turn my face to the West and embrace in my native land, the only one of freedom under the sun—those friends I have left behind.

"We remained off Tunis 7 days when we again weighed anchor & flood to sea, destined on a visit to our old friend the Bathrw. He like his brothers the Dey and Bey had taken advantage of our war with England, to seize some American vessels laying in his harbor and sent them to Malta to be disposed of for their original owners. They were vessels sent in by our privateers, and valued by our Consul at 9000 dollars. A sum pitiful indeed—but pitiful as it was, the British Consul was villian enough to persuade the poor foolish old Bathaw to deliver them up to him assuring him that the people of the United States would never have it in their power to make a demand on him for the violation of the treaty. That England would destroy the whole of our navy, and that he need never fear a second American fleet off Tripoli.—How must the son of John Bull have felt when he saw our little squadron off the town—composed chiefly of vessels captured from his majesty. As there was a great degree of treachery connected with this business, the Com. demanded 30,000 dollars for the prizes, giving as usual short time for consideration.—In this he has been equally fortunate.—The money paid without the least difficulty.—Thus my dear Uncle, have we in the space of 19 days, settled with 3 of the Barbary powers, whipped one, and made a piece of our own terms—and exacted tribute from others.—We left the unhealthy coast of Africa on the 27th, and once more steered for a Christian port, and arrived in Syracuse on the 10th but was disappointed in having any intercourse with the shore—for the people who are chiefly composed of priests, are so superstitious that they will have no communication with any vessel in less than 30 days after leaving the coast of Barbary. We were again compelled to put to sea without seeing any of these curiosities this place is so celebrated for, or procure any of those necessities we so much required after our long cruise. The opening to the Ear of Dionisius could be distinctly seen from our decks.—The remains of the Tower of Archimedes, which is said to have fired the Roman Gallies, was also pointed out—and we had the satisfaction of procuring fresh water from the fountain of Arathula.—On the 3d day after entering the harbor, we again under way, and the Com. kept the shore close on board. We had for 5 days a fine view of Etna and the adjacent country.—The whole coast appears to have been formed from Lavra, and we passed several villages built entirely from this substance. On the 5th day after leaving Syracuse, we entered the Straits of Messina, and anchored the same evening off the town—where we immediately procured prairie, and now enjoying ourselves in every pleasure a gay Sicilian Town affords.—The harbor here is one of the finest in the world, when you have once entered it, but the most difficult of access. The whirlpool of Charibides stands immediately at its mouth, while the rock of Scilia, no less formidable, stands about 5 miles above the opposite shore.—To avoid one, you are apt to run on board the other, and it required the great skill, to bring a vessel in without some accident.—Though these places are dangerous, they are certainly not as formidable as by the ancients. We have now been here 10 days, and in daily expectation of sailing for Naples—thence to Leghorn, and so on up to Carthegena—where we calculate on finding Com. Bainbridge with orders to send us home."

Now purchase Cheap Goods.

NOTICE.

THERE will be sold in the town of

ORLEANS, (I. T.)

on the 25th day of December, ensuing, a number of in and out lots, at one and two years credit—they are in elegant stands, & the out lots are so situated that the prosperity of the place insures the necessity in future of their becoming in lots also. The unequaled improvement, and superior advantages that this place holds over the neighboring towns of the surrounding country are so well known to every one that it precludes the necessity of a geographical description of the place.—Due attention will be given at 10 o'clock on the day of sale by the proprietor.

JAMES SPROUL.

November 13, 1815. 2-2w

Take Notice,

I intend to apply at the next term of the Circuit court for Knox county, Indiana territory, for leave to establish a ferry across the Wabash, from my land to the opposite shore.

who are desirous of purchasing by wholesale, will do well to call, as we will sell our whole stock of goods at a small advance.

N. B. All those indebted to us are earnently requested to come forward and make payment immediately, as longer indulgence cannot be given.

We will take all kinds of Furs in exchange for merchandise.

3-1f December 20, 1815.

GENL. W. JOHNSTON

HAS just received from Pittsburgh, and opened at his store at the N. E. end of Main street, in Vincennes, where he intends purchasing an elegant and extensive assortment of

Books and Stationery, of the first quality, which he will dispose of upon moderate terms. His collection is judicious, for home use; and he would willingly engage to furnish Merchants and others, upon such terms as will make it advisable for them to purchase of him, instead of importing.

3-1f Vincennes, Dec. 20, 1815.

A Simple Request.

I do seriously request all those who may be indebted to me, to come forward and discharge their respective dues as a want of the same is expected. It is not my wish to have you visited by the proper officers, as it is both troublesome and expensive to myself as yourselves—but, depend upon it, if you do not avail yourselves of the present opportunity to discharge the same immediately, I will be obliged to do as I promise—therefore, as I have given you a fair warning, I am in hopes you will not blame me.
