

of government, he imposes as orthodox, the exotic and aristocratic principles of his native country, and by misrepresentations induces them to believe themselves oppressed by their real friends. By artifice wheedled into the adoption of his views, he next prevails on them to sign a paper intended to secure their votes in favor of his favorite candidate, and at the commencement of the election, like a flock of sheep driven to a slaughter pen, these he it but uninformed men are marched up to the poles, where they ought to be free and unshackled, but with this paper in his hand operating as a check upon their volition, they are instructed how to vote, each obeying him as bound by a promise, for the breach of which he, by suit, might recover damages. How humiliating, how degrading such an opposition! what an outrageous offence against the rights of men! Those acquainted with M'Intosh's history will not be surprised at it. The grounds of his objection to me are flattering, and I take this occasion of acknowledging my just sense of the honor he confers on me by his opposition; never, never I hope, shall I see a Scotch tory supporting my cause—and if to him and his infamous faction it will be food for flattery, I with much pleasure boast of the friendship of governor Harrison, whose private virtues and public services entitle him to the high consideration of every honest man; nay more, I can assure him so far as I can judge from a history of his administration, & my own observation of it, I believe it has generally been conducted with lenity, wisdom and virtue, and where error may be discovered, it is to be ascribed to the fallibility of human nature.

All their schemes have been effected by perseverance and falsehood, these are the characteristic marks of the party. In this manner they succeeded in the division of the territory, they imposed upon congress by gross misrepresentation: you have seen the report of the select committee, & of its truth you can judge. I will furnish you with additional evidence of their base conduct in this transaction. By reference to the journals of the house of representatives, page 165 you will find that "Mr. Thomas presented to the House certain proceedings of the grand jury of the County of Randolph, in the Indiana territory, at a circuit court held in and for said county, in the month of November last, stating the hardships and inconveniences to which the persons composing the said grand jury, and other inhabitants of the county aforesaid, have been and are now subjected, in consequence of their connection with the people situated in that part of the territory eastward of the river Wabash; and praying such relief in the premises, as to the wisdom of congress shall seem meet."

I deny that any such presentment was made, for the truth of which assertion, I appeal to Judge Vander Burgh, and the Grand Jury. I ask J. R. Jones how such information came before congress? He was at the court when it was reported to have been made, a most zealous supporter of the division, and for the great exertions of the party (very laudable to be sure) to effect this division, by which the governor has been raised to his present high station, they merit his particular attention—modest, immaculate gentlemen! Virtue and vice, deserve their appropriate reward—by this standard may you receive your deserts.

THE WESTERN SUN

VINCENNES, JULY 29, 1809.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The utility of a press depends, in a great degree, upon its impartiality.—This has been the object of the Editor of the Western Sun, and that he has honestly adhered to it, he, with confidence, appeals to the decision of an impartial public.

Doctor M'Namee however, has falsely accused him of rejecting any pieces, on any terms, from his party. The fact is simply this—he tendered a piece for publication, to which the Editor made no objection, and told him it should receive a place in his paper, upon the same terms all pieces of that nature, had lately been received, to wit:—payment—in evidence of which he offers the following certificate.

"I was present in the office of Mr. Stout, when Doctor M'Namee came in with a piece for publication, and after Mr. Stout read it, he said he had no objection to it, but refused to publish it, unless the doctor would pay him for it.

SAM'L. ADAMS."

This is the only piece, which has been refused in any shape, from his party, and refused from a determination to observe the same conduct towards the parties.—Mr. Randolph had been charged for his pieces, and the Editor was certainly not disposed to extend to Doctor M'Namee, a favor, he would not, if required, have extended to that gentleman.—If additional evidence could be necessary to prove, that his refusal did not proceed from party considerations, he would state that Mr. Randolph, anxious for its appearance had offered to pay for its insertion: for the verity of this fact, he refers to Mr. Newton E. Welfall, and Peter Jones, Esqr.

This work shall embrace a legal description on the rise and progress (under the laws of England) and present respective powers and duty of Justices of the Peace and Constables under the Statute laws of Indiana—it shall likewise contain all the necessary forms for their respective offices—and be prefaced with the Constitution of the United States and the ordinance of the Territory.

The utility and essentiality of such an undertaking and publication, especially in Indiana, cannot indeed be doubted—it is therefore hoped that "what is generally good, will be liberally encouraged."
