

POPULAR SONGS.

Comin' thro' the Rye.

This foolish little song affords a striking proof of the power of musical talent. It is quite as unassuming as the most trivial of the many songs which have sprung up in the last few years; and yet the irresistible powers of Mrs. Knight's melodious voice, gave it charms which no one can describe, and which he who now reads it will be at a loss to discover. We publish it as a popular ditty—and not on account of poetical merit.

Philadelphia April.

Comin' thro' the Rye.

SUNG BY MRS. KNIGHT.

If a body meet a body
Comin' thro' the Rye,
If a body kiss a body,
Need a body cry?
Ev'ry lassie has her laddie,
Name they say have I,
But all the lads they smile at me
When comin' thro' the Rye.
Among the train there is a swain,
The lad I love so well,
But where's his name, or what's his name,
I dinna choose to tell.

If a body meet a body
Comin' thro' the Rye,
If a body kiss a body,
Need a body cry?
Ev'ry lassie has her laddie,
Name they say have I,
But all the lads they smile at me
When comin' thro' the Rye.
Among the train there is a swain,
The lad I love so well,
But where's his name, or what's his name,
I dinna choose to tell.

If a body meet a body
Comin' thro' the Rye,
If a body kiss a body,
Need a body cry?
Ev'ry lassie has her laddie,
Name they say have I,
But all the lads they smile at me
When comin' thro' the Rye.
Among the train there is a swain,
The lad I love so well,
But where's his name, or what's his name,
I dinna choose to tell.

ODDS AND ENDS.

The following note was found among the papers of the late Lord Erskine:
To General Washington.—Sir—I have taken the liberty to introduce your august and immortal name in a short sentence, which is to be found in the book I send to you.
I have a large acquaintance among the most valuable and exalted classes of men, but you are the only human being for whom I ever felt an awful reverence.
I sincerely pray to God to grant a long and serene evening to a life so gloriously devoted to the universal happiness of the world.

T. ERSKINE.

London, March 15, 1797.
Noble Contingent from Bol.—Chateaubriand relates the following incident during his travels in the Western States. One evening, on entering an inn, I was astonished at the sight of an immense bed, constructed in a circular form round a post, each traveller came and took his place in this bed, with his feet to the post in the centre, and his head at the circumference of the circle, so that the sleepers were arranged symmetrically like the spokes of a wheel, or the sticks of a fan. After some hesitation, I took my place in this singular machine, because I saw nobody in it. I was just dropping asleep, when I felt a man's leg rubbing along mine; it was a great devil of a Dutchman's, who was stretching himself next me. I never was so horrified in my life. I leaped out of this hospitable contrivance, hastily executing the good old custom of good old ancestors, and went and lay down in my cloak in the moonshine.
Brandy poured upon sulphate of copper, and allowed to remain a few days, by rubbing the head with it, will cause the hair to grow in the bald places. It is said to have been successful in cases when persons had been bald for a great length of time.

Culinary Ingenuity.—A military colony on the way to Moscow was visited by Alexander. His majesty, entering a kitchen, observed a goose upon the spit, and, on visiting a second, saw a similar feast preparing in short, every kitchen he slipped into he invariably beheld a goose roasting, and was satisfied the colonists had abundance of cheer. It was, however, discovered that the emperor had been imposed upon, for, after all, there was only a single goose, which had been most dexterously conveyed from one kitchen to another, so as to be turning at the fire when he entered—a contrivance on the part of the governor to impress his majesty with the warmest opinion of the flourishing state of the colony.

A Clergyman who had a considerable farm, as was generally the case in our forefathers' days, went out to see one of his laborers, who was ploughing in the field, and he found him sitting upon his plough, and resting his team. "John," said he, "would it not be a good plan for you to have a stubby here, and be hubbing a few bushes while the oxen are resting?" John with a countenance which might well have become the divine himself, instantly returned—"Would it not be well, sir, for you to have a swinging board up in the pulpit, and when they are singing to swing a little flax?" The Reverend turned on his heel laughing heartily, and said no more about hubbing bushes.—Hampshire Gazette.

Old Bachelors of immense fortunes, and having a haughtiness for royal blood, may be gratified by the following announcement in the Almanac Royal.—Ladies Morning Star.
"Without reciting old maids and widows, there are at this time forty six young marriageable princesses in Austria, Prussia, the Germanic confederation, Russia and Sweden, viz: in Austria 4; in Prussia 1; in Bavaria 7; in Saxony 1; in Württemberg 2; in the Germanic confederation 26; in Russia 2; and in Sweden 1."

The Rutland (Vt.) Herald mentions the case of a Mrs. McCuller who died near that place of dropsy, and from whom has been drawn within the last two years by tapping, fourteen hundred and sixty-three pounds weight of dropsical fluid.
An old lady living in Natick, upwards of 100 years of age, whose hair has long been perfectly white, now presents the singular spectacle of the heavy locks of age returning to their original color—jet black.

Kinging.—The following are the varieties of kisses as given in a late fashionable journal, together with the scripture authorities on which they rest, viz:—Salutation, Samuel 26, 41v, Valadition, Ruth 2, 9v, Reconciliation, 2d Samuel 14, 39v, Subjection, Exodus 2, 12v, Appropriation, Proverbs 2, 12v, Adoration, 1st Kings 19, and 18v, Treachery, Matthew 26, 49v, Affection, Genesis 14, 15v.

Too lazy to pray.—The Burials, a tribe in Siberia, have a prayer machine. It is an instrument somewhat like a small mill, such as is used in gardens to frighten birds, round the barrel of which a prayer is rolled, actuated by the wind, and placed on the top of the hill in front of the distant tents, to scare the inhabitants the trouble of raising their voices—not to say their hearts—in prayer to God.

Boston Post.

A Gallant Brigand.—A gang of these highway men on the road near Ferrara, lately attacked a carriage in which there were many ladies, and after stripping them of their faces, and even earrings, a girl, who was weeping bitterly, implored to have the miniature of her mother, to which the chief-chieftain consented, on condition of a kiss from her fair lips, to which she assented readily.

A large and respectable Meeting.—In a recent speech of Mr. Forrester of Tennessee, in Congress, he related the following anecdote of a Van Buren meeting in Ohio:
"When the time came, asked Mr. F. how many persons do you think were present? Why only three. The Chairman after the resolution had been read, made a few remarks, when the Secretary drew up the proceedings of the meeting. A question arose among the trio, as to the manner in which the meeting should be characterized. 'Why,' said the speaker, that is easily settled, you, Mr. Chairman are highly respectable, and I a large man, therefore you may state that the meeting was a large and highly respectable meeting.' (Laughter.) And accordingly the proceedings were so published."

Looking-Glass Dots.
A city boy wore boots that lace
So varnish'd they reflect his face,
As thus equip'd he moves genteel,
A jump ran barking at his heel:
A stranger smothering near the Park—
Ask'd—'What now makes that puppy bark?'
Replies a lad of mind acute—
'He sees a puppy in the boot!'

Go it, ye Cripples!—The Gloucester Telegraph states, that so many applications have been made at a Thomsonian Infirmary in that neighborhood, and so successful has been the treatment, that a sufficient quantity of canes and crutches had been left at the establishment, by recovered patients, to supply it in full thro' the season!

Political Arithmetic.—Come here boys do you understand subtraction? 'Yes father!' 'Very well, answer me this sum: Take Mr. Van Buren from General Jackson, and what remains?' 'Why General Jackson?' 'Very well boys now take General Jackson from Mr. Van Buren, and what is left?' 'Nothing, father.' 'Very well, boys.'

Small Fox—Important Discovery.
Dr. Lutenburg, a respectable physician of New Orleans, says he has discovered the cause and the remedy for the disfigurement of the face by the small pox. It is well known that the face is usually the only part of the body which is lighted and deformed by this disease, and Dr. Lutenburg says it is because this is the only part that is exposed to the action of light. He has ascertained by experiment that when the face, however covered with the pustules of this disease, is completely sheltered from the light, it will not be more marked than any other part which is protected.

EVERY BODY'S ALBUM

A MONTHLY MAGAZINE OF Humorous Tales, Essays, Anecdotes, and Fiction.

EMBEDDED WITH NUMEROUS
Grotesque and Amusing
ENGRAVINGS.

THE cheerful and pleasing feature will which it is proposed to diversify and distinguish this work has never yet been supplied by any one of the numerous literary characters that have hitherto abounded in this country—and its extensive novelty and the vast field of humor and variety which will be interspersed throughout its pages, is calculated to render it desirable and popular companion for the amusement of all classes who desire to possess an opinion on the works of celebrated Modern Humorists, Etchers and engravers. The encouragement generally given to new undertakings having a salutary object in view, has proved decided public advantage, and it is questionable whether any other age has ever brought its inventive use so large a proportion of the really interesting off-spring genius and talent as its present. As there is the periodical, alluring, as it will, an elaborate and comprehensive collection of fanciful illustrations, satirical Epigrams in prose and verse, witty Tales, with Quips, Quizzes, Anecdotes, &c., must have a partial tendency, (among its patrons at least) to divert to another and more exulting channel the oppressive action of the mind, consequent upon the cares and vexations of business, the publisher anticipates for it a most flattering and extensive subscription list. The work, at all events, will be commenced on the 1st of July, and continued for one year, there are every subscriber will be entitled to receiving all the numbers for which he has paid. When the twelve numbers are completed and made up into two volumes, they will form one of the most desirable and amusing records of Wit and Humor which can be found in print. Let the public assist the publisher with their patronage, and he assures them he will leave nothing on hand, that will give celebrity and popularity to his work.
The Every Body's Album will be published in monthly numbers of 72 pages, with a variety of embellishments—ready stitched in colored covers—printed with new type, and on fine white paper, at three dollars per annum, payable in advance. Two copies will be supplied to order, for one year, for $5. When sent to a distance from the city, the work will be packed in strong wrappers, to prevent rubbing by the mails. Notes of solvent banks of every description taken in payment of subscriptions. Each number comprising seventy-two large octavo pages, neatly covered and stitched—making at the end of the year two volumes of eight hundred and sixty-four pages, and at least six hundred engravings, with titles & index complete—at Three Dollars per annum.
