

POETICAL ASYLUM. THE GOOD WIFE.

There lived a man, as Sages say, (No matter when or where) Who had a wife both brisk and gay;
The lady too was fair.

No jarring demon broke their rest, Their days were spent in glee;
Of woman kind she was the best,
As good as one need be.

One sportive foible she had caught;
Was it a great one? No: Whene'er her husband told her aught, She'd always answer quick as thought I told you 'twould be so.

One day Tom started from the plough, And to the house he ran;
Jenny! a tale I'll tell you now,
And trembling thus began:

Alas, my dear we're all undone;
How wretched is our plight,
The sorrel Horse has ate the Sun,
And wrapt the world in night.

Jenny replied, with looks sincere,
The fault is your's I trow,
To me the thing was always clear;
I told you 'twould be so.

EPIGRAM.

Tom taken by Tim, his new mansion to view, Observed, "twas a big one, with windows too few:"
"As for that," answered Tim, "I'm the builder's forgiver, For taxes 'twill save, and that's good for the liver."
Replied Tom, "since you live upon farthings and mites, Its good for the liver, but bad for the lights!"

AGREEABLE PROSPECTS.

It is highly gratifying to observe the increasing spirit of enterprize among the people in various parts of the country as it respects roads canals improved methods of transportation by land, and in regard to domestic manufactures, &c.— The conviction appears to be at last prevailing, that the day of universal speculation, of mushroom fortunes and of luxurious livings is over for the present; & that the time has arrived when we must commence a rigid scrutiny into our accounts, and our resources; when we must set our deranged affairs in order, and begin business on a new scale, and in a new channel. The people seem to be looking about them in good earnest to discover where their true and permanent interest lies; and with the spirit of research which now animates them they cannot long remain ignorant of their true policy; and it is a most promising circumstance, that while Industry is getting into public favor her sister Temperance is not forgotten: while our legislatures, corporations, &c. are endeavoring to foster the spirit of enterprize in domestic improvements and manufactures, the synods and other respectable bodies in various parts of the country, are investigating and exposing to public view the prevalence and miserable effects of intemperance.
The best wishes of the good and the wise must accompany every effort to countenance industrious and discourage vicious habits.

MADAM SPITFIRE.
At the sign of the Furies in Hackle street, next door to the Cat's Paw Tavern, offers her services to the public to teach the noble art of Scolding & Quarrelling, in good or bad humor, in love or spite; by the day, hour, minute or second; early or late; before or after meal; without regard to any person in Dutch or English. She has discovered a new way for women to pull the hair and cap of their adversary.

Scolding, &c taught in the gentlest manner to country women as well as town ladies. Judges and magistrates scolded in the neatest style. She has a very peculiar mode of scolding, adapted to every age and circumstance in life. Married women taught to scold their husbands blind deaf and dumb in 6 weeks. As a proof of her abilities in this polite acquirement, she scolded 8 husbands to death in 3 years time, & the 9th is far gone. She teaches how to make grimaces or furious faces; how to look sharp & Mary Magdalen like:—sleepy husbands may have their wives taught to scold them awake. She scolded the teeth out of her head the first year she followed this noble business, which renders her incapable of teaching the art of biting; but on the other hand she is not afflicted with the tooth ache, which is a great advantage.
She is well provided with needles and pins, to teach how to scratch faces, arms, hands, eyes, &c. Water changed into vinegar by scolding.—Scolding done in the newest and most approved style, in black, blue red, or any other colour, on the shortest notice.

Claims for Property lost, &c.
During the late War.

MILITARY AND GENERAL AGENCY, Washington City, 10th March 1817.

SIR—For the information of your readers, should you think proper to publish it, I take the liberty to apprise you that the act passed on the 9th day of April, 1816 entitled "an act to authorize the payment for property lost, captured or destroyed while in the military service of the United States and for other purposes," has been amended by an act of the late Congress, so as that the 1st Section limits the provisions of the 9th section of the former act, to buildings occupied by order, as a place of deposit for military and naval stores, or as barracks for the military forces. Claims under this and the 9th section aforesaid, to be investigated by the Commissioner and reported to congress.

2d Section provides for the appointment of special Commissioners as formerly, who are requested to take an oath of office. Commissioners authorised to appoint an agent in behalf of the United States, to join with the special Commissioners, when he may deem it expedient.

3d Sec. provides for payment of any horse, mule, ox, waggon, cart, sleigh or harness, lost in service except when the risk was to have been incurred by the owner.

4th Section extends the provisions of this and the former act to cases of property lost, captured or destroyed in the wars with the Indian tribes subsequent to the 18th February, and prior to the first day of September, 1815—and the 5th and last section, provides that all claims of 200 dollars or upwards, shall be reviewed by the secretary of War, and may be confirmed or rejected by him.

I am sir, most respectfully,

JOSEPH WATSON.

This agency will undertake to collect claims of the above description, and all others on government.
