

Public health.—There has not been for several years so severe and unhealthy a December known as the present month has proved. The influenza which has extensively prevailed for nearly a month, has proved fatal in several instances, and the disorder has yet more frequently settled upon some vital organ, and resulted fatally. The deaths on the week ending Saturday last were 41, and the number of deaths the past week, ending today, amounts to 66. More persons have died in this city the present month, than have during any week for the last 20 years.—Boston Ec. Jour.

Frightful execution in France.—A convicted murderer, named Peter Hebard, after lying in his dungeon at abby for upwards of five months, was at length ordered for execution. He was not unprepared for this, and came to the scaffold with extraordinary firmness. The discourse of spectators was very great. Every thing seemed ready. The executioner and two assistants took their place close to the unfortunate criminal. Upon the usual signal the convict's head was placed between the lunette.—The knife fell, but with a trembling motion, and did not touch the criminal. A cry of horror arose from the crowd. The knife was again lifted; it fell a second time, but without reaching the criminal's neck; he then uttered piercing cries. A volley of stones was discharged at the executioner and his men; they attempted for the 3d time to execute the sentence of the law, but without effect; the knife inflicted only a slight wound, and the reiterated shrieks of the ill-fated man excited a thrill of horror in the spectators. The executioner and his assistants, wounded by the missiles, were obliged to quit the scaffold and take to flight. Hebard continued all this time with his head fastened to the frightful lunette. In this cruel situation he remained for several minutes. The chief executioner once more mounted the scaffold, but without his attendants; he made another attempt to separate the criminal's head from his body; he twice lifted the knife, but it fell wavering as before, and missed the criminal's neck. It should be stated that the last time (the fifth) the knife on being elevated, deranged. The crowd now became furious, and the executioner was forced to seek safety in flight. Hebard getting his head disengaged, lifted it as from the tomb. Some of the populace cried out with astonishment at seeing a human being stand up after escaping the instrument of death no less than five times. The wretched man now begged for assistance. After the lapse of a few minutes the youngest of the executioners, defying the threats and missiles of the crowd mounted the scaffold, and had a short conversation with Hebard. It would appear that the latter said to him, free me from these cords!" for he was still fastened to the plank. The assistant told him to turn his head, and at the same time seized him by the neck, and gave him several wounds with a knife. Hebard's head, nearly half off, hung on his left shoulder, and the executioner was obliged to leap from the scaffold, and make his escape among the gendarmes. Hebard, in all probability, still breathed, remained in this situation for two hours, exposed to the gaze of the spectators. Some persons declared that they could perceive him more for more than half an hour, during which time he frequently opened his mouth. The question is, was not this man murdered? he was not guillotined, he was stabbed standing up, and with a shoemaker's knife. The interests of humanity require the settlement of this point.—Gazette de Tribunes.

Advices from the American missionaries at Ceylon state, that March 30 there was a dreadful fire at Maneply, which destroyed the house, school, study and large bungalow, together with the furniture, clothing, library and stores of Mr. and Mrs. Woodward, who resided at that station; the amount of property destroyed is estimated at between 3 and $4000.

Ladies wanted.—A paper printed in the state of Alabama, speaks of a most deplorable and alarming scarcity of young ladies. Every respectable female, native or stranger, found there, is as soon as possible, married to the hymenial altar. The young men are as one hundred to one of the young ladies. Whether the cottons or the broadcloths are frowned upon or not, the ladies are always welcomed with smiles. They shall have protection forever.

Five pecks to the Bushel.—It is stated that a bill has passed in the house of representatives in Connecticut, providing that, in the measure of fruit, clams &c. five pecks shall make a bushel! The probability is, that the members buy more apples and clams than they sell.—Would it not be an object worthy the attention of that legislative body, to decide how many ounces shall make a pound of wooden nutmegs; and how many dozen shall make a gross of horn girts?

It is estimated that the annual manufacture of hats in this country, amounts to 10,500,000 dollars, that the business employs 18,000 persons, viz: 15,000 men and boys, and 3000 females, whose total wages are computed at $4,200,000 a year, which is about $240 for each person; and that the whole number of persons substituted by the business is from 50 to 60,000. While in consequence of the thorough establishment of the manufacture of the hats, the consumer is furnished with a better article at a reduced price.

It has been frequently said that life is a lottery. The annexed anecdote is a literal verification of the fact. An ex-officer lost his last evening at a gaming house on Thursday. He rushed out of the den in despair, hastened to his lodgings, and prepared to load his pistol for the purpose of self-destruction, when, in searching his pockets for wadding, he drew out a lottery ticket. "O heaven," cried he, "and must this be the instrument of my death? No, I will wait the result of the tirage." Three days elapsed, the number was not drawn, but the ticket turned up a prize for the officer, as by giving him time for reflection, it saved his life.

Salt in Europe is a monopoly of Government. In France a law exists, that if any person manufactures it for his own use, even if he draw a bucket of water from the ocean and converts it into salt, he shall be sent to the galleys. According to Hassel, there are about one hundred and twenty millions of pounds of salt annually manufactured in Prussia.

Gambling.—Most of our readers have heard of the officer, who having lost all his money at play, received assistance from a friend on condition that he would never afterwards touch a card or dice; but a few weeks afterwards he was found in an out house drawing straws with a brother gambler, for hundreds of pounds.

WEEKLY MESSENGER.

PRINTER'S RETREAT, INDIANA.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 10, 1832

In answer to Cato, whose communication is on file, we are only able to say that the item in the receipts and expenditures of our county: "To clerk, for extra services, &c." was an allowance made to the old, not the present clerk.

La Porte.—A new county, called La Porte, has been organized in the northern part of our state.

ISAAC CHAMBERLIN, Aid

Counselor M—, after he retired from practice, being one day in company where the certainty of the law became the topic of conversation, was applied to for his opinion, upon which he laconically observed, "if any man were to claim the coat upon my back, & threaten my refusal with a lawsuit, he should certainly have it, lest in defending my coat I should too late find that I was deprived of my waistcoat also."

The Norfolk Herald says, the leak which caused the U. S. schr. Shark to put back on Sunday, proved upon examination to proceed from some unstopped boat-holes in her bow, above the copper. They were soon stopped and she will probably put to sea again this morning.—Philadelphia Courier, 24th ult.

Letters from London mention that a disorder there, called Influenza, was very prevalent in that city about the 1st of October. From the accounts, it was very similar to the prevailing malady, with the same name, of which we on this side of the water have recently had such general experience.

The Albany Daily Advertiser states that the revenue from the Erie and Champlain canals this year, will be about $160,000 more than during the last. Last year it was 1,056,622 dollars.

The Baltimore American of Wednesday says, the influenza prevails in this city to an extent which has never before been equalled. From what we see and hear, we are certain that a large majority of the population has been or now is affected by the disease. The cases which partake of a difficult and dangerous character, we learn are generally those arising from relapses. We regret to state that Mr. Wirt's illness has assumed a serious appearance.

The New Orleans Courier of the 2d ult. mentions a report prevalent in that city, that the Steamboat Courier which had left the Mississippi for Mobile a few days previous, had sunk, and that only three persons out of sixty on board, were saved. The editor states that he had not been able to trace the report to any authentic source, and therefore hopes it may be unfounded.

The schr. Virginia was, with her cargo, entirely lost last month, between N. Orleans and Mobile.

THE SOUVENIR,

Published every Wednesday,
PHILADELPHIA

Embellished with 20 copperplate engravings, of remarkable views, celebrated persons, and quarterly plates of the fashions.

THE publisher deems it advisable at the commencement of the new year, to return his thanks to his patrons for the favors already bestowed, and informs them and the public that he enters upon his duties with renewed prospect of rendering it still more interesting than at any former period—he has completed his arrangements, and is now in the receipt of every packet which arrives here or at N. York from England, of most interesting periodicals, from which he will be able to furnish his readers with the latest literary productions of merit, instead of receiving them second hand from publications in this country—for those who attach an importance to the protean changes of fashion, he has been induced to add La Belle Assemblée, which is believed by the gay world to hold the mirror up to nature, and which will enable him to present them with the earliest notice of all changes in taste and fashion which are constantly taking place, and from it to select the elegant engraving with which it adorned to grace the pages of the Souvenir quarterly—in short, no expense has been spared that will be likely to add to the value of our publication, but whilst our attention is thus directed to what transpires in Europe, it shall not permit us to neglect native merit; and we shall freely select from American publications what seems adapted to our purpose, and last but not least, we have succeeded in obtaining our interest many valuable correspondents, both in this country and Europe, whose productions would do credit to any publication, and were we at liberty to give their names to the public, would add lustre to any work to which they were attached—in short, no exertion will be spared to render the Souvenir in all respects worthy the patronage of the public. Both as a cheap and elegant emporium of useful and interesting information and valuable repository of specimens of miscellaneous literature, strict attention will be bestowed on its moral, literary, and a constant watchfulness preserved over the cause and interests of virtue. A portion of the contents will be as follows:

1. Tales, original and selected essays, moral, humorous and scientific; poetry, original and selected from the best American and foreign literary publications; biographical sketches of distinguished persons, male and female; anecdotes, bon mots, &c. The original notices necessary for this department of our paper, will be furnished by individuals who are advantageously known to the public through the medium of their literary productions.

2. The Toilet. In addition to the usual literary matter contained in similar publications, the proprietor has completed an arrangement by which he will be enabled to furnish correct descriptions on the prevailing fashions; both foreign and domestic, illustrated with elegant engravings, besides the regular series, once in each quarter; places of fashionable residences, sketches of life, manners, &c. &c. at the earliest possible period, and from the most authentic sources.

3. Miscellany. Interesting items of intelligence, foreign and domestic occurrences, deaths, marriages, &c.

4. Engravings. In each quarter the Souvenir will be embellished with four quarto copperplate engravings of remarkable American and European scenery, or portraits of distinguished characters; also one plate of the latest fashions, which will be sent colored, free of charge, to those who comply with the terms of subscription, of payment in advance.

Each subscriber will thus be furnished yearly with 20 superior copperplate engravings, the price of more than double the annual cost of the entire work.

5. Editor's Department. Notice of passing events, the drama, new publications, criticisms. Terms.—The Souvenir will be published every Wednesday, and forwarded to subscribers out of the city by mail or otherwise, as may be directed, each No. will contain eighty closely printed pages, and decorated with appropriate embellishments in addition to the above engravings.

Price of subscription, three dollars per annum, payable in advance; for 4 copies $11, for 10 copies $25, and at the same rate for a larger number, in all cases in advance, which entitles them to colored plates of fashions.

PHILIP PRICE, Jan.
