduce special school levies because the trustees could transfer money in the gravel road funds to the school funds by declaratory resolutions.

In cases where the road funds are not transferred to the school funds the amounts will be transferred to the counties. It was said that Greencastle township was the only township in Putnam county which would have funds to transfer, other trustees having either spent the money in their townships or transferred it to the school fund.

Addition of the township roads to the county highway system will bring more than 800 miles under the jurisdiction of the county road superintendent which will be maintained with money derived from gasoline tax.

The miles of township roads in each township which were transferred are as follows: Russell 19; Franklin 6; Jackson 6; Monroe 2; Clinton 19; Washington 18; Floyd 15; Marion 4; Jefferson 9; Cloverdale 23; Madison 17; Warren 5; and Greencastle 5.

Lesson for September 11
ISRAEL JOURNEYING TOWARD CANAAN

GOLDEN TEXT—And Moses said unto Hobab, the son of Raguel the Midianite, Moses' father-in-law, We are journeying unto the place of which the Lord said, I will give it you: come thou with us, and we will do thee good: for the Lord hath spoken good concerning Israel.

LESSON TEXT—Numbers 10:11-36. PRIMARY TOPIC—Following a Shining Cloud. JUNIOR TOPIC—The Wilderness Road. INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Camp Life in the Wilderness. FOCUS—PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How God Guides His People.

The nation had now grown to a great host—the army itself was 603,550 strong. Allowing three persons to every soldier there would be 1,810,650. The moving of such a host required thorough organization. The army was organized into four divisions with three tribes to each division. Each tribe had a commander and an ensign.

1. The signal given to march (v. 11). The lifting of the cloud from off the sanctuary was the signal for the camp to be broken and the march to begin.

2. The signal given to rest (v. 12). Just as the sign to march must be recognized, so the sign to rest must be obeyed.

3. The commander (v. 13). God was the commander through his servant Moses.

4. The order of the march (vv. 14-28). As they marched, the division led by Judah went forward followed by Gershon and Merari bearing the bulkier part of the tabernacle. Then marched Reuben's division followed by the Kohathites bearing the sacred utensils of the tabernacle. These were followed by the divisions of Ephraim and Dan. The ark occupied a central position with the caravan.

II. Moses Seeking the Help of Hobab (vv. 29-32).

Hobab was a shrewd child of the desert. Moses therefore thought that his knowledge would be helpful. The children of Israel, however, were going forth under the guiding care of the Almighty. Surely he could be trusted. It is a sad thing, indeed, when God is dwelling in the midst of the people that the one whom God had set over them should seek the wisdom and guidance of a man. There seems to be no doubt as to the grave mistake which Moses made in this case, but it is quite certain that he was actuated by a proper motive. Moses made a double plea before Hobab:

1. "We will do thee good." Moses had faith in God's promises to Israel and could well assure Hobab that good would come to him by identifying himself with God's covenant people. All Christians can say to sinners, "Come thou with us and we will do thee good." Hobab's reason for refusing the invitation of Moses was his love for his kindred and home.

2. "Thou mayest be to us instead of eyes." Moses still insisted that Hobab should go along, not only for the good he could get, but for the good he might do. The sinner should come to Christ because he needs salvation, not primarily that he may be of some good by joining with God's people. Hobab seems afterward to have yielded to the entreaty of Moses (Judges 1:16).

III. Marching to Canaan With the Lord as Leader (vv. 33-36).

Even though Hobab did go with Israel we never hear of his leading the people. Observe:

1. "The ark of the covenant of the Lord went before them" (v. 33). The ark, the symbol of the divine presence, moved out of its place in the midst of the camp and took its place at the head. It went before them in the three days' journey to search out a resting place for them.

2. The cloud of the Lord rested upon them (v. 34). This was an indication that God was not only leading, but governing and protecting his people.

3. The Lord's vindication (v. 35, 36). Moses' unbelief brought reproach upon the Lord. This action on the part of God vindicated his leadership. God is the actual and only sufficient leader whose heart is never faint, who never sleeps. Moses gave recognition to this act of God in identifying himself with his people. When the ark set forward he exclaimed, "Rise up, Lord, and let thine enemies be scattered: and let them that hate thee flee before thee"; and when it rested, "Return, O Lord, unto the many thousands of Israel." When we fall by unbelief, may we, like Moses, quietly and graciously accept the rebuke of the Lord and give him recognition as our leader.

"Substance" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 11.

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for the meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for him hath God the Father sealed" (John 6:27).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Question.—What is substance? Answer.—Substance is that which is eternal and incapable of discord and decay. Truth, Life, and Love are substance, as the Scriptures use this word in Hebrews: 'The substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.' Spirit, the synonym of Mind, Soul, or God, is the only real substance" (p. 468).

Each Thursday's chapel will be given to the School of Music for a program and Dean R. G. McCutcheon announced that Miss Edna Bowles, contralto, will sing in the first of the Music Chapels which is Thursday morning. Miss Bowles is a member of the Music School faculty.

Friday chapels will be for freshmen only this year. No upperclassmen or faculty members will be permitted to attend and President Oxnam himself will take charge of these services. He plans to talk on problems of college life that are particularly pertinent to freshmen.

University Vesper Services are scheduled to begin Sunday evening, September 18. Dr. Oxnam plans some changes in the Vespers series this year. In the past lectures that were appearing on platforms all over the country were employed. This year there will not be so many off-campus speakers.

"MURDER of the NIGHT CLUB LADY"
THE NEW THATCHER COLT DETECTIVE MYSTERY
BY ANTHONY ABBOT

SYNOPSIS

Following the receipt of a death threat, Lola Carewe, known as "The Night Club Lady", is mysteriously slain in her penthouse apartment at 3 a. m. New Year's Eve. Hugh Baldwin reports death due to heart failure. The only clue to the murder is a medical laboratory specimen box found outside Lola's window. Police Commissioner Thatcher Colt attaches importance to the young man whose photograph is found in Lola's room, and whose identity Lola had refused to reveal beyond his first name, "Basil". At the mention of "Basil", Mrs. Carewe, Lola's mother, becomes hysterical. It is known that Lola quarreled with Guy Everett and Vincent Rowland, a lawyer, over investments. Eunice, the maid, confesses she was employed by Everett to report the goings on in the apartment. The mystery deepens with the finding of the body of Christine Quires, Lola's guest. Christine had been killed before Lola and her body hidden until an opportune moment arrived for the murderer to place it, soaking wet, in Lola's room. The findings are similar to those in Lola's case except that Christine's neck was bruised after death. Everett, Christine's last escort, claims he left her at the apartment elevator at midnight New Year's Eve, and then went for a ride on the Motor Parkway, alone, arriving home after 3 a. m. Mrs. Carewe informs Colt that Christine lived with a brother, Edgar, in Rochester.

With some amusement, I observed District Attorney Dougherty's glare at this newest development.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

"HAD Christine any private income?"
"Oh, yes, she was rather wealthy in her own right—that is to say, I believe she will be—I mean she would have been in two more months."
"She was coming into an inheritance?"
"Yes—of about a million dollars, I believe. There was something about her father having left her money of which she was to come in full possession when she was twenty-three years old."
Now Colt's line of questions swerved sharply.
"Do you know of any love affairs?"
"None."
"She had admirers—?"
"Yes, but I think she took none of them seriously—that is what she always told me."
"Was this because of a disappointment in love?"
"I know nothing about that. She did not confide in me."
"Now, Mrs. Carewe," resumed Colt, "I want to ask you if you know of any person who would have any reason to wish for the death of Lola or of Christine—or who would benefit from their deaths in any way?"
"Absolutely none," declared old Mrs. Carewe.
"Who will get Lola's inheritance now?"
The mother shook her head unhappily and supposed she would, but she did not know. And she knew nothing of Christine's affairs.
"Did you ever know Christine to quarrel with anyone?"
The old woman gave Colt a quick, uncertain glance; then her eyelids covered a tell-tale expression and her fingers twitched at her handkerchief.
"No—not really," she sighed at last.
"Are you sure?"
"Yes."
"As a matter of fact, didn't she quarrel with you only this afternoon?"
The old lady's eyes opened brightly and she nodded her head vigorously.
"Oh—that I suppose Eunice heard. Well—we did have a tiff, but it amounted to nothing. Christine thought Lola was investing some money in a wrong way. But I didn't know anything about it. Come to think of it, Christine made a remark that seems queer—now! I told her not to worry me about her money; she would have to see Lola about it. And she said something about she would—if Lola lived that long."

"Was that all?"
"Yes. She got to crying and went in her room and shut the door. After a while she came out and apologized and we kissed and made it up."
"Know of any other quarrels that might lead us anywhere?"
"Not a quarrel—I know something, but well—it is so trifling—"
"What is it?" insisted Dougherty. "You must tell us everything."
"All right—it is true that Christine took a violent dislike to our butler, But Chung is a harmless person—he has been with us for years."
"Why did Christine dislike your Chinaman?"
"He frightened her. She thought he was—impertinent in the way he watched her."
"She was afraid of him?"
"Yes, frankly—she was. But that was foolishness."
Colt brushed aside her comments. "Now there remains what to me seems a difficult point," resumed Colt. "Lola was found wearing a flannel bathrobe. Do you know if it was hers?"
"Yes—she always liked it."
"Did she wear it often?"
"Whenever she felt chilly."
Colt nodded thoughtfully, but he asked no more questions. Promising Mrs. Carewe that she would be a comforting goodnight. When he reached the living-room, Colt and Doctor Multozer conferred in low tones. Then the Medical Examiner went the way of his two cadavers, out of the pent-house and down to the Morgue.
"Chief," said Inspector Flynn, from the open door of the guest-room where Lola had died, "Adams and Thompson are here—with their apparatus."

With some amusement, I observed District Attorney Dougherty's glare at this newest development—two young detectives from Headquarters, each armed with all of things in the world, a vacuum cleaner. They were here at Thatcher Colt's special request—operators of machines of vast importance to the police, although the public has little suspicion of how valuable such an instrument can be in solving a murder.
"Get everything ready!" ordered Colt crisply. "I am convinced that you boys can help us find what we need to get at the bottom of this baffling business."
Flushed at Colt's compliment, the two detectives began to make ready their machines. Meanwhile, Colt went to the telephone and asked for long distance. In an incredibly short while, he was speaking to Captain Wagner, head of the Rochester Detective Department.
"Hello, Captain. I need your help in a hurry. I want to find a man named Edgar Quires. He lives on Onondaga Avenue—"
At the other end of the wire, Captain Wagner had already reached for the telephone book, and as Colt finished, he had his finger on the listing.
