The number of way by an exclamation from some one near the new cases, at the two hospitals on the 27th, convict—"You rascal, what are you about?" were 10, convalescent 54, cured 11, dead 10. Taylor was just then taking the knife from his remaining 93. On the 28th, there were seven throat. A handkerchief was instantly applied to the wound, to stop the bleeding, which was profuse; and, even then, the man laughed carelessly, and told those about him that, if he had failed then, he would effect his purpose at another time.—Philadelphia Chronicle.

There seems to be a warm contest in New York between the board of health and some of the editors on one side, and the physicians on the other. The latter assert that the spasmodic cholera is in town, and the former insist that the physicians know nothing about it. Active measures are taken to ensure general cleanliness and prompt attention to the sick. The medical gentleman who went to Montreal, assert that it is almost always within the control of the medical art, if its application be not too long delayed. All insist upon cleanliness and temperance.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, on the 26th ult. Mr. Clay's resolution to request the president to appoint a day of Fasting, Humiliation, and prayer, in reference to the prevailing cholera, was adopted—yeas 30, nays 13.—On the 29th the resolution was also passed by the House.

In the house, on the 23d, a resolution was submitted by Col. R. M. Johnson, and adopted, by a vote of 103 to 49, as follows:

Resolved, That the committee of Accounts be instructed to order to be paid out of the contingent fund of this house to the members and delegates thereof, the amount of their per diem allowance and Mileage, which J. O. Dunn, late Sergeant-at-arms, received on checks drawn in their behalf, and which he has failed to pay over to them, upon the certificate of the members or delegates.

On the passage of the resolution, the Washington correspondent of the United States Gazette remarks:

Nothing which has occurred during the present session, is likely to produce so strong a sensation abroad among the people, as the resolution passed to day, by a large majority of the house of representatives, to refund to themselves the amount of money of which they had been defrauded by Mr. J. O. Dunn, late Ser't-at-arms. Mr. Root in vain implored gentleman to consider how the thing would look among the contingent expenditures of the house, on the books of the Treasury; and others with as little success, urged that the passage of the resolution would be saving to all public officers of the House, "plunder what you can, and we make good the amount." It was certainly an indecorous act on the part of those who were losers by Dunn, to vote to pay themselves out of the public money. Mr. Bates, of Mass., while the clerk of the house was calling out the ayes and noes, suggested that gentleman in their situation ought to be excused from voting. The speaker replied that it must rest with the gentlemen themselves. One or two were conscientious enough to desire to be excused, but all the rest gave their lusty negatives to every motion to get rid of the proposition, and finally voted for the resolution.

Dreadful alarm—very mysterious—a New York incognito—We take the following from the Boston evening Transcript.

Our city has been in some ferment for a day or two past, on account of a report that a female was perambulating the streets, appearing at hotels and public places, in male attire.—This morning, the persons suspected, was compelled by a mob of boys to take refuge in a house in Water street. A mob of men was soon collected, and for nearly two hours from 1500 to 2000 persons surrounded the premises, all anxious to see the supposed woman. The proper authorities interfered and the persecuted man was safely conducted to his boarding house.

He certainly has a very effeminate appearance, and no one would doubt, being previously told so, that he was a woman in disguise.—He resides, we understand, at New York, and has there suffered much inconvenience from his unfortunate girlish appearance. He is of respectable connexions, and is here on a visit.—On his arrival he took up his residence at the Trenton House, which he was compelled to leave by the impudent intrusion of the waiters, whose curiosity overpowered their sense of duty.—on his privacy. We hope we shall hear no more of this matter. That the young man is of very effeminate appearance is his misfortune; and that he is a man, and we hope he will prove, by knocking down the first scoundrel that insults him.

Washington Taylor, an old convict, whose arrest our police report mentioned some weeks ago, was sentenced about noon on Monday, by Judge King, to imprisonment, for six years; having been convicted on two indictments, one for making, the other for uttering, counterfeit bank notes. Before the man was removed from the bar, he cut his throat with a penknife, in such a manner that his death will probably be the consequence. He had been treated mildly by the Court; for he might have been confined during seven years, for each of his two offences.

Taylor, the convict, who cut his throat yesterday, in court, was alive at a late hour in the afternoon; having been placed in the hands of an eminent surgeon as speedily as possible.—While hearing his sentence he smiled in the Judge's face with apparent indifference. The Court proceeded with a case in which a Jury had been sworn; but, almost immediately, the attention of some of the jurors was called a

A MODERN DICTIONARY.

Steam Boat.—A machine invented for the express purpose of checking the too rapid growth of population, by scalding to death two or three thousand people annually.

Debtor.—A vile wretch, whose crime of misfortune and poverty is punished with unrelenting severity by our best lawgivers.

Thief.—An unfortunate, whose means of subsistence is gone, he is kindly and promptly supplied by the charity of our laws with comfortable apartments, where he has plenty to eat and nothing to do.

State Prison.—A large, airy, commanding building, erected at public expense for the more comfortable accommodation to the above.

Parasol.—A light screen carried by a fashionable belle for the purpose of overshadowing one quarter of her bonnet.

Low Creature.—A beautiful modest girl who is too poor to dress in the extremity or fashion. Charity.—Sending to a poor, hard working family, the refuse of the kitchen, which your servants, cats, and pigs, have successively declined tasting.

Friends.—Your daily associates, who will do any thing but assist you in distress.

Old Maid.—A lady who has attained the age of twenty four or five, without having married a fool, a knave, a gambler or a drunkard.

A stupid Fellow.—One who allows his tongue some rest in the course of twenty-four hours.

A Balloon was let off at the inn of Mr. John Framer, on Friday evening last, by the proprietors of the Flying Horses, now exhibiting in this place. It shaped its course with the wind, [blowing directly North] passing immediately over the town, in fine style, much to the gratification of all who witnessed it. We understand, two young ladies at a farm house, supposing it to be the Comet, were so terrified on its near approach, that they fainted.—Hempstead.

A Rogue in grain.—A person wished to purchase a number of yards of bed ticking, he called at a store, the merchant had but one piece, and it lacked just one yard of the quantity wanted, the purchaser must have just such a number of yards, and was about leaving the store, when the merchant said he carried a piece to his house the day previous that contained just about the quantity wanted, the piece they were looking at would answer his purpose, and he would carry it to the house, and bring back the other.

"I started," said he, (we had the story from the merchant's own mouth) "ran into a back yard, unrolled the piece, put it round a smooth post and gave it a most d—l of a pulling, rolled it up and returned with it measured it off to my customer, when it held out "a quarter of a yard over what he wanted," which in consideration of waiting "for me to go to my house," I very generously GAVE HIM!"—Spectator.

The dead Alive.—The Gloucester Telegraph contains the contradiction of the demise of a gentleman, under his own hand, as follows:

Boston, June 12 1832.

Sir.—I observed in your paper of the 9th inst. the following death. "In Boston, Mr. Joshua Day, aged 25, formerly of this place." Not being conscious of having quitted this world, and therefore not willing to admit it, I beg you will contradict the paragraph. J. D.

Prospects in Mississippi.—A letter has been received from Natchez, from which the following is an extract: "We have raised funds for the transportation of the free blacks residing among us, to Liberia.—One gentleman has raised on his subscription paper upwards of $6000, in less than a fortnight.

Governor Houston, for his lawless and ruffian attack on Mr. Stanberry, has been fined by the Court five hundred dollars, with costs of suit.—This is as it should be.—Let no individual presume to take the law into his own hands. True Republicanism conveys the idea of equal rights, under the supremacy of equal laws, made by the people through their representatives. We should frown on all and every attempt to set aside and trample on the laws. The security of the citizen has for its basis the free untrammeled operation of laws made with the consent of the majority.

The trial of Major Heard, for his assault on Mr. Arnold, has not yet taken place. We hope to hear of an exemplary punishment inflicted upon him. Assassination appears to have been contemplated by him.

Phenomena.—A Vermont paper says that, in Bennington, on the 30th May, there was a shower of chalk. The New York Mercantile Advertiser says, that there was in New York city, about four weeks since, a shower of eels. The Kentucky Gazette says, that there was recently, near Lexington a shower of young tarpon. Finally, a Baton Rouge paper, not to be outdone, says, that, in Florida, a few years ago, there was a shower of mud, in which there descended a multitude of fishes, and two live alligators.

BANK—On the 10th instant, the president returned to the senate, the bill to "modify and continue the act to incorporate the subscribers to the bank of the United States," with his objections or veto—This document is quite lengthy, it contains some good reasoning and much to condemn. On the 11th inst. the senate was engaged, nearly all day, in debating the veto message, but did not come to any conclusion. Mr. CLAY made a powerful speech in favor of passing the bill, notwithstanding the veto.

The tariff bill was passed with amendments, in the senate, on the 10th inst. and was returned to the lower house.

Beauties of Slavery.

A few days ago, we are told, a man was passing down the Ohio river in a steam boat, having with him a young, stout, healthy black man, whom he called his slave. The black man repeatedly protested against being separated from his wife and children and sent to the lower country—the humane owner heeded him not, but increased his fettters and threatened him with the lash. The black man, finding his entreaties fruitless, threw himself into the river, between Aurora and the Rising Sun, and was drowned. We have not heard the name of the white wretch, who is thus guilty of causing the death of this black man.

The vice president of the United States, on the 9th instant yielding to custom, left the senate chamber—a president, pro tem, was elected on the next day, the vote standing.

To the candidates for representative.

GENTLEMEN—As there are but two or three questions of a public nature, that will come before our next legislature, that are of immediate importance to the citizens of this county. The good voters living in my neighborhood, wish you to express your feeling and sentiments, frankly, on the three following subjects:

1. You know, that the inhabitants of the Rising Sun have petitioned for a new county, to contain the few fractious sections of an overplus, now attached to the county of Dearborn—that, so soon as the new county is organized as aforesaid, a petition will be presented, asking the legislature to strike off a piece of Switzerland and attach it to said new county (the said piece, they argue, may be taken to increase an old county, but not to make a new one). Are you in favor of organizing said new county? If you answer in the affirmative, Are you in favor of giving said new county a name off of our county? 2. Of what counties do you think this congressional district should be formed?

3. Who will you, if elected, vote for as United States senator?

I hope, I don't intrude.

PAUL PRY.

Mr. KENN—Please say in the Weekly Messenger that
