Technicolor Musical Extravaganza!

"THIS IS AMERICA" — "ON GUARD" AND NEWS

AT CHATEAU -- SUNDAY THRU THURSDAY

SURPRISE! SURPRISE!

Randolph Scott and Gypsy Rose Lee saunter up to a riotous romance in "Belle of the Yukon," hilarious satire on life in the Frozen North. Co-starred with them are Dinah Shore and Bob Burns, and four add merriment to this lavish Technicolor musical. RKO Radio Releases.

Donus Masten
Writes Parents

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Masten received the following letter from their son Donus who is on the New Hebrides Islands with the Navy Supply Division. He has been there for 16 months, but they are expecting him home in the near future. The letter follows:

April 1, 1945
Easter Sunday

Dear Mom and Dad:

Happy Easter Sunday! Another Easter with no Easter lilies. I wonder if the weather has permitted them this year. Today's weather is typical April weather at home, it has rained continuously since around 9:30—that's when I woke up and it was raining then.

This is my Sunday off and as usual I have accomplished very little. I realize I should have gone to church services, but I just didn't have enough ambition to get up that early. Perhaps next year I can go with you.

If you have trouble following this writing just blame it on the boys who have all the tables occupied. I am in my bunk and using my pillow for a desk. I'll be alright if I can just stay awake.

Saw "Pop" Moran this morning and he may be back with us within the next few days. He had a cup of coffee with us and was very cheerful as always. He certainly enjoys this Navy life, but how he can be beyond me.

Got another letter from you Friday, your mail has been coming through very good the past week.

From what you say Jerry is getting to be quite a little man. It will be good for him to spend his vacation with you, and he should be able to help you a great deal. Seems I was doing several things when I was his age. Does he like to fish? Guess he wouldn't be a Masten if he didn't, Ha!

Big ships don't scare me! I'll take my chances on any of them just to get home. There's nothing about water to be afraid of, especially now. It's just as safe as a train trip.

I don't want anyone to do something just to make things easy for me. I'll get by without too much help. Anyway, it isn't good to get things too easy. I'm planning on taking a trip to Danville when I get home and get all my courses straightened out. I have never gotten my credits. I'm not getting any younger and don't want to waste too much time in getting started.

Glad Russell Buis came through safe, he surely has had his share. I doubt if the boys in Europe would want to trade places with him, they had to fight from one foxhole to another and their gains were measured in yards. The news continues to sound very good, but, still the fight continues.

Guess this will be all for now, take good care of yourself and please don't worry about me.

Your Son,

Don

ARMY ASKS

VETS' UNIFORMS

CHICAGO (UP)—The quartermaster depot of the Army, with headquarters here, is urging discharged veterans who do not want their uniforms to return them to the Army. There is a shortage of materials for combat troops, public relations officers explained. Arrangements have been made whereby discharged veterans may express collect parts of uniforms not wanted to the post from which they were discharged.

FABULOUS HOARD of German gold and money cached in a 2,100-foot salt mine at Merkers, Germany, was viewed by these two American officers, Lt. Col. William L. Russell, left, of Chevy Chase, Md., 90th Division military government officer, and Maj. Frank Brock of New York, member of the Third Army. More than 100 tons of gold bullion, currencies of many nations and stacks of priceless art works were captured when two talkative German women spilled the secret to military police. Reichsbank officials on the spot said the bullion represented "all the gold in Germany." Included in the treasure was an estimated $2,000,000 in American currency. (International)

SPEEDY CONSTRUCTION MEANS SPEEDY ADVANCE

ONE OF THE BIGGEST REASONS for the rapid advance into Germany is the lightning-speed construction of pontoon bridges by the U. S. engineers. From little streams to the great Rhine, the might of Yank troops depends on the bridges set up for them by the in-front-of-the-front engineers. Here, a rising, swift-moving river adds to the complications of building under fire on the Sure river in Germany, but the GI construction crew extends their pneumatic span and traffic rolls on in chase of the Nazis. WAVES Solve Jig-Saw Puzzle to Aid Navy's Fighting Men

OFFICIAL U. S. NAVY PHOTOGRAPH

These WAVES are working on a jig-saw puzzle—the most important jig-saw puzzle imaginable. On duty at the Navy Hydrographic Office, they are helping construct a chart by use of aerial photographs. In it finished form the chart will guide the Navy's fighting men in operations in the Pacific zone. In it exists two years, there's still a need in the WAVES for thousands of patriotic young women—20 to 36, without children under 18—who starting pay, counting food and quarters, will be $141.50 a month, plus many "extras" and post-war advantages.

12,000 CANS IN WEEK

CHICAGO (UP)—One week's supply of tin cans from 185 penny lunchrooms operated by the Chicago Board of Education provided enough material for two B-29 bombers. John Howatt, board business manager, said the 12,000 gallon cans were turned over to the War Production Board.

HEBRON
Mrs. Gretrude Hazlett returned home from Tenn. last week. She was recently called there by the illness of her son, Donald, who is now convalescing satisfactorily.

Mrs. Paul McGaughy attended a social tea last Wednesday. Girls' Club of the New Market Board.

Mrs. Rafe McGaughy has been helping care for her daughter, Mrs. Lillian Grimes, and baby who returned to their home from Culver hospital last week.

Mrs. Edith Sutherlin and daughters of Texas have been visiting relatives in Greencastle and Indianapolis. The daughters made a business trip to Chicago last week.

ARMADA OF SUPERFORTS WINGS ITS WAY TO JAPAN

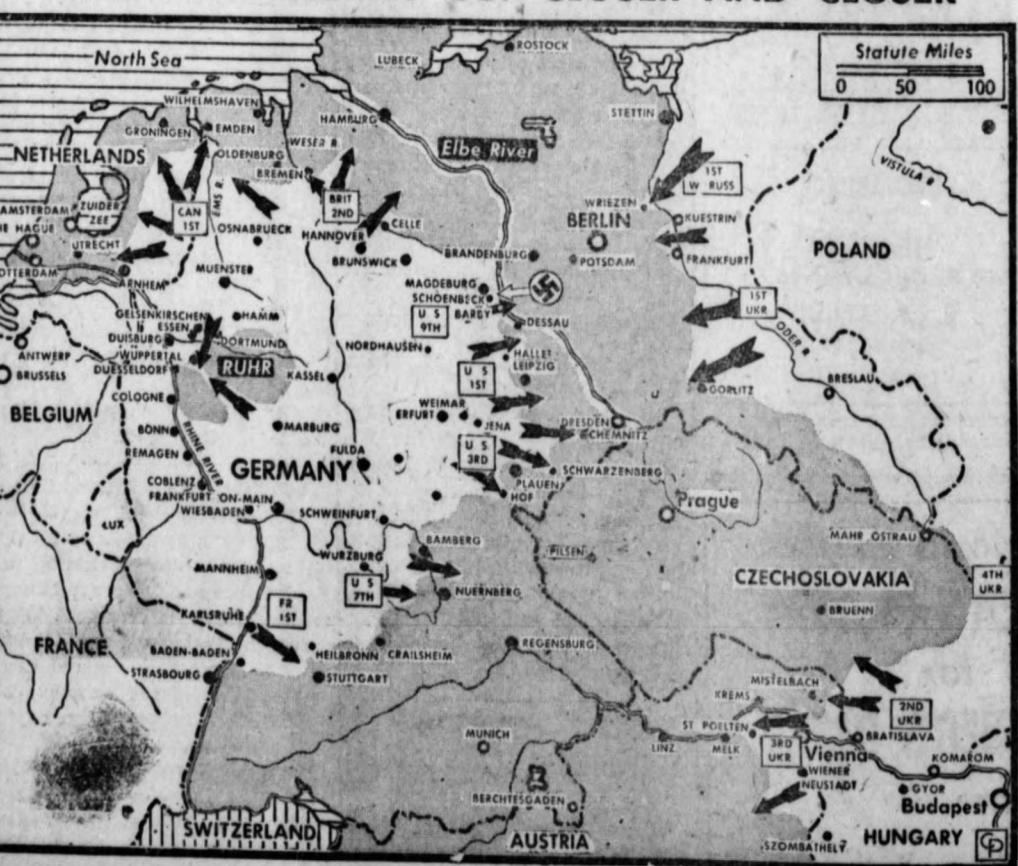

FLYING IN THE SUBSTRATOSPHERE, B-29 Superfortresses based in the Marianas head for a target in Japan with only the clouds for scenery. Air Force officials say the bombardiers often must release their bombs over the target under just such atmospheric conditions as these, without ever seeing their objective. This is an AAF 21st Bomber Command photo. (International Soundphoto)

INFANTRYMEN CROUCH IN RUINS OF JUELICH

NINTH ARMY doughboys take shelter in these ruins along a street of Juelich, Germany, to avoid the heavy enemy shelling in the battle-scarred city. With troops of Lt. Gen. William Simpson's Ninth Army, these infantrymen crossed the Roer river in a surprise assault and are now driving relentlessly toward the western Ruhr foundries at Muenchen-Gladbach. This is a United States Army Signal Corps radiophoto. (International Soundphoto)

YANK, RED ARMIES GET CLOSER AND CLOSER

AS TWO NEW AMERICAN OFFENSIVES, one from the south and another from the east, kept the Germans on the run, the Russians began a thrust from bridgeheads along the Oder river for a grand assault for Berlin. U. S. Ninth Army forces massed at the Elbe river for the final drive on Berlin. American troops opened a general attack all along the line. A second Russian offensive brought the great Baltic port of Stettin under direct artillery fire. A third Russian assault from points east of Vienna was aimed at the Nazis' national redoubt in the Bavarian Alps. (International)
