

siege his fort. The siege was extended beyond the patience of the veteran, whose feelings were more in favor of field fights, than artificial manœuvres. He was still more annoyed by a bony-legged drummer, who approached an angle of the fort every morning, to beat an insulting reveille. After having chased under the insult, like a lion, he procured one of the Dutch ducking guns, of caliber and length sufficient to reach the drummer, and punish his audacity. He stationed himself at the parapet, and soon saw his insulting victim approaching. He had scarcely struck his first note of triumph and defiance, when drum and drummer rolled in the dust. 'There,' exclaimed the satisfied Gen., 'Go to hell with your sheep skin finale!' — American Historical Magazine.

AFFECTING INCIDENT.

A decently dressed woman was yesterday found dead, hanging by a rope from one of the rafters in a house in Chapel street. No person in the house knew who she was, or how she came there. An inquest was held on the body, but no further light could be thrown on the subject, and the body was ordered to be brought to the dead house in the Park. When it was being brought out of the house into the street, two little girls about nine and twelve years old happened to pass by, and being attracted by the sight, they went close to the body, and immediately shrieked out that it was their mother. — On further inquiry it turned out that what they had said was too true. It was their mother, Mrs. Scott, who was subject to fits of temporary insanity, and is supposed whilst in that state to have gone into the house and hanged herself. — N. Y. Jour. of Com.

The following paragraph exhibits only the beginning of the consequences of the Government tampering with the currency of the country:

We are told by a large dealer in bank notes, that bank notes of the State of Ohio are from 2 to 3 per cent. discount in our city; and bank notes of the banks west of the Alleghany are generally from 2 to 4 per cent. discount. We are told also by a gentleman just from New Orleans that he paid in the city of New Orleans 6 per cent. premium for notes of the Bank of the United States; and that he understood they bore a like premium throughout the whole valley of the Mississippi; and we have seen a letter from Nashville, in which the writer says, any quantity of United Banks notes could be sold at a premium of 5 per cent. — N. Y. Daily Adv.

The Law Magazine relates an anecdote of Sergeant Day — a distinguished English lawyer in the time of Lord Mansfield — that being once called to account by his brethren on the western circuit, for disgracing the profession, by accepting a silver of a client, he replied: "I took silver because I could not get gold; but I took every sixpence the fellow had in the world, and I hope you don't call that disgracing the profession."

Which is the worst — to be a fool! Or a poor stupid VAN JACK TOOL?

EVERY BODY'S ALBUM

A MONTHLY MAGAZINE OF Humorous Tales, Essays, Anecdotes, and Fancies.

EMBELLISHED WITH NUMEROUS
Grotesque and Amusing ENGRAVINGS.

Each number comprising seventy-two large octavo pages, neatly covered and stitched — making at the end of the year two volumes of eight hundred and sixty-four pages, and at least six hundred engravings, with titles & Index complete — Three Dollars per annum.

THE cheerful and pleasing feature with which it is proposed to diversify and distinguish this work has never yet been adopted by any one of the numerous literary characters that have hitherto abounded in this country — and its extensive novelty and the vast fund of humor and variety which will be interspersed throughout its pages, is calculated to render it a desirable and popular companion for the amusement of all classes who desire to possess an epitome on the works of celebrated Modern Humorists, Etchers, and engravers. The encouragement generally given to new undertakings having a salutary object in view has proved a decided public advantage, and it is questionable whether any other age has ever brought in to active use so large a proportion of the really deserving offspring, genius and talent, as the present. Assuming that this periodical, affording as it will, an elaborate and comprehensive collection of fanciful Illustrations, Satirical Essays in prose and verse, witty Tales, with Quips, Quarks, Anecdotes, Facetiae, must have a partial tendency, (among its patrons at least) to divert into another and more exhilarating channel much of the oppressive action of the mind, consequent upon the cares and vexations of business, the publisher anticipates for it a most flattering and extensive subscription list. The work, at all events, will be commenced on the first of July, and continued for one year, therefore every subscriber will be certain of receiving all the numbers for which he has paid — When the twelve numbers are completed and made up into two volumes, they will form one of the most desirable and amusing records of Wit and Humor which can be found in print. Let the public assist the publisher with their patronage, and he assures them he will leave nothing undone that will give celebrity and popularity to his work.

The Every Body's Album will be published in monthly numbers of 72 pages, with a variety of embellishments — neatly stitched in colored covers — printed with new type, and on fine white paper, at three dollars per annum, payable in advance. Two copies will be supplied to order, for one year, for $6.

When sent to a distance from the city, the work will be packed in strong wrappings, to prevent mailing by the mails. Notes of solvent banks of every description taken in payment of subscription.

JOHN RAMSEY, administrator of the estate of Charles Kelly, dec'd, this day appeared in open Court, and filed his memorandum showing the condition of said estate, and claiming that the personal estate of said deceased is insufficient to pay the debts and demands outstanding against it, (there being no real estate,) it is therefore ordered that the filing and pendency of this complaint be made known to the creditors of the said Charles Kelly, by publication of this order six weeks successively in the Vincennes Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Vincennes, and that they be informed that unless they notify the said administrator of the existence and extent of their respective claims, by filing a statement of the nature, date and description of the contract or assumption, upon which the same may be founded in the office of the Clerk of this Court, previous to the final distribution of the assets of the estate of said deceased, such claims will be postponed in favor of the claims of the more diligent creditors.

INDIANA

College.

THE claims of this institution to the attention of the friends of Science, Literature, and Religion, in this and the neighboring States, are, it is believed, peculiarly worthy of their regard.

It is situated at Bloomington, which is a pleasant and flourishing village about 50 miles South of Indianapolis, on the road leading from the latter place to Leavenworth on the Ohio river, between which points a stage route has been authorized, and is now in operation. A better location for the State College could not have been selected. It is eminently healthy; in the midst of a delightful region of country rapidly advancing in improvement; sufficiently central to the State; and far enough from the river for the purposes of retirement.

The state of society is sufficiently removed from the rudeness of vulgar manners, on one hand; and silly affectation and showy emptiness, on the other.

The college itself is administered on such principles as entitle it to the special regard of those who wish for their sons a truly liberal education.

The course prescribed for actual study is arranged that every step facilitates the progress of the students; whose attention it concentrates upon one and but one main object at a time.

A multiplicity of vexatious rules is not resorted to in the government of the college. The students are taught that they have a character to form, and important interests at stake. Appeals are constantly made, not in a formal letterless manner, but after diversified and pains-taking method of a parent in his own family, to the honor of the students, their sense of duty, of propriety, of decorum of interest.

They are habituated, in this way, to judge in themselves what is right, and to practice accordingly.

On religious subjects every thing of the nature of narrow sectarian bigotry is carefully excluded.

The student is exhorted to think, judge and choose for himself — and, in his minority, to reverence and obey, in such matters, the directions of his parents.

Such is the course prescribed in the charter of the institution; a course which is continually revised never to abandon. Science, Literature, and Religion, it is hopefully believed, may be made to grow and thrive together, without the unseemly appendages which the spirit of party often connects with them. The experiment has never yet been made in any country — at least fairly and fully. It is going forward, successfully as yet in Ind. College. Time will show whether ultimate success will attend it or not.

In the mean time, the friends of liberal principles and of pure morality and exalted piety, ought to know and understand one another. The means are every where in operation by which the spirit of party zeal, in matters affecting the great interests of education, seeks to send its all-pervading influences to the very bottom of society — through every pure and every fibe — till the whole mass becomes saturated with it. This spirit is not as honest as is plausible; nor generous as it is powerful. The friends and patrons of Indiana College do not seek it nor their posterity, to depend on its mercy hereafter.

Believing that Piety, enlightened and exalted by Science and Literature, is both a safeguard and an ornament to our dearest interests, and that without these it becomes a cancer to deform at once and to destroy, they wish this institution to be a sacred tie to hold together the wise and good every where.

To such it will be gratifying to know that Indiana College is in a prosperous condition.

With the last three or four years it has been steadily advancing.

Heretofore students have gone to other institutions for want of the means of ready access to this. That deficiency is now in part removed, and before long will vanish entirely.

A stage route is now in operation both from Leavenworth and from Louisville on the Ohio to Indianapolis.

By this way students from the lower country can find a ready conveyance —

Those landing at Louisville can there take the stage which intersects the other route of Orleans and from Madison they can be conveyed via Indianapolis to Bloomington.

To other indorsements may be added the cheapness of living and of tuition; Board from 1 dollar to 1-50 per week; Tuition 7-10 per session.
