

Secretary McNamara calls Red positions "a Godforsaken area"

SAIGON UPI — With U.S. Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara looking on, American land, sea and air forces unleashed a massive barrage on the North-South Vietnamese border where 1,000 Communists have been killed in eight days, military spokesmen said. McNamara viewed the Communist positions as "a Godforsaken area."

Viet Cong terrorists to the South shadowed McNamara's tour with terror raids Sunday that killed 26 persons, all Vietnamese, and wounded 43, including 14 Americans, in a bus massacre and a mine assault on the largest U.S. billet hotel in Vietnam.

With the secretary in a machinegun bristling helicopter escorted by Marine jets watching, American forces on the border smashed North Vietnamese positions with artillery, the long guns of the big cruisers Boston, St. Paul and Providence and an almost unprecedented strike in 18 missions by U.S. aircraft.

The Marines, whose generals told the secretary the Leathernecks would never be routed out from frontier fortresses by units of five North Vietnamese divisions facing them, uncovered 50 more Communist bodies in the area. It brought the toll to 1,000 since the Leathernecks began smashing the second main North Vietnamese invasion drive in three months.

Leatherneck losses were 143 killed and 718 wounded for the eight days, spokesmen said.

McNamara, who later flew to the Mekong Delta in quest of how many more American troops he may send to Vietnam, surveyed the border area. He praised U.S. troops for driving the Communists to switch their main battle arena from the guerrilla jungles of the Central Highlands to the muddy border where Marines were cutting them down.

"Obviously they (the Communists) are paying a price for that movement because they cannot put as much pressure on the government of Vietnam in that Godforsaken area near the DMZ (the border Demilitarized Zone) as they could in the Central Highlands or in the III Corps Coastal Highlands area where the population is located," the secretary said.

In the Delta McNamara watched a DC47 transport limp in with its fuselage riddled by Viet Cong ground fire. He visited a Special Forces Green Beret camp under threat of Viet Cong attack. He inspected the special mobile barracks of U.S. infantrymen in the Delta which is the rice paddy and Viet Cong stronghold of Vietnam. It is also the future campaign site for the thousands, 100,000 at least, of extra troops U.S. generals are requesting.

McNamara got frank reports on the pacification drive, that all-important Allied campaign to enable the Vietnamese peasant to work better and free of guerrilla harassment. He heard of the progress and the desertions, the assassinations and the "positive but slow" success.

Elsewhere in the war zone U.S. Air Force B52s struck near Saigon and in the Central Highlands against three major Viet Cong troop concentrations. Two of the eight-engine jets collided Friday. The accident cost the life of a major general and five other airmen. Another of the big bombers crashed near Da Nang killing five of the six crewmen.

In a terrorist raid Viet Cong stormed aboard a Vietnamese civilian bus near the great Marine northern bastion at Da Nang and mowed down the passengers. Twenty-two Viet Cong were killed and 11 other passengers wounded.

And a huge blast Sunday night rocked the Capitol Hotel in Saigon's Chinatown. The hotel is the five-story home of U.S. enlisted men and the largest makeshift barracks for Americans in Vietnam. The blast by a Claymore type mine sent thousands of bullet like pellets screaming at the hotel front and at the balcony where Americans stood relaxing and drinking.

Ruether takes contract demands to auto industry

DETROIT UPI — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Ruether today takes his $1 billion package of contract demands to the auto industry.

Ahead are the most turbulent negotiations in more than two decades and the possibility of a strike. The union is militant, and is backed by a strike fund that could reach $65 million before the Sept. 6 expiration of the contracts.

Ruether first calls at General Motors to present his "laundry list" proposals to GM Vice President Louis G. Seaton and Earl R. Bramblett, the company's chief day-to-day negotiator.

The auto union leader was scheduled to present the same demands to Ford Tuesday, Chrysler Corp. Wednesday and American Motors Thursday.

Principal money demands include a "substantial" pay raise for all the industry's 750,000 production workers and an extra increase for the 150,000 skilled trades workers; a guaranteed annual income with a switch from hourly pay to weekly salary status; wage scales for Canadian workers matching American standards, and contract provisions rigidly limiting the right of the companies to subcontract in-plant work or to buy parts from auto suppliers if those firms paid lower wages than the UAW standard.

Other UAW proposals, with secondary priority, include improved insurance and pensions with a cost-of-living escalator built into pensions; increased holiday and vacation time; a long list of changes in work standards, including more rest time for assembly line workers; a boost in overtime payments from time and one-half to double or triple time, and the right of workers to refuse overtime.

The size and complexity of Ruether's proposals, the most comprehensive in the union's history, have bewildered some industry observers. One industry source called Ruether's money demands this year "fantastic" and forecast a long strike unless the UAW scale down the demands.

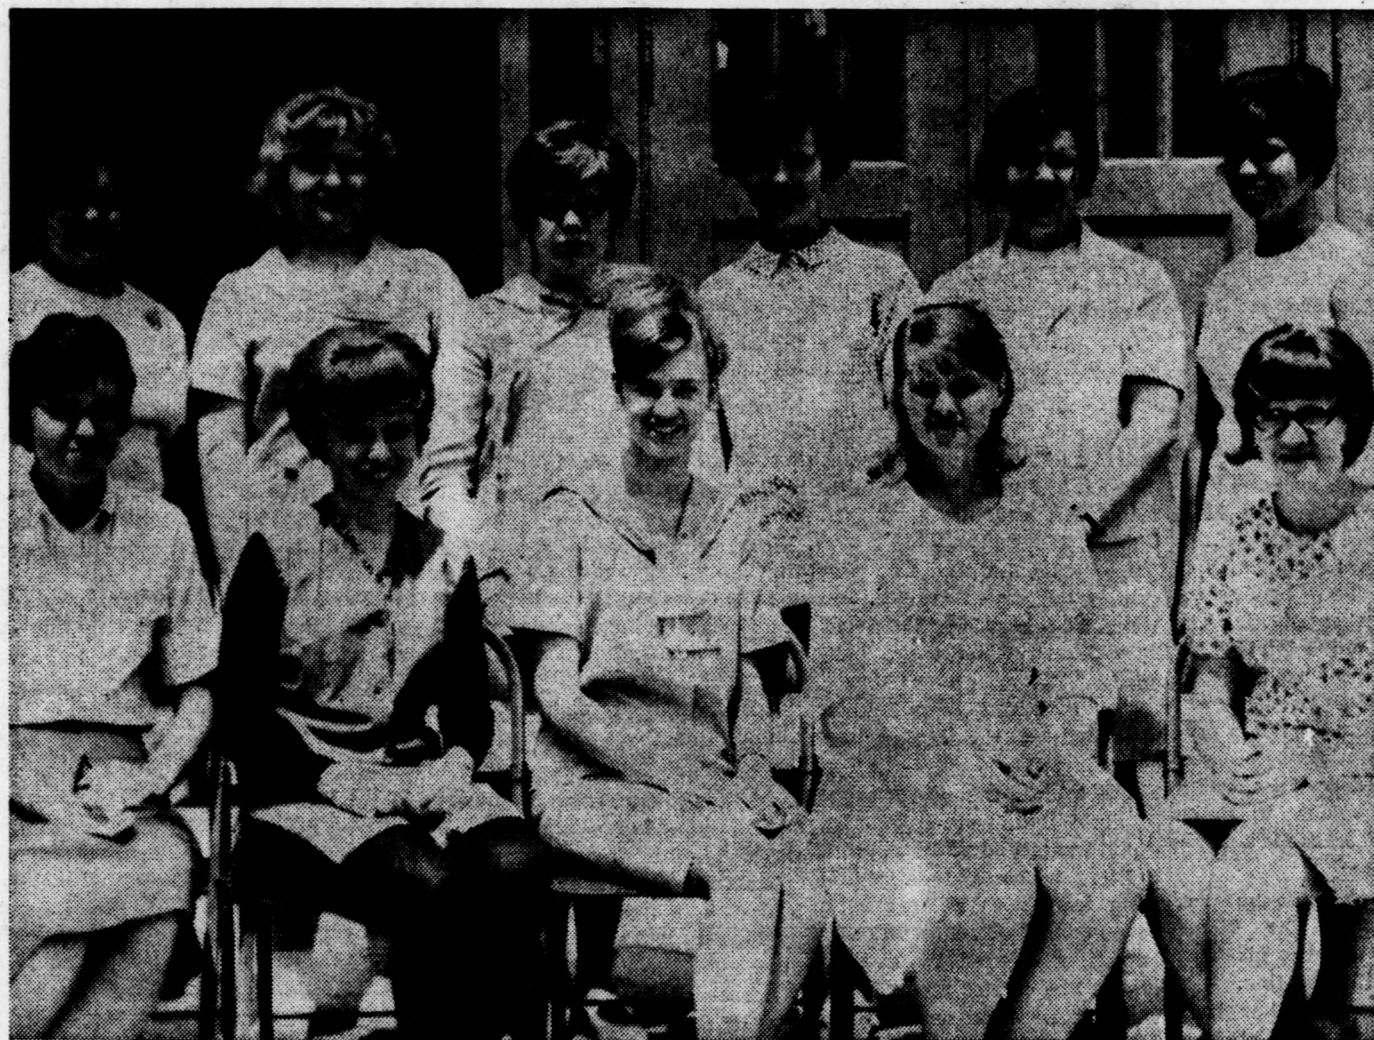

Three fire runs

City firemen were called out at 7:50 Sunday morning when a truck owned by Jack Hanneman caught fire at the intersection of Indiana Street and Shadowlawn. Damage was estimated at between $50 and $75.

Fire Chief Cassell Baley reported this morning that the firemen made two more runs Sunday.

The first run was at 2:45 p.m. when a grass fire was reported on a vacant lot behind the Home Laundry on East Washington Street.

At 8:58 p.m., smoke from a trash fire at the same location resulted in the firemen being called out again.

Lurleen Wallace faces cancer surgery today

HOUSTON UPI — The nation's only woman governor, Mrs. Lurleen Wallace of Alabama, was scheduled to go into surgery for the second time in two years for recurring malignancy this morning.

The surgery was called exploratory by Dr. Lee Clark, director and surgeon-in-chief of M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, but he said there was the possibility a tumor would be removed.

Clark said doctors are certain there is a malignancy, apparently somewhere in the 40-year-old governor's lower abdomen, but they do not know its exact location.

Clark, who was in charge of the surgery, said he did not know how long Mrs. Wallace would be hospitalized or when she would be able to resume duties of governor.

"The normal recovery time for an operation of this time is two to four weeks," Clark said.

George Wallace, the governor's husband who preceded her in the office, became increasingly nervous as the surgery neared, it was reported.

Wallace had remained at his wife's side since she entered the institute Tuesday.

Mrs. Wallace underwent surgery for a uterine malignancy in 1965 and was reported cured, but a routine physical examination recently showed return of the cancer.

Six deaths blamed on severe weather

By United Press International

Heavy downpours, flash flooding, tornadoes and high winds strafe the Midwest Sunday as part of a cloudy weather system that covered the United States from the Rockies to the Atlantic.

At least six weather-related deaths were reported, including four teenagers who drowned when they went wading in the rain-swollen Canadian River near Roy, N. M.

A two-year-old boy drowned while trying to ride his tricycle through a swollen stream and a three-car crash blamed on a heavy rainstorm, killed one person and hospitalized five others at Dakota City, Neb.

In the same area, winds were clocked in excess of 70 miles an hour and numerous funnel clouds were sighted. A tornado destroyed a boxcar, barn and farm machinery near Nome, N. D., Sunday, but no injuries were reported.

Indiana records twelve more weekend traffic deaths

By United Press International

A dozen deaths during the weekend raised Indiana's 1967 traffic fatality toll to at least 697 compared with 773 a year ago.

Heavy traffic kept the pressure on motorists despite the fact it was the weekend after the long Fourth of July holiday, and crashes were numerous.

Two persons were killed on U.S. 35 at the intersection with Indiana 10 in Starke County south of Knox Sunday in a two-car collision. The dead were Edward Lindquist, 72, and Carolyn Carlson, both of Knox, who were riding in one of the cars driven by Lindquist.

Lillian Rogers, 45, Harvey, Ill., and Mabel Melvin, 59, Bedford, were killed Sunday morning in a three-car collision in Sullivan County at the intersection of U.S. 41 and Indiana 48 at Shelburn.

Authorities said a car driven by Raymond Schoffstall of Terre Haute went through a traffic sign and crashed into a car in which Mrs. Rogers was riding, shoving it into a third auto driven by Otto Schaefer, 62, Terre Haute.

Jerry Cullison, 16, Sharpville, was killed Sunday morning when he lost control of his motorcycle on U.S. 41 south of Kokomo in Tipton County.

Betty Shull, 18, Evansville, was killed Saturday night in Posey County east of Mount Vernon in a collision of two motorcycles and a car. The car was driven by David Kelle, 16, R. R. 1, Mount Vernon, who, police said, struck the cycles from the rear.

Ellen Jameson, 17, Lafayette, was killed Sunday morning in White County about three miles south of Springboro when a car in which she was riding with Robert Doyle, 17, Lafayette, swerved out of control and hit a tree.

William Mireley, 14, R. R. 2, Howe, was killed Saturday night when a car in which he was riding with Don Cherington, 17, Sturgis, Mich., went out of control in LaGrange County northwest of Brighton on Indiana 3 and rolled over.

Randy Bridgman, 20, Mount Vernon, was killed Saturday afternoon when a car ran off a Posey County road near Mount Vernon and hit a culvert.

Hundreds perish in Jap typhoon disaster

TOKYO UPI — In Japan's worst such disaster in 10 years, the torrential rains of typhoon Billie today left hundreds dead and missing.

The floods and landslides hit especially hard at the atomic bombed cities of Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

The Kyodo news agency reported that in 16 localities of western Japan on the islands of Kyushu, Honshu and Shikoku 239 persons were killed, 120 missing and 446 injured.

Many of the victims were buried alive by the hundreds of muddy slides from the mountains that overlook Japan's cities. Rescuers said they feared the discovery of more victims might send the casualty total soaring toward the 856 persons killed in 1957 flooding.

The blow fell hardest at noon Sunday at the Hiroshima suburb of Kure. The sky suddenly darkened and burst. Thirty minutes later four persons were buried alive in rain-triggered landslides. The worst was yet to come.

By midday today there had been 146 slides in Kure and at least 140 persons entombed. A river fattened and spread across Kure.

Watery disaster engulfed Japan. Officials reported at least 200,000 homes hit by water. Japanese took to the high ground. But sometimes the high ground came down on them.

At the port city of Sasebo, where U.S. warships were docked, tons of mud spilled down from a hill into a housing area. Fifteen persons were found buried and dead in the slide. Ten others were reported somewhere under the mire.

No justice

CHICAGO UPI — Bartender Matt D'Alessandro told police Sunday a bandit robbed him of his watch and $150 and left him tied-up with the cord from the tavern's burglar alarm.

Indiana records twelve more weekend traffic deaths

Earlier accidents Friday night killed James Fox, 16, Claypool in Kosciusko County when a car and a train collided; Katie Jo Stanley, R. R. 6, Olney, Ill., in Lake County on U.S. 41 near Schneider when a tire from a truck crashed through the windshield of her car, and David V. Omlor, 24, Decatur, on U.S. 27 north of Decatur when a car hit a culvert and overturned.

President grappling with Vietnam strategy, taxes

WASHINGTON UPI — Tanned and rested after the closest he has come to a real vacation since entering the White House, President Johnson was back at his desk today grappling with weighty problems of Vietnam strategy and taxes.

Republicans oppose Viet troop buildup

WASHINGTON UPI — Congressional Republicans, growing restive with the Johnson administration's war policies, took a dim view today of any new U.S. troop buildup in Vietnam.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said in a prepared Senate speech he was opposed to increasing the number of American troops in Vietnam barring "a clear demonstration by our defense experts of an overriding military necessity."

"This conclusion is by no means mine alone," Case said.

Sen. Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., joined Case in opposing "any new infusion of manpower in order to escalate the struggle beyond the point at which we wage it."

"It would not favor any increase which resulted in escalation of the struggle in Vietnam," Javits said Sunday.

Case, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the United States must reserve "the right to withdraw from Vietnam" if the Saigon government balks at U.S. policy objectives.

Case said there has been talk "in high circles within our government and elsewhere" that the United States must accept whatever the South Vietnamese do because "our prestige is already so deeply involved we cannot withdraw."

"This is an intolerable position," Case said. "We must not accept it."

"There is little—if any—chance to prevent catastrophic failure in South Vietnam except by using all our influence and efforts."

"We must exercise the full weight of our influence on every important issue, whether it be to restrain the personal ambitions of military leaders, to force reforms both in the civilian and military establishments, to reduce the corruption and get rid of the corruptors, to restore vigor, discipline and morale to the Vietnamese armed forces and get them doing their job," he said.

The Chief Executive, who arrived in Washington shortly after midnight from an 11-day sojourn in the Texas sun, was awaiting the return of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara from Vietnam to get his eyewitness account of the progress of the war.

According to Walt W. Rostow, Johnson's adviser on national security affairs, the President has not yet made a decision on whether to boost U.S. forces in Vietnam by upward of 100,000 men.

"The question of troops will be decided by the President in light of the review being conducted by Secretary McNamara and his team out there," Rostow said in a television interview Sunday NBC-Meet the Press.

The White House aide acknowledged, however, that there were "increased needs and increased possibilities" for use of additional forces, to counter the Communist buildup along the Demilitarized Zone and to assist in the rural pacification program.

The President may also have the chance to confer with Gen. William C. Westmoreland, U.S. military commander in Vietnam, this week. The general plans to return to the United States to attend the funeral of his mother, Mrs. James R. Westmoreland, 81, who died Sunday at her home in Columbia, S.C.

As for taxes, the President's chief economic adviser, Gardner Ackley, has said there is "no escape" from the fact that taxes will have to be raised before the end of the year.

The feeling on Capitol Hill was that McNamara would bring back a request for more troops and that this, in turn, would mean a demand for more revenues from the White House, since the federal budget deficit already is estimated at rising $13 billion.

Lt. Gentry to speak

First Lt. Lloyd Gentry is at home for two weeks from his tour of duty in Vietnam. He has been asked by the Bainbridge Lions Club to show slides he took while serving in Vietnam and tell about Vietnam at a special meeting in the Lions Club Building Wednesday, July 12, at 8:00 p.m. This is not a regular meeting and the public is invited to attend.

A Local Teenager's View

By JANET STAUB

With the tragic number of deaths counted over the last holiday weekend because of motor vehicles some people may wonder how it all started.

In 1769 Nicolas Cugnot, a French artillery officer, designed and built the world's first self-propelled road vehicle. It was a crude three-wheeled steam tractor for hauling a cannon. The "car" could carry four passengers. For better traction he mounted the engine and the boiler over the single front wheel. That made it very awkward and hard to drive. While testing his invention Cugnot also did another first — he rammed the car into a wall and became the first driver to land in jail for a highway accident.

Cars have gone from steam to gasoline, back to steam, then to electricity, and back to gasoline which now runs them, but it isn't going to stop here because the turbine seems to be on the way.

Dear Folks:

Hevens to Betsy! It came to my attention recently that some of you aren't taking full advantage of your refrigerators.

If you have one, it probably has a large shallow drip tray beneath the ice freezer compartment.

Is yours empty?

It sure shouldn't be.

Do you realize that you can dump four or more ice cube trays into this one large drip pan and always have cubes at hand when you want them? They won't melt.

Just think how many times a day children run in for a cool drink or plain old ice to crunch. How nice if they can simply slide out that tray, grab a chunk and be on their way!

Constant refilling of ice cube trays and dripping water across the floor would be cut to a minimum. And no more running out of ice just before you're ready to serve iced drinks.

What's more, every time that freezing unit door is opened the hot air rushes inside and the ice will build up quickly to the point where you'll have to defrost more often . . .

And who likes that job? This is a real timesaver—the perfect storage spot for those extra ice cubes.

Put it to use!

Dear Heloise:

Here's a little tip for working girls and Moms whose manicure is not up to par. If you'll put a little plastic sandwich bag over each hand when rinsing out stockings, it will save a lot of snags caused from hangnails or a bad fingernail. The bags can be used over and over again.

..... Judy K.

Dear Heloise:

Here is a simple method for clamping small articles (such as earrings) that are being mended by glue.

After gluing the object, pull out a dresser drawer and carefully place the object against the inside top of the drawer. Then close the drawer against it gently and leave it overnight in this position.

No need to hunt up a vise or a clamp, which few of us have anyway.

..... Hazel Evans

Oh, Heloise, let's hope wives who have to do their own mending give this hint of yours a try.

It's the greatest, sweetie pie.

..... Love,

Dear Heloise:

My brothers and I play with toy cars a lot so my parents thought of this wonderful idea for us:

With a marker they drew a plan of our city on an old window shade. They marked streets, certain houses we knew, stores and everything.

We all had the greatest fun for weeks playing with this and running our little cars through the homemade village.

The shade is also very easy to store. Just roll it up and tuck it away in the closet.

..... Rosie Rememberer

Dear Heloise:

My hint concerns those new upright hint dryers for home use.

In order to use mine, I had to sit in an uncomfortable straight chair to be the proper height.

The other day, however, I discovered that I could sit in the most comfortable chair in the house and use the dryer by perching it on top of my adjustable ironing board!

It sure makes drying time more pleasant. No hour wasted sitting in an uncomfortable position. I can relax nicely.

..... Ruby Webb

Dear Heloise:

To make a handy pouring spout on any size fruit jar, cut out the round top of a salt carton, leaving the metal pouring spout intact.

Then just put this cardboard circle on top of your fruit jar and screw on a metal ring.

You will now have a perfect pouring spout for any dry contents in the jar such as cornmeal, sugar, etc.

WASHINGTON UPI—Agriculture Department officials say retail prices for dairy products will continue to level off this summer and the gap between this year's and last year's retail dairy prices will continue to narrow.

In a report on the dairy situation today, the department said prospects are that retail prices will rise less in the third quarter than in 1966. Prices to the farmer for all wholesale milk are expected to average near last year's levels.

Prices farmers received for milk during the first half of 1967 were 10 per cent above a year earlier, the report said. Wholesale and retail prices of dairy products have increased slightly since April, but farm economists say the prices are beginning to level off.

Wholesale prices for May were up 5 per cent from the May, 1966, level while retail prices were about 6 per cent higher.

Wholesale price levels for milk were 8 per cent higher than a year earlier, the report said.

May milk production totaled 11.5 billion pounds, just below a year earlier. This brought production for the first five months of 1967 to 51.8 billion pounds, slightly above the same period in 1966 but still running beyond earlier forecasts predicting a larger gain in production.

Department officials blamed the slower rate of output on low increases in output per cow in the important north Atlantic states and in some of the east north central states.

In addition, cool May weather slowed pasture growth: June 1 pasture averaged 78 per cent of normal, 6 per cent less than a year ago.

The north central states showed the biggest gain in prices farmers received for milk from January through May. Price gains ranged from 12.7 per cent in the west north central region to 4.4 per cent in New England.

The report said prices received for milk sold to plants and dealers from March through June was a record $4.80 per 100 pounds, 10 cents above the previous record in 1948 and 23 cents above the high 1952 level. Prices during those months averaged 88 per cent of parity.

Paratroopers arrive in Congo

KINSHA, The Congo UPI—Three U.S. Air Force C130 transport planes with American paratrooper guards arrived today to bolster the forces of President Joseph D. Mobutu. Fighting still raged at Kisan-gani and Mobutu said rebels there were holding white hostages at the airport.

The American turbo-prop transports carried 150 men consisting of crew members, technical personnel and 45 paratroopers from the 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N.C.

In an interview published by the Congolese press agency, Mobutu said "aggressors" were holding hostages at the airport and that he had ordered his troops not to reoccupy the field. The hostages, including women and children, were believed to be Europeans preparing to return to Europe for a summer vacation.

It was also speculated that foreign correspondents who landed in Kisan-gani Wednesday, the day the fighting broke out, might be among the hostages held by mercenary-led rebels loyal to former Premier Moïse Tshombe.

Mobutu's announcement contradicted earlier reports by the Congolese Radio that government troops were in complete control at Kisan-gani, Bukavu and Kindu. The three towns are in the eastern part of the Congo.

Lawmakers face bad news after ten day holiday

By Frank Eleazer

WASHINGTON UPI—The House and Senate returned from a 10 day Fourth of July recess today to face some bad news about taxes and a legislative workload that may keep them here until Thanksgiving.

The feeling of many members was that Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara would bring back from Vietnam a request for more U. S. troops; that this would trigger a demand from President Johnson for more revenue; and that this in turn would embroil Congress in a late-session wrangle over whether to raise taxes, cut spending, or both.

"No escape" from the fact that taxes will have to be raised before the end of the year.

Key Republican legislators privately agree, despite complaints from most GOP members and a growing number of Democrats that if the economy needs restraint, non-military federal spending should be cut first.

They point to the federal budget deficit for the current fiscal year. It already is estimated at $13 billion, and some people are talking about $29 billion red ink before the year ends next June 30.

According to Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chairman of the joint congressional Economic Committee, a decision to send an additional 100,000 U. S. troops to Vietnam would add $5 billion to the budget deficit.

Last January, the President proposed a 6 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income tax bills, which would bring in about $5 billion a year. But that assumed a budget deficit of only about $8 billion. Thus a bigger tax increase may be in the offing this time; some legislators have been hearing reports that an 8 or 10 per cent surcharge may be proposed.

As for the immediate congressional prospect, House-Senate conferees were greeted with the urgent business of trying to avoid a nationwide railroad strike. They must try to fashion a compromise bill to head off a walkout that has twice been postponed by congressional action.

Fire destroys Co-op elevator

TWELVE MILE, UPI—

Fire destroyed the Cass County Farm Bureau Cooperative grain elevator here Sunday, and manager James Dillon today estimated the loss at $100,000 to $150,000.

Firemen from seven communities fought the blaze for four hours.

Fire Chief Byron Moss of the Twelve mile department believed a bird carried a lighted cigarette to the upper part of the elevator structure to set off the flames.

The loss included about 7,800 bushels of corn, 1,200 bushels of wheat and 1,000 bushels of oats stored in the elevator. It also included a mill building.

Several homes nearby were threatened by the fire. Tractors were used to pull six Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad boxcars from a siding to keep them from burning.

Firemen from Logansport, Peru, Mexico, Denver, Fulton and Lucerne helped battle the blaze.

A meeting was scheduled today to decide whether to rebuild.

Continue probe of fatal house fire

INDIANAPOLIS UPI—Authorities continued probing today into a fatal house fire here Friday night which homicide detectives said had to be considered murder because arson was involved.

The victim, Mrs. Lulu Carpenter, 41, Indianapolis, died Saturday morning from burns over 100 per cent of her body suffered in the blaze at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ellen Wright.

Police said they were continuing to question witnesses in operation with fire department investigators, but no arrests have been made.

Officers said gasoline, kerosene and another flammable liquid had been poured in the residence which later was engulfed in flames. An empty five-gallon gasoline can was found at the home.

Mrs. Wright told police she had received several threats in connection with testimony being given by her husband, Thomas Wright, in a Chicago court case involved a stolen car ring.

Mrs. Carpenter had stopped at her daughter's home briefly Friday night to pick up diapers when the home caught fire. She needed the diapers for children for whom she babysitted.

The blaze destroyed the home and caused an estimated $1,000 damage when it spread to an adjacent residence.

Two firemen were treated for minor injuries while fighting the blaze, and two other persons were treated for shock.

Authorized to invoke sanctions

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. UPI—

The president and executive secretary of the National Education Association had authority today to invoke sanctions against the Fort Wayne, Ind., school system if they were requested.

The NEA executive committee voted the authorization here Saturday at a closing business session of its annual convention.

Fort Wayne teachers affiliated with the NEA recently won a battle when a judge issued an order enjoining the school superintendent and school board from certain contract-signing practices and teachers claimed violated state law.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

PRESIDENT JOHNSON likes to tell this story about a fellow-politician from Texas: Tom Connally. Connally was emoting one day on his favorite subject—the limitless beauties of the Lone Star state. He began with the beautiful piney woods of East Texas, rambled on through the bluebonnets and the fertile plains, down through the hill country to the Gulf Coast, then all the way back to the piney woods with all the stops. When it became evident that he intended to repeat the tour, an old skeptic in the back of the hall (possibly an Oklahoman) called out, "The next time you go through Lubbock, how about letting me off?"

A magician and his wife, whom he was wont to saw in half at the climax of the act, retired after a full twenty years on the vaudeville circuit, and opened a dairy outside Los Angeles. The sign over the doorway reads, "Milk sold here by the half gal."

Who says it's a dull and cheerless world? In a single week a tireless researcher for the Insider's Newsletter came up with the following scoops:

1. Angered by his dismissal, the warden of a jail in Brazil let out all the inmates on his last day in office. The police rounded them all up and the count in jail is now increased by one—the former warden.

2. The University of Washington, with an enrollment of more than 26,000 sponsored a panel discussion on student apathy; 20 persons showed up.

3. The latest what-to-do-in-case-of-emergency card, now carried by fun-loving Florida vacationers, reads, "I am not diabetic or ill in any way. Please do not give me first aid or medication. Just take me home. I'M DRUNK."

The Lighter Side

Breathes there a man with soul so dead who never to himself hath said, "Gee, I wish I could dance like Jose Greco?"

Probably not. Or anyway you would have to go a long way to find one.

Greco is the alter ego of all of us middle-aged parties who never mastered anything more graceful than the businessman's bounce and who never get out on the dance floor now except under extreme duress.

Some of us may not publicly admit this, but down deep in his secret heart of hearts every man knows that it's true. Greco is the only male dancer we can identify with.

We may enjoy watching a ballet, as I do. But we never picture ourselves up there on the stage, leaping and flitting about in our longjohns.

The same thing is true of the type of dancing done by Fred Astaire and Gene Kelly. I get as much kick as anybody out of watching old Fred or Gene propel Ginger Rogers across a ballroom floor.

But I know full well that if I took Ginger Rogers out to dinner at some smart supper club and she got to looking like she wanted me to ask her to dance, I would stay rooted to my chair.

It is the flamenco that sets a man to dreaming. This is the kind of stuff we all instinctively feel we would be good at.

What man at a Greco performance has not closed his eyes and seen himself in those shiny tight pants and black mini-jacket, stomping up a storm and casting haughty glances at the swirling senoritas?

Yet nifty costumes and catchy rhythms alone are not enough to bring out the Walter Mitty in us. On a recent evening when Greco and his company of Spanish dancers were appearing here I asked a flamenco expert to explain its special appeal.

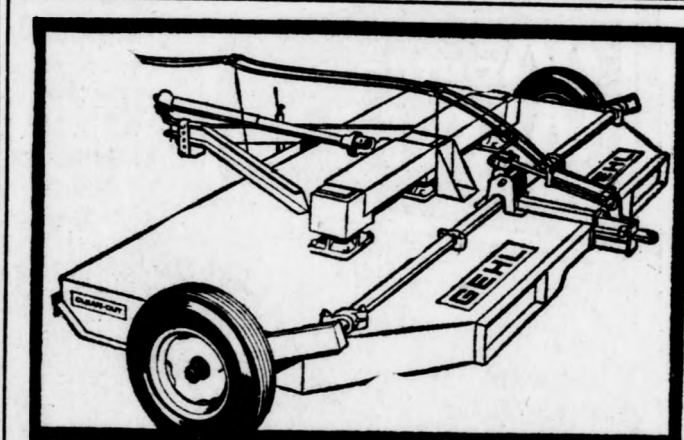

"Basically there are two things," he said. "Stamping one's feet is a natural instinct. Yet most children are forbidden by their parents to stamp their feet. Consequently they become frustrated.

"Then, as grown-ups, they see Spanish dancers freely stamping about and it releases their pent-up longings."

"That makes sense," I said. "What's the other reason?"

"The flamenco," he said, "is practically the only kind of dancing that permits a man to dance with his hat on."

Colombia, nearly nine times the size of New York state, is the only country in South America with coastland on both the Pacific and the Caribbean.

Gen. Ike enters Army hospital

GETTYSBURG, Pa. UPI — Eisenhower's aide, Brig. Gen. Robert L. Schulz, said Eisenhower's doctors recommended the dental work and checkup. Since leaving the White House, Eisenhower has had periodic examinations at Walter Reed.

Gen. Eisenhower was expected to drive from Gettysburg to Washington during the afternoon. He was expected to stay several days at the hospital.

He was last in the hospital in May, when he spent 13 days after suffering an attack of gastroenteritis, an inflammation of the digestive tract.

IAM sets week deadline for congress to act on rail strike

WASHINGTON UPI — The International Association of Machinists (IAM) is giving Congress one more week to work out legislation to block a nationwide rail strike.

P. L. (Roy) Siemiller, in a weekend interview with United Press International, said his membership would not wait indefinitely for Congress to act.

Siemiller said when the union promised the Senate and House it would not strike while the lawmakers were attempting to work out a compromise, it did not anticipate Congress taking a 10-day holiday.

"Unless there is action by the Congress, we would have to notify both the Senate and the House that we would have to withdraw the letter that we gave them," Siemiller said.

"I do not believe that our members will sit tight and stay in the shop even though we ask them to do so over an extended period of time.

"In my judgment, we would be willing to give them a week. Depending upon what happens and the results at that particular time would determine whether or not we would withdraw the letter."

Senate and House negotiators are scheduled to resume meetings Tuesday in an attempt to work out a compromise on President Johnson's anti-strike bill. They were unable to reach agreement after nearly a week of meetings before the 10-day July 4 recess.

The Senate bill calls for compulsory arbitration of the issues if agreement is not reached after 90 more days of mediation and negotiation. The House measure would merely extend the deadline another 90 days and unions would be free to strike if no agreement is reached by the end of that period.

Hong Kong bus stormed by Reds

HONG KONG UPI — Three hundred Communists stormed a bus in the heart of the Kowloon tourist section today, smashing windows and beating the bus driver.

The attack marred an uneasy quiet in the British crown colony and followed a weekend of bloody violence that killed nine persons and injured scores of others. Riot police broke up the disturbance.

British army troops, reinforced by a battalion of tough Gurkhas, patrolled the Shataukok border area where machine-gun fire from the Communist Chinese side killed five Hong Kong policemen Saturday. A British army commander appealed to his Chinese counterpart to help prevent further border fighting.

At least four other persons were killed Sunday when police and Communist demonstrators battled in the western part of Hong Kong.

A series of riots and demonstrations flared throughout the colony Sunday and was capped Sunday night when a Chinese civilian tossed a "fish bomb" into the British half of the divided border village of Shataukok. The blast injured one soldier.

The British army commander, Lt. Col. Denis O'Leary, broadcast an appeal to the commander of Chinese soldiers in the Communist side of Shataukok asking his cooperation in preventing another outbreak of violence.

A government spokesman said later, "there has been no response from the Chinese army to the appeal, but there have been no further incidents."

Gurkha Commander Lt. Col. Ronald McAllister said Sunday that Communist Chinese army troops had manned the machine guns which raked a Hong Kong police post on Saturday and killed five policemen.

Opening lead—five of spades.

This hand occurred in the match between Argentina and Jamaica during the Second World Bridge Olympiad staged in New York in 1964.

Here is how Arturo Jaques, the Argentine South, described the deal in the June, 1964, issue of the Bridge World magazine:

"My partner, Marcelo Lerner, and I ordinarily use very simple Acol bidding, but what bid, other than a heart, could I make after my partner's one diamond response? I had no spade stopper for a notrump, and three clubs would not be particularly illuminating. And besides, how can partner possibly bid the notrump with my heart holding?

"But now he jumps to three hearts, and again I'm stuck for a bid. I think that bidding three notrump without a spade stopper is surely out of the question, and in this situation a bid of three spades (after a jump) is not regular four-suit forcing and must show a spade control. I could see no way out, so I just bid four hearts and hoped for the best.

"When dummy came down I noted with great displeasure that three notrump was ice cold, and that my brilliant (!) bidding had succeeded in getting us to the wrong contract.

"On the lead of a small spade I went up with the ace and played the A-K of clubs followed by the jack—unfortunately ruffed by West with the six.

"I overruffed in dummy, led a small diamond to the ace, and then played the ten of clubs, dummy discarding a spade. Then I led still another club, discarding dummy's last spade, and East now ruffs and returns a low trump.

"By this time the position is clear. I put in the heart nine, which fetches the ace, and I am lucky to bring home ten tricks for my contract."

Police fight with rioters in Kansas City; 11 arrested

KANSAS CITY, Mo. UPI — Police and about 150 Negroes engaged in a two-hour clash in Swopes Park Sunday night in which a hail of rocks and bottles was answered by tear gas.

Police mobilized a 60-man tactical squad and assigned it to patrol duty in the wake of the disorder.

The Rev. John Bethel, who identified himself as the housing chairman for the Council on Racial Equality (CORE), blamed police for the incident and cited a number of complaints including "police brutality." Police said the incident arose when four officers attempted to make arrests and a crowd interfered.

Bethel also revealed that militant "black power" advocate Stokely Carmichael was scheduled to arrive in Kansas City today, but said the trip was planned before Sunday's disturbance.

He said Carmichael would be asked to "help civil rights leaders determine a course of action."

A police spokesman said the special "tactical squad" of 60 officers would "concentrate on any situation that needs more control than the ordinary force can provide."

Officers arrested 11 persons after the Swopes Park incident on charges of disorderly conduct and failure to obey officers. Missiles thrown by the crowd broke windows or dented four police cruisers and several private vehicles.

One Negro and one policeman were injured, neither seriously.

Body of man is found

FORT WAYNE, UPI — The body of Tracey Goyer, 30, Fort Wayne, was found hidden in tall grass along Indiana 1 Sunday night, and authorities believed he was a Fourth of July weekend traffic accident victim.

A 14-year-old girl found the body and a motorcycle lying flat in the high grass nearby. Investigators believed Goyer was killed on the holiday when his cycle struck a pole and hit a fence, the vehicle and body landing in such a position they could not be seen by motorists.

The accident happened inside Fort Wayne.

Police identified the body through fingerprints. They said nobody had reported Goyer missing.

Beard wins 500 Festival Open with nine under par

INDIANAPOLIS UPI — Frank Beard called it an "un-eventful" round, but winning the "500" Festival Open golf tournament with a closing rush had netted him a $20,000 paycheck today and his third on-the-tour triumph of the year.

Beard, 28, a native of Dallas who now calls Louisville, Ky., home, won the $100,000 event over the long-playing Speedway Court by three strokes Sunday with 6-under-par shooting on the final two days and a 72-hole score of 279. That's nine under regulation figures for the four-day match.

Winner of the Tournament of Champions and at Houston,

Beard was never far off the pace. He set the stage for his charge at three-day leader Rod Funseth with a 69 Saturday and equalled that score on the final round in drizzly, humid weather.

Funseth, who hasn't won a major tourney in more than two years, had to settle for a second-place tie with Rives McBe, who also had a closing round of 69 for a 6-under-par 282. Joe Campbell was next at 283, followed by Gene Littler 284, Bob Goalby 285, Billy Casper, Steve Spray and R. H. Sikes 286, Roger Ginsberg 287, and Butch Baird and Bobby Nichols at par 288.

Beard, relying on steady tee to green play, trailed Funseth by two strokes with 18 holes to go and figured he would be in business with a 4-under-par 68. But when Funseth faltered amid the pressure of leading three straight days and his score soared to a two-over-par 74, Beard was "in."

He missed only one green on his final round, the par 3, 174-yard 13th, but managed a three without trouble. He parred every hole except for three front-nine birdies on Nos. 4, 7 and 8.

Twins beat Sox two games; tighten race

"September in the American League will be no place for faint hearts."

Mayo Smith spoke those words of wisdom Sunday in Detroit and the echo could have been heard in the Chicago and Minnesota dressing rooms after the Twins beat the White Sox in a doubleheader 7-4 and 5-1 to tighten the American League race.

Eddie Stanky welcomed the All-Star break for the White Sox. Cal Elmer was grateful his Twins bounced back and Smith, in all his politeness, spoke of how fortunate it was the Tigers were that close.

At the halfway mark, only 2½ games separate the first-place White Sox and the third-place Twins-with the Tigers sandwiched in two games behind the league leaders.

It was the Tigers who made hay while Chicago and Minnesota battled to a split in a four-game series.

That was until 24-year-old Jim Lonborg of the Boston Red Sox came along and beat Detroit 3-0 in the second game of the doubleheader to halt the Tigers' seven-game winning streak and a rush on first place. Detroit won the first game 10-4.

Ryun's record paces U.S. win

LOS ANGELES UPI — "Jim Ryun? They haven't invented the word to properly describe him."

With those words of adulation, United States head Coach Jim Bush pretty well summed up today what transpired as his U.S. team defeated the best of the British Commonwealth, 356-295, in the Times International Games.

The final team tally showed that the U.S. men clipped their Commonwealth counterparts, 254-170, while the British Empire women edged the American girls, 125-102.

A combined two-day crowd of 44,949 watched an impressive dual meet in which several outstanding personal marks were achieved as 13 meet records fell, but the 20-year-old soft-spoken Kansan stood alone at the apex.

In contrast to Ryun's fantastic record-shattering run of 3:33.1 to lop two and a half seconds off the 1,500 meter record he considered the toughest to break, everything else was anti-climactic.

"We've had several eras in mile runners," Bush explained. "Bannister, Elliott, Shell, but Ryun's taken charge by such a big margin at such an early age, that this marks are bound to last longer."

The closest thing to approximate the long-legged Ryun's performance in eclipsing Australian Herb Elliott's seven-year-old standard set in the 1960 Rome Olympics was the colorful iron-man antics of Kenya's Kipchoge Keino.

Miss Bardahl wins Gov. Cup

MADISON UPI — Miss Bardahl, with pilot Bill Schumacher aboard, won the 14th annual Governor's Cup race for unlimited hydroplanes in the Madison Regatta on the Ohio River Sunday.

The Seattle-based craft piled up 1,100 points to win the regatta feature while Harrah's Club was second with 925, My Gypsy third with 794, Wayfar-

American League looks for first victory since 1962

ANAHEIM, Calif. UPI — The American League which hasn't won an All-Star game since 1962 leaned toward ex-local boy Dean Chance to break the National League's dominance Tuesday while high-kicking Juan Marichal will be named to continue it.

Chance, of the Minnesota Twins, was a Cy Young Award winner with the California Angels and has an 11-7 record this season. Manager Hank Bauer of the American League was expected to name him officially as the junior circuit starter while Walt Alston of the National League was reported all set to go with the San Francisco Giants' Marichal, 12-7.

Pitching, however, was not the major problem confronting

Bauer who has to decide which are the healthy players in his Arnica brigade.

The American League team lost its two leading sluggers, Al Kaline of Detroit and Frank Robinson of Bauer's own Baltimore Orioles, the day the team selections were announced.

And if that isn't enough, Bauer has to decide if Harmon Killebrew of the Twins, teammate Rod Carew and Rico Petrocelli of the Boston Red Sox are well enough to perform in the annual classic.

Because of the injury problem that has plagued the American League team, the senior circuit was favored 13-10 in the Las Vegas odds to win the game Tuesday.

The biggest problem that

Walter Alston had to solve was how to arrange his outfielders. Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves, Roberto Clemente of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Lou Brock of the St. Louis Cardinals play right field normally. Alston indicated prior to his arrival here today for the press conference at which he said he would make public his lineup that he would play Brock in left field, Aaron at center field and Clemente in right field.

The California Angels management predicted a near-capacity crowd of 46,000 for the 38th renewal of the All-Star game which was scheduled to get underway at 4:15 p.m., PDT, (7:15 p.m., EDT).

Eight-man field chosen to find heavyweight successor

NEW YORK UPI — Floyd Patterson and Jerry Quarry were expected to complete the eight-man field today for the World Boxing Association tournament to find a successor to deposed heavyweight champion Cassius Clay.

Patterson was scheduled to attend a news conference here along with Ernie Terrell of Chicago, Philadelphia's Leotis Martin and Germany's Karl Mildenberger, who previously joined the tournament field.

Patterson and Quarry, who fought to a bloody 10-round draw last month, will meet in a rematch in the first round of the tournament. The bout is expected to be held in Los Angeles in September.

The other first round bouts pit Mildenberger against Argentine Oscar Bonavena in Frankfurt, Germany, on Sept. 16, and Terrell against Thad Spencer of San Francisco and Louisville's James Ellis versus Martin in a doubleheader at Houston's Astrodome on Aug. 5.

Sports Action Inc. (SAC) has organized the tournament with the blessing of the WBA. The New York State Athletic Commission originally had planned to recognize the winner of the tourney as champion, but withdrew its sanction last week when it was believed that Patterson and Quarry might not enter.

The only two fighters among the top 10 who are not entered in the tournament are second-ranked Joe Frazier of Philadelphia and Canadian George Chuvalo, who will meet in a 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden on July 19.

Brandt slugs Astros to win over Cubs

The first bonus baby ever signed by the St. Louis Cardinals is now giving old-age insurance to the Houston Astros. Jackie Brandt, who was not even remembered by the scout who had signed him one year after getting a $12,000 bonus from the Cards in 1954, he-minded everybody that he is still around by knocking in three runs with three hits Sunday to lift the Astros out of last place with a 6-0 triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Brandt has spent a major league lifetime playing a role of the fleet, young hot-shot who seemed always a bat's width away from stardom. In 1956 when he broke in with the Cards, General Manager Frank Lane greeted his arrivals by boasting, "The kid looks almost too good to be true."

Then Brandt was shipped to the Giants and Vice President Horace Stoneham declared in 1957, "Jackie is the whole ball-player."

It's now 11 years and five teams since observers around the Cardinals' spring training camp were calling Brandt, "the next Mickey Mantle." He is no longer tabbed as a potential star, but rather as an occasional fill-in.

Elsewhere in the National League, New York nipped Atlanta 5-4, Pittsburgh downed Cincinnati 2-1, Philadelphia defeated St. Louis 4-3 in 10 innings and San Francisco edged Los Angeles in 10 innings 1-0.

In the American League Washington took a pair from Cleveland 8-5 and 4-2, Detroit split with Boston, taking the opener 10-4 and dropping the nightcap 3-0. Minnesota swept a pair from Chicago 7-4 and 5-1, California whipped Kansas City 4-2 and Baltimore took New York 2-1 after losing a game suspended from Saturday night, 3-1.

Thinking of playing a major league sport in the United States? Size is no handicap in the National Professional Soccer League. Of the 176 players in the leagues, only 42 are taller than 6 feet.

Two men face murder charges

INDIANAPOLIS UPI — Two men faced preliminary murder charges today in connection with separate slayings over the weekend in the Hoosier capital.

James Radcliff, 46, Indianapolis, was held in connection with the beating death Saturday evening of Russell Hansbrook, 46, Indianapolis, at Radcliff's home. Police said Radcliff contended he hit Hansbrook over the head with a bumper jack in self defense.

Jodi Murphy, 44, Indianapolis, was held in connection with the shooting death of Virgil Brown, 37, also of Indianapolis, Sunday morning. Police said Brown was shot twice in the head with a 22-caliber revolver at the home of Murphy's estranged wife.

Summit meeting of Arab leaders

With a friendly Russian fleet sailing nearby, Arab leaders gathered in Cairo today for their first summit talks since losing a six-day war with Israel last month.

King Hussein of Jordan, whose last flight to Cairo produced a surprising alliance with his former foe, Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser, flew from Amman to join Nasser and Algerian President Houari Boumedienne.

His plane left only hours after the United Nations Security Council empowered Secretary General Thant to supervise the hot Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire line on the Suez Canal and after Moscow announced its "good-will" warship fleet would visit Port Said and Alexandria in the war zone.

More Arab leaders were reported en route to Cairo.

Israeli, which announced it was setting up a lighthouse "presence" in the disputed Gulf of Aqaba, also denied officially in Jerusalem that it had received peace feelers from Cairo or Amman to end the Middle East conflict. Observers said the summit gave little sign of opening any peace drive.

Sources in Beirut said Hussein, bitter over his army's crushing defeat by Israel and the loss of his valuable territory on the west bank of the Jordan River, was considering a dramatic swing toward the left.

They said he might align his policies with those of such hardline anti-Israeli leaders as Nasser, Boumedienne, Syrian President Dr. Nureddin Atassi and Iraqi President Abdel Rahman Aref.

Atassi and Aref were expected in Cairo later today.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Premier Levi Eshkol expressed public unhappiness at the manpower and financial cost of his nation occupying large parts of Egypt, Syria and Jordan. Quoting a Hebrew adage that he who increases his possessions multiplies his headaches, Eshkol said, "the dowry is fine but the bride is a bit too much to swallow."

But he insisted only a satisfactory peace arrangement would send Israeli occupation forces home.

The action of Hussein was considered especially serious. Before June brought the third Arab-Israeli war, the Western-oriented monarch was considered perhaps the most reasonably Western of Arab leaders. But his talks last week with President Johnson and other Western leaders apparently did not soothe his anger at the war's outcome.

U.S. planes hit fuel oil dumps

SAIGON UPI—American pilots slicing through vicious anti-aircraft fire bombed and virtually destroyed two North Vietnamese fuel oil dumps on the outskirts of Haiphong, an American spokesman said today. Two planes were shot down and both pilots lost.

Other American raiders teamed up with three U.S. Navy cruisers in the Sunday attacks to bombard North Vietnamese artillery positions inside the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ) where at least 1,000 Communists have been killed in the past eight days.

The artillery positions have been hammering American Marine outposts along the North-South border almost continually for the past couple of weeks.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara, who flew over the area and watched the bombardment from a helicopter, shifted his battlefield tour to the Mekong Delta today. He visited a U.S. Green Beret camp threatened by Viet Cong attack and the barracks ship command post for the new mobile American river assault forces in the area.

Communist terror attacks continued to intensify during McNamara's visit. At least 30 persons were killed and 45 more, including 14 Americans, were injured in a series of Viet Cong strikes.

The worst was near the U.S. Marine bastion of Da Nang where a civilian bus hit a Viet Cong mine. Then terrorists leaped from ambush positions, entered the bus and mowed passengers down. A spokesman said 22 Vietnamese were killed and 11 injured.

The planes shot down brought the number of jets lost over North Vietnam to 602. Some of the pilots said the flak around Haiphong was the heaviest they had ever seen.

The pilots teamed up with the mighty guns of three American cruisers—the Boston, St. Paul and Providence—to hit the Communist artillery sites. It was part of this barrage that McNamara, accompanied by Gen. William C. Westmoreland, watched from a helicopter flying 2,000 meet above the area.

Boy drowns in Flatrock Creek

COLUMBUS UPI—An 18-year-old Columbus boy drowned in Flatrock River late Sunday afternoon while swimming with his girl friend.

Becky Ping, 18, of Columbus, told police Earl Wells was swimming underneath the Highway 31 bridge of the river and swam out of sight behind one of the concrete piling. Miss Ping said she heard Wells cry out her name several times, then she did not see or hear him again.

Rat proved to be an opossum

COLUMBUS UPI—Nurses in the Bartholomew County Hospital emergency ward had an unexpected visitor this morning. Columbus police dispatcher Sgt. Fred Ziebler received a call from an excited nurse saying there was "a rat in the emergency room."

Two patrolmen found two nurses pointing trembling fingers toward a skinny gray tail under a heating register.

A quick pull of the tail revealed a bewildered opossum, obviously seeking shelter from the rainy Columbus weather.

Hoosier killed in Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. UPI — Leland S. Crumley, 36, Crawfordsville, Ind., was killed Sunday in a head-on collision near Nashville which also killed Roy Patterson, 23, Nashville.

Escapes from U.S. penitentiary

TERRE HAUTE UPI—Carl Nagy, 31, who was serving a three-year term for interstate transportation of a stolen car, escaped today from a work detail outside the Federal Penitentiary here.

Another prisoner, Charles McIntyre, who escaped last Wednesday from a similar outside work detail, was captured Sunday in Louisville. He was serving a three-year term for tampering with a mail box.

Italians censure poet Ginsberg

SPOLETO, Italy UPI—Police today asked a judge to charge bearded American "hippie" poet Allen Ginsberg with reading obscene verse at the Spoleto Festival.

Composer Giancarlo Menotti, festival chief, said lawyers will be offered Ginsberg and "non serious consequence is expected." Police filed the complaint after debating three hours with Ginsberg at their headquarters.

Shriners gather in Washington

WASHINGTON UPI—More than 100,000 red-fuzzed Shriners and their families were on hand today to inaugurate the 93rd convention of the ancient Arabic Order of the Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

The highlight of the week-long meeting of the Masonic Order will be two parades—one during the day on Tuesday, and one at night on Thursday. Some 25,000 are expected to march.

Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, a noble of Zuhrah Temple of Minneapolis, was scheduled to serve as grand marshal of the Tuesday parade.

102 unhurt in airliner crash

CASABLANCA, Morocco UPI — A Soviet-built Air Guinea airliner crashed on landing today but all 102 persons aboard were reported unhurt.

Airport spokesmen said the turbo-prop Ilyushin-18 overshot the runway. Its left wing hit the ground. The big craft stopped about 200 yards from the runway.

Dutch settlers first came to South Africa in 1652.

PLEASURE CARS FOR YOU

Nicklaus picked as 11-4 favorite for British Open

HOYLAK, England UPI—Jack Nicklaus doesn't agree with the oddsmakers who are betting he'll retain his title in the British Open golf championship, which starts Wednesday.

Nicklaus can find a lot of reasons why he should not have been installed as a heavy 11-4 favorite and most of them add up to tradition and the wind-swept 6,995-yard par 36-36-72 Royal Liverpool course.

British Open history bears out Nicklaus on the jinx attached with winning successive tournaments. Arnold Palmer, who is absent from this year's open, won in 1961 and again in 1962. But before that the list of non-repeaters is long.

The bookmakers who made Nicklaus favorite, back up their reasoning in that the Royal Liverpool course has been changed and lengthened just enough to favor the long-driving Nicklaus.

The blond blaster from Columbus, Ohio, played the windswept course Saturday and failed to agree he could easily add the British Open to his 1967 U.S. Open crown.

"It's a real tough course," said Nicklaus Sunday. "Definitely the toughest I have ever played in Britain. A high score could win this tournament and breaking 70 over this course will be difficult."

The links of the Royal Liverpool Club are mostly flat on low level sand dunes and completely unprotected from the gale winds which sweep across the Wirral Peninsula of the Irish Sea.

Gay Brewer, the Masters champion and Gary Player of South Africa are listed as 6-1 choices in the competition which has drawn 130 players.

Joining the American contingent are Phil Rodgers of San Diego, Calif.; Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif.; Bert Yancey of Philadelphia; Deane Beman of Bethesda, Md.; Bob Falkenburg of Los Angeles, a former Wimbledon tennis champion and Bob Sweeney of Palm Beach, Calif.

Miss Bardahl

er's Club Lady fourth with 769 and Miss Lapeer fifth at 700.

Miss Bardahl, owned by Ole Bardahl of Seattle and powered by a Rolls-Royce V-12 engine, averaged 97.110 miles per hour. But Miss U.S., who developed ignition trouble and could not compete in the main event in quest of a fourth championship, turned in the fastest heat time of 100.737.

Miss Lapeer had the fastest lap, at a speed of 103.448. The triumph was important to Schumacher, who is racing on the circuit this year for the first time. In three races, he has won twice, including a victory at Tampa recently.

Lt. Gov. Robert L. Rock made the presentation of the trophy.

A crowd estimated by police at slightly under 50,000 watched the race. Many hometown folk cheered for Miss Madison, owned by the host community. But the craft threw a rod in a preliminary heat and did not run in the main event.

Hoosier killed in plane crash

TOMAH, Wis. UPI—A plane crash on the Aomah Airport runway Sunday killed a Fort Wayne, Ind., man en route to a fishing trip in Northern Wisconsin and injured two companions.

Dead was Russell Wells, 67. Injured were the pilot, John Rarick, 48, and Rickey Beyhan, 17, of Fort Wayne.

Authorities said the light single-engine plane took off from the Aomah Airport at about 11:15 a. m., but stalled over the end of the runway and nosed into a ditch along U. S. 12. Wells died at the scene.

Rarick and Beyhan were taken to Tomah Memorial Hospital and were reported in fair condition.

The group was traveling to Rice Lake, Wis., for a fishing trip at Rarick's cabin there. They had stayed overnight at Tomah because of bad weather.

Boy's life is saved by alert cab driver

INDIANAPOLIS UPI—The life of a 10-year-old boy pulled from a closed private swimming pool was saved Sunday by a cab driver who revived him by mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. Stephen Rush, Indianapolis, disappeared beneath the surface of a pool at Stouffer's Inn on the city's north side. His brother, Luther, 11, ran to busy N. Meridian St. and flagged cab driver Donald H. Ratliffe, 25, who works part-time as a lifeguard at a Brown County camp for youths.

Ratliffe climbed a fence enclosing the pool, which was not yet in use at the recently opened inn, jumped into the water and pulled the boy out. The lad was taken to a hospital but soon recovered.

Westmoreland, LBJ to confer

WASHINGTON UPI—President Johnson expects to meet with Gen. William C. Westmoreland after the U.S. commander in Vietnam attends the funeral of his mother this week in Columbia, S.C.

The White House reported this today as Johnson, back from a 10-day rest at his Texas ranch, returned to his desk to grapple with such weighty problems as Vietnam strategy and taxes.

Apart from announcing a 5:30 p.m. EDT meeting with AFL-CIO President George Meany, the White House gave no details of the President's day except to say that he was "working mainly with staff members on action items."

Before making decisions on a troop increase or other new courses of action in Vietnam, Johnson is awaiting the return of Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara this week from an on-the-scene survey in the battle area. Press Secretary George Christian emphasized that McNamara's trip "involves a great deal more" than the question of an increase in U.S. manpower.

Noting that McNamara was accompanied by Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach, Christian told reporters:

"I'm sure they're going into all facets of the present situation—the increased military activity, pacification, the coming election, how we are spending our dollars—just about the whole gamut of American activities there, in conjunction with South Vietnam and our allies. I'm sure that any reports . . . will cover a great many things affecting the overall situation in Vietnam."

Westmoreland, according to reports, has asked for more troops. But Walt W. Rostow, Johnson's adviser on national security affairs, says the President has not yet made a decision on whether to boost the forces.

Awaiting word of 'lost' coffin

NEEDHAM, Mass. UPI—The family of Marine Lt. Michael Downey, killed by a Viet Cong land mine in Vietnam 10 days ago, waited today for word on his "lost" coffin.

"We just don't know where Mike is," Mrs. Philip H. Tyler of Heendah, the dead Marine's mother, said Sunday night. "This has been a double tragedy for us."

Mike's brother, Capt. Paul G. Downey, was given "compassionate leave" to accompany the body home but when he arrived in San Francisco Sunday he discovered the coffin had been "lost" en route from Vietnam.

The family said Paul was "walking up and down the rows of caskets" at the Treasure Island Navy Base, searching for his brother's coffin.

Mrs. Tyler was not bitter about the mixup, however. "Everyone has tried to be helpful," she said.

NO LETUP

WASHINGTON UPI—The commandant of the U. S. Coast Guard reports that almost as many people are fleeing Cuba today as did during the height of the Castro revolution.

Adm. W. J. Smith told a House appropriations subcommittee in testimony made public Sunday that "although much of the public interest in the original exodus from Cuba has died away in the past year, there are almost as many people leaving the country now by various . . . means of transportation."

July was named after Julius Caesar and August for Augustus, the first Roman emperor.

Television In Review

HOLLYWOOD UPI — A gentleman from Hampton Bays, N. Y., wrote to TV Guide magazine a while back about a matter that is positively crucial to those of us who admit to addiction to late-night television movies. The letter follows in full:

"O tempora, o mores! What has become of television? Is the late-night movie heading for oblivion? Can Alan Burke, Joey Bishop, Johnny Carson, Bill Dana, Jackie Gleason, proposed, Merv Griffin and Joe Pyne take the place of Humphrey Bogart, Clark Gable, Gary Cooper, Gregory Peck, Cary Grant, James Stewart and Spencer Tracy? Can this be possible? Is this some kind of diabolical plot to eliminate the 'late shows,' which have for so long enhanced our screens? If this be the case, valet."

Movies Are Better
The letter was written by Mr. John J. Papandrea, and who would disagree with Mr. Papandrea's preferences? Who could deny that despite all the interruptions of used car commercials, the films with movie stars like those mentioned above give television exactly what it needs most — style, exuberance and sometimes even graciousness.

Well, of course, by now Bill Dana's Las Vegas show on the United Network has disappeared. But there are indeed many talkers and emcees on late-night television whose presence may cost us the chance to once again see Gary Cooper and Marlene Dietrich in "Desire," or George Arliss as Cardinal Richelieu, or Peter Lorre as Mr. Moto, or George Sanders in "Action in Arabia," or Robert Montgomery in "Lady in the Lake."

I have nothing personal against the gentlemen who earn their living by giving us songs, dances, comedians, or arguments around the midnight hour. But I confess that at that time of the night, given the choice of a reasonably entertaining old movie or a reasonably entertaining talk-or-variety show, I will switch to the movie whenever possible.

Lure of the Cinema
Under no conditions could lovable Joe Pyne win my attention away from a Lloyd Nolan detective picture. Under no conditions could Alan Burke match the appeal of Lynne Overman and-or Roscoe Kearns. Under no conditions could Johnny Carson tempt me away from Wallace Beery. Under no conditions could Joey Bishop get me to cut off the Marx Brothers. Under no conditions could Merv Griffin lure me from W. C. Fields.

Mr. Papandrea's instincts are impeccable. For my own part, there isn't a single late-night talk-or-variety show that can hold my attention as firmly as Dracula can, or as Frankenstein can, or as Turhan Bey can when he is bringing the mummy back to life.

So here we are, Mr. Papandrea and I, fighting the good fight, hoping television won't rain on our parade. And somehow I think we will win, because our players have greater lasting power. Or do you think any of the late-night hosts will be as popular 20 years from now as Dracula will be?

Davidow: This firm, famous for its classic suits, is also in the ensemble business. Hand-somely styled dresses, many in solid tone wools, were shown with tweed greatcoats, often with deep pleats or belted back. Another new combination with the firm: The double breasted suit and double faced coat, as in one suit in black and beige glen plaid, the coat faced with beige wool twill. The coat also could be paired with a low - belted beige twill dress.

Ginala: This firm featured the costume, usually a coat and dress combination in wool gabardine. Full - length topcoats were cut narrow through the shoulders with just a trace of fit before flaring out to easy hemlines. Closings were both single and double-breasted and beneath were neat little gabardine dresses, either sleeveless or cap sleeved.

Nat Kaplan: Drsses looked like coats or elongated versions of the shirt were made into dresses. New fabrics included wool twills, gabardines, textured crepes, and petit point silk and worsteds.

Ben Barrack: Like most of the Seventh Avenue manufacturers, the firm featured gray flannel anew. For day, it showed in elongated versions of the shirt with white satin bow for a schoolgirl effect. And for evening, the flannel came belted and finished off with a giant rhinestone buckle.

Horticultural tip

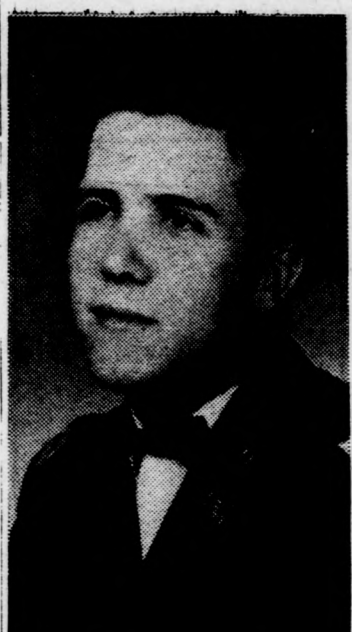

Elm Leaf Beetle: Adults are somewhat oval and about 1/4" long. They are olive green with black stripes. Young larvae are black and slug-like. Full grown larvae are about 1/2" long, dull yellow with black head, legs and hairs, and two black stripes on the back. The larvae feed on the undersides of the leaves. Only the veins and upper surface are left, giving leaves a "skeletonized" appearance. Trees heavily infested, turn brown as if scorched by fire. Most of the damage is done by the first of two generations.

ECUADOR ACCUSED

WASHINGTON UPI — Rep. Thomas M. Pelly, D-Wash., has accused Ecuador of "piracy" in the seizure of the Seattle-based tuna boat (Western King) 18 miles off its coast.

Pelly said Thursday that on July 4 other U. S. fishing vessels reported the Western King had been seized while fishing off Ecuador. Since then, he said, there has been no contact with the boat.

Ecuador has claimed its territorial waters extend 200 miles.

Soviets retreat on Mideast stand

By Bruce W. Munn

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. UPI—Aided by a Soviet retreat, the UN Security Council today took its first major peace-keeping action in the Middle East crisis and gave Secretary General Thant a broad mandate to supervise the Arab-Israeli cease-fire line along the Suez Canal.

Shortly after midnight, the Russians backed down from demanding that full details be spelled out in stationing UN observers along the line where renewed fighting between Israel and Egypt broke the month-old ceasefire over the weekend.

At Jerusalem, the Israeli cabinet was meeting to consider the plan. The Israelis consistently rejected allowing UN observers on their soil since the second Arab-Israeli war in 1956.

Authorization for Thant to proceed was contained in a "consensus." It recalled the council's four cease-fire resolutions leading up to the June 10 agreement to end the six-day war and emphasized "the need for all parties to observe scrupulously the provisions of these resolutions."

It also recalled Thant's report that he had suggested to Israel and Egypt on July 4 that both countries take UN observers on their side of the line.

The UN Emergency Force (UNEF), whose withdrawal was demanded by Cairo just before the six-day war began June 5, was stationed only on U.A.R. soil, Israel refusing to accept it.

Thant was asked by the council to have Lt. Gen. Odd Bull of Norway, chief of staff of the UN Truce Supervision Organization (UNTSO), to "work out with the governments of the United Arab Republic and Israel as speedily as possible necessary arrangements to station UN military observers in the Suez Canal sector under the chief of staff of UNTSO."

Thant told the council Bull had advised him an addition of 25 observers to his present staff of 133 would be necessary to man the Suez line.

The Soviet Union, wary of peace-keeping operations since it lost out in the Congo seven years ago, at first insisted that the council specifically authorize the addition of 25 observers and approve whatever arrangements Thant made for their assignment to Israel and Egypt. It found some support from France in this position, diplomatic sources said.

The United States refused to accept the Soviet demands, holding that they hogtied Thant in his supervisory activities over UNTSO. U. S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg was reported on the point of presenting a resolution and challenging the Soviet Union to veto it when Indian Ambassador Copalawami Parthasarathi requested a recess—the second of a long Sunday night meeting—shortly before 11 p. m. EDT. The consensus agreement was worked out during the recess.

Red China backs Vietnam type rebellion in Burma

HONG KONG UPI — Communist China today declared a Vietnam-type rebellion is under way in Burma. If confirmed, it meant mainland Southeast Asia is blanketed by guerrilla warfare.

The Peking Peoples Daily, official organ of the Chinese Communist party, said Mao Tse-tung's regime is giving full sympathy to a "revolutionary peoples war" to overthrow the Burmese government of strongman Gen. Ne Win.

The newspaper described the Ne Win government as a fascist regime of "greedy blood-suckers" serving the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

It is "doomed to destruction. The armed revolution, led by the Burmese Communist party, represents the developmental orientation of the people of Burma."

"Now, the Burmese people of all circles who are anti-imperialist, anti-feudalistic, anti-dictatorship, anti-national betrayal and who want to be friendly with the Chinese people are, under the leadership of the Burmese Communist party, further uniting together."

It is the same language Peking uses in describing the communist rebel and invasion forces in South Vietnam, Laos and Thailand. It fits the description of even Communist armed bands in Cambodia, where ruler Prince Norodom Sihanouk is a neutralist to the outside world but thick in battle against Communists in his own jungle realm.

Burma since achieving post-war independence from Britain has moved toward its present strict neutralism. Until recently it was perhaps Peking's most respectful neutral in Southeast Asia.

But sparked by fantastic rallies by pro-Mao Chinese students, in the past two weeks widespread anti-Chinese rioting killed more than a score of Chinese residents and resulted in the smashing of Chinese shops and the chasing of their owners. The Rangoon government cracked down but Peking erupted in verbal fury.

Today's Peoples Daily report appeared to be the payoff.

Many Western intelligence officers long have reported concern that the Communist drive in Southeast Asia would swing west, toward Burma and later possibly Pakistan and India and well as further to the southeast, through South Vietnam to Malaysia.

THE BUILDER

The men who build that first home for the newly married must get a lot of satisfaction, as well as a feeling of happiness out of being instrumental in bringing so much happiness to that boy and girl who are stepping onto the threshold of life. Of course, they get paid for their work, and well too, but deep down in their hearts there must be a warm feeling that they have brought happiness to so many.

Naturally, it doesn't always have to be the newlywed that is made happy. It could be a middle-aged couple who have never had a home of their own before or it could be that they are retiring and needed just what the builder had built for them. Any way you look at it, they do bring a lot of joy to this drab world.
