

POETICAL ASYLUM.

Extract from the "Airs of Palestine," a Poem lately written by John Pierpont Esq. a citizen of the United States.

"No, no—a lonelier, lovelier path be mine,
Greece and her charms I leave for Palestine.
There purer streams, through happier valleys flow,
And sweeter flowers on holier mountains blow,

I love to breathe where Gilead sheds her balm,
I love to walk on Jordan's banks of palm;
I love to wet my foot on Herman's dew;
I love the Promptness of Isaiah's muse;
In Carmel's holy grot I'll court repose;
And deck my couch with Sharon's deathless rose."

A convenient way to pay for the News-papers.

Says neighbor Rednose to neighbor Chatterbox, "I'll tell you what, now I want to take this newspaper, but fags I can't pay for it." "Oh, friend," says Chatterbox, "I'll put you in a way to pay for it." "Ay, how?" "There is going to be a shooting match to-morrow. Now, instead of going there and firing away three shillings, and hussling away six, do you go and haul wood enough to the printer to pay for a year's paper.—Oh I must go to the shooting; I wish to see a man who has promised to meet me there."

"Well, if you must go, I'll put you in another way. You spend at the tavern, on an average, the price of one mug of ale every week. Reduce that to three cents, and you will have enough to pay for your paper, and purchase an arithmetic into the bargain." "Well, 'pon honor, I'll try it," says Rednose.

Duel! Two Men lately fought a Duel with rifles, in the interior of the State of New York, at the distance of 75 paces. At the first fire one of them fell; but he is likely to recover from the effects of the shot, through the assistance of a skillful Tailor—the wound being only through his pantaloons. The deserving Tailor has done what we had almost despaired of seeing effected; he has mended the habit of a Duelist!

DOCTOR L. S. SHULER.

PHYSICIAN, SURGEON & ACCOUCHEUR;
Late from New-York.

RESPECTFUL Y informs the inhabitants of Vincennes, and its vicinity, that he has commenced practice in this place, and now occupies a room in the house of J. Bond, where he will at all times cheerfully attend to those who may call on him.—He hopes by unremitting attention, his knowledge and experience in the different branches of his profession, to merit a share of the public patronage. Those residing at a considerable distance wishing to employ him, are assured that the best assistance will be afforded, on the most liberal terms.—Advice in all cases given gratis.

HERE I AM AGAIN.

I HAVE always heard that "so much said is so much gained," therefore all those persons that purchased at my sale, will do well by calling on me at Genl. W. Johnston's, and paying the amount of their respective notes, as the conditions of the same are, that "if payment is punctually made, the interest will be deducted."—In addition to this, I am determined to bring suits immediately, which will make it amount to compound interest.—Three days grace is sufficient.

EVANSVILLE

Lots in the town of Evansville, will be exposed to sale at public auction on the TWENTIETH AND TWENTY-FIRST Days of June next.

at a credit of six and twelve months; purchasers disposed to make prompt payment will receive a discount of six per centum on the purchase money; to those who make prompt payment or give bond and approved security, General Warrantee Deeds will be immediately made.

EVANSVILLE is situated on the northern bank of the Ohio river in the state of Indiana at the most northwardly bend of the Ohio river about 12 miles above the Red Banks, 28 from Princeton, 52 from Vincennes, and 30 from Harmony. This town is laid out on a liberal and convenient plan, with a handsome public square about 20 rods from the river, Water Street, on the bank of the river is laid out 100 feet wide, Main Cross street passing the public square is 75 feet wide, all other streets are 60 feet wide throughout, with an alley of 12 feet through the centre of each square or block, and at the rear of each lot.

The situation of this town is acknowledged by all travellers to be the most beautiful of any on the Ohio from Pittsburgh to the Mississippi; it certainly possesses more natural and local advantages than any other on the northern bank of the Ohio. The bank at this place, and for a considerable distance above and below the town is high, level, and dry and from 10 to 20 feet above high water mark, with a commanding & beautiful view of the river for several miles each way; it is the established and only convenient landing, and place of deposit for all manner of Merchandize and Groceries imported to the western part of the state, so much so that merchants from Vincennes and other parts of the western part of the state, find it their advantage to land their merchandize at this place, and transport them in waggons to the place of destination, at almost all seasons of the year, in preference to the circuitous, difficult & sometimes impassable rout of the Wabash; this place also is, and ever will be, the most suitable & convenient place of deposit for the produce of the greater part of Warriek Gibson, and part of Posey counties; it is in fact, to the western part of the state of Indiana, what Limestone is to Kentucky the principal place of deposit. It is situated immediately above the mouth of big Pigeon creek which affords one of the best harbors on the Ohio river. On this stream there are several valuable mill-seats in the vicinity of Evansville, at one of which and within three miles of the town, there is an excellent grist and saw mill, now in complete operation. The country back from the river, is generally high and dry, of a good soil, well adapted to the culture of CORN, HEMP, WHEAT and TOBACCO, particularly the two latter with plenty of never failing springs of excellent water; the country in the vicinity of Evansville, has a very healthy appearance, and ten years experience has proven it to be one of the most healthy neighborhoods on, or near the Ohio river, and inferior to none in point of health in the western parts of Kentucky or state of Indiana; merchants mechanics and men of enterprise and industry will do well to come and judge for themselves.
