Syracuse EMS

Jared Knisley, r 1 box 283 Syracuse, was brought to the fire station at 5:45 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 27, after being hit in the head by a rock. The laceration was bandaged and his father was advised to take him to the hospital for further treatment.
Jeremy Van Lue, 13, 206 E. Carroll St., Syracuse, was brought to the fire station at 6:18 p.m. Saturday, Sept. 28, after he was bitten by a neighbor's dog. His father was advised to watch the wound for infection and to keep it clean.

The Syracuse Emergency Medical Service was called to a personal injury accident in Enchanted Hills at 11:52 p.m. Saturday. Taken to Goshen Hospital were Rick Ritter, 17, P.O. Box 441 Syracuse, with a deep laceration and compound fracture to the right foot; and Travis Ritter, 15, P.O. Box 441 Syracuse, with a small laceration on the forehead and small abrasion to his right leg.

The EMS was called to the home of Brian Kitson, two, 800 E. Chicago St., Syracuse, at 3:53 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 29, after the child had gotten some fuel oil in his mouth. His parents advised they would transport him in a private vehicle to the hospital after the EMS advised he should be taken to the hospital emergency room for a check-up.

Priscilla Rhode, 65, 137 N. Shore Dr., Syracuse, was taken to Goshen Hospital after she became ill Monday, Sept. 30. The EMS was called at 9:37 p.m.

There were four nephews and one niece unable to attend.

CPR at Goshen

Goshen Hospital is offering a Cardio-Pulmonary Resuscitation (CPR) class on Oct. 14 and Oct. 17, from 6:30-9:30 p.m. at the hospital's education department.

CPR is an emergency measure which almost everyone can learn in a short time. CPR may keep the heart attack patient alive until more advanced life support is available.

When a person's heart stops for any reason — heart attack, electrical shock, drowning, smoke inhalation — the first few minutes can mean the difference between life and death. The American Heart Association estimates the 50,000 heart attack victims could be saved annually if emergency care were available at the scene. CPR can provide that immediate care. It involves mouth-to-mouth breathing and chest massage to restart the stopped heart. Its purpose is to keep the heart attack victim alive until advanced life support is available.

Teachers, homemakers, students, policemen, businessmen, restaurant employees and families of heart patients should all take advantage of CPR training. With the knowledge of proper CPR techniques, a person may be able to save a life.

Anyone interested in CPR can enroll by calling the Education Department at Goshen Hospital, 533-2141, ext. 1104. Pre-registration is required as class size is limited. There is a class fee which includes book and materials.

Osteoporosis to be topic

Are you at risk for bone disease? Because more and more Americans, over 15 million in fact, have some degree of osteoporosis. Osteoporosis is a painful and crippling bone disease. It develops slowly, so slowly, in fact, that it often takes years before a victim or even their doctor realizes that they have it. There is no cure for osteoporosis. However, osteoporosis can be prevented.

The body goes through many stages during life. But it always needs calcium. Milk and other foods from the milk group are the best sources of calcium.

Barbara Fierce, registered dietitian at Goshen Hospital, is presenting a program on Osteoporosis on Oct. 15, at 7 p.m. in Pepple Auditorium. The public is invited to attend this free program to assist in the prevention of osteoporosis.

No matter what the age or stage in life, by attending this program participants will be able to find out how many servings family members need each day to supply the calcium needed by the body.

There is no charge but call the education department at Goshen Hospital to register at 533-2141, ext. 1104.

Bob Knight to be honored

The inaugural presentation of the American Lung Association of Indiana's "Spirit of Indiana" Gold Medallion will be made to Indiana University head basketball coach Bob Knight. National chairman of the Christmas Seal campaign of the American Lung Association, renowned entertainer Pearl Bailey, will present the award. The award ceremony will be the highlight of Indiana's first statewide research fund dinner to be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 22, at 7 p.m. at Adam's Mark Hotel in Indianapolis.

Otis R. Bowen, MD, Bibler Professor of Family Medicine, Indiana University School of Medicine, Indianapolis, will serve as honorary chairman for the dinner. Donald C. "Danny" Danielson, vice chairman of the board of directors, City Securities Corporation, Indianapolis, is the general chairman for the event. William S. Armstrong, retired president, Indiana University Foundation, Bloomington, is banquet chairman, and Ken Beckley, vice president, advertising and public relations, H. H. Gregg Appliances, Indianapolis, is ticket chairman.

According to Danielson, Knight's selection as the first recipient of the "Spirit of Indiana" Gold Medallion is a tribute to his contributions to the game of basketball and the recognition that he has brought to all of Indiana. Danielson stated, "Bob Knight's remarkable commitment to physical fitness and a healthy lifestyle serves as an ideal for all Hoosiers. The American Lung Association of Indiana is also committed to the promotion of a healthy lifestyle as well as the prevention and control of lung disease. The proceeds from this dinner will help provide the Lung Association with additional support for its newly intensified program of research in Indiana."

In addition to Pearl Bailey, the Al Cobine Band and the internationally acclaimed Star of Indiana Drum and Bugle Corps will appear. Other distinguished guests will also participate in the program and will be announced at a later date.

Ticket orders for the dinner and cocktail reception may be sent to the American Lung Association of Indiana, 8777 Purdue Road, Suite 310, Indianapolis, Ind. 46268 or call (317) 872-9685.

Aids news

BOSTON — The AIDS virus wrecks the immune system by blinding sentry cells in the blood so they cannot recognize protein labels that ordinarily signal the presence of germs in the body, a new study claims.

New test

BOSTON — A new prenatal test for carriers of hemophilia can tell early in pregnancy whether a fetus has inherited the gene that causes the bleeding disorder, researchers said recently.
