Farms Taken Off Market By Banks

FEDERAL LAND BANKS TO HOLD ON TO REAL ESTATE ON HANDS

The inflation program of President Roosevelt has taken all Federal Land Bank farms off the market. Milt Brown of the Putnam County Farm Loan Association is in receipt of this word. The association has loans on a very few farms that are delinquent and they have been trying to sell such farms for the amount of the loan or usually they ran much less. The first action that came was for all such farms to sell automatically for the amount of the loans due. Now the chances are that when they are placed on the market again, they will sell for prices above the mortgage price.

A letter from the Federal Land Bank at Louisville, which has jurisdiction over Indiana, says in part: "Inflationary legislation has and will increase normal values to a level at least equal to average values for the period from 1909 to 1914, inclusive."

The following prices are considered as 1909 to 1914 averages of normal prices: wheat, 92 cents; corn, 64.2 cents; oats, 39.9 cents; rye, 72 cents; potatoes, 69.7 cents.

These prices are considerably higher than present day prices, but the trend is upward at a rapid rate and it may not be many days before current prices are equal if not above those averages for 1909 to 1914.

SENATE COMMITTEE PROBES J. P. MORGAN'S INCOME TAX

WASHINGTON, May 16, (UP)—J. P. Morgan's income tax returns, the United Press learned, are being studied by a senate banking committee investigator.

Returns of his partners in the great international banking firm also are being examined. It is believed likely that the information obtained will be introduced early in the committee's investigation of the bank's operations, scheduled to begin next week.

One of the purposes of the committee's general inquiry into banking and stock market practices is to turn the spotlight on loopholes in the income tax law and to devise legislation to plug them up. Chairman Norbeck recently predicted the committee's work would bring the government millions of dollars in additional taxes.

SHARP QUAKE AGAIN ROCKS CALIFORNIA

SAN FRANCISCO PENINSULA AND VICINITY REPORTS SEVERE EARTH TREMOR

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16, (UP)—The San Francisco peninsula and the surrounding area for a hundred miles was rocked by a sharp earthquake at dawn today.

The tremor occurred at 3:46 a. m. and lasted approximately 45 seconds. No damage was done, although the city came to life at once.

Telephone service was temporarily interrupted as girls left the switchboards. Market street and other principal thoroughfares were filled with taxicabs rushing between hotels.

Stockton, 90 miles east, reported a sharp rock, as did Sacramento, 100 miles northeast.

Petaluma, 40 miles north, said the quake was severe.

Vallejo, at the north end of San Francisco bay, reported to the United Press that three separate tremors were felt.

Early reports indicated that the earthquake was felt most severely in the East Bay section, comprising Oakland, Alameda, Hayward, Berkeley, Richmond and Martinez.

In the United Press relay at San Francisco, located on the fourth floor of a newspaper building, lighting fixtures swayed sharply through the first quake and a "following shock" but the transmission equipment did not go out of commission.

Bishop To Address County Dry Rally

TEMPERANCE ASSOCIATION TO MEET AT METHODIST CHURCH SUNDAY

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, Washington, D. C., and former president of DePauw university, will be the speaker for the Putnam County Temperance association next Sunday evening in the Greencastle Methodist Episcopal church at 7:30 o'clock. His subject will be "Prohibition Prophecies."

Bishop Hughes is widely known throughout the country as a public speaker and is the senior bishop of the Methodist Episcopal church. He is speaking afternoons and evenings during this week throughout the central and northern part of the state. All citizens who believe that repeal of the 18th amendment is the solution of alcoholic beverage traffic are invited to hear this presentation of the other side of the question. Delegations of citizens from the several townships of the county will attend this meeting.

A second county-wide temperance rally is announced for Sunday evening, 7:30 o'clock, May 28, in the gymnasium of the Bainbridge school. The speaker will be Dr. G. IRVIN BATTMAN AND CEBERT BOND PLEAD GUILTY IN CIRCUIT COURT

MUST MAKE MONTHLY REPORTS

Six Month Sentences On Indiana State Farm Suspended Pending Good Behavior

Irvin Battman, 17, and Cebert Bond, 18, both of Washington township, who pleaded guilty to charges of chicken stealing in circuit court Tuesday morning, were given suspended sentences of six months on the Indiana State Farm and paroled to Ed Chew, trustee of the township, to whom they will make monthly reports. Judge Wilbur S. Donner in granting suspended sentences warned the two boys that any violation of the paroles would result in enforcement of the penalties.

Apprehension of the two boys resulted from an investigation by George Akers, member of the Putnam county council, who had eight chickens stolen May 6. He learned that Charles Reel of Reelsville had purchased the chickens and that the Battman boy sold them to him.

Mr. Akers first questioned the Battman boy and he admitted the theft and implicated Bond. They agreed to appear before Judge Donner Tuesday morning on charges of petit larceny. Both boys denied any other thefts and said they stole the chickens to get spending money. They were ordered to reimburse Akers for the stolen chickens.

DALY'S STATUT DISCUSSED

INDIANAPOLIS, May 16, (UP)—The status of Walter H. Daly, ousted warden at the state prison, was discussed with administration officials today by his successor, Louis E. Kunkel, Michigan City, and Fred Brewer, LaPorte county Democratic chairman.

When the appointment of Kunkel was announced yesterday, it was said that Daly might be offered the post of deputy warden. This would mean dismissal of Harry D. Claudy, the present deputy warden and a Democrat. Daly is a Republican.

Kunkel today, however, gave no indication that Daly would replace Claudy.

Kunkel revealed an aversion for pulling the switch which operates the electric chair. He indicated this task would be left to the deputy warden.

During his seven year regime, Daly delegated the electrocutions to Claudy.

CORONER RETURNS MURDER VERDICT IN BAXTER DEATH

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., May 16, (UP)—A theory of murder was advanced by Clark county authorities today in the death of John Baxter, 51, Rising Sun contractor, after Coroner Edwin M. Coats reported a bullet wound in the top of the victim's head could not have been self-inflicted.

Baxter's body was found in the Ohio river near here and a brother, Oscar Baxter, Rising Sun, told authorities he believed the contractor had committed suicide because of domestic and financial worries.

M. D. Abrams Is Brazil Speaker

GIVES FOUR CAUSES FOR CRIME IN ADDRESS BEFORE ELKS MONDAY NOON

"When the people of the United States begin talking less about the electric chair and more about the high chair we will begin to have less crime," said Marshall Abrams, former prosecuting attorney of Putnam county, in a talk to the Brazil B. P. O. Elks' Luncheon club at noon Monday.

Although the attendance was less than usual, Mr. Abrams got the most enthusiastic round of applause given any speaker at these luncheons showing keen appreciation by his hearers whose interest he held throughout in his subject and capable presentation.

"That there is too much crime in the United States is an accepted fact but the best we can hope to do is to diminish crime to a certain extent," Mr. Abrams declared. He said that the great amount of crime is generally attributed to four causes: (1) policing; improper and efficient enforcement of our laws; (2) courts, corruption, and inefficiency of juries; (3) penitentiaries, improper punishment and reformation of criminals (4) the legal profession, dishonest practices in trying to free guilty clients.

The speaker said that powers have been taken away from judges to such an extent that they can now only conduct the court and instruct the juries, but the juries have gone beyond the law by interpreting their own laws and then applying their laws to the facts instead of the facts to the existing laws.

He told of the weakness of the laws in allowing the state no appeals, but permitting the criminal, who has been convicted, to appeal his case to the higher court where the case is buried for years. The prosecutor goes on, the witnesses die and after so long a time the state becomes disgusted and a new prosecutor files a motion to dismiss the case.

DEMAND FOR WORLD PEACE BY PRESIDENT

OPEN UNCODED MESSAGE SENT TO RULERS OF EVERY CIVILIZED NATION

WAR THREATS IN EUROPE

Mr. Roosevelt's Sharp Demand Follows Rumblings of Trouble In Central Europe

ROME, May 16, (UP)—Italy will accept President Roosevelt's world peace proposal unconditionally, it was said on high authority tonight.

WASHINGTON, May 16, (UP)—President Roosevelt seized the leadership of a war-threatened world today and in a message cabled direct to the rulers of 54 nations, summoned all nations to pledge themselves to send no armed forces whatsoever across their frontiers.

He warned that if any strong nation refuses, the civilized world will know where to place the blame. "I urge that no nation assume such a responsibility," he said.

Raising his powerful voice above the rumbling war drums of Europe, the president sent his sharp imperative call for peace in the form of an open uncoded message addressed to all the sovereigns of the world and through them to their respective peoples.

As a first step, President Roosevelt urged the nations to accept the disarmament plan proposed by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald at the world disarmament conference.

That would reduce offensive weapons and set up a system of consultation to bring the powers together when peace is menaced.

While this is being done, he proposed that no country should increase its existing armaments.

Then came his emergency armistice proposal in the following words:

"That all the nations of the world should enter into a solemn and definite pact of non-aggression; that they should solemnly reaffirm the obligation they have assumed to limit and reduce their armaments and, provided these obligations are faithfully executed by all signatory powers, individually agree that they will send no armed forces of whatever nature across their frontiers.

"Common sense points out that if any stronger nation refuses to join with genuine sincerity in these concerted efforts for political and economic peace, the one at Geneva, and the other at London, progress can be obstructed and ultimately blocked.

In such event the civilized world, seeking both forms of peace, will know where the responsibility for failure lies. I urge no nation assume such a responsibility and that all the nations joined in these great conferences translate their professed policies into action."

The message was addressed to 54 sovereigns including Russia. The message to Russia was addressed to "President Mikhail Kalinin, All Union Central Executive Committee, Moscow, Russia." This is the first time an American president has communicated directly with the Soviet authorities. It was taken to be significant of the president's desire to mobilize the entire world in his gigantic drive for peace.

It was thought to be a historic utterance—notice to the world that the United States has assumed her share of responsibility in the strife torn family of nations.

No direct mention of Germany was made. But the utterance was timed on the eve of Chancellor Hitler's statement to the Reichstag tomorrow which the world is awaiting with tense apprehension lest it reopen the issue which threw the world into the most deadly war of history nearly 20 years ago.

His message was an appeal for the success of both the world economic conference and the Geneva disarmament conference. With such high hopes of recovery hanging on the economic conference, Mr. Roosevelt saw it menaced by the tense feeling between Germany and her old enemies.

For the first time in history, so far as observers here recalled, the president of the United States directly addressed the rulers of the entire world and pleaded with them for common action to save civilization. Mr. Roosevelt did so in the "profound hope" that they would answer his call.

The president called attention to the conferences for disarmament and economic restoration, the one now meeting at Geneva, the other soon to convene at London. "The happiness, the prosperity, and the very lives of the men, women and children who inhabit the whole world are bound up in the decisions which the governments will make in the near future," he warned.

Recalling the failure of the disarmament conference to achieve anything in its 18 months of bickering, Mr. Roosevelt warned:

"Confused policies still clash dangerously. Our duty lies in the direction of bringing practical results through concerted action based upon the greatest good to the greatest number."

"Behold the imperative call of this great duty," he said, "petty obstacles must be swept away and petty aims forgotten."

Nations arm for two reasons, Mr. Roosevelt said. A few wish to gain the territories of their neighbors. But the great majorities arm because they are afraid of invasion.

POCKET AREA HARDEST HIT FROM FLOODS

HIGH WATER CONCENTRATES ON SOUTHWEST SECTION OF INDIANA

EVANSVILLE, Ind., May 16, (UP)—Flood waters of four rivers and a score of tributaries were pouring their overflow into the pocket section of Indiana today.

In many places the water threatens to reach its highest point since the disastrous flood of 1913.

Enough rain has fallen to send the crest of the Ohio to 45 feet here, weather bureau officials reported. The Wabash, White and Patoka rivers have been rising steadily in Gibson county where more than 10 inches of rain has fallen since May 1.

The floods already have exacted a toll of 11 lives and caused more than $1,000,000 property damage in central portions of the state.

But the rivers were falling today at Indianapolis, Clinton, Terre Haute, Anderson, Peru, and Noblesville.

The crest of the Wabash passed Terre Haute last night after driving hundreds of persons from their homes. Much of West Terre Haute and parts of central Terre Haute were inundated. Relief agencies were taxed to capacity to provide food and shelter for the stricken families.

The Wabash almost surrounded Clinton, but a noticeable drop in the water was reported. Fifteen families were isolated but their homes were on high ground and no danger for their safety was felt.

Residents of Vincennes and Mt. Carmel, Ill., are anxiously waiting for the crest of the Wabash to arrive. Weather bureau officials expect Vincennes to have its highest water by midweek.

Severe damage to farm crops in southwestern Indiana will result from the many floods this spring.

Crops which have been planted were being washed out while farmers have found it impossible to plant their corn. Water covered wheat and alfalfa fields will be destroyed completely, it is believed.

WYOMING IS FOURTH STATE FOR REPEAL

WETS WIN DECISIVE VICTORY; NEW JERSEY VOTERS AT POLLS TODAY

ONLY ONE COUNTY VOTED DRY

Returns in Wyoming Reveal Top-heavy Vote to Repeal National Prohibition Measure

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 16, (UP)—Wyoming today definitely became the fourth state to go on record as favoring repeal of the 18th amendment.

Although unaccustomed use of the precinct convention system greatly slowed returns, the overwhelming repudiation of the state was established beyond any doubt when returns from 14 out of 23 counties gave prohibition forces the lead in only one county.

Returns from 253 precincts of the state's 667 gave repealists 395 delegates and dry 36. Delegates elected in the precinct conventions will attend county conventions Thursday to name representatives to the state repeal convention in Casper May 25.

Platte county was the only county today that had named a majority of dry delegates.

The towns of Lusk, Gillette, Manville, Cody, Sheridan, Casper, Laramie, Cheyenne, Rock Springs, and Kemmerer failed to elect a single dry delegate.

Expected dry strength in the rural precincts failed to materialize.

The repeal victory at the precinct conventions was destined to be greater than in the state referendum last fall.

TRENTON, N. J., May 16, (UP)—With four states already aligned for repeal of the 18th amendment, New Jersey voters marked ballots today with every prospect of making their state fifth.

The voters were electing 162 repeal convention delegates from counties, and 64 at large. With the state regarded as safely wet, so little interest was shown that Governor A. Harry Moore found it necessary to issue a special appeal to anti-prohibitionists to vote lest the dry win by default.

Jersey combined local elections and a legislative primary with the repeal vote.

HOGE OIL PIPE LINES BRING ROOM TO PALESTINE
CITIES

HAIFA, Palestine. (UP)—A new Phoenicia is rising in the Near East. Jerusalem, Jaffa with Tel Aviv, and Haifa, all have shown recent increases in population, and the boundaries of the cities are pushing out further and further.

Jerusalem is the center of institutions, while Jaffa and Haifa are the centers of trade and industry. Haifa is the most favored and is fitting itself to be an international port.

The new harbor is nearly complete, while the pipe-line that is to run from the great Mosul oilfield, across the Syrian desert, Transjordan, and the Plain of Esdraelon, is nearing the port.

Some 200 British and American officers of the Iraq Petroleum Company now are established here. Parties of them are dotted along the line, which at present is being laid westward and eastward from Mafrak. The vast enterprise, already has given great stimulus to industry; and it promises a future for industrial Palestine which is making land values soar.

Despite Haifa's advance, Jaffa and Tel Aviv remain the principal center of the local trade and industry. The census shows that the twin towns already had a population of nearly 100,000; and Tel Aviv alone is estimated to have grown in the last 12 months to 60,000 persons.

FROZEN FACED MAN MAY HAVE TO GIVE UP HIS JOB

CLEVELAND, (UP)—Erne Jules St. Clair is not so sure he likes his chosen profession very well any more. He's the man with the "frozen face," who has been walking around Cleveland streets, challenging the populace to make him smile.

He was walking stiffly down a business street one day when a tough-looking mug stepped up, and said: "Smile, or I'll smack you." Erne's face never cracked a whit. Something else cracked, however, and Erne woke up a couple of hours later. But he refused to prefer charges against two of the men who assaulted him, so the theater which employed Erne said:

"No more job. If he doesn't prosecute the mugs, they'll do it again."

RENTERS STILL SEEK FARMS. OWNERS FIND

OSKALOOSA, Iowa, (UP)—Farm owners in this community have found this spring that their farms still are in great demand by renters in spite of continued low prices for agricultural products.

R. E. Woodford, Mahaska County Farm Bureau agent, reported recently that his office had been swamped with requests for renters seeking locations for the coming year.

Regardless of reported dissatisfaction among Iowa farmers, most of them would turn down any opportunity for entering another type of work, he said.

J. C. PENNEY COMPANY BUYS HUGE ORDER DRESSES

C. D. Chapman, manager of the local J. C. Penney company, is in receipt of a shipment of dresses, a part of an order of 200,000 the company bought recently. They come from one of the largest New York dress making firms and in the local shipment, there are no two alike. It is probably the largest single order ever placed by a merchandising firm and represents an outlay of many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The lot consist of washable fat crepes, rough crepes, georgettes, printed chiffons and silk voiles. They include sports and dress designs and offer a riot of styles in colors. This order probably meant many weeks work for several hundred New York women and when one considers the total number in the lot, it required lots of ready cash and a national distributor to handle such an order.

OBITUARY

"Sunset and evening star
And one clear call for me!
And may there be no moaning of the bar
When I put out to sea."

Unannounced unheralded out from the Infinite in space, in time, in mind came that clear call and one we loved so well answered.

Melvin Aubrey, son of William and Lydia Everling, was born in Elwood, Ind., on March the eighteenth, nineteen hundred four and died in Cincinnati, May ninth, nineteen hundred thirty-three, a few weeks over twenty-nine years, yet how much life in that brief span of years!

At an early age, after his grandmother's death in 1918, Melvin Aubrey, realizing his best friend was gone, took up the burden of life for himself and in the course of a short while enlisted with the U. S. regulars and was sent to the Mexican border.

Upon returning to civil life again, he was employed as a railroad bridge builder. In the employ of the Big Four he met his death.

Melvin Aubrey possessed an unusually happy disposition and although throughout his life there were many hardships, disappointments and sufferings, he bore them nobly and bravely, not complaining.

Real true happiness came to him when on April 23, 1932, he was united in marriage to Gail, daughter of W. F. and Goldie Judy, and when they established a little home so sacredly dear to them. Just a few blissful months was he given the sweet privilege of returning from his labors to his home and bride he loved with all his heart and soul. He was so capable of loving home and family and friends, especially did he love children, who affectionately knew him as Mel. They had no better friend than Mel. While they cannot fully realize, yet they know he is gone and they will never cease to miss him and cherish his memory.

Truly Melvin was a friend to man. Although he had not identified himself with the church (always saying he was not good enough) he was a careful reader and Bible student. He possessed many beautiful traits of character. In this short acquaintance and life in the Judy family and community he endeared himself to all.

We shall long remember that cheery smile and happy greeting, the hearty handshake, good fellowship and sturdy manhood.

Melvin literally breathed and lived the spirit "Not for self but for others."

How we love to think of the words of Jesus in the scripture: "Let him that would come after me deny himself, take up his cross and follow me." We find comfort in an account of the last judgment: "And the King shall answer and say unto them, 'Verily I say unto you, inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, we have done it unto me.'"

Surely our loss is his gain, but how great is our loss! His place can never be filled but we shall cherish his memory and thank our Maker that we ever knew him and loved him so well, looking forward to that time and place where there are no heart aches, no disappointments. There are none in heaven.

"I can not say, and I will not say that he is dead, he is just away! With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand

He has wandered into an unknown land.

And left us dreaming how very fair It needs must be for he lingers there." Besides his heartbroken wife, he leaves to mourn their loss his father of Elwood, three brothers, Sherman of Logansport, Herman of Elwood, Cleo of Indianapolis; a sister Lola of Indianapolis; two aunts, Mrs. Bertha Blue and Pearl Harley Tharp of Indianapolis; one uncle, his mother's brother Cleveland Sosbe of Elwood, also survive his step-mother Anna and step-sister Maggie Purtee and a number of nieces and nephews. Many friends deeply feel their loss.

"Sunset and evening bells,
And after that the dark,
And may there be no sadness of farewell
When I embark."

TAVERN OWNER SPOILS
ATTACK OF STRANGER

BRAZIL, Ind., May 16. — Franz Hawkins, proprietor of the McKinley tavern, just east of Harmony on the National road, had a narrow escape from serious injury Sunday night when he was struck over the head with a revolver by a hitch-hiker, to whom he had given something to eat and some money.

The hitch-hiker, who said he was on his way to Kansas to seek work, stopped at the tavern and asked Hawkins for something to eat and a little money. Seating the man at a table, Hawkins brought him some food and then gave him a quarter, but as he turned to go back to the kitchen the stranger struck Hawkins over the head with a 32-caliber automatic. The blow, however, was a glancing one and did not fell Hawkins, turned on the man and knocked him down with a blow on the chin. A fight followed in which Hawkins obtained possession of the revolver, but when he attempted to hold the man on telephone for help, the stranger broke away and disappeared, leaving behind the revolver, which proved to be unloaded.

CHAPTER XIV

Hooker hankered for what was in the small safe inside the big safe in Judge Osgood's library. His mouth watered at what he imagined he would find there. It would take but a few minutes to find out he would have found out only Grogan had almost forcibly torn him away. That safe and what it contained was in his thoughts, bothered him, until he had to do something to drive it away.

There was but one way to do that, open the little safe and find out! So it was that an hour later Hooker was back in Judge Osgood's library. He opened the outer safe a second time without any trouble at all, but the little one bothered him considerably. He worked a quarter of an hour; he sweat with anxiety, stopping every few minutes to look towards the library door. In an hour or two it would begin to get light, and he wanted to be far away from the spot before that happened.

His patience was rewarded at last. The combination of the little safe yielded to his deft fingers. He had removed the glove from that hand and, after opening the door of the safe, carefully wiped away all traces of finger-marks with his handkerchief, before looking in.

The little safe was empty! Not a jewel nor a bank note in it! Nothing but two bundles of papers, which Hooker thrust aside after making certain there was no money concealed in the folds.

He had been cheated, played with! Anger made the veins on his face swell out. He tried to find a secret compartment in the safe, but his experience in such matters soon told him there was not a possibility of that. He closed the little safe, after wiping off all finger-marks, and angrily slammed the door of the outer safe. It shut with a snap that startled him. He shut off the dark lantern, went after a moment, opened the library door, and looked down the hallway. Every thing was quiet. He heathought him of the possibility of finger-marks on the door of the larger safe and returned and wiped it all over carefully, restored the handkerchief to his pocket, and started to leave.

The humidor on the Judge's desk caught his eye. Grogan hadn't even bought him the cigar he had promised! Hooker went quickly to the desk, opened the lid of the humidor and grabbed a handful of the cigars which he was stuffing into his pocket when a voice shouted at him:

"What are you doing? Stop that!"

He whirled about. In the library door stood Judge Osgood, thin and frail, a bathrobe about him, a stout, heavy cane in his hands. He picked up a paper, tossed a dime to the clerk, and ran out of the store, forgetting his aches and pains.

His eyes were still fastened on the screaming headlines as he walked hastily back to the apartment: "JUDGE OSGOOD MURDERED" shrieked the streamer. "EMINENT JURIST BEATEN TO DEATH AND STRANGLED IN HIS OWN HOME," said one headline, while another proclaimed: "MAGISTRATE MOFFETT WANTED BY THE POLICE. TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS REWARD FOR INFORMATION LEADING TO HIS ARREST."

As soon as Mike had unlocked the door of his apartment he began to untie the rope that bound Judge Moffett jerked him to his feet, stuck his hat on his head and pulled him out of the room.

Jim Thorpe, reporter for the Press, leaned against Judge Erskine's bench in police court.

"Any news of Moffett yet?" he asked.

"No, nothing."

Even as the Judge spoke there was a commotion in the rear of the court room, a growing murmur of voices and startled exclamations as the outer door was pushed open and Mike Thomas entered holding the disheveled figure of Judge Moffett by the arm.

"I'll rest a bit and have a smoke," said Mike, reaching in his pocket. The package he brought out was entirely empty. He then searched Judge Moffett's pockets for a cigarette. Finding none he looked down upon him with hurt scorn.

"Gee, you wouldn't even have a cigarette on you?"

He got his hat and started for the door.

"Don't do anything rash till I get back, fella, will you? Just think things over. That's all you gotta do—just think things over."

Mike, his muscles and bones tired and aching still from the terrible beating he had received at the hands of the gangsters, climbed painfully down the two flights of steps and down to the corner cigar and newsstand.

He asked for four packs of cigarettes and some matches, gave the clerk a dollar bill. He got his change and had started for the door when a pile of evening newspapers caught his eyes with their scare headlines. He stopped dead, an expression of intense surprise and excitement on his face. He picked up a paper, tossed a dime to the clerk, and ran out of the store, forgetting his aches and pains.

His eyes were still fastened on the screaming headlines as he walked hastily back to the apartment: "JUDGE OSGOOD MURDERED" shrieked the streamer. "EMINENT JURIST BEATEN TO DEATH AND STRANGLED IN HIS OWN HOME," said one headline, while another proclaimed: "MAGISTRATE MOFFETT WANTED BY THE POLICE. TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS REWARD FOR INFORMATION LEADING TO HIS ARREST."

As soon as Mike had unlocked the door of his apartment he began to untie the rope that bound Judge Moffett jerked him to his feet, stuck his hat on his head and pulled him out of the room.

Jim Thorpe, reporter for the Press, leaned against Judge Erskine's bench in police court.

"Any news of Moffett yet?" he asked.

"No, nothing."

Even as the Judge spoke there was a commotion in the rear of the court room, a growing murmur of voices and startled exclamations as the outer door was pushed open and Mike Thomas entered holding the disheveled figure of Judge Moffett by the arm.

Mike Thomas suddenly jerked himself free of Mike, seized the latter by the arm and started dragging him up the aisle towards the judge's bench.

"Come on, you," he said with a grin, chuckle, "I'm running things now."

People stood up in the court, crowded into the aisle and shouted of "Moffett!" "It's Moffett!" were heard, and the rapping of Judge Erskine's gavel failed to restore order.

As they reached the gate in the railing, Mike pushed Moffett ahead of him into the enclosure reserved for those having business in the court. Moffett again shook himself free of Mike and rushed upon the platform in front of the police judge's bench.

"Hello, Erskine, how are you?" he said, stretching out his hand.

Erskine looked coldly down at him, ignoring the proffered hand. In the awkward pause that followed, Moffett lost a little of his assurance.

"I'm filing a complaint against this man for assault with a deadly weapon, assault with intent to kill and with kidnapping."

COUNTY NURSE'S REPORT

Figures presented by the county nurse before the county health units at Greencastle, Tuesday, May 9, show that the schools became a very definite part of the health program during the month of April.

The threatened epidemic in the north part of the county called for a close check-up on all suspicious cases, making necessary visits to eighteen schools and the inspection of 204 pupils. Seven pupils were excluded from school and 22 children of preschool age were given special health supervision in the homes. Notes were sent to parents of eight pupils. With the close of the township schools the spread of the disease is virtually at an end.

Vision tests were given fourteen pupils and two were taken to the doctor for re-examination of eyes. The question of securing glasses is of much concern as it is only through the kindness of outside organizations and individuals that much needed glasses have been secured for a number of children.

A total of 68 visits were made to homes in the interest of the various activities of the health program. Included in this number were three visits to new mothers; six to non-communicable cases; seven to tubercular patients. Four adults and nine infants were the recipients of special health supervision. Cod liver oil was furnished five undernourished children. In all cases, advice is given in the care of the patient and where necessary, instruction on the safeguarding of the family from contagion or infection. Three children were taken to the Riley hospital clinics. Hereafter more children will be given treatment at the county hospital and fewer will be sent to the Riley hospital. Orders will be made by the juvenile judge.

On behalf of nursing activities Miss Miller made 31 visits, held 43 office interviews, attended three meetings and made seven social service visits.

Twenty-five children from Washington, Franklin and Greencastle townships were treated at the eight Kivans dental clinics held during the month of April. These clinics are proving a wonderful aid to the county health program.

On May 24, Dr. Style of Indianapolis will be at the county hospital for another free tuberculosis clinic. Since 1925 these clinics have been a feature of the county health program and have been the means of discovering many defects and deficiencies. The greatest work of those who fight tuberculosis is not so much curative as preventive.

Probation work conducted by the county nurse under the direction of Judge Donner included the filing of three applications for admittance to the Riley hospital, four investigations of neglected children, three investigations of incorrigible children and one investigation of a dependent child. One child was made the ward of the board of children's guardians and placed in the Methodist home for children at Lebanon. Eighteen visits were made with Mrs. Blanche Feeley from the state board of charities, to mothers receiving mothers allowances.

SPEEDWAY NEWS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 15.—An ex-newsboy wants to become a head line. A. B. "Deacon" Litz peddled papers in Dubois, Pa., to earn the price of his first race car and now he is a veteran driver again entered in the annual 500-mile automobile race at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway here on May 30.

Several times he could almost see his name bannered and shouted from his hometown news corner and, the other news corners of the world, but fate slapped him down as he was riding high wide and handsome towards victory.

In 1929 he went into the lead at seventeen miles and gathered all of the extra prize money for fifty laps before he was forced out by motor trouble and the late Ray Keech won. The famous six car jam caught him in 1930 when Billy Arnold won, and he was riding well in second place when but eighteen laps to go in 1931 when he smacked a fall before catching

WHY CULTIVATE A GARDEN

Many people erroneously believe that the main purpose in cultivating garden plants is to protect them from weeds. Weeds are bad enough and certainly need to be discouraged, but if there were no weeds to be dug out daily, the intelligent gardener would have to find other means for stirring the soil about his plants at regular intervals. Thus, although unwelcome, their place in the soil is in a sense justified.

Weeds are the chief enemies of our garden plants. Their ancestors have been battling with the farmer for thousands of years and only the most resourceful have escaped annihilation. They are more aggressive than garden plants and quite capable of overcoming unprotected plants. In the many centuries during which weeds have been striving for a place among cultivated plants, they have been fitting themselves for the position. They are able to spring up quickly, to grow rapidly, to survive cold, to endure soil, to get along with a minimum of moisture, if necessary, and to produce an abundance of seeds for the next crop. Allowed to grow with the garden plants, they are detrimental in that they cut off the light from them and absorb the water and dissolved food materials for plant growth.

On the other hand, weeds are of value because they harbor insect and fungous pests that thrive on cultivated crops, and by their very abundance hinder the gathering of the harvest. By obliging us to stir the soil, through the rooting out of their existence, they make it a better place for the plants to live. Roots, as well as the surface ground, require air; and tilling the soil admits air. By loosening the earth, through the process of eliminating weeds, the gardener makes it easier for the roots of plants to spread about and aids in frustrating the plans of cutworms, grubs, and other enemies that lurk in the underground world.

Stirring the soil is of utmost importance since it enables the ground to retain moisture. Water evaporates rapidly from a compact soil but remains for a long time in one covered with any loose material. This is illustrated through the fact that the underside of boards or stones resting on the soil are always damp. Loose material, such as leaves and straw, act in the same way. In winter the farmer protects his plants with straw and leaves, but in the summer he loosens the soil.

Weeds or no weeds, the best advice to a gardener is to stir the soil in the garden after every rain.

Louis Schneider who was the victor, "Deacon," so nicknamed by his school mates because of his bulky solemn appearance, ran his first race at the age of sixteen with a "tin lizzie" that newspaper pennies bought. He found no pot of gold at the end of his dusty, dirt track rainbow and took up the more remunerative profession of railroad fireman.

Through the long nights and torrid days of heaving coal into a flaming fire box, he dreamed of returning to his first love—automobile racing. For "Deacon" not only liked speed but was speedy. In high school he could run the 100 yards in ten seconds flat and often performed at benefits for firemen.

He again amassed money to return to racing and has been at it ever since supplementing its thrills occasionally with piloting his own plane.

Litz is the heaviest, heavy footer in racing. He tips the scales at 225 pounds and to balance the books this year will have the smallest riding mechanic at the track, little Jimmy Albrecht who weighs but 87 pounds and is a race driver, aviator, glider expert and outboard motor boat racer in his own rights.

BILLY GETS ENGINE'S GOAT

BOONVILLE, Ill., (UP)—Billy, patriarch of a large herd of goats at the Catherine Roetzel farm here, is a nuisance to Southern railroad engineers.

Sometimes the herd gets onto the right-of-way. Invariably, it is said, when Billy sees an approaching train he drives the herd to safety, then goes back to defy the train himself.

Knowing how goat hair clutters up machinery, the engineers stop their trains and wait for Miss Roetzel to coax Billy off the track with a leaf of tobacco. He is like a lamb when she feeds him tobacco.

Miss Roetzel raises goats, the Ozark breed, as a hobby and a business. She sells most of them to mine rescuers, because they keep the underbrush neatly eaten away from the surface. Sometimes a team buys one for a mascot. There are 150 in the herd.

RAFFLES WAS ONCE AN ARMY NUISANCE

EL PASO, Tex., (UP)—Florida officers have the sympathy of R. W. Lankford, sergeant in the A. E. F., and who during his war experiences was jailer for Harry Sidmor, arrested and convicted at Miami, Fla., in connection with a half million dollar jewel theft.

"We had him in confinement on charges of desertion seven different times," recalled Lankford. "He was the smoothest individual I ever saw."

Lankford recognized Sidmor from pictures and newspaper accounts of the $500,000 jewel robbery. He said Sidmor was taken into the army from New York, and that once he broke a pair of handcuffs.

CONTROL DOES IT

BILL THOMAS

Bill Thomas, 25-year-old right hander with the Indianapolis Indians, is the shining proof of what control of the ball will do for the ambitious young pitcher. Although Thomas has a beautiful curve ball and a fast one, control and plenty of confidence are his main assets. He goes into each game sold on the idea that he has the edge on every slugger in the opposing line-up.

In his first four games of the 1933 season, Bill pitched 40 innings, 35 of them scoreless, allowed but seven runs, 32 hits and gave but five bases on balls. The records show two wins and one loss, but as usual records fail to tell the whole story.

On Opening Day at Perry Stadium, Bill pitched a 14-inning 3-0 tie against Milwaukee. He blanked the Brewers in the last 11 frames. A few days later against Kansas City he boosted the consecutive scoreless innings to 18, but lost the game 3-0 when the Blues got to him for all their runs in the eighth. Five days later he beat the Mauling Millers 2-1, the run scored resulting from the Tribe's infield missing an easy double play. Then at Kansas City, Thomas took matters in hand on the Blue's opening day and blanked them 4-0 allowing but six hits.

Wisconsin Milk Strike Scenes

At left some of the 400 Wisconsin farmers who plunged through a barrage of tear gas laid down by deputy sheriffs Sunday near East Troy, dumped 30,000 pounds of milk and then went on to besiege a nearby plant. Striking dairy farmers seized Chicago-bound trucks and emptied their contents on the concrete highway.
