FARMERS' FINANCIAL STATEMENT AS AN AID TO BUSINESS SUCCESS

By D. H. OTIS, Director, Agricultural Commission
American Bankers Association

Farmers, like other business men, frequently need to borrow money. Business men furnish their bankers with a statement. Why should not the farmer? In order to safeguard the depositors' money which he loans out, the banker needs full information regarding the borrower's financial condition. Many farmers are entitled to better credit standings which such credit statements will give them. These statements will also tell the farmer whether his business as a whole is a going concern.

D. H. Otis

It is not such a difficult task to make out a statement at least once a year. The first year will be the hardest. After that it will come easy. The statement should include the value of land and buildings, the value of the crops on hand at the beginning of the year, such as grain, hay, fiber crops, fruits and vegetables, etc. The statement should also include the number and value of the different classes of livestock, including horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, poultry, bees, etc. It should also show value of crop machinery, dairy equipment, poultry equipment, harness, pleasure vehicles, power machinery, etc. Under other assets should be included cash on hand or in bank, loans receivable, accounts receivable, cash value of insurance policies, stocks and bonds, United States securities and other miscellaneous assets, not included in the above.

The financial statement should also list liabilities, such as mortgages, both real estate and chattel, notes due bank, notes payable to others, accounts or bills due others, premiums on life insurance, interest on taxes, etc. The net worth may be determined by taking the liabilities from the total assets. If there are any contingent liabilities they should also be listed. These would include endorsements on notes of others, security or bondsman for others, leases or contracts, judgments or suits pending.

Other Information
In addition to the above, general information could be given on the cash value of life insurance assets pledged as collateral or insurance carried on buildings, insurance carried on livestock, insurance carried on machinery or implements, taxes for the year,

HOGS FOLLOWED OWNER TO HIS NEW LOCATION

Hogs usually are neither intelligent nor companionable, but like other animals they do not always run true to type. In moving from one farm to another, perhaps ten miles away, Mr. Turner, a farmer of the Kentucky hills, decided, writes a contributor to the Youth's Companion, to leave his herd of forty swine in an open field at his old home until the following morning when he would return for them. Next morning he was up early in his new house, making preparations for the arduous task of driving before him over rough mountain roads two score hogs, any or all of which might prove refractory. But when he emerged from the house into the front yard imagine his astonishment at seeing his hogs, all forty of them, standing before him at the gate!

Were the hogs so much attached to their owner that they followed him to his new home? Or did they follow the trail of the farmer's cattle? The owner and all the neighbors, too, were completely mystified.

INDIANA HOMES AND HOME-MAKING PROGRAM

By Prof. Mary L. Matthews, Head, Home Economics Department, Purdue University.

There are three points which need particular stressing in the Homemaking program for 1925. First, I should like to urge the building of better houses with better equipment. Second, I should like to stress the value of organizing the Homemaker's time. Perhaps you will call this making a schedule. The third thing to be stressed in the Homemakers program is that of health. We need to understand the rules of good health and we need to urge people to follow them. During this conference we are stressing the value of good equipment for the farm home and we are particularly interested in showing you the electrical appliances which can be used in the home, if the farm woman can secure electricity from the trolley lines or if she has a plant in her own home. There seems to be no reason why electrical appliances can not be utilized on the farm. The great difficulty at the present time is the exceedingly high costs of such devices. When the home is properly equipped the woman then needs to organize her time in such a way that she can get through her housekeeping. It is little value to have a well equipped house if the woman is still going to "putter," around all day with her housekeeping. It is time for the modern woman to analyze the work she is doing in her home to determine whether the things she is doing are worth while. She needs to reduce the amount of cooking and the amount of scrubbing so that she may have more time to devote to other things than merely supplying the physical needs of her family. We as Home Economics teachers have been criticized because we have over stressed the technique of Homemaking and have neglected more important matters. Another thing we have been very much criticized for, is the fact that we have not stressed the matter of health in connection with our Home Economics teaching. We have taught cooking but we have neglected to emphasize Nutrition. Women are largely responsible for good health in the home and they must assume more responsibility for community health because no matter how carefully a woman manages her own home her family is not safe if bad conditions exist in the community.

THE OPIUM TRAFFIC

Great Britain is deeply interested, financially, in the opium business in India, and even in China, and has effectually blocked all efforts for an international agreement on the subject of control of the traffic. At the Geneva hearing before the League of Nations Lord Cecil proposed a time limit of 15 years for the suppression of legalized opium smoking in the Far East, providing the time would commence after opium smuggling from China had been effectively controlled. This was not agreed to by the American representatives.

Members of the House and Senate Foreign Relations Committees are emphatic in their disapproval of the attitude of England, asserting that it is a simple question of greed.

FROG IS A GOOD BAROMETER

A barometer in common use in some parts of Europe consists of a pan of water and a frog and a little stepladder in it. When the frog comes out of the water and sits on the steps it is said infallibly to indicate rain.

AWARDS MADE IN B. & O.

STATE POTATO SHOW

Competing in a class of over one hundred entries, Fred C. Robbins of Kosciusko county was awarded the one-hundred dollar scholarship offered by the railroad company as first prize in the Baltimore and Ohio State Potato Show which was held at Purdue University recently in connection with the Annual State Potato Show. Young Robbins secured a yield of 119.8 bushels of Rural New Yorkers on his 1/4 acre plot. This yield was the highest that was secured by one of the 300 members of the Baltimore and Ohio Clubs. Mr. Robbins is a senior in the Pierce-High School and will use his scholarship towards an agricultural course at Purdue next fall.

Paul Brenneman of DeKalb county won the Blue Ribbon award in the Second Year Class which carries with it a cash prize of $15.00. Young Brenneman secured a yield of 110.2 bushels on his 1/4 acre. He is a senior in the Waterloo High School and is enrolled in the Vocational Agricultural course. In addition to the above, the following are the winners of the prizes awarded by the railroad company:

First Year Club
Second Prize—$25.00—Loy Ayers, DeKalb County.

Third Prize—$15.00—Evelyn Koop, Clark County.

Fourth Prize—$10.00—Paul Shaw, Switzerland County.

Advanced Club
Second Prize—$12.00—Willard Weis, Dearborn County.

Third Prize—$10.00—William Kessler, Jefferson County.

Fourth Prize—$8.00—Leonard Dillingham, Porter County.

Fifth Prize—$5.00—Robert Higbee, Ohio County.

Harvey Kauffman of the Elkhart County Club was crowned "Potato King" of Indiana by Judge Ira Huffman of Purdue University, because of the fact that he exhibited the best peck in all classes of the entire show. The competition was very keen for this honor as all growers are anxious to receive this award.

The interest taken by the members in the Potato Club work this year has been very gratifying to the Club Department of Purdue University, and to the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, which company has sponsored the club. The work of these clubs has awakened the farmers in Indiana to the fact that certified seed can help increase very materially the yield of potatoes which they can secure.

EUROPEAN ENTANGLEMENTS

There seems to be a wide divergence of opinion as to the status of the United States in European affairs since the signing of the Paris pact regarding the payment of American claims by Germany. Several English statesmen have expressed great satisfaction over the fact that the United States has at last become a party to the contract, while France seems to think that the United States has practically assured them against German default.

Secretary Hughes, however, asserts that there are no entangling alliances; that in view of the inclusive character of payments under this Dawes plan it was necessary for us to take part in the conference to protect our interests.

Several Senators, including Borah and Johnson demand more light on the subject and demand that the full text be submitted for inspection.

FORD MAY BID AGAIN

Now that the Underwood bill leasing Muscle Shoals has passed the Senate and is before the House, unconfirmed reports indicate the possibility of another bid by Mr. Ford. Under the old bid Mr. Ford agreed to pay $5,000,000 for the properties valued at $85,000,000, and a 100-year lease of the water power plants at a total of about $220,000,000. It is claimed that Mr. Ford's pet project is a Lakes-to-Gulf railway with Muscle Shoals as a central power point with ramifications east and west. With such independent distributing facilities for his motor products, coal, nitrate and fertilizer Mr. Ford could snap his fingers at the "Railroad trust" just as he snapped them at the Wall Street "money trust." It is believed a revised proposition from Mr. Ford will be presented to the House rather than the Senate, and in some quarters it is believed the President is very favorably inclined toward a Ford offer.
