

rection. A man was struck by a sign board in the Bowery, and had his arm broken—the Bloomingdale Road, we understand, is almost impassable by the falling of trees.

From the Baltimore Morning Chronicle.

Explanation wanted.—We hope for the honour of humanity, for the sanctity of truth, for the purity of the judicial ermine, that the following paragraph is incorrect, which we extract from the Genius of Liberty, of Tuesday last, a paper printed at Leesburgh, Virginia, conducted by an editor alike conspicuous for his talents and for his modesty.

"On Saturday last, a drove of negroes, consisting of about 100 men, women, and children, passed through this town for a southern destination.

Fifty-four of the above unhappy wretches, were sold by Judge Washington, of Mount Vernon, President of the Mother Colonization Society."

There is, in our apprehension, no middle ground to be taken in this case; the proprietor of Mount Vernon, the abode of that Washington that belonged, not to Virginia, not to America, but who dignified by his birth the world that we inhabit, whose character is the property of all ages and of all nations, has either done a deed that would make the sainted relics of the American hero almost tremble in his coffin, or he is perfectly innocent of the charge. We wait and with no common anxiety, for an explanation on the part of Judge Washington. This is a charge that admits of no ordinary explanation—it must be met fair and full—there is, there can be no alternative.

From the Baltimore Chronicle.

MORE OF JUDGE WASHINGTON AND HIS SLAVES.

SIR—I have it in my power to give you some information respecting the charge that appears in your paper of the 24th, against Judge Washington. I was at Mount Vernon a few days since, and was told by some of the slaves, whose countenances were remarkably indicative of despondency and dejection, that more than fifty of their companions (59 I believe had been sold but a week before to go to New-Orleans, for ten thousand dollars, the whole. One would have thought that the poor creatures who were left, the aged and blind, had lost every friend on earth. I enquired the reason. They answered, that husbands had been torn from their wives and children and that many relations were left behind. I asked an old slave of me as living at Mount Vernon when George Washington died—His answer was, "no sir—no so lucky—I should not be a slave now, if I had." The reader ought to know that George Washington, set all his slaves free upon his death, and that Judge Washington is his nephew. A.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Turkey May 28.

At a council of ministers or divan, held on the 5th of May, a most important resolution was unanimously agreed to.

That henceforward the corps of the Janissaries shall be represented in the divan by three members chosen from their own body.

This measure, which may perhaps, decide the preservation of the Turkish power, has been recommended by Jussuf Aga of the Janissaries, who is well known for his fidelity and his prudence. This experienced man represented that this was the only means to attach the Janissaries to the Porte, and to prevent all distrust. In the first divan, held in presence of the three representatives of the Janissaries, on the 16th of May, it was resolved.

To organize the Ottoman army on the European footing.

The representatives of the Janissaries made only two conditions, which were acceded to:

1st. That the dress of the troops should not be altered.

2d. That the detested name of Ni zuen Dgedib, which cost the excellent Selim his life, should be avoided, and another suitable one adopted instead.

They are now employed in drawing up the plan of organization, which will make a remarkable era in the Ottoman history.

In the same divan it was debated what was to be done respecting the insurrection in the Morea, and with regard to the Greek nation in general.

The new patriarch was called upon to give his opinion. The composure and dignity with which he spoke produced great effect.

Another measure, which may be extremely important in its consequences but may likewise tend to injure the Porte, and lead to unpleasant differences with the maritime powers, is the summons sent to all the piratical states of Barbary, to join the sultan's fleet with all the ships they can equip. In the summons addressed to these states, every thing is said that can inflame fanaticism and tempt cupidity.

The English ambassador has already declared that his court cannot permit the ships of the Barbary states to come into the Ionian sea, and that all the ports of the Ionian islands would be shut against them.

The admission of the representatives of the Janissaries into the Divan a circumstance unparalleled in the Turkish history, has produced an extraordinary sensation here. The consequences of it are incalculable.

Energetic measures have been adopted for the safety of the foreign ambassadors. Ali Turks are forbidden to speak of public events; two of high rank have expiated their disobedience with their lives. A plot concerted by Idiots to burn the marine arsenal has been discovered; twenty of the persons implicated have been executed.

A Flemish article says, "the extirpation of Christianity in Greece, is the plan of the Turks; who seem resolved to ruin themselves, notwithstanding the moderation of the Christian princes."

150 DOLLARS REWARD.

WANAWAY from on board the steam boat Kentucky, on Saturday the 1st inst. a Negro man named BOB. He is about 27 or 28 years of age, very black, near 5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, prominent cheek bones, short chin, with a small scar above one of his eyes, large beard and whiskers, his back much scarred with the cowhide, when spoken to has a down look and slow to answer, and is very fond of spirituous liquor—bad on when he went away, a black tar-pawling hat, light colored roundabout, tow linen pantaloons, striped cotton shirt and cassimere waistcoat, he took one pair of linen pantaloons tied at the legs, stuffed full of clothing not known; he was seen on Sunday last on Sandy Island. I have no doubt that his aim is for Indiana, as he told several boys that he had worked long enough for me, and thought he ought to be free. He is from the state of Maryland, and lastly from Port Gibson, where he lived four years on a sugar plantation.

The above reward will be given to any person apprehending and securing said fellow so that I get him, if out of the state; if in the state $100 and all reasonable charges paid.
