Will somebody please muzzle Tice!

THE "Polar wave" has come. The GAZETTE bids it welcome.

SALISBURY was presented with a garter yesterday, by his grateful Queen.

THE New Albany Ledger-Standard betrays a desire to have the Democratic party nominate Senator Bayard, of Delaware, for President in 1880. Senator Bayard is a sound Democrat and an able man, and would, if elected President, serve the country with fidelity and credit.

THE GAZETTE warns the leaders of the National party that if they attempt to swear in the votes of the visiting statesmen now on exhibition at the Opera House, it will have them prosecuted. The Chimpanzee family are not residents of Terre Haute and have no right to vote here.

A LONDON dispatch announces that the Queen conferred the Order of the Garter on Lord Beaconsfield, and that the investiture took place yesterday. Now it is to be hoped the old man will throw away the strings with which he has hitherto been tying up his socks, and at any rate not let them hang around his heels.

NOR to be behind the Cincinnati Commercial which is making a crusade against the use of ice water, the Burlington Hawkeye is depicting the perils which lurk in the festive glass of ice tea. After a while it will be demonstrated that bourbon is the only thing which a child can take into its precious little stomach with impunity.

THE GAZETTE commends to the consideration of impecunious sweethearts a special dispatch to one of the Chicago papers during the late heated term. The dispatch is as follows:

"Oregon, Ill., July 18.—Coroner Keyes held an inquest on the remains of Miss Lizzie Shelby on Saturday, resulting in a verdict of death from apoplexy. The young lady ate two dishes of ice cream while heated."

Marked copies of the GAZETTE containing this item can be obtained at any of the news stands by young persons wishing to send them to lady friends.

THE Bowmanites, notwithstanding the Supreme Court of Illinois has rendered a decision adverse to their chief, in the suit between him and what is known as the Wider Council, at East St. Louis, still maintain their right to govern the city. Bowman insists that he is still Mayor and retains his force of City Marshals and several public buildings. His opponents assert their intention to dispossess them of the buildings they hold and to arrest their marshals. Apprehensions of a collision are felt, and it is feared there may be considerable loss of life before the difficulty is finally adjusted.

THE Democratic State Central Committee has decided to formally open the canvass, throughout the State, on Saturday, August 10th. Mass meetings will be held in every Congressional district in the State on that day or in the evening. The committee has invited our distinguished townsman, Hon. B. W. Hanna to speak at one of these meetings. It has not yet been determined which one he will address, nor has he fully decided as yet whether his business engagement will admit of his participating at all. The GAZETTE, however, ventures to predict that he will speak. Mr. Hanna has always been ready to respond to the numerous demands of the party upon his time and talents.

A DEMOCRATIC MASS MEETING.

We desire to call the attention of the Democratic Central Committee of Vigo County to the consideration of the propriety of calling a meeting at Terre Haute, on the 1st or 8th of August, to be addressed by Senator Voorhees. Arrangements can be made with the E. & T. H. railroad to take passengers the round trip for $1. If such a meeting can be held at the time above indicated, we assure the Democracy of Vigo County that they will have the largest delegation from Sullivan County that was ever present in that city. Let us hear from them on this subject.—Sullivan True Democracy.

This is a good suggestion by our Sullivan contemporary. A meeting of the kind proposed should be held, and the GAZETTE adds its voice to that of the True Democracy, in urging it upon the County Committee.

SECRETARY of the Interior Schurz Tuesday rendered an important decision in relation to the land grants of railroad corporations. It touches the Pacific railroads which have been built, within recent years, and to each one of which enormous gifts of land were made. In each of the grants was a provision to the effect that all lands so granted which shall not be sold or disposed of by the company within three years after the entire road shall have been completed shall be subject to settlement and preemption like other government lands, at a price not exceeding $1.25 per acre to be paid to such company. Despite this provision of the law making the grant, these roads have persisted in asking any price they pleased for their lands, and have refused to sell at $1.25 per acre when asked to do so. Secretary Schurz decides that they must live up to the original contract, and his decision concludes with direction to local officers to enforce the contract.

A CANADIAN WEATHER PROPHET.

Venor, the Canadian weather prophet, early in the season made a number of predictions for Canada, which have been remarkably fulfilled.

Not many weeks ago he issued a set of "forecasts" for the summer and fall, the substance being as follows: The latter half of June will be intensely warm with but little rain. July will enter with intense heat, which will continue up to the neighborhood of the 15th. After this date a cool change will set in, with, very probably, frost at nights. Heat again during the last few days of the month. August will also enter exceedingly hot and dry, and continue so up to between the 10th and 15th days, after which cool weather, with northwesterly gales, and frost at night, may be expected to extend through a large portion of the month. There may probably be an approach to snow during this cold, blustery period. This will end the dry term, which will have lasted from the middle of June. Rains will again set in with September and continue through this month and October, and there will be considerable and very early snowfall during the latter month. The snow, however, will of course rapidly disappear, and will be followed by a brief period of summer-like weather. As the first part of the summer corresponded well with the prophecies, we shall take an interest in noting whether the remaining predictions prove equally true.

So far he seems ahead of Tice.

THE INDIANA TWEED RING.

The state house robbers have such an organization in Indiana as Boss Tweed had in New York. It will be remembered that the Boss spent the declining years of his life in a penitentiary.—Mourning Express.

Suppose you descend to particulars. John Collett, assistant geologist of the State, is a member of the Board. He lives a few miles north of the city and is as well known here as if he was a resident. He has a reputation for honesty second to that of no man in Terre Haute. If necessary he could get every man in the county who knows him and who has any property to go on his bond. There is not a man who knows him who would not trust him indefinitely with his own personal possessions. He is an eminent geologist, and actually knows nearly as much about stone, its properties, qualities and value as the GAZETTE's contemporary pretends to know about finances. What we want to know is whether or not our excitable and erratic contemporary considers him a member of the State house robber organization of Indiana similar to that which Boss Tweed had in New York, and about which it adjures the people to remember that the Boss spent the declining years of his life in jail? There are four State house commissioners, and, including Governor Williams, five. Are they all robbers?

If not, which ones are? Is Collett one? It is about time to have the mud shower take definite aim.

A GRADUATE OF THE SPELLING SCHOOL.

The following is a bona fide letter recently received:

To the Onondaga Faculty of the Indiana Medical College of Indianapolis, Indiana: I, the undersigned Do A-K-E you for a Certificate of my Conduct and Standing in your College the winter of 1875 and 1876. I desire to get a Certificate to Practice Medicine in the State of Illinois a certificate from your Onondaga Body will do me in doing so. I intend to come and tend a Mother Course just as soon as I can I was called home on a case of Sickness and death in My family and I have not been able to attend. Once I will give you Mrs. Dr. Danulis for Reference.

J. H. SWAP

Sandford Station Vigo Co Indiana.

Somebody has been hoaxing, either the medical college, or the Herald, or both. Sandford is a bright and beautiful village nine miles west of Terre Haute on the I. & St. L. Ry. It is noted for the beauty of its girls and the intelligence of its boys. It is one of the most "culchahed" towns in Indiana, and any one half so illiterate as the author of the letter which the Herald publishes, would not be permitted to dwell within its precincts. So marked is its superiority over neighboring villages, in point of literary attainments, that it has excited the jealousy of them all. And this probably offers a solution of the authorship of the letters. It was written by some fellow over in Illinois (Sandford is only a half mile from the Illinois line) with a view to bringing shame and derision on that fair and beautiful city. The GAZETTE is glad that it can expose the vile conspiracy.

THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

Our Republican friends selected a good ticket at their County Convention on Saturday. We do not for a moment imagine that the ticket will be elected, but if it is, the business of the County, in all probability, will be faithfully and fairly conducted. So far as we have yet been able to learn, the records of the candidates are good. None of them have ever been in jail, though the candidate for sheriff, we presume, wants to get there, and wont, which seems strange when so many poor devils have tried to keep out and been put in.

A committee was intrusted with the duty of selecting candidates for the Legislature. This, it is presumable, means that unusual pains must be taken to make that portion of the ticket strong. It is an acknowledgement of the strength of that part of the Democratic ticket. It is a method of securing, the very best and strongest men in the party for the Legislature. Through unofficial channels it comes to the GAZETTE that the Committee will endeavor to secure the consent of Cols. Thomas H. Nelson and W. K. Edwards to the use of their names as candidates. If they do consent, a joint canvass will be arranged between them and their Democratic competitors which will make things lively.

Their committee, to whom was referred the judicial nominations can do no better than endorse Judge Long. He has made an excellent judicial officer and should be retained. If the same committee could unravel the Democratic snarl over the Circuit Judgeship, it would be remembered with thanks.

HENRY J. REDEMAYER, a St. Louis murderer, is a man who deserves well of his fellows. He is a political economist in his way, and as such is a credit to the race. Men are often philosophers while life is at its best, but forget all their principles and teachings when their journey's end is within close view. Mr. Redemeyer is an example to all such men. Let men look at him and learn. He was arraigned the other day on an indictment for murder. He stepped promptly to the front with a business brusqueness and decision which we cannot too highly admire and plead guilty of murder in the first degree. This seemed so strange a proceeding that the judge spoke to him, asking if he understood what he was doing.

"Yes," answered the prisoner.

"Under our laws," continued the judge "there is but one penalty for murder in first degree, and that is death by hanging. If you are pleading guilty, hoping to get a life sentence to the penitentiary, undeceive yourself."

"I understand the case thoroughly," said Redemeyer, "I killed the man and am ready to suffer for it."

With the promptness which he courted he was taken back to jail, there to be kept until the 23d of August, on which day, between the hours of 6 and 9 a. m. he is to be led out and hanged.

The beautiful part of this thing is his evident desire to save the country the expense. That he did, and there is certainly not a man in the community who will not feel like contributing to a monument fund, Let the hat be passed around.

THE WEATHER AND JUSTICE.

THE GAZETTE publishes the weather report to-day with considerable satisfaction. It will be observed that the parched and thirsty West is reviving. A polar wave has driven from our midst the torrid temperature that made this region all one vast, sweltering summer of discontent. When we were in the agonies of dissolution, one of the most aggravating features of the whole business, a thing which made us "hotter" even than the hot weather, was the fact that the rich, and dishonest, and thieving, and aristocratic East was luxuriating in balmy breezes, and intimating through its proud and subsidized press that we only fancied it was hot. In short they even imagined we were warm aswehad asserted we were oppressed, and that the practice of dropping around dead on the streets was due to the combined effects of our financial heresies and too free indulgence in beer. It is, therefore, we repeat, gratifying, under the circumstances, to observe that they themselves are now moistening their purple and fine linen with the costly ichor of their perfumed bodies.

As they mocked us in our jeans and linsey wolsey, sweating our immortal souls away, we now deride them. If it was too much beer and poverty in our cases, it is too much champagne and riches in theirs. We rejoice at the discovery that with all their gold they could not bribe "Young Indications" to give us all the Hell and themselves all the Heaven of weather. We regard this as a triumph of truth and justice won for the world by a free and untrammeled press. The knowledge that the press of the West would rise in its might and make things howl if this thing of warm weather was not, so to speak, evened up and dropped like the gentle rain from Heaven upon every place beneath, has accomplished its purpose. It has been done. The East is reeking, while the West is cooling off, if it is not yet comfortable. Let the Shylocks take heed. On their devoted heads the rays of an avenging sun have been brought down. Let them take heed lest the financial avalanche, starting in the West and gathering strength as it slips and slides along sweeps them into the yawning ocean.

We are conscious that this sounds like an editorial in a Notional paper but the wind is easterly and it can't be helped.

SPIRITUALISM, like Notionalism, seeks to materialize something out of nothing, and like Notionalism it has its hundreds of earnest followers who will ultimately find they have been the victims of a delusion. The spiritual papers, the "Banner of Light" and the "Religio-Philosophical Journal," have been giving much space to the recent exposure of Mrs. Pickering, an eastern medium, who for the past two years has set spiritualists wild over her remarkable materializations. Eastern spiritualists, however, unlike those of Terre Haute, demand honest test seances, and unless the mediums will submit to rigid tests by skeptics as well as spiritualists, they are rejected as frauds. At a seance lately given by Mrs. Pickering, at the residence of a prominent spiritualist, in Lowell, Massachusetts, the spirit was grabbed by an investigator, and held until lights were turned up, and was found to be the medium partially undressed. The honest spiritualist instantly turned Mr. and Mrs. Pickering from the door, first making them refund the money. Other spiritualists sympathizing with the medium and thinking she had not had fair play, invited her to their residences, and at a subsequent seance, the results were almost similar to those of the first; the spirit was again captured and held, and proved to be Mrs. Pickering. In her seances, when the spirit walked out of the cabinet, the form of the medium could plainly be seen remaining in the cabinet, sometimes ringing a bell and moving exactly as Anna Stewart does in her materializations here.

There are a dozen ways that could be suggested to actually test Anna Stewart's pos, yet the managers of her sittings actually refuse to allow any such testing, saying, substantially, that they have tested her, and know her to be genuine, and others must accept their word. The majority of our citizens are getting tired of this blot upon our community. The open humbuggery, indecency (such as the materialization (?) of naked bodies) and blasphemy, practiced at Anna Stewart's seances, is fairly appalling. And its evil effect upon the young people of our community, can hardly be overestimated. The recent so-called materialization of Jesus Christ, and the subsequent taking of his photograph, is an open insult to the majority of the citizens of Terre Haute, and would not be permitted in any other place.

HEAT AND THERMOMETERS.

"The funny man" of the New York Times is disposed to credit the thermometers with the unparalleled villainy of having caused the late heated term. His discussion of the question develops a dismal phase of fun which, now that the weather has moderated, warrants us in republishing his effusion which is as follows:

"It is a fact that has been noted by statisticians and oldest inhabitants for many years that the severity of our summer weather has increased, pari passu, with the spread of thermometers. Before these delusive instruments came into use it is notorious that we have no record of such intense heat as has afflicted us now these many summers. In those temperate times, sunstroke, soda-water, paper collars, and other midsummer nuisances were unknown. It becomes a question worthy of study whether our recent sufferings are not largely due to the use of thermometers and the delusion and worry generated by a frequent inspection of the tiny tombstones on which they record the fluctuations of the weather. There can be no doubt that they have exerted an enormous influence over the human race, more especially in crowded cities, where their numbers have been recklessly multiplied, and that they have aggravated our discomfort to an almost intolerable degree. Were there no thermometers, we should not know how hot it was, and should be free from much of the fret that immediately sets in when we notice the mercury passing the nineteenth parallel of latitude on the chart of its navigation. Then with one accord men begin to groan and curse the intolerable heat. They leave their comfortable homes and rush off to dingy attics and meager fare in the country, where thermometers are scarce and weather reports come in but once a week, and delude themselves with the notion that they have found a cool place. They go down and wander on the blazing sands by the seashore or congregate on the desolate expanse of hotel piazzas, in the vain hope of escaping the effects of the remorseless mercury in the tiny tube.

It is only necessary to note the effect of thermometers on the ordinary citizen in summer, to be convinced that they beget the most deplorable delusions and cause an immense amount of discomfort. No sooner does one's eye catch sight of the slender metallic column crawling among the nineties than it has a wild and unnatural glare, and the forehead is suffused by an unhealthy moisture. The sufferer spends his money for insidious drinks, indulges in absurd excursions, or possibly, if the delusion comes upon him very strong, he even goes to Europe, rushes wildly over the continent in insufferable railroad trains, and lives at hotels where their business is to make travelers miserable. It is a sad thing to note these results of immediate indulgence in thermometers, when we might pass the summer months quietly and serenely at home, if we were not continually excited and worried by this instrument of torture. It is a serious question whether we are to allow this relentless contrivance, which is plainly in league with the hotel-keepers and the vendors of soda water and fermented drinks, to tyrannize over us any longer? Perhaps thermometers cannot be wholly exterminated, though they seriously threaten the safety of society, but they may be brought under control. As they seem to be more dangerous in the shade than anywhere else—that is to say in exposed door ways and inside of window-frames—they should be kept out of such positions. Doubtless the best plan would be to pack them in ice, and keep them in the cellar. Then they could do no harm. Somehow we must escape from their blighting influence. As a famous meteorological poet once remarked:

"O, for a lodge in some vast wilderness, Some boundless contiguity of shade, Where Reamer, Centigrade, or Fahrenheit, Or any sort of fierce thermometer, Could never reach us more."

THE DEMOCRATIC OUTLOOK.

In political circles the matter of national importance is the complexion of the Senate after the 4th of next March. No computation can be made which is not indicative of the ascendancy of the Democracy. In the estimate which we subjoin no State is counted in the Democratic column which is not absolutely certain. While particular pains is taken on this side, equal care has been bestowed in giving to the Republicans every State where they are at all likely to have control of the Legislature. No one can complain that the figures are not based on a liberal allowance to the Republicans in every really doubtful locality. There are 73 Senators.

DEMOCRATS HOLDING OVER.

Alabama—John T. Morgan.

Indiana - 1
Illinois (Davis) - 1

Total - 76

It thus appears certain, that after the 4th of next March, the Democrats, for the first time in 18 years, will have a majority in the upper House of Congress. No intelligent observer of political events will, or can, doubt that the present Democratic majority in the House will be increased by the election next fall. On and after the 4th of next March then, the Democrats will take full and entire control of national legislation.

TEXAS DEMOCRACY.

THE CONVENTION COMES TO A CLOSE. PROMISE ON GOVERNOR—STILL IN SESSION.

Galveston, July 23.—The News' Austin special says: A joint committee appointed by the Hubbard and Devin wings of the Democratic state convention agreed to withdraw all the candidates heretofore balloted for, and present the name of Chief Justice O. M. Roberts to the convention. This was done, Judge Roberts was at once nominated for governor by acclamation. He has telegraphed his acceptance. Joseph D. Sars, of Bastrop county, was then nominated for lieutenant governor, and George McCormack, of Colorado county, for attorney-general. The convention still in session.

A News' special from Austin says: Stephen H. Darden, the present controller, was nominated for the office. The convention is still in session.

NEW YORK.

Syracuse, July 23.—The convention assembled this evening, the committee credentials having concluded its labors.

The convention was called to order 9 P. M. The chair announced that the first business before the convention was the report of the committee on credentials.

J. F. Crawford, of the committee, presented a report that inasmuch as New York had three contesting delegations that George Blair, Cornelius O'Reilly and Walter H. Shupe should each be entitled to twenty-one votes in the convention.

After a scene of great confusion a majority report of the committee on credentials was adopted, with the exception of that part of it which referred to the case of New York and Kings counties. A motion to exclude all the delegations from the city and county of New York was adopted. It was moved that delegations from the various congressional districts report the name of one delegate from the congressional district compose a committee on permanent organization. The motion was adopted and the convention took recess in order that the delegates might select such committee.

The committee on organizations resolutions reported, J. C. Daily chose a permanent president, and the convention adjourned until to-morrow.

A SPLIT.

Syracuse, July 23.—On the adoption of the resolution by the convention to exclude all the delegates from the city county of New York, the Shupe-Pomeroy-Hanton faction left the convention and organized another convention in the parlors of the Syracuse Hotel. About seventy-five delegates were present. Shupe has issued the following manifesto in relation to the convention: At a convention held at the Syracuse House in the city of Syracuse, July 18th, in compliance with the call by P. H. Grady, Elmore E. Sharpe, Marcus Hanlon, the convention was called to order by Walter H. Shupe, chairman of the National Greenback party of the State of New York. It appeared evident that a majority of delegates present by a call of the convention, by Nichols and Dr. Clighthon were pointed temporary secretaries, a committee of five was appointed on credentials and recess was taken until 9 a. Wednesday.

If Baldness or a Deficiency of the Exista, or if the hair is gray, dry or the natural youthful color can be restored using "London Hair Color Restorer" most delightful article ever introduced the American people for increasing growth, restoring its natural color, the same time a lovely hair dressing beautifier. It is totally different from others, not sticky or gummy, and free all impure ingredients that render other articles obnoxious; in fact it is strictly perfume and so cheaply and easily prepared as to make a lasting hair and toilet luxury.

J. A. TYNEN, A PROMINENT CITY, Wilson, N. C., writes: Some ten years ago my wife's hair commenced falling out very thin and turned gray, but after using "London Hair Color Restorer" the hair came healthy, the hair stopped falling out, and is now growing in great profusion.

Ask your druggist for London Hair Restorer. Price 75 cents a bottle. Sold in bulk for the U. S., 350 Sixth street, Philadelphia. Sold in Terre Haute by Buntin & Strong.

FOR PARTS UNKNOWN

Cincinnati, O., July 24.—A B. Ohio dispatch says: J. H. Sharp, owner of Williamsburg township, has detected in a forger and has distated to avoid the penalty. It is stated that he is short in his treasury counts. The amount is not known yet.
