

FAREWELL.

Adieu, adieu, the signal's heard,
It sounds far o'er the lee;
The gale is fair, the anchor's weigh'd, Farewell! farewell to thee.

Farewell! farewell—our barque's unmoor'd, And proudly ploughs the main;
Weep not, weep not, my only love, We'll meet, we'll meet again.

The land recedes—the silver moon Is rising from the sea;
The gale propitious wafts us on,
And wafts me far from thee.

Still, still my heart is with thee, Eve, Then grieve no more for me;
For I am thine—yes, only thine, And ever true to thee.

While gazing on the orb of night,
And glitt'ring gems above;
I'll think how oft by their pale light We've vow'd unchanging love.

When tempests howl along the deep,
And while from thee I roam; I'll ne'er forget—no, not forget The pleasures of sweet home.

THE LAST SLEEP.

"The clouds of the valley shall be sweet unto him." When, like a shade of summer's sky, The darkness of this life shall cease—When the unconscious breast shall lie In the still earth's funeral peace:
How will the sleeper rest in dust, His clay with kindred clay be blest, While the free spirit of the just Soars to a brighter element!

There is a tranquilizing thought Commingle with the voiceless grave;
'Tis with no bitter memories fraught—It echoes not to Time's dull wave; Passion and pride are passed away,
And the deep slumberer sinks to rest, Like gilded clouds, when sunset's ray Is fading from the unbounded west.

And the hot gusts of kindling wrath, Which lashed the bosom into storm:
They darken not his changeful path,
And the knut brow no more deform—
The throbbing heart is calm and hush'd, The pulse of Hate is cold and still;
And hopes, by sin and sorrow crush'd, Rise not to vex the baffled will!

Thus should it be! He slumbers now Sweet as the cradled infant's rest; No shadows cross that settled brow,
On which the unfelt clod is pressed:
From the seal'd lid there stills no tear—There is no care the eye to dim;
And, in his shroud, reposing there,
The vale's dull clod is 'sweet to him.'

Oh, who would wake the sleeper up, To walk earth's gloomy round again;
To feel the drops from sorrow's cup, Rise to the wild and fever'd brain?
For rather, in their lowly bed, Let his pale ashes moulder on—Since the free spirit is not dead, But to an endless life hath gone.

No more cold weather.—Professor Olmsted, of New Haven has invented a new stove, by the use of which, it is said, one-half the usual quantity may be saved. The other half has already been saved by the improvement of Dr.
Nott.—Franklin Republican.

"Hard times, are they not?" observed one sufferer to another. "Yes, hard enough, indeed, when I am compelled to spend my whole fortune in paying my debts."

Mr. Henry Miller, a police officer from Glasgow Scotland, after crossing the ocean and travelling some thousands of miles in search of the absconded partners of a house at Paisley, accused of forgery, has at length arrested them in the woods of Michigan.

Horse leech in the Stomach.—A boy, under the care of Dr. Ellison, having had a head ache and confined bowels, took a dose of jalap, which produced nausea, and finally brought off a live horse-leech in a very active state. It was of a small size, and did not appear to have been troublesome in the stomach. Instances are numerous in which they have become quite large, when lodged in that organ. It was supposed this had been swallowed two years before, probably while the lad was bathing. In this, as well as very many cases, the fact is substantiated that the gastric fluid has no sort of action on the living leech. Represents, some of the most loathsome form and character, have been tenants of the human stomach a long time, in spite of drastic purges or active emetics; but so far from being incommodated by being immersed in this universal solvent, which, were they dead, would digest their bodies in three hours, they give every possible demonstration of having been quietly and agreeably lodged.—Med. Journal.

Specific against fire.—A French chemist states that the phosphate of ammonia is a prevention which, after having been exposed to fire when exposed to the flame of a candle. The muslin at first becomes black and is then reddened, but it is not a permanent of flame.

Appearance of the sun.—The present appearance of the sun is somewhat unusual; there are to be seen about twenty distinct spots on its surface, one of which is very large; and towards the edge of the sun may be seen extensive ridges of white-ed elevation which appear like ranges of mountains. The large dark spot above alluded to, may be seen to change its shape and size while viewing it, thereby fully proving them to be produced by the smoke of volcanoes.
[May be so, and may be not.]—Providence Journal.

Origin of the term Yankee.—Yankee was a favorite by-word of father Jonathan Hastings of Cambridge, about 1713.

Two aged ministers, who were at the college in that town, have told me they remembered it to have been in use among the students, but had no recollection of it before that period. The inventor used it to express excellency. Yankee good horse, or yankee cider, and the like, were an excellent good horse, and excellent cider. The students used to borrow horses of him, and his use of the term upon all occasions, led them to adopt it, and they gave him the name of yankee John. Yankee, probably became a hy-word among them, and was carried from the college with them when they left it, and it was in that way, circulated and established throughout the country.

Going to Church.—"Well, Mr. Jackson," said a clergyman to his parishioners, "Sunday must be a blessed day to you. You work hard six days, and the seventh you come to church."

"Yes, sir," said Jackson, "I work hard all the week and then I comes to Church, sets me down, cocks my legs, and thinks of noththin."

Tell not that man is inconstant.—About two weeks ago, a young woman, twenty years of age, took unto herself a third husband. All of the three husbands are now living in this and an adjoining county. Her third husband was called on a few days since, for a debt which she had contracted prior to her last marriage; but he not being as rich in money as in love, was unable to satisfy the demand, when the first husband gallantly stepped forward and with a true lover's hand, united with the third of the triumvirate, in signing a note for the debt.—Evansville (Ind.) Jour.

To the Ladies.—Young's patent "Spark Catcher" is advertised in the Philadelphia U.
S. Gazette.

VEGETABLE Rheumatic Drops.

MANY articles are before the public, as a cure for that most obstinate and tormenting disease, the Rheumatism; and from close observation we are led to believe, that they have to a very great extent, failed to produce that desirable result—and may it not be attributed to the fact, that articles said to cure this troublesome disorder are also recommended to cure almost every disease with which our frail bodies are attacked, and in their preparation that object is kept in view, viz. to have the medicine a cure for all diseases.
The Vegetable Rheumatic Drops are offered to the public as a remedy for Rheumatism and as no case is known where a perfect cure was not effected, we are justified in declaring it a valuable medicine for that painful disease and for no other is it recommended.—Price 50 cents.

NO CURE NO PAY. Dr. S. R. Eaton,

LAMBS WOOL, delivered at his shop.
Vevay, February 1.

THE only specific ever offered to the public from which a permanent and radical cure may be obtained, of that disagreeable pain, the TOOTHACHE, with all its attendant evils; such as fracturing the jaw in extricating the teeth, which often proves more painful than the tooth ache itself, and cold passing from the decayed teeth to the jaw thence to the head, producing a rheumatic affliction, with many other unpleasant effects, such as a disagreeable breath, bad taste in the mouth &c. all of which are produced from foul or decayed teeth, I am happy to have it in my power to offer to the world, a remedy that will not only remove the pain, nine times out of ten if properly applied, but preserve the teeth from further decay, and arrest the disease in such as are decaying and have not commenced aching, restoring them to health and usefulness.

Eric, Pa. Oct. 16, 1832—the subscribers having witnessed the pleasing effects of Doctor Thomas White's Vegetable Tooth-ache
