CLAIR BROWN GIVEN CHANCE FOR RECOVERY

GREENCASTLE BOY PARTLY CONSCIOUS IN HOSPITAL
AT COLUMBUS

HAS FRACTURED SKULL

Injuries Confined to Face and Head,
Members of Family Report
Tuesday

Clair Brown, 23 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Brown, 523 Anderson street, seriously injured in an automobile accident near Columbus Sunday night, was given an even chance for recovery Tuesday, members of his family here were informed by hospital attendants.

Brown suffered a fracture of the skull, a fractured cheek bone and fractured nose, a bad cut across one eyebrow, and other cuts about the face and head. It was said his injuries were confined entirely to his face and head.

The young accident victim partly regained consciousness Monday night and brought the first hope that he may recover from his injuries. His condition is still very critical, however.

It was believed the accident occurred when a front tire on his Ford sedan blew out as he was enroute home from Louisville. The car went out of control and rebounded from one side to the other, of a steel bridge, being reduced to a mass of wreckage.

HAMM KIDNAPING JURY REPORTED DEADLOCKED

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 28, (UP)—Four Touhy gangsters were acquitted by a jury in federal court here today on charges of violating the Lindbergh kidnaping law. The jury deliberated more than 15 hours.

ST. PAUL, Nov. 28, (UP)—The jury in the William Hamm, Jr., kidnaping case was deadlocked today.

More than 15 hours after receiving the case against four Chicago beer gangsters, the two women and ten men made no move toward reporting a verdict at 10 a. m., when Judge M. J. Joyce reconvened court.

The jurors, after spending the night at the St. Paul hotel, across the street from the city hall-courthouse, returned to the jury room adjoining the courtroom and resumed their deliberations.

Judge Joyce began convening a special term of federal court, and the four defendants remained locked in their cells under heavy guard.

MISS STEELE TO FACE COURT NEXT MONDAY

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 28—Arraignment of Miss Cora Steele, Terre Haute school teacher, on a charge of extracting bonds valued at $25,000 from a safety box maintained by the state teachers' retirement fund, was set yesterday for Monday, Dec. 4.

Miss Steele, a former trustee of the fund, was indicted last week. She was arrested at Terre Haute, brought here and was released on $10,000 bond pending arraignment.

The fact that two $10,000 bonds and a $5,000 bond had been taken from the box was discovered several weeks ago. The $5,000 bond had been traced to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, where Miss Steele's mother and brother live. One of the bonds of the large denomination has been traced to Boston and the other to New York.

Governor Paul V. McNutt in commenting yesterday on the disappearance of the bonds said a recent check had shown that many of the bonds held in the fund have become worthless during the depression.

A judgement of $50 was returned in favor of the plaintiff in circuit court Monday by Judge Wilbur S. Donner in the damage suit of William D. Collier of Bainbridge against Christopher E. Hanner. The suit was the result of an automobile collision near the residence of Dexter and Earl Harigan April 29, 1930.

Collier brought suit July 19, asking $50 from Knauer for damage to his automobile in a collision. Evidence was heard Tuesday by Judge Donner, witnesses including Earl Evans, A. J. Clark, Marcus Brown, Dexter and Earl Harigan, and Harlan H. Hurst.

Presley A. Collier, 81 years old, a former judge of the thirteenth judicial circuit, was attorney for the plaintiff, while Albert E. Williams was attorney for Knauer.

Poultry School To Be Jan. 23

County Agent E. W. Baker has announced that a poultry school has been secured for Putnam county for Jan. 23. The committee, Glendyn Irwin, chairman, Madison township; Mrs. Zella Clearwaters, Cloverdale township; John Sears, Marion township, and Cyril Johnston, Russell township, met with Leon Todd, Purdue poultryman, recently and made plans for the school. The school will be held in the court house at Greencastle.

In view of the part which poultry is now playing in meeting family expenses in Putnam county, this school should be of particular interest to all who wish to get more profit from the flock this coming year. A large attendance is expected at this school, which will be free.

Poultrymen and women of Putnam county have organized a county wide organization and have already held some very interesting meetings. They plan to continue this work, bringing speakers here to discuss poultry and their problems. All poultry-raisers are invited to attend these meetings.

"If you will come in the office, or send a card with your name and address, your name will be put on the poultry mailing list—and you will receive notices of meetings and helpful hints," said Mr. Baker. Also watch the Farm News columns of The Banner each week.

LYNCHING IS CONDONED BY GOV. ROLPH

WILL PARDON ANY MEMBER OF CALIFORNIA MOB WHO IS ARRESTED

HART RITES ON MONDAY

Bodies of Kidnapers Lynched By San Jose Mob Remain In City Morgue

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 28, (UP)—Its lust for revenge satiated, the mob that Sunday night lynched the killers of Brooke Hart, 22, today resumed the quiet life that characterized this community before young Hart was kidnaped and slain.

Bodies of the kidnapers, Thomas Thurmond and John Holmes, were in the city morgue. The battered old county jail and two scarred elms in St. James park where the men were hanged remained to testify to the mob spirit that seized the city.

Hart, son of Alex J. Hart, owner of San Jose's largest department store, was buried late yesterday. It was the finding of his mutilated body in San Francisco bay, 17 days after he disappeared, that caused San Jose to revert to the old vigilante days and take justice into its own hands.

Ringleaders of the lynchers will go unpunished. This became certain when Governor James Rolph, Jr., brooking nationwide condemnation, publicly announced he condoned the hangings and would pardon any man arrested.

Rolph cancelled an engagement at Boise, Idaho, because "conditions in my state now are very unsettled, making it unwise for me to leave."

Doubt was expressed by city and county officials that any of the lynchers would be arrested. They insisted none of the leaders had been identified and that action, if any, must await recovery of Sheriff William Emig. Emig was seriously injured when the shrieking mob battered its way into the jail, seized Thurmond and Holmes and dragged them to the park.

The sheriff was non-committal. The district attorney said he could not take action unless Emig ordered. He expressed the belief the sheriff's views would coincide with Governor Rolph's.

Meantime would-be heroes proclaimed themselves leaders of the mob. Most of them were boys in their late teens. They proudly told how they incited the mob, how they provided rope for the executions, and how they braved tear gas bombs and clubs to break into the jail. Despite newspaper photographs proving otherwise, authorities denied the youths were among the lynchers and ascribed their stories to a desire to boast.

CONFESSION REPUDIATED BY DR. WYNEKOOP

MURDER CASE Pondered By COOK COUNTY GRAND JURY AT CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Nov. 28, (UP)—The jail physician was called today to the cell of Dr. Alice Wynkoop after the jail matron indicated the prisoner's physical condition was becoming worse. Dr. Wynkoop, charged with murder in connection with the mysterious murder of her daughter-in-law, is suffering from a bronchial cough and high blood pressure.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28, (UP)—Upon two repudiated confessions and a maze of circumstantial evidence, state prosecutors today sought the indictment of Dr. Alice Wynkoop, elderly physician, and son, Earle, on charges of killing Rheta Gardner Wynkoop, the son's unwanted wife.

Today's meeting of the grand jury was last active session of the present panel. Dougherty charged that Dr. Alice shot and chloroformed her titan haired young daughter-in-law and that Earle planned the crime, purchased cartridges, taught his mother to shoot his revolver and incited her to the deed.

Both suspects were held in the county jail on warrants charging murder. Rheta's body was found on an operating table in the basement of the Wynkoop family's outmoded mansion on the west side a week ago. As though for a medical examination, it had been stripped of clothing. A bullet wound in the back and presence of chloroform in the body explained the death.

Subsequently Dr. Alice signed a statement admitting that she administered chloroform to the girl. When Rheta died from the chloroform the physician shot the dead body, the statement said. Dr. Alice first ascribed her daughter-in-law's death to a prowler's bullet.

Use Gas Tax For Highways

COUNTY BOND RETIREMENT IS SECONDARY, McNUTT
POINTS OUT

"Counties which have used their share of the state gasoline tax to retire bonds, can not expect to have the federal government finance their county road maintenance program as a public works project."

This ruling was emphasized by Governor Paul V. McNutt when he directed attention to the turning down of such proposals by the governor's unemployment relief committee, which takes persons from poor relief and puts them on the federal pay roll.

In citing the refusal to do county road maintenance where gasoline tax funds have not been used for that purpose, Governor McNutt laid down two rules for state gas tax fund use: First, highway maintenance, and second, retirement of debts.

CLOSE TO $5,000 WILL BE PAID
OUT IN CHECKS BY LOCAL OFFICERS

FURTHER APPROVALS SOUGHT

Foreman of Various Projects to Meet
Workmen Saturday to Hand
Out Checks

First distribution of checks to workmen employed in Putnam county under the federal civil works relief plan, will be made Saturday by foremen on the various projects, C. C. Gautier, civil works administrator and disbursing officer, stated Tuesday.

It is estimated that close to $5,000 in checks will be distributed by the foremen to men working in every township in Putnam county. It will be the first time in months that many of the men have earned pay.

Foremen on the various projects will put their payrolls in the hand of the certifying officer, C. C. Huestis, not later than Thursday noon, and he will check the lists and turn them over to the disbursing officer for further checking and making out of checks. The checks will be given to the foreman for distribution at designated points Saturday morning.

Each workman is earning 50 cents an hour and works a total of 30 hours each week.

C. C. Huestis was in Indianapolis Tuesday seeking approval by the state civil works board of additional projects in this county. As soon as these are approved additional men will be put to work. More than 200 began work Monday.

TROOPS GUARD FOUR MEN CHARGED WITH LYNCHING

SALISBURY, Md., Nov. 28 (UP)—State militiamen threw more than 100 tear gas bombs today at a crowd of some 2,000 persons who threatened to mob the army here in which were four men arrested on charges of lynching a negro.

The barrage turned the village street into a replica of a World war village, with citizens fleeing the heavy yellow fumes and soldiers themselves suffering from its effects. Finally the entire street was cleared of pedestrians.

PRINCESS ANNE, Md., Nov. 28, (UP)—In the darkness before dawn today state troopers burst into dozens of homes in this sleeping hamlet seeking the nine ringleaders of a mob which lynched a young negro last month.

Four of the alleged ringleaders were arrested. The other five vanished, with the steel-helmeted soldiers searching all buildings, patrolling roads, and preparing to penetrate nearby woods.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie ordered the soldiers here in his vigorous campaign to apprehend the lynchers of George Armwood, negro who was hanged after he confessed attacking an aged white woman. Ritchie's orders were diametrically opposed to the statements of Gov. James Rolph, Jr., of California, who approved the lynching of two kidnapers-slayers at San Jose Sunday night.

After pounding on doors, bursting in those that were not opened immediately, and searching many possible hiding places, the troopers arrested the following citizens:

Irving Adkins, a special policeman, William Hearn, a farmer, "Rusty" Heath, no occupation, William Thompson.

They were held under guard for arraignment before a magistrate here, whereupon they were to be taken by the troopers to Baltimore. The soldiers, meantime, pressed the search for the others.

DEFENDS MONETARY PROGRAM

NEW YORK, Nov. 28, (UP)—The Roosevelt monetary policy was harkened by the spirited defense of a Catholic priest today after three national organizations had denounced it and demanded a showdown.

Seven thousand persons jammed the auditorium of the Hippodrome last night to hear Father Charles E. Coughlin, militant priest, demand that the nation "stop Roosevelt from being stopped."

At Carnegie hall, a few blocks up-town, a smaller crowd heard an American Federation of Labor executive demand revelation of the administration's monetary plan. Speakers for the American Legion and the Crusaders insisted that "inflation be staved off."

Denying inflation, and declaring he "could never be an inflationist," Father Coughlin averred from his plea for faith in the administration's policy to a vigorous attack upon Wall Street and Professor O. M. W. Sprague, who resigned as treasury adviser last week.

Criticism of the administration leveled by former Governor Alfred E. Smith, Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor, and Sprague was "for the purpose of perpetuation of the seat, not of capitalism, but of Mergerism," the priest charged.

"Inflation means the printing of limitless paper money without any substantial amount of metal money to back it up," he said. "Inflation is a trick to scare us. No one wants it; all we want is the normalization of the gold dollar—of the American dollar so that it will contain 100 cents and not 165 cents."

While the clergyman made no reference to his recent criticism of Smith, Smith's name was booed when it was shouted from the audience.

Additional thousands jammed the sidewalks outside the Hippodrome and listened to Father Coughlin through loud speakers.

Woll sounded the keynote of the second meeting when he termed the gathering of representatives of the Federation, the Legion and the anti-inflation group "an active alliance for the presentation of sound national monetary policies and the safeguarding of fixed incomes, savings and protective funds of the great masses of our people."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Quinn of La Jolla, who were recently married and who have just returned from Florida, were Sunday guests of Miss Eva Williams of Finca. Mrs. Quinn formerly was Mrs. Robert Williams of Crawfordville.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON VOTERS' REGISTRATION

The following questions and answers on the new voters' registration law enacted by the 1933 Indiana General Assembly and designed to clarify in the voters' minds the actual mechanics of registering:

Q.—Who is in charge of voters' registration?

A.—The clerk of the county in which the voter resides.

Q.—Does the clerk have deputies who may register voters?

A.—Yes. City and town clerks and township assessors are deputies ex-officio, and the county clerk is empowered to appoint any number of additional deputies he may deem necessary to facilitate registration.

Q.—How are the additional deputies selected and by whom?

A.—Deputy registration officers are to be chosen in equal numbers from the ranks of the Republican and Democrat parties. These appointees must, according to the law, be chosen by the clerk from lists of nominees prepared by the Democratic county chairman and the Republican county chairman in each county.

Q.—Must the deputies selected be notary publics?

A.—No. The act of deputizing under oath by the county clerk, qualifies the several deputies to register voters. The seal of a notary is not required for registration of voters.

Q.—When should county chairmen submit their lists of nominees for deputies?

A.—Not later than Jan. 4, 1934, and thereafter at least ten days prior to the first day of subsequent registration periods.

Q.—When does the first registration begin and when does it close?

A.—Jan. 15, 1934; closes April 9, 1934, twenty-nine days before the primary. The registration period is reopened May 15, 1934, and closes Oct. 8, 1934, twenty-nine days before the election.

Q.—Is the registration permanent or must a voter re-register before each primary and election?

A.—A voter is not required to re-register unless he changes his residence address within the county, in which case, he must notify the county clerk of the new residence address; if a voter moves to another county he must register again in the county of new residence.

Q.—Where do the voters register?

A.—At the office of the county clerk, city clerk, town clerk, town or township assessor, or any additional locations designated by the county clerk.

Q.—If a voter fails to register between Jan. 15, 1934 and April 9, 1934, will he be able to vote in the primary election?

A.—No.

Q.—If a voter fails to register in the primary and is deprived of his vote in the primary thereby, may he, by registering in the second registration period, May 15, 1934—Oct. 8, 1934 be entitled to vote in the election?

A.—Yes.

NERVOUS WOMEN

Take Lydia E. Finkham's

Vegetable Compound

"I am so nervous it seems as though I should fly." "My nerves are all on edge." "I wish I were dead." How often have we heard these expressions from some woman who has become so tired and run-down that her nerves can no longer stand the strain. No woman should allow herself to drift into this condition if she can help herself. She should give Lydia E. Finkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. For nearly sixty years women have taken this wonderful tonic to give them renewed strength and vigor.

98 out of every 100 women who report to us say that they are benefited by this medicine. Buy a bottle from your druggist today... and watch the results.

CHAPTER VII

MELEE AT THE BURNS VILLA

"Of course we have to consider the placing of a child very carefully, Miss Burns, and frankly the committee is a little dubious in your case. You've figured in the newspapers... And this morning's headlines were not too... Mrs. Ward hesitated and coughed gently.

"Mrs. Ward," said Lola, quickly. "I had known the gentleman you mean but a short time—merely a social friendship, and in trying to help him I found out what he really is. If you'll excuse me, we won't discuss it further."

"Certainly, dear," and little Miss Talley smiled sweetly.

"Just when did you decide to adopt a child?" asked Mrs. Ward.

"I'm going to be honest with you: it was just a whim at first, but, gosh, when I held that little fellow in my arms this afternoon, and knew he didn't have a home, and that I could give him one, and love him—why, it just seemed the only worthwhile thing in life."

"I think you'll make a nice little mother," said Miss Talley.

"I'd try. I'll try my best. If I failed to make that baby happy I'd die. He looked up at me so cute, as if he really loved me, for myself and not well, not just because I'm Lola Burns. Do you see what I mean?"

"Yes, I think I do, dear," said Mrs. Ward, taking out paper and pencil. "Now, let's see—as to your immediate family. Is there anybody besides your father?"

"Yes, my brother. That's all. I'm sorry he isn't here now. He's away on business."

Winters, who had been waiting in the doorway coughed. "He's here, Miss. Your brother's just returned. He's putting his car in the garage."

Lola arose quickly. "I—I must meet him. Will you excuse me?"

She hurried to the back door which Pops was holding open while Brother, muttering drunkenly, a fat and pasty slob of about thirty, lurched up the steps, followed by a gum-chewing, tight-skirted and over-ripe brunette, typical of her ancient profession.

Lola's eyes blazed with anger, and her tongue followed suit. "Why, you good-for-nothing, low-down—"

"There's no use getting excited," said Pops, quickly, as he sought to steady his son's steps.

"Lola, if you're that serious, I'm just nuts enough about you to try marriage again. Come on." He put his arms about her, but she pushed him away, almost shuddering.

Space Hanlon was still on the porch arguing with the reporters about the story of Lola's adopting a baby when a taxi drove up and discharged two fares. The Marquis di Binelli di Pisa and a seedy but legal looking individual.

The Marquis was grim and determined as he rang the bell. Space stepped up to him.

"You look like you're headed somewhere, Hugo."

"I'm headed for Miss Burns with my lawyer. I shall then call upon Mr. Brogan. And later I shall come to see you."

Space seemed suddenly to be overtaken with excitement. "But listen, Marquis. Brogan's in there. You don't want to go in there now."

"So much the better," said the Marquis, and swept inside as Winters opened the door.

Space turned to the reporters. "Get onto this, you mugs! Here's a real yarn!"

They all piled in in the wake of the Marquis who, directed by Winters, made directly for the library, from which emanated voices loud in argument.

"But look, Lola, look at me!" Brogan was saying. "Get some sense into that dome of yours."

"No, Jim. And listen, you can really be his uncle."

The Marquis di Binelli di Pisa at this instant flung the door open and walked into the library, followed by his lawyer and the reporters.

"Just as I thought! The two of you together!" he exclaimed.

Lola all but barked at him: "How dare you come here after the way you talked to me!"

"I came with my lawyer. He will talk from now on."

Brogan's jaw squared. "Listen Spumoni, who are you yelling at?"

"You, Mr. Brogan, you!"

Lola stamped her foot furiously. "Get out of my house!"

"I won't contaminate myself much longer! I just want to inform you that I am filing suit for defamation of character."

Brogan stepped in front of him. "I've been annoyed with your face for a long time."

"Jim, wait," cried Lola, but her plea was too late. Brogan's fist

"This is my Uncle John. Mr. John Kelsey," said Lola.

"Here's Sonny Boy—C.O.D., said the girl accompanying him, more than a little squiffed herself.

"Who are you? Where did you come from?" asked Lola, hollowly.

"Name's Nellie," said Brother, thickly. "Nice lil' girl. Good bet for pitchers. Goin' introduce her t' Gillette."

"You can't come in here now, either of you," Lola tried to push them out of the kitchen. "Pops, please get him upstairs, the back way."

Aided by Nellie, Pops got the voluble Brother headed up the back stairs and Lola returned to her guests and made excuses for her brother—he was tired out from his trip.

"Really, Mrs. Ward," said Lola, "not one hundredth of the those stories they print about me are true. It's what the publicity man at the studio thinks is good publicity. I told them this morning I wouldn't stand for it any longer. I'm just my natural, simple self, with my dogs and my books and my fireside."

She stopped in confusion as Brogan's voice called from the hallway.

"Hey, Lola! Where are you, sugar? I got the afternoon off. What do you say we tie into a shaker of cocktails and—"

He caught sight of her guests and stopped speaking.

"Why, it's Uncle!" cried Lola, and got up quickly and ran to him.

"Darling! Isn't Auntie with you?" She didn't give him time to respond, but turned back to her guests.

"This is my Uncle John. Mr. John Kelsey. Mrs. Ward and Miss Talley, Uncle John. He always comes in that way. Such a joker. You big mennis, why didn't you bring Auntie."

She managed to push Brogan into the library before he could give away her little hoax.

"Why do you have to come in shooting off your face like that?"

"Well, I... Who are the dowagers? What's that gang of reporters doing here?"

"They're two nice old ladies from the founding home. How do you think I'm going to adopt that cute little baby when you start broadcasting like a sailor?"

"Lola! You're not really serious about that?"

"Yes, He's beautiful. I saw him today, Jim. He's got a button nose and the tiniest mouth."

landed on the Marquis' chin and the latter stumbled back against his lawyer, both landing against the door. Brogan pursued and landed another blow. The reporters, gathered listening outside the door, were split asunder as the door flew open and the Marquis came flying out, followed by his lawyer, Brogan and Lola.

The Marquis, who had rolled on the floor, was up in a flash, his cane raised to strike when Brogan closed with him. The fracas brought Pops, and Nellie, Brother's San Diego girl friend into the scene from the bar.

Lola ran to the ladies from the orphanage. "Don't pay any attention to this, please." Then she saw Space Hanlon and appealed to him: "Space, don't stand there! Do something! Pops, stop it! Call the police!"

"We can get a better view from in there," said Space, to the two ladies and they followed timidly for a little ways. Brogan and the Marquis were milling about the table which threatened to be upset.

Lola ran distractedly about crying: "You've got to listen to me! You've got to stop it!" but nobody paid any attention to her. She saw the two ladies from the orphanage, edged over to them and declared: "I don't know any of these people, really!" and quickly edged away again as Brother came into the dining room wanting to know: "Who started this fight?"

Two young janes married to them guys? The two ladies started back in horror. Mrs. Ward seized Miss Talley by the arm and they struck out for the open.

Brogan got out from under the table, up on his feet and landed a blow that sent the Marquis sprawling on the floor. "Have you had enough?" he asked as the gruff cameraman rushed in for a take.

The lawyer ran in and helped his client to his feet. "There's assault and damages in this, plenty," he said.

"Listen, you little rat, just start suing me!"

"Get out of here, everybody!" cried Lola, running out into the hall. As they scrambled for the front door, Lola looked about for Mrs. Ward and Miss Talley. "Where are those ladies?" she asked, running up to Loretta.

"They's just done gone, Miss Lola." Loretta rolled her eyes towards the front door.

Indiana Stomach Sufferer Eats Anything Now

After suffering for 16 years from stomach disorders, which caused him to eat anything, Mr. Eda P. Crell, 515 So. Logan St., South Bend, Ind., reports he was completely healed by a simple home treatment. He says since taking The Unga Treatment he can sleep, and eat without worry about his stomach. He wants all other sufferers to know about his experience.

L. M. STEVENS, Druggist.

By of Chihuahua divorces for American couples is questioned by Judge P. R. Price, 41st District Court. He granted Mrs. Anna Belle Hall an injunction restraining her husband, C. C. Hall, from obtaining a Juarez divorce.

Attorney W. H. Fryer, representing Mrs. Hall, said Judge Price's ruling does not affect the legality of divorces granted to couples who agree to the decree.

Hall's attorney appealed Judge Price's ruling.

BEHIND the SCENES in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — Studio officials are in a state of jitters and thousands of dollars hang at stake until it is known whether Baby Leroy has contracted that familiar complaint of childhood, whooping cough.

There is no doubt that Hollywood's highest paid baby actor was exposed to the disease. Spunky McFarland, a fellow player in "Miss Fanny H. Stolen," broke right into whoops of the set.

But, by good fortune, Spunky was just finishing his part in the picture "Baby Leroy," on the other hand, works all the way through and has two more weeks before the camera. If he develops whooping cough, it will take the complaint six weeks to run its course. To suspend production for this time would cost Paramount thousands. And with Alice Brady borrowed from M-G-M too.

Oddly enough, officials at Columbia have the same kind of headache. Only over there, the trouble is poison oak and the production of "The Paul Street Boys" actually has had to suspend. Bruce Lyon, Jimmie Butler (the clever kid in "Only Yesterday") Jackie Searle and Frankie Darro all contracted poison oak on location. Both young Bruce's eyes are completely closed. Only George Breakston, 11-year-old star of the picture, escaped.

One of Broadway's better knowns, who came out to Hollywood but did not do so well, recently was taking a few cracks at the movies.

"You have to have something big to succeed on the screen," he said. "There are Clark Gable's big ears. Joe E. Brown's big mouth, Greta Garbo's big feet."

"Yes," interrupted a friend, "and then there's Mae West."

Even honeymoons have their difficult moments. When Frances Dee and Joel McCrea started to set up house-keeping in the two completed rooms of their new ranch home, they discovered that the heat wasn't on and it was too cold.

Since to workmen won't be through until Christmas, Joel went house-hunting and rented Greta Garbo's former home in Hollywood.

Then yesterday the studio wanted him to work late. He went to call Frances and had forgotten his new number. As it is private, and adamant telephone company refused to give it to him. In desperation, Joel jumped into his car and started to drive home during the dinner hour.

The cops tagged him for speeding on the way out and one on the return journey.

You can write finish to the reported romance between Mary Brian and Don Cook. Wonder if it has anything to do with the fact that Gwen Heller is leaving for New York soon. Which, of course, leaves Dick Powell on the loose again.

Poor Fifi Dorsay, Head over heels in love with Maurice Hill, she can't get away from the camera. Yesterday she moaned: "I've got to man, I've got the ring, I've got the license—but I can't get the time."

QUICK GLIMPSES
The Paramount rule about no cars on the lot seems to be definitely off as far as Marlene Dietrich is concerned. Originally, the studio made an exception so that little Maria could come through the gate without fear of kidnappers. But since then the Dietrich car has just kept on coming.

If Dorothy Dunbar saw Max Baer

in the north, it didn't take, for she is back in Beverly Hills... Carrying out Hollywood's tradition of divorced couples remaining friendly, Gloria Swanson paid a visit to Herbert Sornborn at the hospital... Both Lure Velez and Johnny Weissmuller are nipped. The studio wouldn't let him fly to Arizona over the week-end... Cableman when Alice Joyce and Clarence Brown went to the Dunes Club at Palm Springs Saturday night and found Clarence's ex, Ona Brown, already there. But that's Hollywood.

The distinguished looking man who took Claire Windsor to the Beverly Wilshire Sunday night was Lord Tenison... Some other couples the cameraman wanted to snap were the Countess Di Frasso and Lyle Talbot, Helen Mack and Carl Laemmle, Jr., Marion Nixon and Gene Raymond, Joan Bennett and Gene Markey, Joan Dale and Lew Schreiber, and Nelson Eddy and the lovely Mrs. Charles Ray. Thrill of the evening was when Gus Arnheim persuaded Bing Crosby to mount the platform and sing.

And the funnest football bet of the year was between Larry Fine and Mae Howard, two of the Ted Healy troupe. Larry took Oregon and wagered the top of his automobile against the two rear tires of Mae's car. What more, Larry paid off.

DID YOU KNOW—

That, even before she became a movie star, Mae West was offered $6,000 to live in a Pittsburgh hotel in the week of its opening?

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR ANNUAL INSPECTION CONTINUES

Annual inspection of Knights Templar bodies over the state which began Nov. 1, will be carried out this week in five Indiana cities under the new plan that has been adopted this year by J. Rufus Hinshaw, of Newcastle, the grand commander.

The commanderies of the state have been divided into ten groups of about six each in nearby territory and members of each attend the others' ceremonies. A grand officer has been assigned to each group to have general charge, and a local officer looks after fraternal relations and arrangements for the meetings.

Group No. 1 is on the schedule this week which calls for meetings at Terre Haute Tuesday night; Clinton, Wednesday; Brazil, Thursday; Greencastle, Friday, and Raper commandery of Indianapolis, Saturday. The inspection of Bloomington commandery, in the same group, will be held Monday night, Dec. 4.

Clyde E. Titus, of Indianapolis grand junior warden, is the member of the grand commandery in charge of this group and Heber H. Ellis, of Greencastle, looks after fraternal relations.

The Raper commandery inspection Saturday evening will be a homecoming affair, it is announced, and J. Lewis Bray, eminent commander, is assisting in the arrangements for this meeting, which is expected to be attended by Raper's full membership, together with guests from the other bodies.

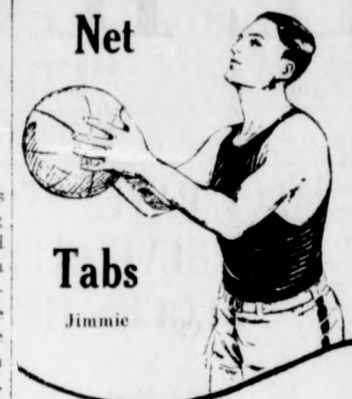

The new plan is having great success, Commander Hinshaw says, in the matter of visitation from other commanderies and with the presence of grand officers and other guests.

Elwood Barnard, of Greencastle, is the inspector general, an office he has filled for many years. The inspection is conducted on the order of the Temple, with a candidate, thus showing the actual work. The ceremonies at the first commandery in the group is taken as a model and the succeeding meetings strive for equal or better showings.

SEATTLE CUPID BUSY

SEATTLE (UP)—Better times have helped matrimony. More couples were married in King county October, 1933, than in October, 1932. This year's issuance of licenses reached a total of 330. Last year 240.

As DePauw will start its 1933-34 net schedule on December 5, we are devoting a part of our column this afternoon to information secured from the "head man" over at the Bowman gymnasium as follows:

Donovan "Tubby" Moffett, DePauw's head basketball coach and athletic director, announced today that he had cut the Tiger varsity squad to fifteen players for the season which opens next Tuesday evening when the Ball State netters from Muncie come here.

The athletes who will wear the Old Gold of DePauw during the hardwood campaign this winter are: Balsbaugh, North Manchester, forward; Bateman, Lawrenceburg, forward; Hickman, Newcastle, forward; Kinnally, Gary, forward; Miller, Converse, forward; Stone, Greencastle, forward; Isley, Edinburgh, center; Townsend, Indianapolis, center; Bollinger, Seymour, center; Hughbanks, Scottsburg, center; Britton, Peru, guard; Youngblood, Peru, guard; Lee, South Bend, guard; Moore, Greencastle, guard; Simpson, Tipton, guard.

Isley, the only regular left from last year, Balsbaugh and Simpson, reserves, are the only seniors on the squad. Consequently Moffett is by no means optimistic over prospects early in the season but hopes to have a strong combination on the floor after the Christmas holidays.

Intensive scrimmage sessions got underway today and will continue the remainder of the week during which time the Methodist mentor will drill the Tiger basketballers on plays to be used against Ball State.

In the group that compose the varsity we were especially interested in seeing the names of "Tuck" Stone and "Pete" Moore. Stone is a former Tiger Cub ace and Moore for several seasons was outstanding with the Brazil Red Devils. Now these two former high school rivals are teammates. Both are real basketball performers and we're expecting big things out of them on the Old Gold team the next three years.

Danville's Crimson Warriors form the opposition for Greencastle on the local high school gym floor tonight at 8 o'clock. There will be a preliminary at 7 p. m. and we believe both tilts will be mighty interesting to watch.

We are not sure but we think Coach Edmonson will start the same quintet that faced Brownsburg and Frankfort at the opening whistle last week. This lineup is Bee and Hutchison, for-

WAKARUSA HIGH SCHOOL SUSPENSION UPHOLD

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 28, (UP)—Suspension of Wakarusa high school from the Indiana High School Athletic Association was upheld today by the association board of control.

A petition for reinstatement of the school, suspended on charges that Walter Weldy, a student, played baseball with the school while schoolofficially ineligible, was considered the board at Bloomington Saturday. "It was clearly evident that the boy was allowed to participate in athletic contests while school officially ineligible and in the absence of evidence, the board voted to uphold the suspension order," Arthur Trester, commissioner of the I. A. A. said.

Wakarusa played in the state school basketball tournament last spring. The suspension, June, 1934, will prevent the school's participation in the association's tournament during the 1933-34 season.

As Meat Famine Looms

Cattle, sheep and hogs filled these trucks at the Chicago stockyards Monday. The men who are supposed to unload them were out on strike. Members of three unions, numbering 7,000 workers, walked out Sunday night. They demand a return to 1929 wage scales. A shortage of meat, to be felt in forty-eight hours, is feared unless a mediation board brings peace. The yards were still tied up Tuesday afternoon.
