

The Presidential election in this state has closed, and enough has been heard to enable me to state, that the five Jackson electors have been elected by a majority exceeding three thousand votes.

In the upper part of the District, the voters were attempted to be imposed upon by tickets, headed "Jackson electoral ticket," with the names of three administration, and two Jackson electors on them—Had "Jehu Gosnel any thing to do in this business?"

Missouri, and Illinois have elected Jackson electors by overwhelming majorities—Judging by the returns received from Ohio and Kentucky, but little doubt is entertained of the success of the Jackson ticket in each of those states.—Of the vote of Louisiana, I have never much doubted, and should it go for Jackson, Mr. Adams will not receive a single electoral vote west of the mountains.

The long and bitter contest is over, and I rejoice in the hope of the return of peace and harmony among all classes, and parties.

MORGAN.—It was mentioned some time ago, that Capt. Morgan had been seen in the Turkish dominions, but it was supposed to have been a mere fiction, or joke of the person who narrated the circumstance. By the following article, from the Boston Palladium, it appears there was more foundation for the story than was at first imagined, and that there is every probability Morgan is now in some part of Turkey. We hope such may turn out to be the fact, and that it may soon be substantiated in a way to allay the very great excitement produced in the state of New York by his supposed murder. Balt. Gaz.

FROM THE BOSTON PALLADIUM.

Captain Morgan.—We should not mention the name of this individual, had we not been informed yesterday, by a gentleman entitled to the most entire confidence that Captain Waterman, of Duxbury, a gentleman of undoubted respectability and veracity, who commanded the brig Herald, in his last voyage from Boston to Smyrna, is fully convinced in his own mind, that he carried William Morgan as a passenger. The gentleman who has given us Captain Waterman's opinion on this subject, is Mr. Job W. Tyler, of this city, who sailed with Captain Waterman, on his next voyage, as first officer of the Herald—Captain Waterman, at that time, often mentioned the subject to Mr. Tyler, and has since expressed his sincere conviction that Morgan was his passenger.

Advice to young men.—Ever carry about with you such a sense of the uncertainty of every thing in this life, and of life itself, as to put nothing off till to-morrow, which you can conveniently do to-day. Ditary persons are frequently exposed to surprise and hurry in every thing that belongs to them. The time is come, and they are unprepared. Let the concerns of your soul and your shop, your religion and your business, lie always in such order, as far as possible, that death, at a short warning, may be no occasion of a disquieting tumult in your spirit, and that you escape the anguish of a bitter repentance in a dying hour—farewell.

Phrocinus, a considerable Eastland merchant, happened upon a copy of these advices about the time he permitted his son to commence a partnership with him in his trade; he transcribed them with his own hand, and made a present of them to the youth, together with the articles of partnership. Here young man, said he, is a paper of more worth than these articles. Read it over once a month, till it is wrought in your very soul & temper. Walk by these rules, and I can trust my estate in your hands. Copy out these counsels in your life, and you will make me and yourself happy.

DIED.—In this town, very suddenly, on the 21st of October last, Mr. Stephen Campbell, from the neighborhood of Terre Haute, Ia. The immediate cause of his death, on examination, was found to be a rupture of the stomach. Galena Journal.

Cunning of the Fox. At the Golden Bear Inn, Reading, a young Fox had a few years since been taught to go into the wheel and turn the jack. After he had thus officiated for some time, he escaped, and regained his native woods. Here he met the fate common to his species, he was pursued by the hounds and in his flight ran through the town of Reading, reached the Inn, and springing over the half door of the kitchen, jumped into the wheel, and resumed his occupation, in the very place where he had been brought up, by which means he saved his life.

St. Augustine, (E. F.) Oct. 8.—It gives us pleasure to state, that the Indians on the Apalachicola have decided to send a deputation over the Mississippi, preparatory to a removal there; and it is probable that the East Florida Indians will join them.

We regret that we have so long omitted to state, that John Lee Williams, Esq. has lately returned from a tour, in which he has been engaged about three months, exploring the southern coast of the territory. He states that the southern extremity of the peninsula is very rocky, and that scarcely are found, for a hundred miles from Cape Sable, which are common to this country. The mastic lig-numvitz, gum elemy, ovino, wild fig, and mangroves, are there found, instead of oaks, pines, and tili bushes. He has brought with him several hundred subjects of natural history, in conology, mineralogy, botany, &c.

PAPER.—We have seen some further specimens of paper made from straw and from blue grass, according to McGaw's patent. The invention is said to prove entirely successful. A manufactory has been established at Chambersburg, in this state, and machinery, &c. is preparing for the manufacture of three hundred reams a day. The paper is firm and strong, carries ink well, and is very suitable for wrapping, and it is believed, for hanging also, & for all other purposes where strong paper is required, and can be furnished at a price so much below that made from any other material as to supersede every other of that kind.—Aurora.

VIENNA August 22

Young Napoleon Bonaparte.—By an autograph letter of the emperor to the president of the Aulic Council of war, his majesty has appointed his grandson, the duke of Reichstadt, to the express joy of his august mother and the young prince himself, to the rank of captain in the Yager battalion, bearing his majesty's name. Thus the military career of the prince will commence this year. It is said, that in the approaching reviews, he will be placed under the archduke Charles. [This is planting a thorn indeed in the side of the Bourbons.]

Extent of the U. States.—A letter dated Prairie du Chien, 15th August, reached us by the ordinary mail route from that place. Since its date, we have received advices from the shores of the Euxine and the utmost parts of Europe. What adds to the curiosity of the fact is that the letter relates to a subscription for the Statesman, sent to a social library in that remote region. The postoffice at that village is five hundred miles distant from any other.—N. Y. Statesman.

Mistakes of ambiguity.—Ambiguity of speech sometimes leads to very sad mistakes. A militia captain received a billet from a lady, requesting "the pleasure of his company to tea," on a certain evening. Now a query arose how to understand the word company; and the captain being a man of real military views, very naturally came to the conclusion, that it meant no other more nor less than the company of militia which he had the honor to command.—Accordingly, what was the astonishment of his hostess and friends to be told, not only the captain but his whole company, from the highest subaltern to the most ragged private, armed and equipped in their usual style, punctual to the hour of invitation dry as dust, and hungry as lions—Never was such consternation in the drawing room before. The old ladies lifted up their hands and eyes in astonishment; the young ladies screamed as if they had seen a spider or a snake; the dandies exclaimed, "They'd ought to be shot! It's a bore! It's a positive bore!" The master of the house bit his lip with vexation, and the hostess, as in duty bound, went into the hysterics. In which situation we leave them to the sympathy and consideration of the reader.

Any editor who will insert the above a few times, and forward a copy of his paper containing the advertisement, directed "Saturday Bulletin, Philadelphia," shall receive a copy of the Views immediately on publication.

Proposals

FOR PUBLISHING BY SUBSCRIPTION, A Book to be entitled

THE INDIANIAN.

"All of which I saw, & part of which I was."

"With the land that flourishes, I flourish—with the land that withers, I die."

PROSPECTUS

THE author presumes that the work will meet with a most friendly reception, from the citizens of Indiana, as well as those of the adjoining states; and he most positively asserts, that his object in presenting it to the public, is not that of ambition to become "An Author," nor is it that of gratifying a malevolent spirit in squinting the acid of satire at those he may dislike; or, perhaps, who may deserve it; but it is that a Mirror may be held up to view, in such a manner, see themselves and character, (though under a fictitious name,) faithfully portrayed. If the picture or reflection, be unpleasant and unlovely, it is the fault of the object reflected, and not of the reflector.

The work will, at least, possess the merit of originality, in many respects; and every character described shall be a living one.—The ashes of the dead shall not be molested—the tomb shall remain inviolate. Our business being confined exclusively to the living, it is our intention particularly to acquaint ourselves with them; and as public men are measurably the property of those who have contributed to their elevation, there can be no method so well calculated to give a correct idea of the taste and judgment of the good citizens of this state, as to clearly and faithfully delineate, those they honor with their chief rule amongst them. The author being a citizen of Indiana, flatters himself, that he is fully acquainted with all the characters he wishes to portray, and will leave it to the public to say, whether he has been capable of doing them justice.

The following is the intended plan of the work:

PART 1st

Chapter I. A description of those who have figured in the capacity of justices of the peace—their legal knowledge & decisions—the means made use of by them to procure their election—their wish for further promotion—the difference between Simon, and Simon having become a justice.

Chap. II. Constables, & Constables sense defined.

Chap. III. Circuit, and assistant judges, with an outline of the legal knowledge and importance of the latter.

Chap. IV. Members of, and candidates for the legislature, with a few specimens of stump oratory.

Chap. V. Editors—their talents, taste, independence, influence, and success.

PART 2d.

Chap. I. Capability, morality, and general success of school teachers.

Chap. II. Merchants—their mode of doing business, honesty, generosity, profits, &c.

Chap. III. The Esculapian band—their numbers, practice, &c.

Chap. IV. Innkeepers and Inns.

Chap. V. Ourself.

CONDITIONS.

When a sufficient number of subscribers are obtained to justify the undertaking, the work will be handsomely executed, and neatly bound and furnished to subscribers at One Dollar per copy, to contain about four hundred pages.
