

THE NEWS' GREAT OFFER.

HAVE YOU SEEN OUR LATEST?

WELL, HERE IT IS:

We have made arrangements with a celebrated Chicago artist to furnish each subscriber of THE NEWS, who has been a paid up subscriber for the past six months, or who shall pay in advance for six months, with an elegant crayon portrait of any member of their family. You may see a sample of his work in Button's window. Furnish us with a photo and we will have it re-produced just as you see that sample has been. It will cost you $3.00 for the glass, frame and packing and will be delivered within ten days, an exact duplicate, in every respect, frame and all, of the sample we show you. Where can you get such a Christmas present for $3.00? If you have not been a paid up subscriber to THE NEWS for six months, it will cost you $2.50 to become so. This makes that beautiful $15.00 crayon drawing, frame and all, together with the best paper in the city for six months, cost you but $5.50.

consolidation of the two organizations and then securing a lease hold on the hall in the new Busch building on Main, near Fifth street.

AMUSEMENTS.

This evening Count and Countess Magri (the latter being formerly Mrs. Gen. Tom Thumb), with Baron Magri, and a company of Vandellie people will appear at the opera house. The count and his brother, Baron Magri, are charming little fellows, good actors and excellent comedians. Prominent among their company is Mlle. Garretta, with her troupe of fifty trained pigeons. Pleasing sketches, amusing pantomimes, and musical specialties of a high order, are announced. The entertainments are said to be both novel and attractive, and will doubtless draw a large house. Popular prices, 25, 35 and 50 cents.

Hallen & Hart.

The Hallen & Hart Company will be seen at the opera house Wednesday evening in the musical farce "Later On," which has been so successful in the East. The play is a satire on English nobility. It is full of music, dancing and displays some lovely costumes.

In the musical farce-comedy, new to Boston, entitled "Later On," by H. Gratton Donnelly, the popular comedians, Hallen & Hart, appeared before an enthusiastic audience at the Park Theatre last evening. There is a map and a piece, perhaps due more to the clever work of a very evenly balanced company of bright actors than to the merits of the author's work, albeit this is away above the average found in unpretentious compositions of this character. The dramatic lines in the piece are many, and their points are decidedly sharp and reach home at every stab; novel and humorous situations are numerous, and the musical numbers have been selected by a capital judge of the demands of that portion of the theater-going public which seeks amusement of a light, sparkling nature. One particularly noticeable feature of the company is the youth of its members and the agility with which every one can do his or her heels. The costumes are excellent, and so varied throughout the whole evening that the performers must be kept very busy doing one "rig" and donning another. The dancing by several of the young women of the company is at times of a really startling character, and is a generous display of the "female form divine."

The rollicking fun infused into the piece by the well known comedians Hallen and Hart keeps the audience in good humor throughout. Hallen and Hart were called before the curtain at the close of the first act—Boston Herald.

The Prince and the Pauper.

The Prince and the Pauper will be seen at the opera house next Thursday night. This play is new to our theaters and makes a grand success in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and San Francisco, where it has extended engagements. The cast of the play contains a child's part, which is played by the famous Elsie Lisle, while the other characters of the play are in all hands. The staging and costumes will be handsome and appropriate and our theatergoers may be assured of a first class rendition of this splendid play, taken from Mark Twain's story. This engagement is under the direction of Daniel Frohman and J. H. Hayman, who is a guarantee of excellence. The production therefore promises to be important and dignified in all respects. The sale of seats now open at Button's.

A new Irish comedy drama, will be presented at Naylor's, on next Saturday evening. The play is said to be bright and witty in dialogue replete with dramatic situations, music, singing and dancing.

He Had Heard Enough.

Two nights after the completion of the telephone line between Farnville and Hampden Sidney, Va., one of the largest tobacco warehouses in Farnville was burned. The fire was thought to be the work of an incendiary. Next morning a negro man with a bad reputation and very little sense went into the telephone office. "Wants dat ar thing you's talkin' inter, Mr. Blanton?"

"That's a telephone."
"Er tell me what?"
"A thing to talk into. You just ask it anything you want to know and it tells it."
"Is dat so? I done heard 'bout dat conversation hangin' up on de wall, but I ain't knowed it could tell all dem things."
"Oh, yes, I am busy now, but if you will come back in an hour I'll tell you what we burned the warehouse for."
"I dinno er I got time for dat."
"Well, you'd better take time, or I'll think you did it."
As soon as Sam left, Blanton called up the other end, described the negro and gave the operator the tip.

Sam came back in an hour, the Hampden Sydney operator was called up and Sam put the bell to his ear. This is what he heard:
"The person that burned the Planter's warehouse last night is a ginger cake colored negro, 5 ft. 10 in. high, little thin, gone from left hand." Sam's eyes began to bulge—"one front tooth gone, wears a mustache and goatee, has three children, has been in jail for stealing a sheep from Maj. Venable, and his name is Sam."
With a wild yell and eyes staring out of his head Sam bolted from the room, jumped on a passing freight train, and never came back to claim the reward offered for him—Chicago Herald.

How He Resembled Flannel.

There have been a few, a very few, extremely High Church Episcopal clergymen in this country who appeared to think that a studied neglect of the bath was a mark of Catholic orthodoxy. One of these excellent men, who was well known in this city a few years ago, was generally arrayed in a coarse cassock that had long ceased to be even approximately clean, and in linen that was simply dirty—that is the only word that can be used. His finger nails were in mourning, and altogether he was a good reproduction of a medieval saint—the kind with whom the odor of sanctity was made visibly manifest by the odor of dirt. Strangely enough, he was at the same time a gentleman by birth, education and rearing. He was simply misled by a false ideal of Christianity. But that is not the point. One day two Episcopal clergymen got to talking about him. "What does he remind you of any way?" asked one. "Of flannel," was the reply. "How so?" asked the first. "Oh," answered the second, "because he shrinks so from washing."—New York Tribune.

He Might Have Expected.

"Don't rest old Liebig, anyway," exclaimed Philip the other morning.
"What has the laron been doing now?" asked Daddley.
"Doing? Why the old wretch said that household was more wholesome than beef or mutton, and I went like one. Ate all I could."
"Well? It was good, then, wasn't it?"
"Yes, but blame the old scamp, I had the nightmare all night."—Chicago Times.

Visiting the Library.

A visit to the partially completed Congressional library is quite amusing. Not that there is much that is interesting in the shapeless tangle of brick and stone, but it is the instructions visitors get at the gate that are amusing. When one goes in at the wide gate through the board fence on the East Capitol street side he is not apt to notice a little old man that sits in a little house just inside the gate. If one doesn't notice him the old watchman will stop one with an imperative "Hey, there!" One stops, and in the richest sort of an Irish brogue is told: "Now, yez can go in and look about as much as yez like. But there is some things yez mustn't do. Don't talk to any of the men. Don't go up top of the walls, and don't go inside of the building anywhere. An' don't yez ask any of the men questions. Moid that now, and yez can see all yez please."—Washington Post.

A DYING SHOT.

"Our next issue will be our last," writes a Georgia editor. "We are satisfied the people of this state are getting along without us for we have been getting along without the people for six months past. There are some subscriptions owing but we will not collect them, as the citizens will soon need the money to defray the funeral expenses of the town."
We are glad that Terre Haute is not in a dying condition. Our merchants are alive to the needs of the people and well if you doubt it call and examine the elegant line of fall suitings Knight and Grover are making up for their customers. Handsomest even in the city are turned out by them. Parlors over the Buckeye Cash Store.

A SUGGESTION.

There may be persons in this community who are troubled with colic, or subject to attacks of bowel complaint. If so, they should try Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It will afford almost immediate relief, and when reduced with water is pleasant to take. If taken as soon as the first indication of the disease is felt it will ward off the attack. Many people use it in this way, and find that it never fails them. A 25 or 50 cent bottle may be obtained from your druggist.

A HANDSOME GOLD WATCH.

THE NEWS ONCE MORE LEADS THE PROCESSION.

The Past is a Mirror of the Future—We Share Profits With Employers—Only Seventy-Five Subscribers Needed.

To every boy and girl in the city, and also in the surrounding towns, THE NEWS wishes to present a beautiful souvenir in the shape of a lady's gold watch. The News at all times has shown a disposition to pay in a handsome manner all its employees. It was the first and only newspaper in Terre Haute that adopted the plan of sharing with its carrier boys the profits of each route. This has resulted in the routes of THE NEWS commanding a premium of $5 to $10 each. Generous treatment to all has won THE NEWS an army of friends. While our circulation in the city is much larger than any other paper, we still think there is room to grow, and will not be content until every name in the city directory is on our list. To attain this end we make an offer to every boy and girl in the city.

A LADY'S GOLD WATCH, stem wind and set, Duche case, Elgin movement, will be given to each and every one who will take the trouble to obtain among his or her friends 75 names of persons who will agree to take and pay for THE NEWS for one month. Note the several things to be remembered:

1. A gold watch, as above described, will be given to every one getting THE NEWS 75 subscribers for one month.
2. You will have no money to collect. Subscriptions will be collected weekly or monthly by the regular carrier.
3. You must send in the names as rapidly as you can obtain them. THE NEWS will be delivered promptly thereafter. When you have sent us 75 names the watch will be presented.
4. Names will be credited but once and no one having been on our books since September 1, 1890, will be accepted as a new subscriber.
5. If your friends say they are taking another paper, ask them for the sake of aiding you in getting this elegant present, to take THE NEWS also for one month at a cost of only 40 cents and compare the contents and style for future use. If any cannot afford to add a new daily paper to their list, ask them to drop for one month the paper they are now taking and aid you by taking THE NEWS for one month instead.
6. Write names and addresses very plainly so there can be no confusion or misunderstanding. Wherever possible state not only the STREET and NUMBER, but BETWEEN WHAT STREETS as well. This will aid our carrier very materially in locating the house.
7. NEWS employees are barred. This is a free for all contest to boys and girls under 18 years of age, not employed by us.
8. Remember that while we give you a $25 watch, each of our carriers is to be benefited also, as they will obtain their profit on each subscriber.
9. If you have any questions to ask about our offer do not hesitate to write to BUSINESS MANAGER OF NEWS.

A LIFE SIZE CRAYON FREE.

We have made arrangements with a celebrated Chicago artist to furnish each paid up six months subscriber to THE NEWS, with a life size crayon portrait of any member of their family. A RIPE OLD AGE. J. H. Holcomb and wife, of Belcher, Texas, have celebrated their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary, and are still hale and hearty. The secret of their long life and good health is that they correct any slight ailment promptly, and in that way avoid serious sickness. Like most every one else, they are more frequently troubled with constipation than any other physical ills. To correct this they take St. Patrick's Pills in preference to any other because, as Mr. Holcomb says, "T. . . mild pill, and besides, keep the whole system in good order. We prize them very highly."
