

We had yesterday an opportunity of seeing one of the neatest things in the way of presents that we ever met with. It was a walking stick, of Arber vine, cut from a tree growing at the tomb of Cicero, transmitted as a gift to Mr. Clay, from an officer of the Navy, now in the Mediterranean. It has a head of agate, or some stone resembling it, which is surrounded, where it joins the stick, by a silver band bearing this inscription: "From the tomb of Cicero, for Henry Clay." This is a compliment, at receiving which, no man of any sensibility, situated as the Orator of the West is, but must feel highly gratified. It was accompanied by an elegant letter from the donor. — Am. Intel.

A very worthy journeyman mechanic presented himself yesterday at our room door, to ask whether it was indeed true, that General Jackson had signed his signature to a bill providing for the clearing out of certain rivers, streams and creeks, among them Back Creek, when he had signed, without difficulty, a bill providing for the clearing out of the Cumberland river, that runs off the Hermine. "Became," said the man, "if that is the case, I have done with the old gentleman." Now, we would ask the advocates of Gen. Jackson, whether this is not the case? If it should prove to be true, as we think it will, might it not lead other persons to the same conclusions at which the journeyman mechanic arrived? — U. S. Gazette, July 31.

Gen. Jackson states in his veto, that he is opposed to the United States Bank, because it assists the rich and oppresses the poor. Every one knows that banks are instituted for the benefit of the poor, and those who stand in need of money. The rich do not wish to borrow. It is the comparatively poor, those who depend upon the profits of their business and labor, who wish to borrow money; and to these the bank lends. The truth is, those who are rich, are the opponents of the Bank. They wish to overthrow it because they have money to lend, and while the Bank exists, the power which they would otherwise have, of grinding the poor, is taken away from them. — Lexington Observer.

JOHN MARSHALL, Esq., whose name lately stood at the head of the Jackson Bill for the Legislature in Mason county, has withdrawn from the canvass in consequence of the Executive Veto upon the U. S. Bank, & declares, that he is no longer a supporter of the Administration. Mr. M. is one of the most influential men in the State. — Lexington Journal.

The Editor of the Lexington Observer has received a letter from Mayseville, stating that the Veto has changed every Jackson man but four in that town. — ib.

The New York Commercial Advertiser, after referring to the pressure of the money market, states that the Branch Bank of the United States in that city anxious to extend every possible facility to the merchants in the present distressing emergency, which could be done consistently with its own safety, on Wednesday last, offered to loan the several banks ONE MILLION OF DOLLARS at five per cent, sums proportioned to the capitals of the city banks respectively, until the first October, taking the post notes of the Banks as security. Several of the Banks, we learn, have acceded to the proposition, and should all come into the measure, a very sensible relief to the money market will be the consequence. — Bicknell's Reporter.

MRS. TROLLOPE

This amiable lady in her "Domestic Manners of the Americans," closes one of her chapters with the following climax in the way of story telling. She was at the time of writing this marvelous adventure passing up the Mississippi (in Cincinnati) in an ordinary steam boat, and had been greatly annoyed, she says, by some hundreds of Nimrod Wildfire's, one of whom we presume, gave her ladyship the facts on which she has engrailed the touching tale. — N. Y. Spirit of the Times.

It is said that at some points of this dismal river, [the Mississippi] crocodiles are so abundant as to add the terror of their attacks to the other sufferings of a dwelling there. We are told the story of a squatter, who having located himself close to the river's side, proceeded to build his cabin. This operation is soon performed for social feeling and the love of whiskey bringing all the scanty neighbors round a new comer to aid him in cutting down trees, and rolling up the logs till the mansion is complete.

This was done, the wife and five young children were put in possession of their new home and slept soundly after a long march. Towards daybreak the husband and father were awakened by a faint cry and looking up beheld relics of three of his children scattered over the floor and an enormous crocodile with several young ones around her occupied in devouring the remains of their herid meal!!! He looked round for a weapon but finding none and aware that unarmed he could do nothing, he raised himself gently on his bed, and contrived to crawl from thence through a window, hoping that his wife, whom he left sleeping, might, with the remaining children, rest undiscovered till his return. He flew to his nearest neighbor and sought his aid, in less than half an hour two men returned with him, all three well armed, but alas! they were too late! the wife and her two babes lay mangled on their bloody bed. The gorged reptiles fell an easy prey to their assailants, who upon examining the place, found the hut had been constructed close to the mouth of a large hole almost a cavern, where the monster had hatched her hateful brood!!!

Some time since it was stated that a man of remarkable feminine appearance, had been mistaken for a female in disguise, by certain people in Boston, and that he narrowly escaped violence. The following, from the Woodstock (Vermont) Courier, will show he has not changed faces if he has places. — Balt. Patriot.

A Capt. — A respect for the opinion of the intelligence and moral portion of the community amongst whom I now reside, induces me to offer the following statement of facts, all of which I am prepared to prove. I am a native of, and for the greater part of my life have been a resident in the city of New-York—resided at Mrs. Scudder's boarding house, 424, Broadway.

From being subject to severe and almost constant bleeding at the nose, I have been reduced to a state of debility; and from that or some other cause unknown to me, my voice and appearance are said to be remarkably feminine, so much so that I have been taken for a female in disguise! This happened in Boston on the 20th of June last, when I was mobbed in the street and narrowly escaped with my life. From the fear of similar outrage, and from this cause solely, I was induced to assume the disguise of a female to escape from Boston. I was provided with the means of doing this, by having in my possession some articles of clothing which I was conveying to my sister, Mrs. Lyman of this village. This is the head and front of my offending. Whether under existing circumstances I did right in practising this deception, I leave the candid to judge. I was advised to the measure by several respectable persons of both sexes, amongst whom I will take the liberty of naming Cogswell, of the Mansion House, in Milk st., Mr. Hunt and sister, also several others of respectability in the city of Boston. To those who have been ungentlemanly enough to threaten personal outrage, I have but this to say. I do not fear but despise them; let the consequences of such an attempt be on their own heads.

DANIEL JOHNSON.
Phillips' Hotel, Woodstock.

A most shocking occurrence took place at Lynn, (Eng.) on the 30th of May last, and the town was thrown into consternation, in consequence of the assassination of Rev. Arthur Iveson, by his son the Rev. T. Iveson! His son entered the room at 10 at night, and shot his father dead with a pistol. He then went to the House of Capt. Lake, and told what he had done and then attempted his own life with Laudanum. He is evidently deranged.

PROSPECTUS. TO THE PUBLIC.

THE circulation of "SILVSTER'S REPORTER, COUNTERFEIT DETECTOR, & NEW-YORK PRICE CURRENT," having far exceeded the anticipations of the Proprietor, it being widely extended through every State and Territory in the Union, also in Upper and Lower Canada, and the West India Islands—it is proposed to enlarge it to the Imperial size, on the issuing of the first No. in January, 1832.
In addition to a large portion of miscellaneous and literary matter, original and selected, it will contain much useful and valuable information, not only of professional and mercantile men, but to the farmer, the mechanic and the laborer. A complete and correct list of all the Banks in the Union will be given, together with an account of all the latest Counterfeit Notes in circulation. Also the prices of the bills of the various branches in the United States designating the discounts at which they are received in this city. It will contain the "Price Current" of the New-York Market, corrected weekly, the value of the Stock of all the Banks, Insurance, and other incorporated Companies; the prices of gold, silver, and the various rates of Exchange with the principal commercial cities of Europe. Every No. will also contain a detailed statement of all the authorized Lotteries under the management of Messrs. Yates & McIntyre, with their days of drawings, prices of Tickets, list of Prizes and the numbers of each Lottery as drawn.

The subscription price of the paper will be Two Dollars and Fifty Cents per annum, payable in advance, and from the face of its very extensive circulation, and great number of copies sent to constant subscribers, it is confidently believed to be a valuable vehicle wherein persons of every grade may advertise their different avocations.

Advertisements for any period of time, will be conspicuously inserted on reasonable terms, and no pains or expense will be spared to make it an interesting, valuable, and useful paper.

S. J. SILVSTER.
Those country papers who will give the above a few insertions, will be entitled to a free exchange.

The Despatch, will contain all the amendments of the Reporter—as however, the size of this sheet, will not permit entire list to be furnished in each publication. Those of my patrons who desire, can have a copy of the "REPORTER," in its improved dress, which copy they are advised to retain as a guard against the deception of counterfeiters. There never was a period when so many excellent, though fraudulent imitations were abroad—Store-keepers should be on the constant look out.

RANAWAY from the subscriber, on Thursday the 26 of April last, two negro men, named Ben and Rubin. Ben is about 40 years of age, short and heavy made, of a yellow complexion, 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, plays on the violin, with both his ears off close to his head, which he lost for robbing a boat on the Ohio river. No doubt but he has changed his clothing since he left home.

Rubin is a heavy, well built fellow, about the same height, and what may be called a black negro, about 30 years of age, has a down look when spoken to, one of his fingers next to the little finger is off to the first joint, which hand not recollected, and walks lame occasionally by a pain in the hip.

I will give 50 dollars for either of them, or 25 each if caught in 30 miles of my residence or secured in any jail so that I get them; or all reasonable charges if brought home and delivered to me, living in the State of Kentucky, and county of Livingston, near the head of Hurricane Island, Ohio river.
