AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.—A number of persons desirous of improving the agriculture of Knox county, and especially of encouraging by premium, the raising of good cattle and fine stock, have determined to form an Agricultural Society for Knox county. The cost to each member will not exceed one dollar per year. The benefits to the country and town will be many and important. A meeting for the purpose of organizing the society will be held at Clark's tavern, on Saturday after the general election, at 12 o'clock, M. when and where the farmers of Knox county are requested to attend. A subscription paper is left at the post-office.

The WABASH INSURANCE COMPANY is now organized, and those who wish their property insured, or who wish to borrow money, or to exchange uncurrent bank notes, can be accommodated on reasonable terms. The office is in the rear of the store of Messrs. Tomlinson & Ross, on the corner of Market and Water streets.

"WILL WIZZARD" will appear next week.

DR. TIPPON'S CIRCULAR.

WASHINGTON, 19TH JUNE, 1832.
SIR: As this protracted session of Congress is drawing to a close, I deem it due to those that I have the honor in part, to represent here, to give them a brief statement of the important subjects that have engaged the attention of Congress, during the present session.

Much of the time of the Senate has been occupied on executive business, in which I have in most cases, given my feeble support to the present administration; approving, as I do, of a majority of its acts, and believing that when men are placed in power by the constituted authorities of the country that all good men owe to them a firm, and honest support.

Treaties have been ratified during this session of the Senate with France and Mexico, of a very satisfactory nature; and a commercial arrangement has been entered into with Great Britain, in relation to the trade with her West India colonies; by some, it is considered advantageous to the United States; by others, doubted but time alone can determine who is in the right.

Treaties have also been ratified between the United States and the Creek Indians of Alabama, and with several tribes in Ohio: these Indians have agreed to remove to a country provided for them by the United States, west of the Mississippi; and where, it is hoped, the Indians within our own State, who cannot long subsist by the chase, where they now are, will consent, ere long, to follow their example.

A law passed, some time since, allowing the entry of 14 quarter sections of land, and giving a pre-emption to actual settlers, for six months; a law granting pensions to the Soldiers of the Revolution; and also, a Law establishing new post routes; in the latter, the new states, where they were most needed, and, especially Indiana, have been amply provided for: the mail will be put on these new routes on the first of January, 1833, after contracts have been entered into according to law. A copy of the pension law, and the official instructions under it, will be published in the newspapers as soon as they are prepared.

A law for apportioning Representation under the Fifth Census, by which our State will be entitled to seven Representatives in Congress, after the 3d of March, 1833, has also been passed.

A Bill appropriating 100,000 dollars to continue the Cumberland Road in Indiana, passed the Senate some time since, and has not yet been finally acted on, by the House. A proposition to appropriate the same amount for that object has been added by the House, to a bill, making appropriations for Harbors, Rivers, and other objects of Internal Improvement. This Bill has passed the House, and is now pending and will probably be amended in the Senate, with an appropriation to remove the obstructions to the navigation of the Wabash, and I hope will also become a law before the present Session terminates.

A bill for modifying and continuing the Charter of the Bank of the U. S. has passed the Senate; this bill contains some restrictions upon the Bank; but not such as to cripple its operations or destroy its usefulness. I would however have preferred and voted to restrict the bank from locating a branch in any state without the consent of the people; but this proposition was rejected by the majority and the bill passed the Senate with my vote in its favor.

At an early day, in the session, the subject of modifying and reducing the tariff, to relieve the Southern states was introduced into both houses of Congress, and has been discussed at great length. The discussion is still progressing with zeal and ability, in the House of Representatives. It is agreed on all hands that the present duties on imports should be reduced, to relieve the Southern States. The friends of protection are willing to reduce the duty principally on non-protected articles about $8,000,000; the south is unwilling to accept of this. The Secretary of the Treasury we directed to prepare and submit a bill to modify the duties; he has accordingly, submitted a bill, proposing to reduce the duties about 10,000,000. But neither high Tariff, nor the opposition party seem satisfied with the Secretary's bill; the dissatisfaction of both parties indicate its proximity to a just medium, and each party is still urging their own propositions with great animation; thus we find ourselves at this late period of the session with this perplexing question unadjusted, and should it be settled before the session, closes, it is doubtful whether either will be entirely satisfied.

Bills making an appropriation for an Indian Treaty in Indiana, and for establishing a new Land Office in the Northern part of our State, passed the Senate in December, but have not been finally acted on by the House.

A proposition to reduce the price of the public lands has long since been introduced, but has not been finally disposed of.

The consequences growing out of the decision of the Supreme Court, of the United States, in the case of the missionaries, imprisoned by a judgement of a state court of Georgia, is not so alarming as some politicians seem to conjecture; it appears, that the supreme court has issued its mandate, directing the court of Georgia to release the prisoners. Should those orders be not obeyed, nothing more will probably be done, until the next session of the Supreme court, which does not take place until January, 1833. However, before that time, it is anticipated, that much of the excitement which at present divides us, will have subsided, and that reason and obedience to laws, will be the order of the day.

Our Indian relations in the south, are of a satisfactory nature. The treaties which have been made, and those that are in progress, indicate beyond doubt, that the southern states will soon be free from this incumbrance, without bloodshed or coercion; and that the unfortunate race of red men will be transferred to a residence where they will hereafter be protected by our government, and remain forever undisturbed. The moment information of the Indian War, in the north west, reached Washington, Congress with extraordinary promptitude, and unanimity, appropriated 300,000 dollars to defray the expenses of the militia, that had or might be called into service and 20,000 dollars to support such friendly Indians as may seek the protection of the U. S. These monies have been placed in the hands of the proper accounting officers of the government to be applied expressly to the objects set forth in the law of Congress.

A law has received the signature of the Chief Magistrate, which authorizes him to raise and organize six companies of mounted rangers to consist of 100 men each, besides officers to be disposed of as the President may direct for the defence of the frontier. Two of these companies are to be raised within our State; and I am informed that Col. Ford, of Charleston, and Maj. Beckes of Vincennes, have been instructed to accept the offer of such men as desire to enter into the service of their country; and that when the companies are fitted, the names of the officers are to be presented to the President, who will commission them accordingly.

The private soldier will be required to serve 12 months, unless sooner discharged, to furnish their own guns, clothes, horse, and forage; and they will be allowed rations, and paid one dollar per day for their service, and the use of their horses and arms to be paid at the end of each month as other U. States troops are paid. No other U. States troops have ever been better paid—seldom as well.

Some fears, I understand, have been entertained of the Indians within our own State joining the war party. My long and intimate acquaintance with these people justifies me in assuring you that no such fears need be entertained. They will if desired join us against the hostile tribes, I have no doubt.

Should this war continue, I trust the citizens of Indiana will not disappoint the high expectations entertained of their patriotism gallantry and willingness to serve their country, and those who are able to temporarily abandon their pursuits, will volunteer in its defence. I shall sit out from this city and probably reach home by the time the Rangers are organized, whether Congress adjourns or not; and if the war is not concluded, will join you as a private soldier in the first campaign.

Your obedient servant,
JOHN TIPPON.

$100 REWARD.

RANAWAY from the subscriber, on Thursday the 26th of April last, two negro men, named BEN and REUBEN. BEN is about 40 years of age, short and heavy made, of a yellow complexion, 5 feet 9 or 10 inches high, plays on the violin, with both his ears off close to his head, which he lost for robbing a boat on the Ohio river. No doubt but he has changed his clothing since he left home.

REUBEN is a heavy, well built fellow, about the same height, and what may be called a black negro, about 30 years of age, has a down look when spoken to, one of his fingers next to the little finger is off to the first joint, which hand not recollected, and walks lame occasionally by a pain in the hip.

I will give 50 dollars for either of them, or 25 each, if caught in 30 miles of my residence, or secured in any jail so that I get them, or all reasonable charges if brought home and delivered to me, living in the State of Kentucky, and county of Livingston, near the head of Hurricane Island, Ohio river. JAMES FORD.

AUCTION SALE OF GOODS.

THE death of R. S. Reynolds requires his partnership concerns should be closed, therefore the remaining Stock of Goods belonging to REYNOLDS & BONNER will be disposed of at public auction. The sale will commence (at their store-room on Market-street) on Wednesday the 25th of July, at 10 o'clock, and continue from day to day until all be sold. The sale of this stock of GOODS is worthy of general attention, as a large portion of the stock consists of articles in constant demand. To the public generally, (and to country merchants in particular,) the occasion is inviting. It is considered unnecessary to enumerate the various articles to be sold; suffice it to say, that it embraces a large and general assortment of MERCHANDIZE.

The terms of sale as follows: All sums under five dollars, cash. On all sums over five, and not exceeding ten dollars, a credit of six months; on all sums over ten and not exceeding twenty dollars, a credit of nine months, and on all sums over twenty dollars, a credit of twelve months will be given. Note and approved security will be required.
