The Evening Gazette.

Monday Evening, Nov. 22, 1875.

The by-word—"out of line"—which has been so long in use, is supposed to have reference to crooked whisky.

This salutation of one railroad man to another when trains pass on the E. & C. is, "Have you got any crooked whisky on that train?"

It is now known why the Reynolds, Shewmaker, Scott hunting party, did not bag any more game than they did. It was mixed drinks that hurt them—a mixture of creek and river water.

A MEETING of the traveling men of Terre Haute will be held at the National Hotel, on Saturday evening, Nov. 27th. A full attendance is requested, as important business is to be transacted.

MERCURY's other name is Quicksilver, and quicksilver is a precious metal. The significance of his surmounting the bank building therefore, is that that institution is in favor of specie payment. See?

A Terre Haute dog says grace. At least he strikes a reverent attitude, and that is about all grace before meat usually amounts to.—N. Y. Sun.

The dog referred to is one belonging to Mr. J. T. Jordan, the peculiar habit of which was mentioned sometime ago in the GAZETTE.

We met a man on the street this morning—who was following "meandered lines," he supposed, of course, that he was the only man on the street—making straight lines. After he passed along his track resembled a worm fence. He had evidently been indulging in the crooked.

The Vandalia rifle team, composed of dead shots, received, on Saturday, a gorgeous uniform, and will turn out on Thanksgiving day, dressed in green blouses, caps of the same hue, and black pants. It is intended to repair to some point over the river on that day, and practice. The members of the team are almost perfect marksmen having on record shots, which, for precision, have seldom if ever been equalled.—[Express.]

Theodore Tilton.

The New York Times of Oct. 1st, 1875, has the following concerning Theodore Tilton's lecture:

Mr. Theodore Tilton delivered a lecture in Brooklyn, last evening, in the Academy of Music, before an immense audience. As early as one o'clock in the afternoon all the seats had been sold at the box office, and hundreds of persons who applied after that time were disappointed in getting tickets. Within the hour for opening the doors had arrived, a large crowd had already gathered in front of the building, completely blocking up the street. Mr. Tilton was very warmly received, much enthusiasm being manifested, and his lecture was applauded throughout.

CATHOLIC FAIR.

LAST EVENING AT DOWLING'S HALL.

Closing Exercises.

A much larger crowd than on either of the other nights of the Catholic ladies' festival, gathered at Dowling Hall, last Saturday evening. Everybody seemed to have plenty of money, and were disposed to spend freely. The voting for the most popular young lady, the prize being a beautiful hat, donated by Mrs. L. M. Volger, created much excitement. The votes for the above stood: Miss Joe Maloney, 903; Miss Maggie Hogan, 739; Miss Bessie Alexander, 618. The proceeds from this source amounted to $229.

The amount realized on the silver pitcher for the most popular married lady, was $71.30. The following is the vote: Mrs. Barrett, 423; Mrs. Bindley, 282; Mrs. Cronin, 8.

The following is a list of the articles raffled, and the lucky ticket holders: Pair blankets, Mrs. Ward; tin chamber set, James Kelley; box of handkerchiefs, C. T. Sullivan; silver headed cane, Miss Ella Burke; marble-top center table, Miss Sarah Kane; opera cape, J. S. Smith; group portrait of Fathers McEvoy, Joseph and Maurice Mrs. W. P. O'Connell; bust of Pius IX, Mr. O'Connell; boy's suit of clothes, Patrick Stack; gent's scarf, Jas. Hickie; barrel floor, Mrs. Waller; silk umbrella; Anna Butler; quilt, Frank Spalding; photograph of the late Father O'Connell, Jos. Roach; parlor stove, Sue Kelly; silk hat, Jas. Lyons; lady's cloak, J. B. Edmunds; the elegant trunk was not raffled. Miss Laura Richardson received a handsome bouquet as the most modest young lady. Mrs. Cronin presented Father McEvoy with a photograph of the late Rev. P. Bede O'Connell.

The following amounts were taken in at the various tables, with several yet to hear from: Fancy table, $560; ice cream table, $75; toy table, $25; Jacob's well, $55; Supper table, $75. The whole affair was well managed, and the ladies are very jubilant over their success, financially.

In the card which appears below there were several material errors in figures, and appeared in in our issue on Saturday. It is correct to-day:

To the Editor of the Gazette:

A communication appeared in your issue with "A" tacked on the end, which contained some gross misstatements that should be corrected.

"A" says: "The debt of the city is large enough. It cannot be ascertained how large it is but it is not less than $400,000; perhaps $500,000." In his assertion that "the city debt is large enough," no doubt all will agree with "A." But this gives him no right to make such glaringly incorrect statements as appear in the above quotation.

He says, "it cannot be ascertained how large it (the city debt) is." Has he ever gone to the City Clerk's or Treasurer's office to try to ascertain? Their books are always open for inspection from which he can ascertain the debt of the city, to a cent in fifteen minutes. Below is a correct statement of the debt, as it stands to-day.

Bonds issued to the E. T. H. & C. R. R. $100,000.00
Bonds issued to the C. & T. H. 77,000.00
Bonds issued to the Water Works Co. 40,000.00
Bonds issued for Sewer purposes 55,000.00
Loans for general purposes 59,193.73

Total debt $331,693.73
Less cash (belonging to specie) at interest in bank, $40,231.97
Leaves actual debt after deducting resources $291,461.76
So much for the correctness of "A's" statement.

A Pair of Loafers.

Last Thursday evening two girls who live in the family of Mr. Wilson, on Mulberry street, between Sixth and Seventh, came up town on some errand, and on their return home they were annoyed by a couple of loafers who approached them and insisted upon forming their acquaintance. One of these fellows, placed his hand on the arm of one of the girls, and inquired where they were going. The young ladies became frightened and ran across Main street, where they saw Officer Downey, to whom they appealed for protection. The ruffians seeing the officer, turned and made all haste in the opposite direction, and before the girls were able to make the facts known, the fellows were out of sight. Seeing that the girls were very much frightened, Officer Downey gallantly escorted them to their home. It is to be hoped that some of these loafers who spend their time in insulting helpless females, will soon be captured and introduced into Mr. Nott's stone yard.

Railroad Notes.

Ind. Journal: It is stated that the headquarters of Maj. J. E. Simpson, general manager of the pooled lines, is to be at St. Louis, and that of S. Woodward, General Superintendent, will be at Indianapolis.

On Saturday last the Indianapolis & St. Louis Railroad Company brought from the west 179 loaded cars.

Samuel Woodward, Superintendent of the Indianapolis & St. Louis Road, has been appointed General Superintendent of the pooled lines.

Personal Paragraphs.

Ind. Herald: An inter-State snoring match between Col. Horace Scott, of Louisville, and Hon. Bayless W. Hanna, of Terre Haute, has been arranged. The odds are strongly in favor of the Colonel, though Bayless has many friends.

Ind. Herald: Rev. E. Frank Howe, a Terre Haute clergyman who went abroad on account of a sore throat last summer, and wrote back some racy letters embodying his criticisms upon the style of female beauty on the other side, has been telling the newspapers how to conduct their business without giving offense to the clergy.
