

meance. Still holding her place and rejecting them, when the sign appeared again which determined me not to wait longer." [the late strange appearance of the sun.]

"Hark got a ladder, and set it against the chimney, on which I ascended, and hoisting a window, entered and came down stairs, unburdened door, and removed the guns from their places. It was then I observed that I must spill the first blood. On which with a hatchet, and accompanied by Will, I entered my master's chamber: it being dark, I could not give the death blow; the hatchet glanced from his head, he sprang from the bed and called to his wife; it was his last word. Will laid him dead with a blow of his axe, and Mrs. Travis shared the same fate as she lay in her bed. The murder of this family, five in number, was the work of a moment, not one of them awoke; here was a little infant sleeping in the cradle, that was forgotten, until we had left the house and gone some distance, when Henry and Will returned and killed it; we got here four guns that would shoot and several old muskets and a pound or 2 of powder.

"From Mr. Reese's we went to Mrs. Turner's a mile distant, which we reached about sunrise, on Monday morning. Henry Austin and Sam went to the still, where finding Mr. Preebles, Austin shot him, and the rest of us went to the house; where as we approached, the family discovered us and shut the door. Vain hope! Will, with one stroke of the axe, opened it, and we entered and found Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Newsome in the middle of a room, almost frightened to death. Will immediately killed Mrs. Turner with one blow of his axe. I took Mrs. Newsome by the hand, and with the sword I had when I was apprehended, I struck her several blows over the head, but not being able to kill her as the sword was dull, Will immediately turning round and discovering it dispatched her also. A general destruction of property and search for money and ammunition always succeeded the murders."

"All the family were already murdered, but Mrs. Whitehead and her daughter Margaret. As I came round to the door I saw Will pulling Mrs. Whitehead out of the house, and at the step he nearly severed her head from her body with his broad axe. Mrs. Margaret, when I discovered her, had concealed herself in the corner, formed by the projection of the cellar cap from the house; on my approach she fled, but was soon overtaken, and after repeated blows with the sword, I killed her by a blow on the head with a fence rail."—Rich. Eng.

Horrid Murder!—We learn from a respectable source, that on the 21st ult. a man residing in the Gore district, Upper Canada, whose name is Sovereign, murdered his wife and six of his children, comprising his whole family, except one child who, as we understand, was in bed with two others, who were killed, but being small, had crowded down under their clothes, and was not discovered by his cruel father. The circumstances as related to us, were as follows. Sovereign, who was an intemperate man called at his brother's who lives near, and keeps a tavern, asked for liquor which was refused. From this he became enraged, went home and threw one of his children on the fire and proceeded to kill his wife and the rest of his children, but by what means, our informant did not learn. After completing the work of destruction, he returned to his brother's and told him that two negroes had been at his house and killed all his family, and requested his brother and brother's son, to take their rifle and go with him to the spot. They accordingly went, and just as they were entering the door, he endeavored to get the young man's rifle to kill them also; but the persuasion of his brother prevented the delivery of the rifle, and this in all probability saved their lives. He has been arrested, and is now in jail to await his trial. He had stabbed himself in several places, but the wounds were not considered dangerous.—Buffalo Bulletin.

A tough story.—The literary Subaltern contains the following:—If any man, woman, or child, resident this side of the Cape of Good Hope, or C. Horn should stand in need of a goose, can be accommodated with one, on application to the Editor of this paper. We have one on hand, that was purchased last Saturday, and has been seven times roasted, six times baked, and fifteen times baked and stewed, and yet the sarcophagi that envelopes his flesh, resists the edge of the axe, the cleaver and the knife!

Indian cure for Rheumatism.—The Indian first broke a hole in the ice sufficiently large to admit us both, upon which he made a signal that all was ready. Enveloped in a large buffalo robe, I proceeded to the spot, and throwing off my covering, we both jumped into the frigid water together. He immediately commenced rubbing my shoulders, back, and loins; my hair, in the mean time, became ornamented with icicles, and while the lower joints were undergoing their friction, my face, neck and shoulders, were incased in a thin covering of ice. In getting released, I rolled a blanket about me, and ran back to the bed room, in which I had previously ordered a good fire, and in a few minutes I experienced a warm glow all over my body. Chilling and disagreeable as these medicinal ablutions were, yet, as I found them so beneficial, I continued them for twenty five days, at the expiration of which, my physician was obliged to say that no more were necessary, and that I had done my duty like a wise man. I was never after troubled with a rheumatic pain.

Singular Suicide—The body of a man was found dead in the cleft of a rock on Wehauk heights—the cliff was so narrow that it was with difficulty his body was extricated without mutilation. His right hand grasped a pistol, from which it was supposed he fired the ball through his head, that caused his death.

Tooth Ache—This is cured by washing the mouth and teeth clean two or three times a day.

MARRIED

On Thursday last, by John K. Walker, Esq. Mr. LYMAN MANSFIELD, to Miss ELIZABETH HARRIS, both of Switzerland county.

Valuable Farm, FOR SALE.

THE undersigned wishes to dispose of immediately A VALUABLE FARM lying in Jefferson township, Switzerland county, Indiana, known more particularly, as being the south west quarter of section 33, T. 2, R. 2, west of the first meridian, containing 160 ACRES OF LAND.

The improvements are, comfortable log buildings—a house seventy acres, well cleared and fenced—seven acres of timothy meadow—two orchards of choice apple and peach trees—eight beautiful, never failing springs of wholesome water. The balance of the land is well timbered with sugar, locust, walnut, hickory, ash and other timber. The land lies within a respectable neighborhood, is high, healthy, and within 1/2 of a mile of the Ohio river—more safely back of Thomas McCormick's Wood-yard.

This tract of land will be sold entire or divided, as may best suit a purchaser—is can be divided so as to give each half an equal quantity of fruit trees, cleared land and water. The undersigned is a farmer—he entered this tract of land, at an early day—he had pick and choice of the neighborhood, selected this quarter for its many good qualities, and has not been disappointed. Come, view for yourselves.

THOMAS RAMSEY.

Capt. Gladden, of the ship Tecumseh, arrived at Havre from New Orleans, whence she sailed on the 4th Dec. 1831, reports that in lat. 39 20, long 52 19, he fell in with a small schooner, called Yankee, of Folly Landing, Capt. Summers, having her rudder entirely carried away, her sails torn, and unable to steer her course, there were five persons on board including the captain, who were in the most distressed state; and in great want of provisions, having for two or three days before had nothing but some spoiled Indian corn and lard to subsist on. The captain knew nothing of navigation, and had besides no nautical instruments on board. When they were taken on board the Tecumseh, they had been thirty-five days at sea. On leaving Guilford, in Virginia, they encountered a violent storm, which, notwithstanding all their exertions, carried them out to sea and shortly broke their rudder. This schooner was going out to fish oysters. When taken on board the Tecumseh, the crew were hardly able to walk; they arrived at Havre in perfect health.
