

Beware of Scrofula

Scrofula is probably more general than any other disease. It is insidious in character, and manifests itself in running sores, pustular eruptions, boils, swellings, enlarged joints, abscesses, sore eyes, etc. Hood's Sarsaparilla expels all trace of scrofula from the blood, leaving it pure, enriched, and healthy.

"I was severely afflicted with scrofula, and over a year had two running sores on my neck. Took five bottles Hood's Sarsaparilla, and am cured." C. E. LOVEJOY, Lowell, Mass.

C. A. Arnold, Arnold, Me., had scrofulous sores for seven years, spring and fall. Hood's Sarsaparilla cured him.

Salt Rheum

Is one of the most disagreeable diseases caused by impure blood. It is readily cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier.

William Spies, Elvira, O., suffered greatly from erysipelas and salt rheum, caused by handling tobacco. At times his hands would crack open and bleed. He tried various preparations without aid; finally took Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now says: "I am entirely well."

"My son had salt rheum on his hands and on the calves of his legs. He took Hood's Sarsaparilla and is entirely cured." J. B. Stanton, Mt. Vernon, Ohio.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 7, 1886.

Are you tired of your engagement? Chew onions.—Texas sitings.

I had given myself up as lost because of inherited scrofula. Tried everything for purifying the blood without benefit until I used Parker's Tonic, and can truthfully say that it has cured me. I still use it for its splendid effect on my general health. H. K. Lynd, Chicago.

"Tis only SOZODONT, my dear."

Then he wished an earthquake would happen right then and there.

ANOTHER GAZETTE CRUSHER.

For seven or eight years Typo No. 76 has periodically attempted to break onto the GAZETTE pay roll and get into business with the two proprietors of the paper whom they must think, if they believe half they say, to be the two most unmitigated and consummate rascals out of jail. Having failed on their own account they have on several occasions in the past year or so very vociferously demanded of the community that it help them make the proprietors of the GAZETTE give its business over to their keeping. The community with practical unanimity decided that it would do nothing of the kind.

Having failed with the community at large they lately delegated the task to one of their number, L. M. Priest, and he got four outsiders to help him make the Democratic party make the proprietors of the GAZETTE take Typo No. 76 into partnership. This last is of course quite as absurd as all previous attempts, for no party owns the GAZETTE. Sufficient attention has already been paid to Mr. L. M. Priest. His portrait has been painted. His aids and abettors we did not know, but we are finding out. Mr. Charles Shutt was one of them.

Mr. Charles Shutt was a member of the Coopers' Union. He worked at James Nichols' shop. He was the monitor of the Union for that shop and collected from the members their dues and assessments. Ten days or two weeks ago, or shortly after signing the manifesto against the GAZETTE, this Mr. Charles Shutt skipped the town, taking with him the money of his fellow workmen confided to his keeping. Nor was this all. He left without settling a bill of something over $60 at Nichols' grocery store. He didn't tell anybody where he was going, unless it was his family, who, though left behind, departed later and, it is presumed, to join him. His fellow workmen, the coopers, a portion of whose money he took away with him do not know where he went. Mr. Nichols does not know. Perhaps even his fellow members on the "GAZETTE Crushing Committee," perhaps even Mr. L. M. Priest does not know where he is.

And this is sad because this Mr. Charles Shutt joined with Mr. L. M. Priest and three others in solemnly agreeing, according to the exact language of their manifesto, "to stand faithfully by the above declaration of man's Humanity to man, Pledging our lives and word of Honor to the fulfillment of the same."

Mr. Shutt ought to come back and help Mr. Priest stand by man's Humanity to man and when he comes the first Pledging of his life and word of Honor ought to be the paying back to the coopers who trusted him the money he stole from them, and to Mr. Nichols the money he owes him for groceries. But for those groceries he could not have stood faithfully by man's humanity to man or pledged his life and word of Honor to anything.

Mr. Shutt claimed to be acting as a representative of others in his standing and pledging business but it is fair to assume that while a thief of his calibre can run off with honest men's money he can not pledge their lives and honor. That sort of thing is something above the reach of a thief of Mr. Shutt's stature.

DUC D'AUMALE.

He bequeaths His Estate To France. PARIS, Oct. 1.—The will of the Duc D'Aumale bequeathing his great estates at Chantilly, with all their appurtenances, works of art, books, and revenues to the French Institute in trust for the people of France forever is dated in 1884. The Duke explains that he wished to have the transfer made now for the express purposes of avoiding legal hamperings which might be instituted by claimants or heirs after his death. The gift is accompanied by but one condition and that is that the property must be preserved intact as it shall be on the day it comes into possession of the trustees. The estates are to be called the Court Museum, are to be opened to the public at least twice a week during six months of the year, and the revenues are to be applied to keeping the whole of the estates in proper order and to the acquirement of additional works of art to enrich the magnificent collection with which the estates are already endowed, to pensioning authors and artists, and to furnishing prizes for the encouragement of the adoption of their artistic careers. A separate clause of the will authorizes the sale of the Duc D'Aumale's domains at Dolus to provide the money for the preliminary expenses which may attend the transfer and transformation of the Chantilly estates from their present private character to that for which they are bequeathed.

THE CHICKEN STORY*O Call Made Upon the Rockville Correspondent.*The Exact Condition of the Issue at the Present Writing.

The Rockville correspondent of the Express mournfully said in his notes in yesterday's paper:

The Express in its editorial column this morning playfully remarks:

Is Mr. Lamb's manner of taking chicken from the dish any evidence that he is a fighting cock?

To begin with, the GAZETTE will assure the Rockville correspondent that we are not considering the chicken business in any light manner. We fully appreciate the gravity of the charge and are as anxious as he is that the real truth of the matter should be laid before the public. We are quite conscious that if the charge can be proven that Mr. Lamb ate chicken between his fingers he is not the kind of a man we want to represent in Congress. The kind of a man we want in Congress is a man who eats his chicken with a knife and a fork. Indeed, we would just as soon see a man eat his soup with a fork as to eat his chicken without a fork. Therefore, when the Rockville correspondent alleges that the GAZETTE "trys" to be funny about this business he is, unintentionally, no doubt, mistaken.

We do not believe that the fact that the Rockville correspondent got married last week, just about the time he gave this chicken story to the world, is the missing link that connects the two events together. We are glad to see that the Rockville correspondent has concluded to get married and we hope he has got a good wife. We will be sorry if he did not eat chicken between his fingers at the wedding feast.

Now, the Rockville correspondent said that if any denial was made of the charge he would substantiate the facts, as set out by him, in affidavits. We do not know that Mr. Lamb either denies or affirms the truth of the chicken story. But, for the sake of argument, so that this matter can be properly given to the public in legal shape, the GAZETTE will deny its genuineness. This gives the Rockville correspondent the opportunity he desires of making public his affidavits.

We pause for the proofs. The specifications will be the same as contained in the printed charge in last Sunday's Express, being three in number:

(1) That Mr. Lamb did eat chicken between his fingers.

(2) That the lady waiting on the table was "simply terror-stricken."

(3) That "many say they cannot vote for a man of such calibre."

Those who are friendly to Mr. Lamb's election recognize the serious import of these charges, and as they are put forward as one of the main reasons for Mr. Johnston's return to Congress—as the crowning climax of argument on the Republican side, as it were—it is to be hoped that nothing either going to prove or refute the charges will be kept from the public.

Now, the Rockville correspondent to the front!

COLORED COLLEGE.

A Project for an Industrial and Academic Institute at Paris, Texas.

The following is self explanatory:

"At the consultation meeting of the representative ministers and lay members of the colored Christian churches of Texas a felt need of a college for the education of our colored youths was discussed. The National Christian College was organized and Paris, Texas, the place selected to build it. A full Board of Directors and trustees was elected with Elder H. S. Howell, of Dallas, Texas, President; Rev. L. J. Guest, Secretary; and Rev. John W. Thomas, Treasurer. Meers, D. A. Brooks & Co., of Paris, donated for this purpose five acres of land beautifully situated within the corporation of the city. On this beautiful site we are determined to erect a $10,000 building. Of this amount only a very small portion has been subscribed and raised to succeed we are forced to call on the general public to assist us. Hence we send Mr. Joseph E. Wiley, who comes to you well endorsed by our best citizens, as our agent for the purpose of asking your liberality in this great work. Liberal cash subscriptions will be highly appreciated.

H. S. HOWELL, Pres.*L. J. GUEST, Secy.*JOHN W. THOMAS, Treas."

Mr. Wiley is in the city and will address the people of the Christian church on Mulberry street tomorrow. In the afternoon, in response to an invitation from his friends in Lost Creek township, where he taught school in 1885, he will go out there. He will remain over Monday in the city making a canvass in the interest of the proposed college and will then go to St. Louis and thence to Texas.
