

POETICAL.

[The following lines were selected by a young lady, and transmitted to her friend in this place, who had been recently married. They are certainly worth preserving.]

On matrimony's fickle sea,
I hear, thou hast ventured fairly,
Though young in years it may not be
Thy bark is launched too early.
Each wish of mine to heaven is sent,
That, on the stormy water,
Thou'lt prove a wife obedient
As thou hast been a daughter.

If every wish of mine were bliss,
I every hope were pleasure,
Thou wouldst in him find happiness,
And be in thee a treasure.
Every wish and hope of mine,
And every thought and feeling,
Is for the will of these and thine,
As true as my revealing.

I know thy youthful heart full well,
Thou thoughtless, romping devil,
But pardon, if my verse should tell
My mind in terms unkind:
For the advice which I indite,
Pray think me not unkindly;
'Tis from this heart each word I write,
O mayst thou mark me duly.

To please thy husband in all things,
For ever be thou zealous;
Age, bear in mind that love hath wings,
Then never make him jealous.
For if love from this perch once flies,
How weak are beauty's jesses!
In vain would plead thy streaming eyes,
And thy dishevelled tresses.

Be prudent in thy thoughts of dress,
Be sparing of thy parties;
Where fashion riots in excess,
O nothing there but art is!
And can its palling sweets compare,
With love of faithful bosoms?
Then of the fatal tree beware,
Thine's poison in its blossoms.

Each thought and wish to him confide,
No secrets from him cherish;
As soon as thou hast sought to hide,
The better feelings perish.
In whatsoever ye do say
O never will him palter;
Remember too thou must obey,
Before the holy altar.

Bear and forbear, for you may find
Uncounted things to tease ye,
And should thy husband seem unkind,
Averse to smile or please ye;
Think that amidst the scene of life,
He much has found to grieve him;
Then smile as it becomes a wife—
With music strive to cheer him.

Aye, answer him with kindly words,
Be each tone sweetly spoken,
For often is the marriage cord
By angry accents broken.
Then curb thy temper in its range,
And fretful be thou never,
For several once a fearful change
Hangs over both for ever.

SATURDAY

In glowing terms I would this day indite—
Its morn, its noon, its afternoon and night;
The busiest day through the week, the latter day,
A day wherein old matters are made even;
The driest—clearest too—of all the seven;
The soaring fan, the plate, and platter day;
A day of general note and notability!
A plume to gentle folks
And prime goodly,
Even to the highest ranks—Nobility!
And yet a day (barring all jokes)
Of great utility.
Both to the rich as well as the Mobility!
A day of din—of clack—of clatter day;
For all, howe'er they mind the matter, say
This day they dread;
A day with lippish, feverish, frenzy fed,
Is that, grand day of fuss and bustle—Saturday.

We most cordially agree with the gentleman, whoever he was, that indited the above poetry. Saturday is the most thriving and bustling day of all the seven, and it really seems, since we began to bother with this paper, as if it came every other day in the week. How calm, peaceful and accommodating a body is poor Mrs. Monday. She is a clever, deliberate washerwoman, that seems to want for nothing but snuff and old clothes. The world goes very easy with her. To be sure, she never lays up many coppers, but then, says she, "I'll feel so tired and sleepy, after going to meeting twice yesterday besides the lecture, that I can hardly stir my hands about in the tub; Sam's stockings, Mamma, had better be mended by niece To-morrow, before they are put in the wash: Yah—"

Tuesday is a notable middle aged lady in bright spectacles, who is very grave and very silent, though she contrives to do some driving. Wednesday is a driving widow of thirty-seven, who begins to fret that the work is so far behind hand, and by the quickness of her tongue in finding fault, succeeds in scolding people into something like tolerable activity. Next comes patient Thursday a young lady of half a century, who takes her chair at the table and sips tea and tells news all day long. She has half a dozen set words which constitute the spice of her conversation. "Bless my soul!" "How you talk!" "O my!" "Did you ever hear the like of it?" Yes, you old mother; all will hear the like of it, who spend their precious life at the tea-table, and put off to a more convenient season every employment but that of blasting their neighbors' character? Friday is a venerable old lady very smart and very religious, who is nearly discouraged to see how much work remains to be done. The older she grows the more nervous she becomes; the cap, book and glasses are laid aside, and she labors zealously, talking all the while of the degeneration of modern times. But then comes Saturday a strapping housemaid with the strength and tongue of Xanthippe. Soap suds and sand! Hot irons and cold oven! Hoity-toity. Nothing has been done. Every thing is in confusion. Where is John? Where is Dick? Sam what have you been doing all the week? What fine order these things are in? Here take this brush—scrub up the auditions, clean the knives, &c. The house is turned topsyturvy. All is dust, suds, bustle. Folks get up in the morning with a glimmering idea of the approaching hubbub, and feel marvelously apprehensive lest they yield up to dirt and despair. Early in the day, people are thronging in from the country. The taverns begin to be filled up. The sun beats down hot—the streets are crowded with ladies after patterns; the markets are thronged with flies and housekeepers who are then obliged to provide the food of two days; money borrowers are also on the trot to gather the wherewithal to pay their bank-notes both for that day and Sunday—so that a large half of the whole business of the week is now transacted. As for reading newspapers at such a time—the thing is impossible. Half the citizens cannot get time to put on clean linen or be shaved. In fact the day is so fruitful of toil and trouble, that we never cease to wonder at the wish of the cunning African, who prayed to have Saturday every day, that Sunday might come offener. But enough—

The capon burns, the pig falls from the spit,
The clock has strucken twelve upon the bell;
I'll hence— [Boston Lounger.

KISSING.

We have just been looking over the first number of Tate's Edinburgh Magazine. It is very interesting, and almost equal to its rival Blackwood. We find only an article in it in however of a peculiar sporting character. This is an essay on kissing, which most be allowed to be the rarest and the best kind of sport.—N. Y. Times

He thus describes the kiss amatory;—"On writing this word we feel our breast fluttering beneath a clogged weight of fear, just as it did—we care not to say how many years ago. It is a strange and beautiful thing—first, innocent love—There is that in female beauty, that delights merely to gaze upon; but beware of looking too long. The lustrous black pupil contrasted with the white of the eye or the carnated skin,—the clear placid blue, into which you see down—down into the very soul—the deep hazel, lustrous as a sun-lit stream seen through an opening in its willow banks,—all may be gazed upon with impunity ninety-nine times, but the hundredth you are a gone man. On a sudden, the eyes strike you as deeper and brighter than ever; or you fancy that a long look is stolen at you beneath a drooping eyelid, and that there is a slight flush on the cheek; and at once you are in love. Then you spend the morning in contriving apologies for calling, and the days and evenings in playing them off. When you lay your hand on the door bell, your knees tremble, and your breast feels compressed; and when admitted, you set, and look and say nothing, and go away determined to tell your story the next time. This goes on four months, varied by the occasional darning of kissing a flower with which she presents you—perhaps in the darning intoxication of love waiving it towards her; or in an affection of the Quixotic style, kneeling with mock heroic emphasis to kiss her hand in affected jest; and the next time you meet with her, both are stately and reserved as ever.—Till at last, on some unnoticeable day, when you find yourself alone with the lady, you quite unawares feel her hand in yours, a yielding shudder crosses her, and you know not how, she is in your arms, and you press upon her lips delayed but not withheld,
A long, long kiss, a kiss of youth and love."

PROVERES

Translated from the Spanish.
A client betwixt his attorney and counsellor, is like a goose between two foxes.
He who compounds holy scripture with his own warrant, puts hot brandy together with his fingers.
Choose thy friends like thy books—few, but choice.
Soldiers in peace are like chimneys in summer.
Debt keep a man from sleeping too much.
Salt comes from the sea—mischievous from a woman.
He ventures too much who relies solely on his own judgment.
Nations do diversely digest their grief; the Dutch drink it away; the French sing it away; the Spaniards groan it away; and the Italian sleeps it away.
An Englishman hibernated, is a devil incarnate, and as foolish as the men of Gotham, who once sowed needles, hoping they would grow bars of iron.
To have gold brings fear; to have none brings grief.
Fortune reaches her hand to a bold man.
This is a sad house where the hen crows, and the cock is silent.
There is not so clear a mirror as an old friend.
To traverse the world safely, one must have the eye of a falcon, (to see danger afar off) the ear of an ass, the face of an ape, the tongue of a mountebank, the back of a camel to bear any thing, the mouth of a hog to eat any thing, the feet of a stag to fly from all mischief.
Where there are women and geese there wants no noise.

He who has a wolf for a companion, let him carry a dog under his cloak.
The dead opens living men's eyes, viz: History speaks of the actions of dead men, opens the eyes, and directs the living.
At the first assault, the French are more than men, and afterwards less than women. This saying relates to the lightness and inconsistency of the French nation.

A GRAMMATICAL PUPIL.

A country schoolmaster in the neighborhood of Corkney, the other day, after giving one of his pupils a sound drubbing for speaking bad grammar, sent him to the other end of the room to inform another boy that he wished to speak to him, and, at the same time, promising to repeat the dose if he spoke to him ungrammatically: the youngster being quite satisfied with what he had got, determined to be exact, and thus he addressed his fellow pupil:—
There is a common substantive of the masculine gender, singular number, nominative case, and in an angry mood, that sits perched upon the eminence at the other side of the room, wishes to articulate a few sentences to you in the present tense.

Elegant compliment from an old man.—When Fontenelle was ninety-seven years of age, he happened to be in company with the then young and beautiful Madame Helvetius, who had been married but a few weeks. Fontenelle was always a great admirer of beauty, and he had been paying the bride many compliments, as refined as they were gallant. When the guests were sitting down to table, however, he passed her, and set himself down without perceiving her. "See now," said Madame Helvetius, "what dependence is to be put in all your fine speeches; you pass on before me without even looking at me!" "Madame," said the gallant old man, "if I had stopped to look at you, I could never have passed on."

FEARFUL FACT.

According to the late census, there are 335,192 more males between the ages of twenty and thirty, than there are females between fifteen and twenty. Young bachelors, therefore, cannot be too active in supplying themselves with helpmates.

A Receipt for destroying Flies.—To one pint of milk add a quarter of a pound of raw sugar, and two ounces of ground pepper; simmer the same together for eight or ten minutes, and place it about in shallow vessels; the flies attack it greedily, and in a few minutes they are suffocated. By this method you may keep every part of your house, even your kitchen, clear of flies all summer, without the danger that may attend the use of poison.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE undersigned will sell seven hundred and ninety acres of land, of the best quality, part of a tract of eleven hundred and ninety acres, situated on the north-west side of the Wabash at the Grand Rapids, about two miles from Mount Carmel, in the State of Illinois, on which he has erected a convenient one story frame house with a piazza all round, in which he resides; a frame smoke house, a kitchen, a stone walled well of excellent water, and cleared about ten acres. It extends near two miles on the river, and affords a site for a Town and Mill where the fall is four and a half feet. It is well timbered, and contains a quarry of fine stone. A petition to Congress has recently been forwarded to Gen. Robinson, a Senator from Illinois, praying national aid, to cut a canal at this place, which, if effected, one third in extent will run through this tract, and greatly enhance its value, and benefit both the states of Ill. and Indiana. One half of the tract may be purchased with or without the improvements; or less quantity to suit the purchaser, and a credit for part of the purchase will be given if required.
WM. MINTOSH.
Grand Rapids, Dec. 27, 1831. 14-16.

WINTER GOODS.

THE subscribers have just received forty-seven packages of GOODS, suitable for the present season.—Also, brown and bleached DOMESTICS, wool and fine Hats, Whitmore Cotton Cards, &c.

CHAMBERS & GARVIN
Louisville, Ky. Nov. 23, 1831. 10-11

PROTECTION.

THE Protection Fire and Marine Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut, are prepared to insure on

Steam, Keel, & Flat Boats,
AND THEIR CARGOES.

ALSO,
ON HOUSES AND STORES,
at moderate rates of premium.

Satisfactory evidence of the liberality of the company, in adjusting losses and promptness in paying, can be had by applying at the office of the Vincennes Gazette.

SAMUEL HILL, Agent.
Vincennes, Oct. 1, 1830.—1

NOTICE.

THE subscriber informs the public that he has four hundred barrels of good Kenhawa salt, which will be exchanged for WHEAT, CORN, COTTON, FLOUR or CASH, on good terms.

—ALSO—

A quantity of good Whiskey, and Cotton Yarn, by wholesale or retail. He wishes to purchase a quantity of Corn and Wheat, for which cash or the above articles will be paid.

H. D. WHEELER.

P. S. All those indebted to the late firm of Wheeler and Webb, and also to H. D. Wheeler, will save cost by calling and settling the same, on or before the 25th inst. Corn, wheat, cotton or pork will be taken for any debts that may be due.
H. D. W.
Vincennes, Dec. 1, 1831. 10-16.

NOTICE.

THOSE subscribers to the Gazette who intend discharging their accounts, by paying in Wheat, are informed that they can deposit it at the Steam Mill of Messrs. Marron and Hunter, or at that of H. D. Wheeler. On producing the receipts of either of these gentlemen, they shall receive a proper credit.
17th June. SAMUEL HILL.

MADISON HOTEL, Sign of the Rising Sun.

MADISON, INDIANA.
THE subscriber having removed from his former stand, to the house formerly occupied by Mr. J. Sheets, to which extensive additions have been recently made, which renders it one of the best in the state, the undersigned would inform the public, that he has taken the above extensive establishment for a term of years, and fitted it up in a neat and comfortable style, for the accommodation of his guests. His house contains about

TWENTY FIVE ROOMS,

Well Supplied with New Furniture;

HIS TABLE, HIS BEDS, HIS BAR AND HIS STABLE. Will be well furnished and strictly attended to. In short, it is his intention to make his establishment meet the expectations of the public, confidently believing that if he does, they will liberally patronize him.

Located in the centre of town, and on the street leading to the principal STEAM BOAT LANDING, and convenient to the river, his establishment will be found particularly convenient to Steam Boat Passengers, AS WELL AS LAND TRAVELLERS.

Gentlemen and ladies visiting this place, can be accommodated with private apartments at any time.

He would avail himself of the present opportunity of making his grateful acknowledgments to the public for their liberal patronage, heretofore extended to his house, and for the future would respectfully solicit a continuance

J. PUGH.

Madison, Ia. February 29, 1832.
N. B. The stage office for the Frankfort and Indianapolis lines of stages, (running through three times a week,) will be kept at my house.
26-3m. J. P.

BRUCE'S NEW YORK TYPE FOUNDRY.

Established in 1813.
THE subscriber has completed a new edition of his Book of Specimens, with which his customers and other Printers disposed to buy from him, may be supplied on application at his Foundry, Nos. 18 and 20, Augustus st. behind the City Hall. He would remark, for the information of those who have not been in the habit of dealing with him and because a different practice has been extensively introduced, that his book contains nothing but the actual productions of his own Foundry, and presents a true specimen of what will be furnished to orders. The assortment is very complete, has been deliberately and carefully in twenty years brought to its present high state of perfection, and embraces a variety of styles, adapted to different tastes, and to the various departments of printing, Newspaper, Book, and Job, highly finished, and cast of the most serviceable metal. Not to notice the varieties which are distinguished by their numbers in the Book, it contains of Roman and Italic, 27 sizes, from twelve-line Pica to Pearl.

Two-line and Title, 15 sizes, two-line Column to agate.
Shaded, 13 sizes Ten-line Pica to Long Primer.
Italian, 7 sizes, Seven-line Pica to Long Primer.
Antique, 17 sizes Ten-line Pica to Nonpareil.
Black, 12 sizes, Four-line Pica to Minion.
Open Black, 5 sizes Four-line Pica to Great Primer.
Script, 2 sizes, Double Small Pica and Great Primer.

Besides Music, Back Slope, Ornamented letters and Lottery Figures, Piece Fractions, Superior, Astronomical and other Signs, Space Rules, Brass Rules, Ornamented Dashes, Long Braces more than 200 kinds of flowers, and 1,000 Cuts and Ornaments for Schools Books, Newspapers, and Scientific works.

Orders for any of these and also for Presses, Chases, Composing Sticks, Cases, Furniture, Ink or any other thing required in the Printing business will be executed on the most favorable terms, and with the utmost promptitude, a large stock of the Foundry articles being always on hand.

Printers of Newspapers who publish this advertisement, and forward a paper containing it to the foundry will be allowed three dollars for it, if they purchase from the foundry to the amount of twelve.

GEORGE BRUCE.

March 6— New York.

NEW SPRING AND Summer Goods.

THE Subscribers have just received their Spring and Summer assortment of GOODS, comprising a very select variety of

Fancy & Staple articles, to which they respectfully invite the attention of their friends and purchasers generally, and which they will offer on very moderate terms

Wholesale and Retail.

BURTCH & HEBERD.
Vincennes, May 25, 1832 34-17

COTTON YARN,

FOR SALE by the bale, at the Louisville prices; manufactured at the Eagle Factory, and put up to order.

D. S. BONNER, Agent.
Vincennes, April 13, 1832. 30-17

NOTICE.

THE undersigned, constituted Grand Master by the authority of Charles Anthony, Esq. Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of the State of Ohio, to make the necessary arrangements for the celebration of the Festival of St. John, at the city of Cincinnati, on Monday 25th June next, agreeably to the regulations of the Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter of the State, who have adjourned specially to meet there on the occasion, most respectfully invites, the Grand Officers, and members of the Grand Lodge and Grand Chapter of the state of Indiana, the officers and members of the subordinate Lodges, and Chapters and all Knight Templars to attend the celebration then to be held at Cincinnati.

WILLIAM BURKE, G. M. pro tem.
Cincinnati, May 17, 1832. 39-41

CONVEYANCING.

THE subscriber will attend to Conveyancing and to the preparation of papers necessary for the settlement of estates in the Probate Court; he will also execute writings of all descriptions on reasonable terms.

SAMUEL HILL.

November 17 1831

Atkinson's Casket.

Gems of Literature, Wit and Sentiment.
Each number containing 83 royal octavo pages of letter press, embellished with at least 1 copperplate, and several wood engravings; and one or more pieces of music. The work at the end of the year making a volume of about 600 pages, to which an elegant engraved title page, and a general index, are added.

THE number of volumes of the "Casket" which have already been published, and the faithfulness and punctuality of the publisher in fulfilling his contracts with his patrons, in respect to their contents, are sufficient with those at all acquainted with the work, to show its true character.

The non-stantly increasing patronage bestowed on the Casket, has enabled the publisher to make considerable improvements in the work. Its typographical appearance is much changed for the better, and the contents are much enriched. He believes the volume now proposed will not be exceeded in respect to typographical execution, and quantity and quality of the engravings, and the value of the contents, by any other periodical; and he rarely ventures it to be the cheapest publication of the kind in the country.

The facilities for obtaining suitable articles for this work have, of late, much increased.—Some of the best literary Publications of Europe are regularly received at the office of the CASKET, as well as the prominent periodicals of the U.S. From both selections are made with much care. To secure a sufficient quantity of original matter, and to enable men of talents to present their labors with success, and contribute to advance the literature and science of our own country, the publisher gives a compensation to his correspondents, commensurate to the support he receives.

In respect to the Embellishments, which appear in the work, the publisher believes that no other periodical has such a profusion of elegant and expensive engravings. Executed in general by the first artists in the city, they will suffer nothing by a comparison. These form a considerable item in the expense of the work, and in one year exceed the whole cost of publishing some periodicals, for the same length of time, the subscription price of which is no less than the CASKET. The subjects of the engravings will continue to be as heretofore—Portraits of distinguished characters; plates of the Newest Fashions, both of Europe and America; Views of American Scenery, particularly striking and interesting; Natural History; Embroidering; Foreign and Domestic Architecture; Botanical Plants, and whatever other subjects may be deemed calculated to instruct, interest, and amuse.

To inculcate sound virtuous precepts, and guard the thoughtless against the snares of vice; to lend the youthful mind to the contemplation of those sublime and all-important subjects that deeply affect its prosperity; to give a taste for the rich, pleasing and beneficial enjoyment of literature and learning, and to hold out inducements for the young to cultivate their powers and enrich their understandings with substantial information, are matters which the publisher trusts he will ever keep in view. He is gratified in looking over his past labors, to find no language or sentiment recorded, calculated to detract from the beauty of virtue, or to show vice in a less hideous respect than it really is.

Due attention is also paid to Poetry, Anecdotes, Light Reading, Amusing Sketches, and those et ceteras which relieve the mind from the labor of close study, which refresh the understanding and give a zeal to graver and more important compositions.

TERMS:
Notwithstanding the many extra expenditures, and the heavy expense of the fine engravings, given monthly, it is not the intention of the publisher to increase the price of the Casket. When paid in advance, it will be furnished for 12 months for two dollars and fifty cents; or for three dollars, if not paid until the end of the year. Agents at a distance remitting six subscriptions, are entitled to a copy gratis.
Orders, free of postage, will meet prompt attention. Persons at a distance will find the mail a safe conveyance for ordering the work, and enclosing remittances.
Subscriptions received at this office.

PREMIUMS.

THE publishers of the LADY'S BOOK, impelled by a sense of gratitude for the unprecedented patronage which has been bestowed upon their work, and anxious to improve its character by every means in their power, have determined to offer the following premiums, viz:—For the best original tale, written for the Lady's Book,

200 DOLLARS.

For the best original poem, suitable for publication in the Lady's Book,

50 DOLLARS.

Competitors for these Premiums will address their communications, free of postage to E. A. CODET & CO. No. 112 Chestnut street, Philadelphia before the first of July, 1832, at which time, as many as shall have been received will be submitted to a committee of literary persons, whose judgment shall determine the distribution of the prizes.

Accompanying each communication the name of the writer must be furnished. If secrecy is preferred the name may be enclosed in a separate sealed envelope, which will not be opened except in case of the successful candidate.

It will of course be understood that all articles submitted for these premiums will be absolutely at the disposal of the publisher.

The publication of the Tales and poems will be commenced immediately after the award is made.

Editors of papers exchanging with the Lady's Book, and others friendly to the promotion of Literature, are requested to give the above a few insertions in their respective papers.

December 24—

NOTICE.

ALL persons indebted to the subscriber for the first volume of the Gazette, and for advertising, are requested to pay their accounts immediately; as it is necessary his former books should be balanced forthwith.

Dec. 8, 1831. SAMUEL HILL.

JUST RECEIVED.

40 Bags Havana Coffee,
10 do. Rio do.

100 Barrels

KENHAWA SALT,
40 Barrels, Saline, do.

40 Kegs Boston Nails, assorted.
5 Tons Juniata Iron.

20 Barrels New Orleans Sugar.
12 Boxes Chewing Tobacco.

20 Boxes G. P. & Y. H. Tea.
15 Boxes Tumblers.

Which are offered for sale by
BURTCH & HEBERD.

Vincennes, May 25, 1832. 35-17

JUSTICES' BLANKS

Of the new form for sale at 10-16.