15 Banner Carriers Enjoy Trip To Detroit, Canada

Have you ever seen an automobile assembled as you watched it? Or taken a sight-seeing tour of Ontario, Canada? Fifteen hard-working Putnam County paper carriers have.

Last Monday at 5:15 a.m. fifteen happy youngsters departed by bus from the junction of highways 40 and 43 for a two-day all-expense-paid trip through Detroit, Mich. and Canada.

One of the main points of interest for the newboys was a trip through Greenfield Village, an early pioneer village restored to its original form. Also, the museum fascinated the group with its antique automobiles, airplanes and locomotives.

On Tuesday, the group toured the Ford Motor Company's automobile assembly plant and watched the assembling of an automobile from the ground up. Then they journeyed into Ontario, Canada, for a shopping and sight-seeing tour.

To qualify for the trip sponsored by the Indianapolis News, a carrier had to secure 16 new subscribers to The Daily Banner or the Indianapolis News.

Felix Knauer, Circulation Manager for The Daily Banner and Indianapolis News, accompanied the carriers and his comments were: "I was very proud to be a part of the group and real pleased with the cooperation from these boys, as they were part of a group of 800 boys from all over the state who went on this trip."

Taking the trip from Greencastle were: Bill Jones, John Coy, James Frost, J. C. Knauer, Charles Knauer, Bob Crum, Barry Kilpach, Terry Wiecek, Larry Smith and Bill Klebusch. Randy Roe of Bainbridge, Jay Bitzer of Cloverdale, Lonnie Hubbard of Fillmore and Joe Osborn and Jerry Crawford of Roachdale also attended from Putnam County.

Indiana Traffic Toll Now 261

A death in a car-truck crash Thursday night on U.S. 50 near Dillsboro ended three fatality-free days on Indiana highways and raised the state's 1967 traffic death toll to at least 261 compared with 329 a year ago.

Paul E. Hurst, 24, Atlanta, Ga., was killed when his car collided with a truck about three miles west of Dillsboro. Police said the car, apparently without lights, pulled out of a truck stop into the path of the truck.

The truck driver, Foster L. Able, 41, R.R. 1, West Baden, and a passenger in Hurst's car, Billy Woosley, 29, R.R. 1, Dillsboro, were injured.

North Viet Steel Plant Bombed

SAIGON UPI — American bombers streaked past deadly delta-winged Communist MIG21 jets and struck North Vietnam's greatest steel works, U.S. spokesmen said today.

Camouflage-painted Air Force F4C Phantoms Thursday bombed the sprawling Thai Nguyen plant ravaged in previous raids on the industrial heartland near Hanoi. The spokesmen said two MIG21s appeared in the skies but shied from combat.

In South Vietnam, fierce fighting erupted today in the Cambodian border area where last week a record 600 to 900 Communists were killed. U.S. commanders threw more troops into the new battle.

In other action, a Marine F8 Crusader jet missed its targets and its rockets slammed into a Leatherneck position near Quang Ngai City on the coast. U.S. spokesmen said four Marines were killed and 18 wounded in the accident.

Col. Robin Olds, 44, of Washington, D.C., architect of the Jan. 2 "sucker play" that sent a record seven MIGs crashing to earth, personally led the Thai Nguyen assault Thursday. Apparently the raid was intended to finish off the sprawling site of most of North Vietnam's steel and iron production. He reported success.

"We put 100 per cent of the bombs on target. The entire area was engulfed in smoke and dust," he said.

Capt. Gerald L. Finton, 28, of Peoria, Ill., and Maj. Philip P. Combies, 37, of Norwich, Conn., dive-bombed and destroyed the massive blast furnace, heart of the plant 36 miles north of Hanoi. They said they "walked the bombs across the target."

Practice Bomb Is Recovered

FORT WAYNE UPI — A practice bomb which fell from an Indiana Air National Guard plane was recovered Thursday.

Air National Guard officials had warned the residents of a six-county area to beware at the 16-inch long bomb weighing about 10 pounds. They said the bomb, lost Wednesday during simulated bombing runs, was not explosive but could cause serious burns.

The bomb was found Thursday in a field about three miles northeast of Bear Field here.

Red China Raps Peace Proposal

HONG KONG UPI — Communist China today called U. N. Secretary General Thant's three-point Vietnam peace proposal "a trick" bearing a "made in U. S. A." mark.

A New China News Agency broadcast said Thant made his proposal after "intense behind-the-scenes consultations" with the United States and the Soviet Union.

Thant proposed a standstill truce, preliminary talks and a reconvening of the Geneva Conference on Vietnam.

The agency said acceptance of the proposal by the United States shows clearly that the new trick played by U. S. is to serve the needs of U. S. imperialism.

"U. S. willingness to negotiate," it added, "shows that the United States is losing in Vietnam."

New York Faces Paper Walkout

NEW YORK UPI — The threat of a newspaper strike hung over New York City today. Talks continued in hopes of keeping the presses rolling.

Contracts between five major dailies and 10 unions expired at midnight Thursday. Although some progress was reported in negotiations, several unions said they were prepared to strike at a moment's notice.

A walkout would be the fourth major newspaper strike in New York in the past five years.

Two minutes before the midnight deadline, the deliverers union agreed to "stop the clock" and continue negotiations. More bargaining sessions were scheduled for later today and tonight.

At 2 a. m. EST today the printers union held a "chapel meeting" of about 300 members in the composing room of the Daily News. They all stopped work and heard a report from union leaders.

The meeting — in effect a work stoppage — immediately interrupted the setting of type for advertising copy scheduled to be run in Sunday's bulky edition of the News.

This morning's meeting had no effect on today's editions of the News.

NAPLES, Italy UPI — Lt. Gen. James H. Polk has been named commander in chief of the U. S. Army in Europe and commander of NATO's Central Army Group, Allied Forces Headquarters for Southern Europe announced Thursday. Polk 55, will be promoted to general when he replaces retiring Gen. Andrew P. O'Meara, 60, on June 1.

WASHINGTON UPI — President Johnson is warning fellow Democrats that they had better be ready with their arguments in case the Vietnam war becomes a campaign issue in 1968.

In fact, the Chief Executive outlined to Democratic state chairmen and vice chairmen Thursday night the kind of reply they should make to those who criticize the administration's conduct of the war.

But only hours after his exhortation to the state party leaders, Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., who is up for re-election next year, was on record with a new proposal for a bombing pause and military standstill in Vietnam similar to the plan that has been rejected by the administration.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the 20th Annual Convention of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA), Clark urged that the United States announce that on April 15 it will stop bombing North Vietnam and halt all offensive operations in the South.

If the Communists do not respond, Clark said, U.S. forces should withdraw to defensive enclaves, "sallying out perhaps from time to time to protect the perimeter from mortar fire."

Johnson delivered his warning behind closed doors at a dinner session of the state party leaders, assembled here for a two-day meeting to prepare for next year's elections. The text of his remarks was made public by the White House.

W. M. Era Day

FORT WAYNE UPI — A year-long dispute between the Fort Wayne Teachers Association and the Fort Wayne Community School board continued unsettled today, after separate meetings of the two groups produced a widening of differences.

A meeting of the board this week aroused advance hopes because Clifford E. Simon, Jr., attorney for the board, had said he and Fred R. Tourkow, attorney for the FWTA, were "quite close to a quick resolution of the matter."

However, Simon reported at the meeting that "I was hoping at this time to be able to make an announcement that would make everyone happy. I was hoping to be able to announce settlement of this controversy. I am unable to do so."

The meeting was brief. The next scheduled meeting of the board is April 10, but Simon said if anything developed before that from continuing negotiations of the two attorneys with a mediator he would notify the board.

The FWTA, which represents 86 per cent of the 1,600 Fort Wayne teachers, also met and adopted unanimously a resolution which said settlement of the dispute over pay increases alone would be insufficient to end the conflict and cause a lifting of sanctions.

The resolution called for recognition of "professional rights" of teachers to have a voice in decisions related to the quality of instruction.

Miss Barbara Bonfield, FWTA president, said the teachers felt they should be consulted on such matters as selection of textbooks, formation of a curriculum, classroom size and other working conditions.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. UPI — The federal courts had the word from Gov. Lurleen B. Wallace today: "They have made their decree, now let them enforce it."

In a defiant speech wildly cheered by a joint session of the Alabama Legislature and carried live on television throughout the state Thursday night, Mrs. Wallace pledged to use all her powers as governor "to prevent the destruction of our public school system."

Gov. Wallace's speech came a day after a federal appeals court decision requiring total desegregation of schools in Alabama and elsewhere in the South by next September.

She asked the Legislature to consider giving her or sharing jointly with her, control of the state's public schools if an appeal should fail.

While not specifically spelling out what ultimate actions she might take, Mrs. Wallace asked for authority to invoke "the police powers of the state" and for the Legislature to consider increasing the number of state troopers.

"I ask you, in the event a stay is not granted, or an appeal be unsuccessful, to consider placing in the governor of the state of Alabama or in the governor and the Legislature, all powers heretofore vested in the state superintendent of education, including, but not limited to, supervisory control with regard to our various local boards of education," she said.

The governor asked the legislature to meet as a committee of the whole and hear testimony from educators and parents whom, she said, had not been given an opportunity to defend themselves in federal court.

"The proposed committee of the whole would afford them an opportunity to present their case and you an opportunity to determine whether this legislation is warranted," she said. "I ask you to determine what additional action may be required."

She also asked the Legislature to issue an order telling the three federal judges who issued the order that their actions are "beyond the police power of the state."

A three-judge federal court ordered Alabama's public schools completely desegregated by fall and the 12-member U. S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals Wednesday reaffirmed the order in firm language.

The circuit court said that schools in Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, Louisiana and Texas must be integrated through all grades, faculties and buses by fall.

In Memory

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Emmett Cleo Key, who passed away one year ago today, March 31, 1966.

Just a line of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory fond and true,
Just a token of love's devotion
That our hearts still long for you,
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true,
There's not a day, dear

We do not think of you.

We think of you in silence dear,

No one can see us weep

But silent tears are often shed

When the world is asleep

A happy home we once enjoyed

How sweet the memory still

But death left a loneliness

The world can never fill,

God saw you getting weary

He did what he thought best

He put his arms around you,

And whispered, come and rest

The golden gate stood open

Just one year ago today.

With goodbyes left unspoken,

You gently passed away.

Sadly missed by wife, children and grandchildren.

Urges Cleanup Of Rivers, Streams

WEST LAFAYETTE — "Beautiful Indiana will not continue to be beautiful or even healthful unless all of us do something about cleaning up our rivers, streams and lakes."

This warning was made here today at the Purdue University Road School by John E. Mitchell, Director of the Indiana Department of Natural Resources.

Mitchell appealed for sustained effort at all levels of government and civic endeavor "to help in our common crusade."

"Clean water means water that is not polluted," Mitchell said. "It means water that is not contaminated as it falls as rain or snow through polluted air. It means water that has not been adulterated by the addition of human and industrial waste."

"Good housekeeping begins at home, and we can't rely entirely on the United States Congress or a State Legislature to do the necessary job of cleaning up. There also must be local effort. "We must properly treat all sewage that empties into our streams and lakes. We must stop using streams and lakes of all sizes as dumping areas for trash."

"Local government and state government must form a partnership to work hand in hand to eliminate the sources of pollution and to return beauty to the banks of the rivers and streams."

"Just as we are concerned with beautification of our roadsides, so should we be concerned about the beautification of our river banks and lake shores. No longer can we regard the rivers as open sewers and trash dumps."

"The people of Indiana — and of all America — are beginning to recognize that good citizenship includes everybody's concern with the clean water problem. When a stream is contaminated it can become a channel for pestilence and disease throughout an entire state or even the nation."

"The time for action is now. New ideas, new efforts, and new dedication must be found, to do all that is in the power of local and state government to take the steps necessary for a true state-wide clean water program."

'66 WAGE GAINS

WASHINGTON UPI—Negotiated wage increases rose sharply in 1966, according to an analysis by The Bureau of National Affairs, Inc., of more than 2,500 contract settlements. The Bureau set the hike at an average of 11 cents an hour, largest in the history of the BNA survey. This was an increase of 2.5 cents over the 1965 average and 2 cents above the previous high in 1960, the Bureau reported.

LETTER

Dear Editor:

I'm writing in regard to the editorial in your paper last week about the Fillmore basketball supper, questioning teachers respect for the ballboys. I am in a position to know that many of the teachers are studying for their degrees and that, this particular Monday night the coach and several teachers had mid-term exams that made it impossible for them to attend, also due to the fact that this banquet was so poorly advertised and that many of the teachers including the coach are from various parts of this state, did not know the policy of this P.T.O.

I think teachers should be commended for furthering their education, making them better teachers to educate our children. I am one of Fillmore's biggest basketball fans—but—Which is most important? a. A banquet for twenty to thirty boys or b. an education for three or four hundred students.

If respect for basketball boys is so important, where were the many, many fans that sat in the stands last year during a winning season. Shouldn't people in the community have respect enough to go to the games win or lose.

Teachers are human, they have many demands—families, teaching, night classes, preparing for classes, making out tests, grading papers (at home) working at most of the basketball games, (to name a few) and other school activities which makes it impossible to attend every function people expect them to. I feel teachers have been treated very unfair! What has happened to good old fashion communication, where people talk things over and can see both sides.

In closing, I'd like to say, I'll admit many times parents are right, but I'd also like to see parents admit that many times they are wrong.

The sanctions imposed on the school board and school superintendent by the local, state and national teacher organizations tend to keep outside teachers from taking jobs with the Fort Wayne system until the dispute has been settled.

The Fairgrounds has an addition of 250 new pine seedlings as of last Monday. Way back in the northeast corner there is a large hill. This is an ideal setting for trees for 4-H members to use in workshops and demonstrations.

All of us are dependent on wood resources, and since the growing of trees is a long term process, we feel that replenishing our wood supply is necessary. If we agree that the above is correct, then someone must do something about it. The forest people are doing a good job, but they can't do everything themselves. People must be trained to do this work on their own. This partially explains the need of the 4-H Forestry project. It is to train boys and girls the care, use, and appreciation of nature's woodland.

Last Monday's weather seemed threatening to the tree planting demonstration, however, when the time came to start, the rain held back and the soil was in good condition. The hazy sky protected the seedling roots from drying too much. Then that evening brought rain which will be a boost. So actually, conditions were favorable, even though some thought it would be too wet.

Those giving instructions were Forrest Miller, Extension Forester; Bob Koenig, Service Forester; Paul Jackson, County Agent and myself.

We must give thanks to the State Department of Natural Resources for the trees and

The 4-H County Share-the-Fun Contest is scheduled for Friday, April 7, 7:30 p.m. at the Greencastle Junior High School. You are invited to come and see the 4-H members display their talents in music, twirling, dancing, etc.

The District Ag Alumni meeting was held at Crawfordsville. Dean Robert Schwarz of the North Central Regional Campus was the featured program. Dean Schwarz demonstrated the phenomena of Extra Sensory Perception. It was difficult to believe these predictions could be done, which seemed to be on the up and up. Whatever the case, it was very entertaining.

Controlling weeds with chemicals in field crops, forages, turf and vegetable and fruit crops is covered in a publication of Indiana Cooperative Extension at Purdue University. "Weeding With Chemicals—1967 Guide," ID-1, offers details on the type of chemical to use, the weeds that can be controlled and the method of treatment. In all, some 70 plants where chemical control is concerned, are discussed.

Indiana residents can obtain a free copy of the publication by contacting the County Extension Office.

National Soybean Council Calls For Higher Soybean Yields

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A six-member national Soybean Council of Champions has called for higher U.S. soybean yields to increase farmers' net profits and meet increasing world demand. U.S. producers currently supply nearly 70 per cent of the world's soybeans, 95 per cent of the world export supply.

The Council, composed of top soybean producers from major bean-growing areas, met here to draw up a "Champions' Plan" for increasing farmers' yields per acre.

They stated that U.S. soybean yields have stood at 25 bushels per acre average since 1960, increasing only slightly since 1950. Their call for higher yields points out that U.S. producers can increase yields profitably with present production knowledge. Six bushels more per acre over the next few years, they said, will nearly double farmers' net profit per acre.

Soybeans currently account for nearly $2 billion income to farmers in 30 states. Better crop management and improved production practices can add substantially to this figure, the Council pointed out.

To focus attention on practices that would increase U.S. yields, Council members outlined a "Champions' Plan for Higher Soybean Yields." The nine-point Plan was endorsed by both government and industry officials, including Vice-President Hubert Humphrey meeting with Council members in the Capitol.

Key points of the Champions' Plan, recommended for the consideration of all U.S. soybean producers include:

Fertilizer Program — Build and maintain a high level of soil fertility. Test soil for major elements at least every three years. Minor elements may be needed in specific areas.

Liming Program — Keep a near neutral soil pH level through the top foot of soil.

Seedbed Preparation — Plow deep or chisel. Use light shallow cultivation once or twice before planting to smooth the seedbed and to control early weeds.

Row Width and Seeding Rate — Plant only sufficient beans to insure adequate stand—avoid overplanting for row width and plant spacing for varieties used.

Weed Control Program — Weed control is one of the most important yet most neglected areas of soybean production. Weeds often cut yields in half. Know specific weed problem. Plan a total program to control them. Early control is vital. Herbicides are the key to modern soybean weed control. To help build soil structure and conserve moisture, cultivate shallow and only when necessary to control weeds and break crusts.

Moisture Management Program — Work for good subsoil reserves at planting — maximum intake of rainfall during season — minimum evaporation before plants shade ground.

Seed Selection — Switch soon as possible to new improved varieties which fit your maturity needs. Use disease resistant varieties in disease problem areas. Certified seed is best guarantee of quality seed. Know the variety, germination and purity of the seed you plant. Seed inoculation pays!

Reduce Harvest Losses — Cut low and cut slow. Combine early to reduce shattering losses, adjust combine to your harvest conditions.

—LBJ Warns

said, "I never will. I believe that there is a basic understanding in America today regarding Vietnam that is shared by Republicans as well as Democrats — hawks as well as doves — easterners as well as westerners."

"But if the conduct of this struggle is brought into our public discussions in 1968, let us be ready for that."

"Let us ask any of those who challenge us how they would pursue this engagement with terror: By gambling with a total worldwide war, or by running from their responsibilities or by permitting our adversaries to descend, unimpeded, on the men who fight for us in the hills and jungles and rice paddies — or, instead, by pursuing a policy that will stop the aggressor in the South, increase his costs in the North, and bring him ultimately to the bargaining table."

Censure Certain For Sen. Dodd

WASHINGTON UPI — Senate investigators will spare Sen. Thomas J. Dodd the fate of Adam Clayton Powell, exclusion from Congress, but he will be punished.

The decision to seek a form of punishment short of expulsion was reached at a secret meeting last week of the six-member ethics committee that has been investigating the 59-year-old Connecticut Democrat for the past year.

The bipartisan panel agreed it could not exonerate Dodd of the misconduct charges leveled against him.

But the exact punishment the committee will recommend has not yet been decided. It will be thrashed out when committee members return from the Easter holiday recess.

It was expected, however, that some form of censure of Dodd's conduct would be recommended with the severity depending on the language the committee adopts.

The punishment could run from a finding of conduct unbecoming a senator, a reprimand, a rebuke, a condemnation, or possibly a formal censure.

The last time the Senate disciplined one of its members was in 1954 when Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., now dead, was "condemned" for failing to cooperate with and abusing the senators assigned to investigate him.

The major charges with which the report will deal are that Dodd pocketed thousands of dollars in campaign money for his own use, double billed on air fares, accepted the loan of a car from a government contractor, and carried out errands for lobbyist Julius Klein of Chicago.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

Health—A Prized Possession

THE GIFT of good health is too often taken for granted up until the time that we are deprived of it. This valued possession is sometimes treated with total carelessness and neglect. It is only when we are faced with illness that the full realization of the treasure of good health is appreciated.

Illness is a very expensive luxury, even in these days when some of the burden of the expense is borne by national and state health and welfare programs. The overwhelming cost of a hospital stay can be staggering. Unless patients give special thought to the difficulty of administering a hospital, they can become irritated and annoyed by what seems to be an astronomical bill.

When a patient first enters a hospital he is sufficiently uncomfortable and sick so that he concentrates his attention only on his medical needs and nursing care.

Gather Information
Doctors, nurses and laboratory technicians immediately begin to gather all the important information for the diagnosis and treatment of the patient.

Few patients are aware that for each of the people he sees there are dozens of unsung heroes in many departments of a hospital who, too, are involved in his care. There are office personnel, safety engineers, dietitians, X-ray technicians, telephone and elevator operators who all contribute to the well-being of the patient and his family.

Can Help Others
It is understandable that the patient, concentrating on his own illness, can hardly be expected to be aware of all of these people. However, the patient can, by cooperation and by reducing his demands to reasonable limits, actually increase the benefits to himself and to the other patients in the hospital.

Nurses, aides and attendants are overburdened by chores that are too extensive to be listed. They try to fulfill their obligations without irritability and, at the same time, bring serenity to their patients.

Impatience and annoyance towards hospital personnel deprives the patient and his family of the cheer and emotional support which comes only from a pleasant relationship with the staff.

Amusing Observation
A physician made the amusing observation that when a patient began to complain of the tastelessness of the food, the soggy toast, the cold coffee and the poor telephone service, he was well on his way to recovery.

It is at this time, too, that the realization of the immensity of the hospital costs becomes terrifying and adds to the patient's general annoyance.

Another observation of importance is that, when the patient has finally been discharged and paid his hospital bill, he develops a new resentment, the doctor's fee.

Buile Hostility
Then, suddenly, the ex-patient begins to build a mounting hostility to everyone responsible for his recovery. This is indeed a paradox, when gratitude should really be his reaction.

There are many aspects to being sick and many more to total recovery. Resentfully, the patient may well ask what he has gained by this total experience. He has only been returned to the good health that he may have abused and once taken for granted.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH—Medical information is known to doctors everywhere. Beware of the person who is the sole possessor of an expensive formula or food supplement.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere. Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Hollywood News

HOLLYWOOD UPI—Female track and field teams are in no danger of giving the Miss America Pageant a run for its money, but producers would have movie-goers believe that. Elke Sommer is the East German decathlon champion in a new movie.

If the lives of voluptuous Elke became track stars the sport would soon surpass football, baseball and basketball as national pastimes.

The blonde, German-born beauty does things to a track uniform that sets some sort of record before the starter's gun is fired.

Perhaps it's her Teutonic background, but Elke refuses to fake her role as runner, jumper, hurdler and thrower for "The Wicked Dreams of Paula Schultz."

In order to play the part convincingly, she spent weeks at the UCLA athletic field in an effort to get in shape. And Elke's shape will be much in evidence during the film.

"I'm an honorary member of the UCLA track team," she boasted between takes of the movie.

"After the first few days of working out I could hardly walk. But then I got used to it. Now I'm in wonderful physical condition. I do all my own running for the camera. I also throw the javelin and discus, put the shot and hurdle. I high jumped 4 feet, 6 inches.

Stunt girls were hired by the company, but they have found it necessary to stand on the sidelines while Elke goes through her paces. One girl was used for the long jump, but when Elke out-jumped her they decided to stick with the actress.

"It may sound phony, but I really enjoy doing all the physical things," Elke said.

"I enjoy sports, but I'd rather be an actress," Elke sighed. "I don't think girl athletes have as much fun as actresses.

"But now that I'm in good shape I'm going to stay that way. Maybe I can do it by going swimming every day."

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD UPI — The Tony Awards, Broadway's prize-giving ceremonies for the theatre season, were televised nationally for the first time Sunday night, and the sum effect was to make one appreciate how much more exciting the movies are nowadays.

This impression was chiefly the result of the selection of entertainment material for the ABC-TV broadcast. Put aside the fact that much that is significant in the theatre these days has nothing to do with Broadway. Still, there are some plays of merit, and notable scenes in them. Instead, we were presented with four musical numbers, for obvious and sensible reasons — yet three of them, from "I Do! I Do!", "Walking Happy" and "The Apple Tree," were tiresome and routine entertainments that only seemed to emphasize Broadway's old age.

The only exception was Joel Grey's gorgeously decadent nightclub number from "Cabaret," a masterful piece of production and performing that got the Tony Awards telecast off to a level it never again achieved.

Unlike the movies' Academy Awards and television's Emmys, which go to shows and performers that most of the nation has had a chance to see, the Tony honors quite naturally go to productions that have little immediate personal relevance at the present to the public outside the New York area. For these are stage works in their first-run engagements — at least in America — and have yet to journey to the nation-at-large, and a network must face up to this inevitable fact, which is unfortunate from a television viewpoint. What to do?

Well, one thing to do — and one thing that was done Sunday night — is probably bringing smiles today in Hollywood. For in order to give some national appeal to the Sunday night production, the presenters of the awards had in their number a considerable percentage of performers who, while sometimes associated with the stage, are perhaps best known around the country because of their work in movies and television. These included Kirk Douglas, Lee Remick, John Forsythe, Lauren Bacall, Carol Burnett and Marge and Gower Champion.

Book Memorial To Kate Lovett

The Greencastle Putnam County Public Library has recently received the book, "The Family Album of Favorite Poems," edited by Edward Ernest. This book was presented to the library by the Boston Club in memory of Kate Lovett.

The editor has chosen the poems in this collection to appeal to all members of the family, and they represent a wide range of literary style and artistic design. They range from the majesty of Shakespeare to the nonsense of Edward Lear.

The emphasis is on the poem itself and the message it has for the reader.

There are sixteen chapters in the book. Some of the themes covered include: inspirational poems, love poems, children's verse, poems of home and family, humorous poems, hymns to nature and Christmas poems.

Most of the familiar verses are included and some have been written only in the last decade.

Poet lovers will thoroughly enjoy this book.

On the other hand, a definite plus for the Tony telecast was that it originated from a genuine theater, the Shubert, where as the Oscars, for instance, are presented in a non-theatrical Civic Auditorium out by the Pacific Ocean, not even in Hollywood proper, and without an iota of authentic movie industry flavor.

The hosts for the Tony Awards were Mary Martin and Robert Preston, both of whom appear in "I Do!" One of the unusual personal occurrences of the Sunday night program came when Preston won an award for his part but Miss Martin didn't win for hers. As it happened, Miss Martin had to come on right after Preston's award, and she showed the kind of graciousness as a loser that Barbara Harris, who won over Miss Martin, might do well to make a note of.

Again, however, the chief fault of the telecast — particularly because of the mundane selection of entertainment — was to make Broadway seem even more tired, outdated and bourgeois than its severest critics maintain it is.

National Window Opinion

By LYLE WILSON

There is some evidence that the Supreme Court is becoming aware of a considerable public dissatisfaction with the trend of rulings during recent years. It would be more precise to report that there is some but not much evidence of this awareness.

Chief Justice Warren and his activist court majority are being jostled by the facts of life as they exist in the United States in the second half of the 20th century. One of these facts of modern life is the crime explosion in this country.

The Justice Department reported this month that serious crime increased by 11 per cent in 1966 over 1965. This shocking crime wave is not peculiar to the great ghetto-ridden cities. Crime was up 14 per cent in towns of fewer than 10,000 inhabitants. Crime was up 13 per cent in the suburbs. A shocking increase in serious crime is the trend year after year.

This alarming trend has a background of vigorous Supreme Court action to protect the rights of the individual criminal. Many citizens resent what appears to them to be the court's inattention to the rights, collectively, of the millions of the law-abiding persons among whom the protected hoodlum finds victims.

In a decision last week, the court shifted its anxiety and emphasis from the hoodlums to the public at large. In upholding an Illinois narcotics conviction, the court ruled that the police may act on secret tips without revealing the source of their information; that the police may search the accused without a warrant and that evidence so obtained may be admitted in court. This is a switch from the trend of previous ruling which had handicapped police in acting on reports from underworld agents deemed to be reliable sources of information.

This ruling came at a time of Senate subcommittee hearings looking toward congressional action to assert the right of the public to protection against criminals, regardless of the court.

Witnesses firmly testified to their belief that Supreme Court rulings handicapping the police were a major cause of the grim crime record in the United States. Unhappy citizens are pressing their congressmen to check the court. Congress unquestionably will be compelled to act unless the court restrains itself, as it seemed to be doing last week in the case of the Illinois dope peddler.

There is a rising public resentment against the court's arbitrary ruling requiring both Houses of state legislatures to be apportioned precisely on the basis of population. The court cannot reverse itself on this one. But 32 of the required 34 states have petitioned Congress to summon a constitutional convention to propose an amendment reversing the court.

Proposals by such a convention would require ratification by three quarters of the states. Perhaps that could not be achieved. But the mere fact of the petitions to Congress is absolute evidence of a resentment against the court running wide and deep among the citizens.

Congressional liberals who applauded the court's apportionment rule are uneasy. Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., is seeking to sweep the whole question under the rug. He argues that the petitions are invalid. A year ago former Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., was arguing that the Congress could and should ignore the absolute constitutional injunction that a constitutional convention must be called when two thirds of the states petition Congress for such action. Such performances as these are what lead stumbling politicians into a constitutional crisis.

JAPAN NOW THIRD IN AUTO OUTPUT

TOKYO UPI—Japan's auto production during 1966 totaled 2,286,585 units, an increase of 21.9 per cent over 1965, making Japan the world's third largest producer of motor vehicles, next to the United States and West Germany, reports the Fuji Bank, Ltd.

Passenger cars accounted for 83.4 per cent of the total 1966 production, a 26.1 per cent increase over 1965. Truck production rose by 19.6 per cent and buses by 7.9 per cent.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK UPI—Robert T. Allen of Shearson, Hamill & Co. says the stock market has continued its pattern of only listening to news it wants to hear and for the most part ignoring any gloomy business news. The analyst feels the pattern is a sign of a powerful market.

He said, however, there is still some question of where the fuel for sustaining a further advance will come from since the administration probably will await some results of its steps to bolster the economy before taking any new ones.

Bache & Co. says as long as the market is able to take periodic setbacks in stride, and it says the news background would indicate periods of weakness, the administration's efforts to bolster the economy should be very useful. The company says a near term target of the 890-900 area of the Dow Jones Industrial Average seems within reason.

Kenneth Ward of Hayden, Stone Inc. says certain common stocks seem to have reached or are near the highest levels that can be projected for them on a near term basis. The analyst feels there are still enough attractive opportunities to attract investors' attention but warns against placing too much confidence in stocks that have been carrying the main burden of the recovery.

Vet Loan Deadline July 25

Less than five months remain for veterans of World War II to use their guarantee privileges for a loan to purchase a home, farm or for business purposes. This warning came from J. C. Robinson, Manager of the Indianapolis Regional Office of the Veterans Administration.

Present statutes provide that the absolute cutoff date for World War II veterans will be on July 25, 1967. This deadline is the result of Congressional action which has delayed the final date of eligibility several times.

The cutoff will not affect veterans of the Korean Conflict or veterans who have served since January 31, 1955. Mr. Robinson pointed out, as these veterans are covered by different legislation.

Almost 129,000 loans have been guaranteed by the Veterans Administration to veterans in Indiana since the beginning of the program following World War II.

The Veterans Administration will guarantee up to 60 per cent of the purchase price of a home for a veteran with limitation as to the total purchase price. Mr. Robinson urged veterans planning to purchase a home to make their selection as soon as possible, avoiding the last minute rush for certification.

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON UPI — Although Great Britain is no longer a colonial power, she still manages by one means or another to extract goodly sums from some of her former colonies.

Especially the United States. I have a theory that each time Britain is faced with a financial crisis, the Chancellor of the Exchequer calls on emergency meeting of the committee on ex-colonial nincompoopery.

The minutes of the first meeting a few years ago probably went something like this:

The chairman raps his gavel and says, "All right, gentlemen. It's hard cheese time again. Does anyone have any ideas on how we can get out of this one?"

Has A Thought

The committeeman from Liverpool rises and says, "I'm just thinking off the top of my head now, but here's something that might work."

"We got four of our young chaps and have them grow long hair. Then we hand them guitars and send them to America on a concert tour."

"It doesn't matter whether they can play or not. The long hair is what will pack them in. As an added attraction we'll give the group some revolting names. 'The Cockroaches,' perhaps. Or maybe 'The Beatles.' They should bring back millions."

A couple of years later, sterling is again in trouble and the committee holds another emergency meeting. This time a member from London proposes a solution.

Another Thought

"Gentlemen, if we can tap the American fashion market, it will see us over the hump. So here is what we do. We have our designers take some of those ghastly dresses that haven't been selling and cut them off about six inches above the knee."

"We call the things 'mini-skirts' and sell them to the Americans to be worn with knee-length boots and crash helmets. The money will roll in faster than we can count it."

During Britain's most recent crisis, it is again the London committeeman who saves the day.

"All we have to do, gentlemen, is go into one of the Cockney districts and pick out a teen-age girl who is flat-chested, bird-legged and looks undernourished."

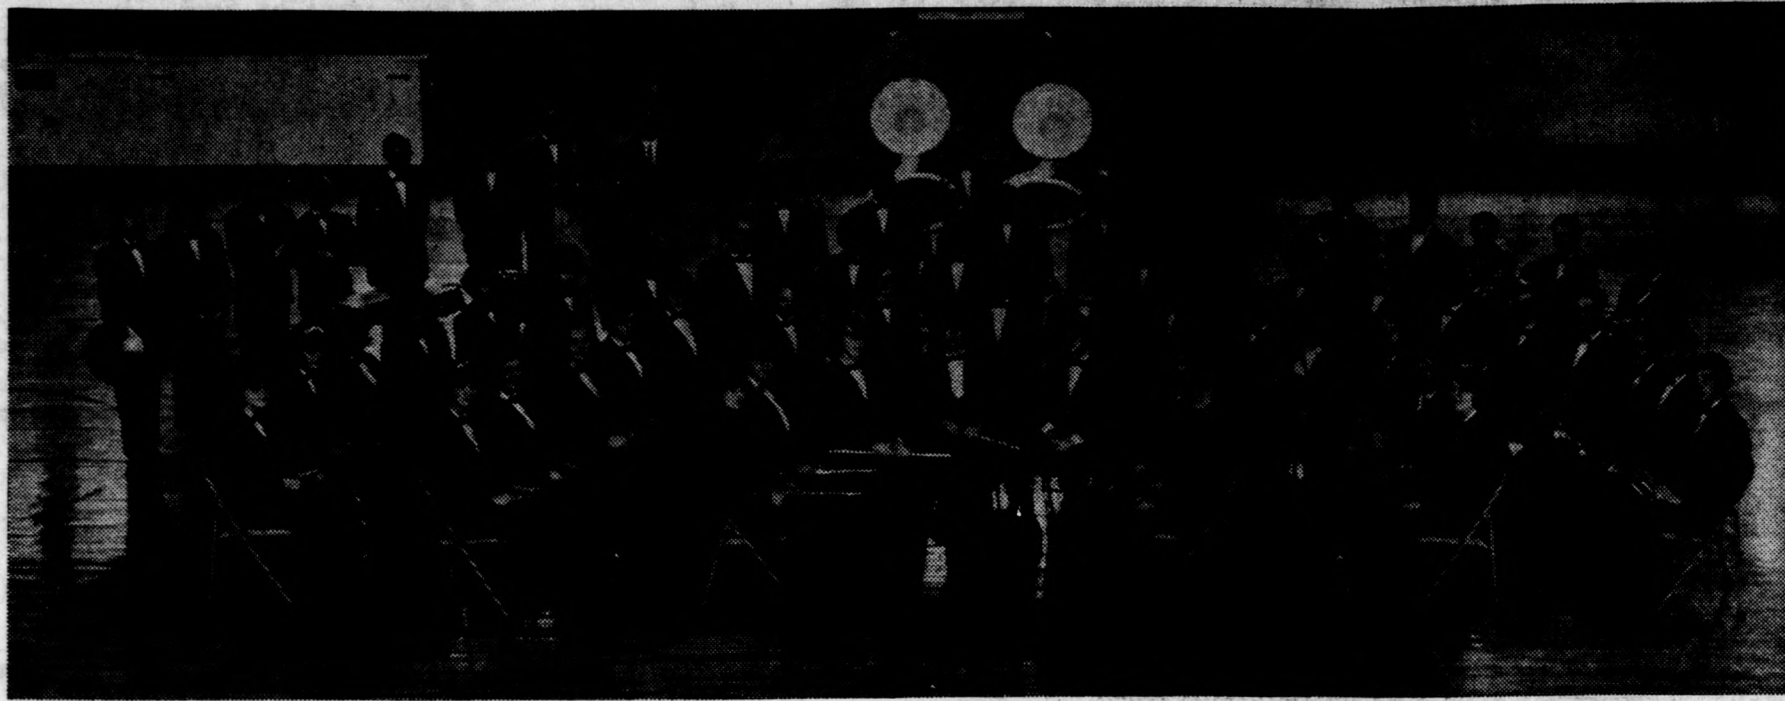

"Then we tell the Americans that this girl is the world's most sought after fashion model. She can go to the United States and clean up. It will help to give her an outlandish name. I recommend calling her either 'the Splinter' or 'Twiggy.'"

It is this point I'm sure you join me in wishing Britain a long period of prosperity.

Leftover Shells Create Problem

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. UPI — Concealed land mines left from the great battles of 1942-43 in Egypt's western desert are adding to the problems of oil exploration crews, says a report to Phillips Petroleum Company here.

Clearance teams of about 50 British and Egyptian Bedouin veterans of the El Alamein campaign are attached to each seismograph crew to locate and explode land mines buried during World War II. In addition to uncovering mines, crews with live bombs and other munitions, preserved in the dry desert climate.

Fillmore Band Parents Schedule Smorgasbord State Parks Open April 14

The Fillmore Band Parents have scheduled a smorgasbord in the Fillmore High School gymnasium for April 8. Serving will start at 6:00 p. m., until the food is gone.

The proceeds from this project will go to eliminate the approximately $404.00, not including the interest, balance on the band uniforms. After this is paid, the Band Parents Organization will be completely out of debt.

In October, 1965, they purchased 70 band uniforms and 13 majorette uniforms that cost $6,458.90. This year a new drum major's uniform costing $100.94 was purchased and at the fall smorgasbord, 19 seniors received honor sweaters involving $361.68. Recently, the organization appropriated $100.00 for awards to be presented at the Music Awards Banquet to be held Thursday, April 20.

Of the $6,458.90 for the uniforms purchased in October, 1965, only $200.00 is all that is remaining on the debt.

All band parents are urged to attend the regular business meeting April 4 in the new Fillmore Band Room. The purpose of this meeting is to make final plans for the spring smorgasbord.

Plenty of entertainment is planned for the April 8 feed.

From 6:00 to 6:30, the Fillmore and Belle Union Beginner's band will perform. From 6:30 until 7:30, the Belle Union Beginning Drummers and Junior Ensemble will have the floor and from 7:30 until 9:00, the Fillmore Junior Band and the Senior Concert group will have the stage. At 9:00 there will be a talent show.

If anyone is interested in participating in the talent show, contact Mrs. Ancel Keller, Rural Route Number 2, Coatesville or Rhonda Keller, senior at Fillmore High School.

POITIER JOINS CAST

HOLLYWOOD UPI—Sidney Poitier will join Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn in Stanley Kramer's "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner."

Hereafter entrance gates at State Parks, State Recreation Areas and State Beaches will be operated on the same calendar, it was announced today by John E. Mitchell, Director of the Indiana Department of Natural Resources.

The schedule will go into effect April 14 and continue through October 29. From Friday, April 14, through Sunday, May 21, admission fees will be charged only on Friday, Saturdays and Sundays. From May 26 through September 4, admission fees will be charged every day. The Friday-Saturday-Sunday schedule will be resumed on September 8. Beginning Monday, October 30, there will be no winter-season fees.

This schedule applies to admission fees only. In accommodations, etc., are charged for separately. The admission fee schedule (the same as last year) is 35 cents per automobile, 20 cents per adult, and children under 12 free.

Indiana State Parks are especially popular with Hoosiers in springtime because of their numerous blossoming trees and shrubs. Bird watchers also observe birds in migration in the spring that they may not see at any other time. Park managers have noted that many of the same nature-wise visitors come in the spring year after year.

Reelsville Lions Auxiliary Meets

Reelsville Lion's Auxiliary met on March 4. The meeting was opened by the Pledge to the flag. Lucille Hutcheson, president, leading. The Secretary's and Treasurer's reports were read and approved.

Ann Huffman's and Christine Trowell's names were drawn for honorable mention. Blanche Yoke's name was drawn for the $100 prize, but she was not there to collect.

The members agreed to work on March 15, from 9 a. m. until 1 p. m. to cut and sew squares of material together for a comfort when completed it is to be donated to some needy family.

We voted to send a cash donation to Jimmy Owen, he had been hospitalized in the Union Hospital in Terre Haute.

A beautiful letter of recognition was read to the memory of Clarence "Art" Agnew.

We received a thank you note from "Boy Scouts of America" for a generous donation.

Meeting closed and refreshments were served by Wanita Owen and Olivia Gose.

Foreign News Commentary

By HENRY SHAPIRO

MOSCOW UPI—Meekly and indirectly, the Romanians have raised the thorny territorial question of Bessarabia, a small area between the Prut and Dniester rivers, which was last incorporated into the Soviet Union in 1940.

Soviet spokesmen, bluntly and categorically, have asserted that Bessarabia always was, is and will remain an integral part of the U.S.S.R., in Soviet Moldavia.

The question has not been posed formally by Bucharest. But it is there. And it is symptomatic of winds of change in Eastern Europe.

No sooner did the Romanians begin to take a politically independent line from Moscow some three years ago than they dug up a statement by Karl Marx in which he condemned the Czarist seizure of Bessarabia from the Turks in 1812.

That was long before the United Kingdom of Romania was established in 1877 and the separate principalities now forming Romania were under Turkish rule.

The Russians have been quick to respond that the Romanians seized Bessarabia in 1918 when Russia was preoccupied with and weakened by revolution and civil war.

Regardless of the official posture, the Romanians base their claims to Bessarabia on the ground that the majority of its population is technically and culturally Romanian.

Apparently there is some underground propaganda in Soviet Moldavia, calling for association with Romania.

There the matter rests, with possession being nine points of the law. The dispute demonstrates another point, though.

The new stridently nationalist Romanian leadership is taking an increasingly independent, if not antagonistic course, from the Kremlin's.

But officially to raise the Bessarabian question would open a Pandora's box of territorial problems for Romania. Hungary might reassert her claims to Transylvania and Bulgaria to Dobrogea—areas which Romania has acquired partly with Soviet aid.

Accordingly, the Romanians are content with either barely keeping the question alive or letting the Chinese pull Romanian chestnuts out of the fire.

A Local Teenager's View

By JANET STAUB

If the family vacation trip is on the drawing board and the old compass is pointing towards the west, totem poles should go on the list of things to see.

The totem is a symbol for a tribe, clan, family, or a person. The Ojibway, or Chippewa, Indians first used the term for the animals or birds associated with their clans. The clan totem may be a bird, fish, animal, plant or other natural object. The clan usually considers the totem holy and prays to it. Sometimes the group considers the totem as an ancestor of the clan. A clan may have rules against killing or eating the species to which the totem belongs. Its members are often known by the name of the totem. Totemism, as a form of religion, is widespread among primitive tribes.

Many American Indian tribes, particularly those of the Pacific Northwest, carved the family and clan emblems on totem poles. The tribe held a feast when the totem poles were put up.

Don't worry about the Indians around the poles because most of them are very friendly!

While the heavy excavating was going on behind them on DePauw University's new women's residence hall this sextet turned over a ceremonial spadefull of dirt this weekend. At the site on South Locust where the three story structure is now under construction are (left to right) Ernest Collins, head of the local Design for a Decade program, Associate Dean of Students

Nelle Barnhart, President William E. Kerstetter, trustee and banker Fred O'Hair, Director of Residence Halls and Food Service Mrs. Elsie Miller, and student body president, David Jensen. The residence hall, when occupied in September, 1968, will house 144 upperclasswomen in 24 suites, each accommodating six women. Red brick, native limestone and large expanses of glass will face the contemporary structure.

Japanese Kids Tops in Math With 3,000-Year-Old Abacus

By JOSEPH GALLOWAY

TOKYO (UPI) — Little sail-or-uniformed Japanese children who learn their arithmetic on a 3,000-year-old adding machine are leading the world in potential mathematical genius.

Educators say there are a number of factors involved in the education of Japanese children, which may have bearings on the fact that they topped the list of a twelve-nation survey on international achievement in mathematics.

The Japanese children according to the survey by Torsten Husen of the University of Stockholm, held a strong lead in the critical high levels of math excellence which produces scientists and scholars.

Do they do it with new math?

No indeed. Japanese children learn their arithmetic on the Chinese abacus — A Chinese adding machine which first became popular around the Sixth Century B. C.

They slide little black beads along vertical wires on a wood frame to add, multiply and divide and some of them become so adept at this prehistoric calculator that they can beat an electric adding machine in a race.

Japanese children aren't exposed to very much "modern" education. Besides learning the abacus, while they are primary school students they must also memorize a basic character-alphabet about twenty times longer and infinitely more difficult and complex than the 26 A's, B's and C's their western counterparts learn.

The Swedish math survey didn't surprise many scientific observers in Japan.

Dr. Walter Hodge, representative of the National Science Foundation attached to the U. S. Embassy, said, "Every Japanese kid has to master the old abacus. It is built-in computer. There have been cases where people using an abacus have won in races with electric adding machines."

"There is also the fact that Japanese children work harder and longer. I see these children going to school early in the morning on my way to work. And they put in six days a week," Dr. Hodge said.

"They pound the basic three R's into them at a younger age. There is less of the new education here."

"If repetition brings success — and apparently it does in basic arithmetic — then the Japanese are ahead," Dr. Hodge said.

He said recent surveys have shown that Japan is educating a greater proportion of its children than most western nations.

"One study showed that more than 80 per cent of industry managers in Japan have college educations," Dr. Hodge said, adding, "This compared with about 30 per cent elsewhere."

"This country is so compact that there are few backwoods areas. The need for education is felt deeply nationwide, the pressure is on every student," he said.

Dr. Hodge pointed out that many students who failed the very stiff competition examination for college entrance return again and again to keep trying.

"Back home the feeling seems to be that if you flunk out just forget it," he said.

Seller's Market For Companies

NEW YORK UPI—The long-standing seller's market for well-managed companies gives every indication it will continue for several years, according to an official of an international engineering and management consulting firm.

"For every quality company that can be purchased, many potential buyers exist," says Richard W. Dalzell, director of management consulting for Ford, Bacon & Davis, Inc. "It is interesting to note that of the nation's 500 largest companies, 18 of the 42 which have achieved average annual gains of 15 per cent or better in growth-per-share earnings over the past 10 years have engaged in an active program of acquisitions or mergers in that period."

Taking All Finesses May Cost You A Slam

By Alfred Sheinwold

The average bridge player takes every finesse in sight on the theory that he has everything to gain and nothing to lose. Actually, a certain kind of finesse gives you a chance to lose but no chance to gain.

You play the queen of diamonds from dummy at the first trick, and East covers with the king. You win with the ace of diamonds and plan your play. Do you start with a spade finesse, or do you first try the club finesse?

In actual play, the average bridge enthusiast would not even stop to ask any questions. He would try the spade finesse at the second trick. East would win and lead a diamond, and South would be down one without any delay.

An expert would not bother with the spade finesse because it gives him a chance to lose the slam but does not help him win it.

If the club finesse works, South can take three club tricks and discard dummy's losing diamond. He will then make the slam even if he has to give up a trick to the king of spades. If the club finesse loses, South will lose a club and a diamond no matter which opponent has the king of spades.

DOES NOT MATTER
In other words, the spade finesse does not matter. The contract depends solely on the club finesse.

South should therefore ignore the spade finesse. He should lead the queen of spades at the second trick, just in case West happens to be an honor-coverer. But when West plays a low spade declarer puts up dummy's ace.

Declarer then leads the queen of clubs from dummy for a finesse. Whether East covers or plays low South can win three club tricks and discard the losing diamond from the dummy. Then South draws the rest of the trumps and claim his slam.

DAILY QUESTION
Partner opens with 1 NT (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes. You hold: S-K 4 3; H-6 3 2; D-K 8 7 4; C-K 8 5. What do you say?
Answer: Bid 2 NT. This shows about 8 or 9 points and invites partner to go on to game if he has anything above the bare minimum requirements for his opening bid. If partner has 16 points without the help of a five-card suit or a couple of tens and nines, he may pass instead of accepting the invitation to game.

'Image' Of A Part-Timer Bothers A Part-Timer

By ROBERTA ROESCH

Dear Roberta Roesch: I don't know why some people take the view that the only reason a woman works part-time is because she lacks the background, ability and get-up-and-go to work full-time.

Resentful Reaction
Speaking as a part-time worker and an educated woman who could work full-time if she chose, I resent the people who feel that part-time workers do less important work than full-time workers.

In my case, I live in a college town where some of the most intense, dedicated persons I know view my part-time job with a patronizing air. I'm tired of this attitude, and I'm tired of having my work belittled.

Dear Mrs. E. G.: I don't blame you for being tired on both counts. Besides, the people you write about are definitely taking an unintelligent and uncompromising view of the 1967 work pattern of women.

Today, anyone who is knowledgeable about women workers knows that there has been a tremendous increase in part-time work in the last decade because this type of job opportunity fills the needs of so many women.

Official Figures
Actually, statistics and studies prove that most women work part-time because they prefer not to take a full-time job. Reports from the U. S. Labor Department state that fewer than one in six women take part-time work because they can't find full-time work.

Dear Roberta Roesch: Why do so many offices have to be full of rude and thoughtless people?

Here is an example of what I mean. I have been working for over six weeks and not one girl has extended herself enough to ask me to sit with her in the company cafeteria. To make things worse, one girl did arrange to have lunch with me at a restaurant. Then said she forgot about it the day we were scheduled to eat together. I like my job, but I can't stand this treatment. What do you suggest?

A. J.

A Newcomer. She Was Never Invited To Eat With Others

Dear A. J.: I know it is hard to be treated this way, and I am certainly not condoning this action. But people are people and they might unintentionally act in a thoughtless manner. When they are busy with their own lives, they can forget other people and appointments they didn't write down.

Recommended Courses
Since this is the case—and since you are living and working with this situation—the best thing you can do is to recognize this human failing, realize there is seldom anything personal in it, and make up your mind to extend yourself to others even though they are slow to accept you into their circles. Usually this works.

PEST OF THE WEEK

Horticultural Tips

Spruce Spider Mite: This pest attacks spruce, arborvitae and juniper. Infected foliage often may be recognized by its dull grayish cast. When the sharp green color of foliage begins to turn gray and later brown, it is too late to prevent damage. However, prompt action at this time may prevent serious damage. Overwintering eggs at the base of the needles of infected plants produce tiny light green mites in early spring when temperatures reach 50 degrees. These mites mature into larger, darker green or almost black individuals. A new generation can be produced in about 17 days. Control: Use either Aramite, Kelthane or Malathion (may injure canaert juniper) at manufacturer's recommendation.

Jaycees Win Region Bowling Tournament

For the second straight year the Greencastle Jaycees bowling team walked from the Region C Jaycee Bowling Tournament at Crawfordsville with 7 of 11 trophies last Saturday afternoon. The team had a score of 3,082 pins for three games. Dave Atwell led the team and also walked away with the high actual total for three games with a sizzling 694 and he also won the high actual game total with a 241. Team captain Jim Alexander was third in honors for a 3 game total with handicap at 662. Other members that gave strong support to the Jaycee team were Doyle Priest, Steve Payne, and Bob Minnick. All in all 16 teams from the central Indiana Jaycee region competed.

Tom VanArsdale Receives Attractive Contract Offer

DETROIT UPI—Detroit Pistons guard Tom VanArsdale has been offered a three-year contract worth $90,000 to play for Indianapolis of the new American Basketball Association, the Detroit Free Press said today.

The newspaper said VanArsdale, who has a contract in the $15,000 bracket with the Pistons, admitted going to Indianapolis this week for talks with team officials.

"I prefer to stay in Detroit," he said, "but the money they offer is nearly double what I'm making here."

VanArsdale is one of at least three Pistons players who have been contacted by clubs in the new league, the Free Press said.

The Indianapolis franchise reportedly has asked former Purdue star Terry Dischinger to join them when he completes a two-year military hitch in the Army in August.

Former Pistons player-coach Debussche also has been sounded out by "more than one team" in the ABA, which hopes to launch its first season next fall.

VanArsdale and his twin brother, Dick, starred at Indiana before both went into the National Basketball Association. Dick plays with New York.

They called New York goalie Ed Giacomin "The Lone Ranger" until he began getting support from his defensemen on enemy rushes.

Tiger Cubs Open Track Schedule at Linton Today

After warming up in the 19th Annual Hoosier Relays at Indiana University Fieldhouse, the Greencastle Tiger Cubs' track team opened its schedule today with a 4:15 meet at Linton.

Raymond Churchill put on a one man show in the Hoosier Relays. Participating in the 60 yard dash, the splendid runner won every heat, up to the finals, but Coach Jim McCammon pulled him in the finals because of a leg injury.

Also, Churchill broke the Hoosier Relays' record in the broad jump with a leap of 22'9" but still had to settle for second place as the winning jump was two inches better.

The mile relay team of Harold Henry, Pete Norris, Kevin See, and Jim Craig placed second in their heat with a time of 3:41.9.

The 880 relay team started beautifully but had a little baton trouble along the way and as a result finished out of the money. Runners were Louis Luzar, Larry Boswell, Dave Moore and Jim Craig.

Coach McCammon has 29 members on the track squad this year with 12 lettermen. With the new equipment as warm-ups, shoes, and a jumping pit provided by Lloyd Cooper, Athletic Director, McCammon says the squad has been working exceptionally hard and displaying lots of desire and he is anticipating a very fine track season.

A breakdown of the events by positions substantiates McCammon's thinking.

Low hurdles—several good hurdlers can be picked for this event, and Churchill holds the school record of 21.4.

High hurdles—Pete Norris and Mike Harmless will wear the school colors.

100 and 220 yard dashes—

Hopes will be pinned on Ray Churchill, Davey Moore, and Louis Luzar.

440—Jim Craig, a transfer student from Fillmore, who reached the State regional last year, heads the list, and Harold Henry will be his running mate.

880—Very strong prospect in Kevin See.

Mile run—Leading candidates are Graham Butler, an exchange student from Australia, and Mark Elliott.

2 Mile—Inexperience in this event may cost the Cubs' some points, but a young sophomore, Don Dowty is showing good potential along with senior Charles Whicker.

Broad jump—Along with Churchill, Jim Craig and Pete Norris should pick up the 2nd and 3rd place ribbons.

High jump—Good depth here with Pete Norris, Sam Hecko, Mike Harmless and Graham Butler battling for the first place.

Shot Put—Brothers John and Robert New wage an interesting rivalry. Both lads are letterman.

Pole vault—Kevin See, Sam Hecko, and John New sail over the bar for the Cubs.

Assisting McCammon is assistant coach Bob Bergman and Hal Sampson has been donating a lot of his time working with the pole vaulters.

Sonny Liston on Comeback Trail

GOTEBORG, Sweden UPI—It was just like old times for Sonny Liston.

The man who ran the heavyweight championship five years ago with a first round knockout of Floyd Patterson, continued his comeback Thursday night by knocking out Dave Bailey of Philadelphia in the first round of their scheduled 10-round bout.

Liston, whose only successful title defense was another first round knockout of Patterson, ended Thursday's bout at 2:22 of the opening round. It was his third knockout since he hit the comeback trail in Sweden last year.

Liston, who went into the ring at 221 pounds, had the crowd of 5,000 whistling and yelling at the 215-pound Bailey, who failed to get up after being hit by what didn't appear to be a hard blow.

Liston, whose recent knockouts have come against Gerhard Zech of Germany and Amos Johnson of Medina, Ohio, is making a trademark of appearing in short fights.

After losing the heavyweight crown to Cassius Clay in 1964, Liston was dropped in the first round of a rematch with the present champ by the renowned "phantom punch" at Lewiston, Maine in 1965.

In Fourth Place

AKRON, Ohio UPI — Don Johnson, Kokomo, Ind., was in fourth place today and Gene Rhoda, Valparaiso, Ind., in 23rd going into the semi-finals of bowling's $100,000 Tournament of Champions.

Johnson, with a 5-3 record had 7607 pins and Rhoda, 3-5, 7256.

Jim Stefanich, Joliet, Ill., remained the leader with a 6-2 record and 8006 pins.

Fight Results

PITTSBURGH UPI — Floyd Patterson, 197, Marborough, N. Y., knocked out Bill McMurray, 209 1-2, Sacramento, Calif. 1.

GOTEBORG, Sweden UPI — Sonny Liston, 221, Las Vegas, Nev., knocked out Dave Bailey, 215, Philadelphia 1; Bosse Hoegberg, 157, Sweden, knocked out Manuel Gonzales, 154, Odesa, Tex 8.

TOKYO UPI — Eigo Takagi, 117, Japan, outpointed Kim Hyun, 120, Korea 10.

Reapportionment Hearing

By LYLE WILSON

The most effective witness against Chief Justice Earl Warren and his Supreme Court majority which imposed the one-man-vote rule of legislative reapportionment on the states would be, of all people, Gov. Earl Warren of California.

This might embarrass the chief justice. No matter because it surely would help the common man understand how Warren came to be so mixed in his own mind on legislative reapportionment. The question arises because as of now 32 of the necessary 34 states have petitioned the U. S. Congress to summon a constitutional convention to undo the Supreme Court's reapportionment order.

The Constitution provides in Article 5 that the Congress must summon a constitutional convention when petitioned by two thirds of the states to do so. Petitions of 32 states attest the deep feeling among millions of citizens that the Supreme Court erred on reapportionment and requires to be set right on its responsibilities to the people of the United States and to the legislative branch of government.

Chief Justice Warren was among the court's 6 to 3 majority on Feb. 17, 1964 that imposed on the states legislative apportionment of both houses strictly on the basis of population, partly on geography and partly on veneral principles.

Chief Justice Warren and his court majority were very firm in outlawing this time-honored method of apportionment.

Apportionment was a vastly different in the eyes of Gov. Earl Warren of California during the 1948 political campaign. Here is what Warren said then: "Many California counties are for more important in the life of the state than the ratio their population bears to the entire population of the states. It is for this reason that I never have been in favor of restricting their representation in the state senate: a strictly population basis."

"It is the same reason that the founding fathers of our country gave balanced representation to the states of the union, equal federal representation in one house the Senate and proportionate representation in the other. Moves have been made to upset the balanced representation in our states, even though it has served us well and is strictly in accord with the American tradition and the pattern of our national government.

"There was a time when California was completely dominated by boss rule. The liberal election laws and legislative reapportionment system have liberated us from such domination. Any weakening of the laws would invite a return to the boss rule which we are now happily rid of. Our state has made almost unbelievable progress under our system of legislative representation. I believe we should keep it."

In view of that statement by Warren when he was governor of California, what is the common man to think of Warren's attachment to principle in matters of law, the public welfare and the U. S. Constitution?
