

Tips For Better Golf

By Pro Don Byrd
Wawasee Golf Course

Without proper club face alignment it is physically impossible to swing a golf club consistently through the important hitting area. Many a faulty swing can directly be attributed to improper procedure in getting set at address.

First, pick a target, be it a spot in the fairway on the green, and place the club face down behind the ball without taking your stance. Then, stand somewhat behind the ball with your feet close together, with your weight mostly on the right side—look at the target—then the ball, and repeat a time or two, until in so doing you can see an imaginary line from the target to the ball. When the imaginary line is established, and the club face is square to this imaginary line, you then adjust your stance to this alignment by squaring your stance to this line. At this point you cannot see the target, so be certain as you look at the ball, you can still see the imaginary line out in front of the ball.

The line of flight should be perpendicular to the scorings on your club face, and your shoulders and your hips should be parallel with the line of flight.

Many people make the mistake of walking directly to the ball, getting set over the ball, then looking up at the target, as if merely looking at the target could get the job done.

Try lining up properly to one side of the other and try to imagine all the difficult "tricks" you would have to do with your weight shift, and your hands to get the ball started at the target.

The next time you have the opportunity to watch the top tournament players line up for a shot, be it live or on television, watch the procedure they all go through as they put the club down behind the ball and square it with the intended line of flight, then walk around the club, and square off with the line of flight, waggle the clubhead a few times, forward press, swing, and bing—everything working through the hitting area on the line of flight, resulting in another shot headed for the target.

Ted is also in his first year with the Playhouse and has worked many plays, including quite a bit of classical comedy, primarily Shakespeare and Moliere. Also seen in this production is Sonya Titus, appearing as Heckla. Sonya is an English and speech teacher from Cadillac, Mich., and has worked in quite a bit of community theatre in northern Michigan.

Directing this production are Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bremer of Milwaukee, where they have worked extensively in children's theatre. "Elves and the Shoemaker" will be presented July 15 and 17. General admission is $1 and no seats are reserved. You may reserve tickets by calling Cromwell 856-2146, or writing Box 26, Syracuse.

NEDRA BEEBE INJURED IN GOLF ACCIDENT

Mrs. Fred (Nedra) Beebe, Pierceton, was the victim of an unusual golf accident last Friday evening on South Shore golf course and sustained painful injuries as a result.

Riding in a golf cart with Mrs. Dorothy Jones of North Webster on number 2 fairway, the cart in which the women were crossing a small bridge overturned as the front wheel of the cart hit soft dirt.

Mrs. Beebe was thrown across the cart. She suffered a black left eye, left arm and leg bruises and a massive hemorrhage of the left hand.

She was taken to the Whitley County hospital by Luther Vance, who was at the golf course, and Dr. J. B. Mishler attended her. X-rays revealed no bones were broken in her hand.

She was participating in a scramble when the accident occurred.

Maxwelton Vandalism Just Greens Being Watered

Three officers rushed to the Maxwelton Golf Course, near Syracuse, one night last week when it was reported "someone is tearing up the grounds."

When the officers arrived, however, they found the greensman at the course watering the greens, using his car instead of the truck, which he usually used.

State trooper Herschel Harper, Syracuse deputy marshal Oscar Dahl and conservation officer Earl Money answered the call. Officers have been patrolling the area lately due to recent acts of vandalism at the Maxwelton and Wawasee courses.

Eric Schiller Working In SCOPE Project In Georgia

Eric Schiller, 29, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stieglitz of r 2 Milford, is one of 17 students from the University of California in Los Angeles working in the Summer Community Organization and Political Education (SCOPE) project. The headquarters of the UCLA group is in Macon, Ga.

Schiller and more than 500 college students underwent an intensive six-day orientation on Atlanta university campuses, Atlanta, Ga., before leaving to work for ten weeks with the Southern Christian Leadership Conference's Summer Community Organization and Political Education (SCOPE) project in 48 counties in the states of Alabama, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Virginia and Florida.

SCOPE, under the direction of Hosea L. Williams, a key aid to SCLC president Dr. Martin Luther King, is designed to combat an almost absolute Negro disfranchisement in some of the south's most infamous blackbelt countries. Coupled with voter registration work will be political education and adult education programs and efforts to initiate war on poverty projects.

From Toronto

Mr. Schiller is from Toronto, Ontario. He has a B.S. degree in mechanical engineering from Toronto university and has almost completed the requirements for his master's degree from Fuller Theological Seminary, Pasadena, Calif. He spent 1964-65 studying as a special student at the University of California in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Schiller, the former Frances Stieglitz, is spending the month of July with her parents at Milford.

The Schillers will move to Toronto to this fall, where he will attend the University of Toronto. He has received a National Research scholarship to work on his master's degree in mechanical engineering at the university.

Excerpts From Letters

Following are excerpts from Schiller's letters: "There is much basic Christianity here, even though at times the terminology is not used. At other times however the name of Jesus (as only a Negro can say it) is clearly mentioned. This especially so among the Negro ministers on the SCLC staff.

"The group's activities so far have been largely confined to mass voter registration. Over 200 Negroes have been registered during the first week. The Negro leadership is quite well organized here. A number of the Negro churches are actively supporting the civil rights movement — though all except one of the white churches are completely segregated. The Negroes in this city are quite proud of their boycott two years ago, that in three short weeks crippled the bus system and won them the right to sit anywhere in the buses — not just in the back seats.

"With regard to some possible sit-ins in restaurants to enforce integration, I shared the need to sympathize with, show concern and love for the whites who oppose us. They surely had much fear and hesitation as they see old traditional ways change. We must respect their fears and their attitudes. This will be shown in courtesy instead of rudeness, gentleness instead of harshness, constructive love instead of destructive hate. My words I think were well received by the group."
