

Letters—From the 1st to the 15th April, no less than 20,000 letters were received by the different vessels, and distributed from the post office in New York. The fact, if not surprising, is at least, creditable to the industry of the office.

Census of the Cherokees.—A census of the Cherokees was taken in November, of the last year—the total population was 15,160; increase since 1809, 1,841. The number of negro slaves included in the census, was 1,377.

British cannon.—Fourteen pieces of ordnance—9 and 12 pounders—captured on board the British fleet, at the memorable victory on lake Erie—have recently been brought to this city, and are piled up at the south end of Mr. McClurg's foundry, in Fifth street. We understand these pieces were sold by order of the government, and that our founders are about to melt them down, & mould them into pots, and grates, and stoves, and other useful and peaceful implements—sad destiny for the "loud mouth'd dogs of war," of the most warlike nation upon earth! But is this the best use we can make of them? Converted into the articles we have named, they will be useful indeed, but will immediately pass into oblivion, which our enemies in war would desire. Can the ingenuity and liberal patriotism of our townsmen devise and adopt no plan by which to preserve these trophies of the first meeting between an American and a British fleet

An ancient Schoolmaster.—A correspondent informs us, that a man now resides in North Brookfield, (Mass.) who has taught school so long, that some of his scholars are the grand children of some of his former ones.—Massachusetts Spy.

Origin of Franking letters.—In the 23d volume of the parliamentary history, is the following very curious anecdote concerning this privilege. It occurred in the debate on the post-office bill, in the year 1660; col. Titus reported the bill for the settlement of the post-office, with the amendments. Sir Walter Earl delivered a proviso, for the letters of all members of parliament to go free, during their sitting. Sir Heneage Finch, said "it was a poor mendicant proviso, and below the honor of the house." Mr. Pyn spoke also against the proviso: Mr. Buncley, Mr. Boscowen, sir G. Downing, and Serjeant Carlton for it; the latter saying, the council's letters went free. The question being called for, the speaker sir Hartbottle Grimestone, was unwilling to put it, saying, he was ashamed of it: nevertheless the proviso was carried, & made part of the bill, which was ordered to be engrossed." The lords subsequently disagreed to this proviso, and it was ultimately thrown out. At a subsequent period, however, both houses did not feel it to be "below their honor" to secure for themselves this exemption from postage.

Domestic life.—The earl of Orrery well observes, that whenever we step out of domestic life in search of felicity, we come back again disappointed, tired, and chagrined. One day passed under our own roof, with our friends and our family, is worth a thousand in another place.

Buenos Ayres.—Advices from this city to the 15th February have been received in Baltimore. The republican squadron, commanded by com. Brown, had had a battle with the imperial blockading squadron under admiral Lobo. The commodore was not well supported by some of his vessels, and much weaker than the admiral, yet the latter appears to have been driven from his position, with considerable loss and damage.

Senor Rivadavia has been elected president of the Buenos Ayrean republic.

Chili.—On the 14th January, the expedition under the command of don Simon Freire, supreme director of Chili, succeeded in establishing the independence of the island of Chiloe. The loss of the Chilians was 16 killed, and 76 wounded—the loss of the royalists not ascertained. On the 16th, the royalist general, Quintanilla capitulated, delivering to the patriots the batteries, cannon, arms, &c.—the official account is received.

[With the reduction of Chiloe passes away even the semblance of the authority of Spain over any spot in that vast region of country which extends from Louisiana to cape Horn—the work of revolution is complete, so far as respects the dominion of Ferdinand.]

Remarkable Eruption.—In Calais, a town adjoining Montpelier, (Vt.) an eruption took place about ten days ago, by which a large quantity of earth was thrown from the side of the hill, and near its base, leaving a cavity which measures twelve feet in depth, on the upper side, six rods in length, & forty feet wide. Large trees were growing upon the spot, which were removed with such force, as to cause them to fall with their tops up the hill, although while standing, they leaned down the hill nearly 30 degrees from a perpendicular point. The ground was frozen nearly two feet deep, and was broken in a perpendicular manner. Large stones weighing from three to four hundred pounds, were thrown thirty rods, and one, which our informant thinks will weigh between five and ten hundred, was thrown about eight rods. The force must have been great, as the explosion was heard at considerable distance. The fissures in the rocks, at the bottom, and on the sides of the cavity, are barely large enough to admit a man's hand. The cause of this explosion is unknown. Some suppose it to have been effected by water—but this is not very probable, although there was, undoubtedly, a considerable quantity of water. Yet the explosion being instantaneous, there must have been some invisible cause of eruption. It furnishes a subject for the investigation of the philosopher, and cannot fail to excite the attention of the curious.
