The Evening Gazette

MONDAY, JANUARY 22, 1872.

City and Neighborhood.

SLIPPERY.

ELECTION day.

BEAUTIFUL weather.

BLITZ is at Charleston.

Who is the Vigo cat skinner?

"SHIN FANE" at Dowling Hall this evening.

See amusement columns of the Evening Gazette.

MERCHANT of VENICE Monday night next, at Dowling Hall.

EVENING meetings at most of the city churches each evening of this week.

QUITE a number of sleighs were observed on the streets yesterday and last evening.

WE are in receipt of Hone and Health for February. It is an excellent number as are all of them.

THE railroad election to-day, while it excited the liveliest interest and a large vote, passed off quietly.

THE Indianapolis Journal says that the Italian Opera Company are "stopping all over town," from the big to the minor hotels.

MRS. MACREADY, the only woman who ever attempted "Shylock" will make her first and only appearance in this city, on the evening of the 29th, at Dowling Hall.

Two names were added to the roll of membership of the Centenary Church yesterday morning at the close of a very effective sermon by the pastor, Rev. James W. Green.

A ROMANTIC Fort Wayne has the eleven hundred and ninety-ninth "magnificent mother of pearl-mounted Bohemian opera glass, once the property of Jenny Lind, the Swedish nightingale." Next?

BIG THING ON ICE.—A Wabash woman demolishing the ice fields in that vicinity Saturday evening, with her little feet, on which was a new pair of No. 11 brogans with horse shoe nail ornaments.

STATE GEOLOGIST, Prof. E. T. Cox, will lecture on the subject of Geology, before the literary society of the Normal School, Wednesday evening, January 24th, 1872. The lecture will be free, and all are invited.

THE Spring fashions are anxiously looked for by those who have large interests in coal mines, bank stock and railroad bonds. Journalists, as far as they are concerned, don't care anything about the fashion.

THE Journal wants to know if there is any danger of a matter of honor growing out of the "gutter snipe" war waged by Capt. Potter against Col. Dowling, or words to that effect. We think it is more a matter of dishonor than of honor.

BETTER ventilation is needed in the churches of the city. Were it not for the life infused in the congregations by the various city pastors, the members certainly would all be slumbering in their pews at the close of services.

ST. VALENTINE'S day will soon give the disciples of Sam Weller a chance to address anonymous and gushing ditties, accompanied with pictures of languishing victims pierced by the fiery darts of cupid, to the angelic ones to whom they fear to speak.

FOUR & HUNTER ship seventy-three head of horses South to-day. These enterprising gentlemen are constantly purchasing stock of this kind and forwarding it to the Southern market. As is the case in their local livery business, they do a magnificent business.

ASBURY was densely crowded last night. Many went to the door, and left for want of ingress. The aisles and other vacant spaces were seated, and still the crowd was not accommodated. The revival in this church is increasing. The prayer of last night, at the close of the sermon by the pastor was very impressive and exciting. The pastor, Rev. J. Hill, gave notice the meetings continue this week at 9 A. M. and 7 P. M.

Evening Newspapers.

Evening newspapers are fast superseding morning newspapers in the estimation and appreciation of the reading public. The man of business prefers them as advertising mediums, because they go into the household at the hour when every member has leisure to read them, and do read them, not omitting advertisements. The Hartford Past thus speaks of the superior advantages of the evening newspaper:

"The morning paper has a field of its own, and in the city, where it can procure a ready market, and hold down upon the breakfast table, to be hastily glanced over by business men before going to the office or shop, it has a place and supplies a want. But the morning paper, after breakfast, or when the dew is off, is like dead coffee and cold toast. Unless you can have your morning paper, in the time of it, while it is fresh and sparkling, it is of little use to you. The telegraph office from which it draws its fresh columns, has been closed since midnight, and the supply of all its local and general news was cut off before the paper went to press. It is not so with the evening newspaper. The great network of telegraph wires covers the country and bridges the seas, and feeds the world together, its dropping into its columns up to the last moment before the forms are locked up, and the rattling press begins its multiplications, the currents, happenings, the story of the world's day. The news pours over the wires in constant columns, and the evening paper catches up the record as it lies. You need not wait until the next morning for a hasty glimpse of your last day's history, between the signs of your coffee, or while you are losing the warmth of the breakfast rolls; you have it all at night, in the quiet of a better frame, for its enjoyment, with your work all done and nothing to interrupt your leisurely perusal of the day's posting."

Important If True.

"The Terre Haute correspondent of the LaFayette Evening Dispatch writes to that paper under a recent date that: "It is reported that the Indianapolis & St. Louis Railroad will move their shops and round house from Mattoon, Ill., to this place, on account of the scarcity of water at Mattoon."

This is very important, if true, so far as this city and the best interest of the road are concerned. However, we have not heard or learned anything more of it than the mere report that such an event is among the possibilities. So far as we can learn there is no official authority for such statement.

It is well known that Terre Haute is better adapted in many respects for the establishment of the mammoth shops of this wealthy corporation than any other city along the line of the road from Indianapolis to St. Louis. We have here water in great abundance while that most essential to the running of such machinery, coal, is found in exhaustible quantity, and of the best quality known in the market, in a very short distance from here, and that too right along the line of the road.

An Abuse of Privilege.

That much persecuted class of the business world, known as tonsorial artists, are subjected to a custom which robs them of much business and should be voided a nuisance by them unanimously. Go into a barber shop where you will, and more likely than not, you will observe a half dozen men sitting by the stove. Of course, you don't want to wait that long for a shave, and go out. By this, the knight of the brush, loses your custom. When he calls "next," it may be that there is not one of the entire half dozen present, who wants a shave. Had the customers who called and did want something done known the fact, he could have been accommodated without calling at from four to six places without success, and the barber would have been the price of one such job the better off. Therefore, we insist, for the accommodation of customers and the financial and general business prosperity of the artist of the razor and brush, that the barber shop is not just the proper place to loaf. Will loafers take notice and act accordingly, or will barbers have to protect themselves by rules?

HON. B. T. BURKE has given notice that at the next meeting of the Macoupin county board of supervisors, he will offer a resolution to compromise with the holders of the county bonds issued to build the Macoupin court house, at 33 1/2 cents on the dollar. The total amount of court house bonds outstanding is $1,650,000.—Springfield Register.

Major Burke is probably the heaviest tax-payer in that magnificent productive county of the great fertile State of Illinois. He is fighting this oppressive Court House imposition with energy and perseverance, and will no doubt have the success which has characterized his business life. On principles of justice, we hope he will succeed in this enterprise in which he has embarked. It does, however, seem not exactly to be on principles of justice that the holders of the bonds of this mammoth fraud should be made to suffer, yet it seems unendurable by the tax-payers of the county of Macoupin that they should be forced to the payment of the stupendous liability thrown upon the county by the action of the County Commissioners and others who favored the building of a Court House by a county which would have done honor to any State or Nation as a legislative hall. Major Burke is the father-in-law of Mr. John G. Shryver, of this city, and having visited here, is known by many of our readers.

E. T. H. & C.—The Indianapolis Morning Journal of to-day says that "notwithstanding the fact that the Evansville, Terre Haute & Chicago Railroad has but recently been opened for business, it already promises to be one of the best paying new roads in the State. Traversing a portion of the fertile Wabash valley, its local traffic is consequently quite large, besides doing a profitable and growing through business. Much of the success of this enterprise is due to the indefatigable efforts of its President, Jos. Collett, Jr. Mr. J. W. Nesbitt, the Superintendent, was recently of the Kentucky Central, and possesses an enviable railroad record, having commanded in the shops as a machinist, and has since filled each successive position on to that of Superintendent." The Journal is correct and even now the road is so crowded with freights that more side tracks have to be constructed along the line at once, which is being done.

INDEPENDENT OF ORTHOGRAPHY.

In a communication on "Opera vs. Dancing," in the Rockville Patriot of last week, Billy Button introduces orthography of his own, "amateur" being a fair sample. He is "old phonetic," as the printers call Medill, of the Chicago Tribune, now Mayor of that city. We like Billy's independent, free and easy style, and especially his freedom from the arbitrary words found in spelling books, and such insignificant works as Webster's Unabridged Dictionary.

The latest fashion at parties and German is to hang a mistletoe bough between the folding doors.
