A NEW SONG.

O! wont you hear What roaring cheer,
Was spent by Johnny Congress, O!
And how so gay
They doubled their pay,
And doubled the people's taxes, O!

There was Clay the scold, And Johnson the bold,
Who did not shoot Tecumseh, O!
And Ormsby and Lownds,
All as eager as hounds, An the scent of the loaves and fishes, O!

Arrah! by my shoul, it would make your heart leap for grief, to hear the poor soldiers begging for their pay, the widows for their pensions the officers for their new loans, while all the members are drinking and singing merrily, O, Twelve dollars a day,
Twelve dollars a day,
Twelve dollars a day's the Dandy O!

There was Clay in the Chair;
With his flax coloured hair,
A signing the tax bills cheerly, Oh,
And smiled at the rabble So loudly did gabble,
The audience scarcely could slumber O!

It was aye, it was No,
"Twas too high, 'Twas too low—
"The ayes will rise!" said the speaker, O!
And quickly arose
Two ayes to the noes,
And the salary bill was carried, O!

Yes! by my shoul, they all unanimously disagreed upon every question except the salary bill—Gentleman, Order!
This bill proposes to give you all a yearly salary of fifteen hundred dollars, and myself three thousand shall it pass?
Aye, Aye, Aye! The ayes have it,— therefore, they all began to sing
Twelve dollars a day,
Twelve dollars a day,
Twelve dollars a day's the Dandy O!

But och! by my shoul,
They all stared like an Owl, When the people all hiss'd their ditty O!
Said Clay, "We're all broke,
They don't relish the joke,
The devil has got in the rabble, O!

We've put on their backs A mountain of tax,
An army, a bank, et cetera, O!
Which so tamely they bore, That we all could have sworn They were perfectly broke to the halter [O!

How shall we creep out of this scrape says one? Says Clay, I will persuade the people that twelve dollars a day is too little to support myself and my wife.
Says Hardin, I'll turn the thing off in a joke. Says Ormsby, I'll beg pardon of my constituents, and promise never to do the like again. "Well done my lads says Johnson—and they all began to sing again

Twelve dollars a day,
Twelve dollars a day,
Twelve dollars a day's the dandy O!

THE BIBLE.

Is a brief recital of all that is past, and a certain prediction of all that is to come; it settles all matters in debate, resolves all doubts and eases the mind and conscience of all their scruples; it reveals the only living and true God, and shows the way to him, and sets aside all other gods, and describes the vanity of them and all that trust in them. In short, it is a book of laws to show right and wrong, and a book of wisdom that condemns all folly and makes the foolish wise; a book of truth that detects all lies and confutes all error—and a book of life that leads the way from everlasting death; it is the most compendious book in the world, the most authentic and entertaining history that was ever published: it contains the earliest antiquities, the strangest events, the most wonderful occurrences, heroic deeds, and unparalleled wars: it describes the celestial, terrestrial, and infernal worlds; and the origin of the angelic myriads, human tribes and infernal legions: it will instruct the most accomplished mechanic and the profoundest artist: it will teach the best rhetorician, and exercise every power of the most skillful arithmetician; (Rev. xiii. 18) it puzzles the wisest anatomist and exercises the nicest critic: it corrects the vain philosopher, and guides the wisest astronomer: it exposes the subtle sophist, and makes diviners mad. It is a complete code of laws—a perfect body of divinity, and unequalled narrative: a book of lives, travels and voyages. It is the best con-enant that was ever agreed on; the best deed that ever was sealed; the best evidence that was ever produced; the best will that ever was made, and the best testament that ever was signed. To understand it, is to be wise indeed; to be ignorant of it, is to be destitute of wisdom. It is the king's best copy, the magistrate's best rule, the housewife's best guide, the servant's best directory and the young man's best companion. It is the schoolboy's spelling book, and the learned man's masterpiece. It contains a choice grammar for the novice, and a profound treatise for the sage; it is the ignorant man's dictionary and the wise man's directory. It affords knowledge of witty inventions for the ingenious, and dark sayings for the grave; and it is its own interpreter. It encourages the wise, the warrior and the overcomer, and promises an eternal reward to the conqueror. And that which crowns all is that the author is without partiality, and without hypocrisy—"in whom is no variableness, nor shadow of turning."

How valuable, gentlemen, are the contents of such a book! It suits all orders, ranks and descriptions of men: it speaks with equal strictness and authority to the rich and honourable, and to the poor and ignoble, and adapts instructions to each of their understanding. The gift is worthy of its Great Author, and exerts his strict justice and his mercy, in the mind of rational being. Inexcusable is that person who does not often read it; and unwise is that man who gains no instruction from it concerning his future destiny.

LAND OFFICE AT VINCENNES,

January 25, 1817.

WHEREAS it is provided by the sixth section of the act of Congress, passed on the tenth day of May, one thousand eight hundred, entitled "An act to amend the act entitled an act providing for the sale of the lands of the United States in the Territory North West of the Ohio, and above the mouth of Kentucky river," That "If any tract shall not be completely paid for within "one year after the date of the last payment, the tract shall be ad"vertised for sale by the Register of the Land Office within whose "District it may lie, in at least five of the most public places in the "said District, for at least thirty days before the time of sale: and "he shall sell the same at public vendue, during the sitting of the "court of Quarter Sessions of the county in which the Land Of"fice is kept, for a price not less than the whole arrears due thereon, "with the expenses of sale, the surplus if any, shall be returned to "the original purchaser, or to his legal representative; but if the "sum due, with interest, be not bidden and paid, the land shall re"vert to the United States. All monies paid therefor shall be for"feited, and the Register of the Land Office may proceed to dis"pose of the same to any purchaser, as in case of other lands, at "private sale."

And whereas, by four subsequent acts, passed respectively, April twenty-third, one thousand eight hundred and twelve; February thirteen, one thousand eight hundred and thirteen; February nineteen, one thousand eight hundred and fourteen; February eleven, one thousand eight hundred and fifteen; a further credit is granted to purchasers of public lands on certain conditions therein expressed.

In pursuance thereof Public Notice is hereby given,

That the purchasers of the following tracts having failed in complying with the conditions required by the above mentioned acts, the same will be exposed for sale at public vendue, during the sitting of the court at Vincennes, on Monday the third of March, one thousand eight hundred and seventeen.

The sale will begin at ten o'clock, and if any tract be purchased the amount must be paid on the same to the Receiver of Public Monies, and the receipt deposited with the Register.
