Snider Nudges GHS Netters In Semi-Finals

Greencastle High School's girls' volleyball team annihilated Vincennes Rivet Saturday afternoon 15-3 and 15-6 before falling to a tall Ft. Wayne Snider team 15-8 and 15-11 in the semi-final match of the 1973 IHSAA state volleyball championships held at Ben Davis High School in Indianapolis. Mishawaka Marion won the IHSAA championship by tripping Snider in the finals 15-10 and 15-4. The Knights succeed South Bend St. Joseph's as state titleholder. St. Joseph's lost this year in the sectional to South Bend LaSalle. Greencastle coach Ann Lawver noted that the girls had an off-game against the Snider team. "We just couldn't put all the phases of the game together," she said.

The girls did turn in some fine individual performances with Tigerette Brenda Andis presented the tourney's Mental Attitude Award presented annually to the outstanding senior member of one of the final eight teams in the championship. "We played good against Vincennes but they weren't a strong team—not as strong as those we beat in the regional", Lawver said. "And we play best against a strong team. "Against Snider, all three components of the game were there (the bump, set and spike) but we just couldn't put them all together. "We might get off a good bump and set but then our spike would be off, or we might get a good set but no bump or spike." Commenting on the team's chances had they beat the Snider bunch, the coach noted Marion had some good spikers but "If we had been up, we could have beat them." "Against Snider, we beat ourselves," she said. "A real exciting thing about the tournament was the support by the school and the community for the team. There was a strong showing of Greencastle people at Indianapolis Saturday and we thank the community for the support." The mentor also pointed to Jan Smaltz and Jana Braden as also turning in excellent performances. "Brenda (Andis) was a strong spiker and then did a good job of serving and Jan was our strong server. Jana came in during the Snider game and played well for us."

Members of Greencastle's state finalists are seniors—Brenda Andis, Jana Braden, Jona Braden, Gail Frederick, Holly Knights and Jan Smaltz; juniors—Lorie Bitzer, Kathleen Gammon and Susan Ross and sophomore—Jane Torr. Student manager was Dede Pershing. "Greencastle High School and the city of Greencastle can well be proud of the way in which the girls represented their school and community. They won graciously and accepted defeat with dignity," the coach noted. In the other semi-final match Mishawaka eliminated South Bend LaSalle 15-1, 15-1. In preliminary matches played Saturday morning and afternoon, LaSalle defeated Jeffersonville, 15-6, 15-1. ## Committee Begins Center Search

Search for a suitable location for a Putnam County Senior Citizens Center was launched this week by a special committee appointed by Mrs. Louise Johnson, president of the Putnam County Council on Aged and Aging. Members of the committee, serving with Mrs. Johnson, are Dr. H.T. Ross, Mrs. R.E. McGuffey, Mrs. Emery Groner and David Barr. The initial meeting was held Friday at the Greencastle Federal Savings & Loan Conference room.

activities and all other facets of the Senior Citizen program. Dr. Ross was authorized to explore certain possibilities which had come to his attention, and other members of the committee are to be on the alert for housing which might be available. It was pointed out that the proposed center should be centrally located and adapted to use of older citizens. Requests to make such a center eligible for Federal Revenue Sharing funds have been submitted to the Indiana General Assembly and action is anticipated before the end of the year. Initial expenses would be those of a director for the center and rent for the by principals and coaches at the candidate's high school.

Yule Post Deadlines Set By Greencastle Post Office

New deadlines for posting domestic and foreign first class mail have been announced by John Bergen, Assistant Greencastle Postmaster.

Bergen stated that he was joining Postmaster General E.T. Klassen in urging Greencastle residents to post their mail one to two weeks earlier than the Postal Service originally recommended, so that the energy shortage will not interfere with on-time deliveries.

"The urgency of the fuel energy crisis compels us to request a one-week advancement of suggested dates we gave for domestic mail and a two week advancement for foreign mail," Bergen said.

The new posting date for domestic first class Christmas mail is December 8 rather than December 15, as previously announced. Domestic surface parcels, except those intended for Alaska and Hawaii, should be mailed by Dec. 3 instead of Dec. 10. Similar mailings to Alaska and Hawaii should be made by Nov. 23, instead of Nov. 30.

"With the exception of Alaska and Hawaii, airmail parcels and letters within the United States should be posted no later than Dec. 15," Bergen said. Earlier, this deadline had been Dec. 21. Airmail postings to Alaska and Hawaii have been advanced to Dec. 13 from Dec. 20.

Bergen said that the seriousness of fuel shortage to the Postal Service is underlined by the fact that in addition to the fuel consumed by commercial air carriers, the service requires approximately 350-million gallons of fuel to travel 2.25-billion miles delivering 90-billion pieces of mail that flow through the system each year. Requirements for the month of December alone are 45-million gallons of fuel. The following mailing schedule to areas outside the United States has been announced: Canada and Mexico—Air cards, Dec. 3; air parcels, Nov. 30; surface cards, Nov. 23; surface parcels, Nov. 30.

Europe—Air cards, Dec. 3; air parcels, Nov. 25; Near East—Air cards, Nov. 25; air parcels, Nov. 24; Far East—Air cards, Nov. 25; air parcels, Nov. 24.

"Public cooperation on meeting these new advance mail early dates is needed to help us complete all Christmas deliveries," Assistant Postmaster Bergen said.

Myers Calls On Americans To Observe National Family Week

Indiana Congressman John Myers (R-7th) today asked all Americans to join in the observance of National Family Week, Nov. 18-24, honoring the family institution and its role in the development of the nation.

Rep. Myers is author of the resolution establishing the annual observance which passed Congress last year and was signed by President Nixon. Myers said at least 39 states have declared their support of National Family Week, including Indiana where Governor Otis Bowen signed a Family Week in Indiana proclamation.

In addition, more than 70 members of Congress, more than for any other previous special observance, joined as co-sponsors of this year's resolution. Organizations such as The American Legion, The Veterans of Foreign Wars, The Boy Scouts of America, The Jewish Right, Family Service Association of America and The General Federation of Women's Clubs are sponsors of the nationwide celebration. ### Response To Energy Crisis

Sale Of Co. Winter Weathering Items Up

The people in Putnam County have been responding in great numbers to a request by President Richard Nixon to voluntarily help conserve energy in private homes.

A survey of county residents last week showed that most people are enthusiastically helping to use less fuel by turning down their thermostats. As a result of this tremendous response, hardware stores have had a great increase in the sale of winter items, including weather stripping, caulking, stove pipes and plastic sheeting.

Tucker Gray, manager of Todd's Ace Hardware, reported a very definite increase in the sale of these items. "This is the first time in a long time I've seen anything like this. I have two orders placed now for these items—one with the warehouse and one directly with the factory. The warehouse has already told us they are short on a lot of things (for heat retention). We just have to keep sending the orders in and when they catch up, we'll get ours." Gray said he has also sold a lot of plastic to people who are double sealing their windows and doors.

Jim Zeis, manager of Headley's True Value Hardware, said they have sold completely out of stove pipes for coal stoves and electric heaters. "We sent in an order for some Ben Franklin Stoves and the factory told us not to even bother to send in another order until after the first of the year."

He said their regular winter order of weather stripping and other such items is not yet depleted, but, as he pointed out, we haven't had any really cold weather as yet. "When the temperatures get below freezing, there will be a rush on items and we may sell out."

Gray also said Atlantic Steel and Iron Works who make the coal and woodburning stoves reported they are six months behind in their orders now.

"There is a disadvantage to sealing a house too well, though," said Gray. "A house must breathe or it could get too dried up inside. People will have to start using humidifiers in their homes if they're going to seal in the heat real well."

In a check on other areas of the energy crisis in this county it was learned that if legislation is passed reducing the legal speed limits on the highways and interstates to 50 or 55 miles per hour, it will hurt some local trucking companies and companies who use a lot of fuel in other areas.

Jack Dalton of Dalton Asphalt Corporation said they are out of fuel right know and are running from day to day. "I'm not concerned so much with fuel for my trucks as I am with fuel for my machinery. I can get fuel for the trucks on the road, but my allocations for the machinery fuel from distributors have run out already. If I don't get some fuel in this area, there will have to be some lay-offs."

The trucks for Dalton Asphalt Corp. currently travel at 60-to-65 miles per hour, according to Dalton, so if the legal limits are lowered, he said, their rates would have to be adjusted to keep their income level.

"Fuel prices have gone up tremendously. Diesel fuel has increased over 300 per cent and we're stuck with the haul rates we drew up last year. If they reduce speeds it will take more man-hours for the haul, so we'll have to raise prices accordingly."

Dalton also said there is a real shortage of asphalt itself because it comes from the same base as does fuel—crude oil. Prices on asphalt, he said, have risen 50 per cent already.

Gene Robbins, maintenance foreman at Schwerman Trucking said their home office is trying to shift fuel from plant to plant nationally in an effort to keep things running smoothly.

"However, with this good weather, operations are running heavy. If the weather stays nice and orders keep coming in from the contractors at this rate, we may run out of fuel," he said. "There's always a possibility of a temporary curtailment."

Another spokesman for Schwerman Trucking pointed out that the company would not be affected if legal speed limits are lowered because company rules state that the drivers should not exceed 50 to 55 miles per hour.

Speeds have been voluntarily lowered by Public Service Indiana, Indiana Gas Company, Inc. and General Telephone Company of Indiana, according to spokesmen at the local offices.

Harold Lezotte, area manager for Public Service Indiana, said speeds were lowered to 50 to 55 for all their company vehicles two or three months ago. He also said that, although 80 per cent of their power is generated from coal, they have lowered all office thermostats to 68 degrees.

At the scheduled end of the 1973 Putnam County United Fund drive, the cash contributions and pledges totaled $54,196, or 108 percent of this year's goal of $50,190. But the momentum of the drive was such that the flow of contributions continued.

As of Nov. 16, the total stood at $46,071, or 111.7 percent of the goal. This amount Commented Campaign Chairman Dick Andis: "The people of Putnam County have again demonstrated their willingness to increase their investment in agencies that help to improve the quality of life in Putnam County. This year's contributions and pledges further narrow the gap between what our community needs are the dollars we have to meet them."

Clair Williams, president of this year's Putnam County United Fund campaign, added, "This has been an outstanding team effort of people helping people. The kind of participation we've had in our campaign is absolutely essential to the success of any United Fund campaign."

Andis mentioned that the results of the Putnam County campaign were cited in the United Way of America's Executive Newsletter of Nov. 12.

Andis said, "The fact that we exceeded our goal by $6,000 poses the question of What's to be done with this additional money? As I see it, there are about five alternatives, and it could be a combination of all five, or some other grouping of them. couple of weeks to consider the following options:

- 1. Establish a certain shrinkage factor to protect against pledges made but not given...
2. Review once again the original requests by member agencies to see if modifications are in order.
3. Establish a special fund for unanticipated emergencies encountered by member agencies.
4. Establish a special fund to start new agencies for the purpose of better meeting community needs.
5. Establish a special fund to meet other unique human needs in the community outside the present framework of United Fund agencies."

Andis then gave this rundown of campaign results: "The Industry Pacesetter Division, headed by Ben Cannon, turned in an exceptionally strong performance this year, exceeding its overall division goal by 11 percent, with a 30 percent increase over their last year's giving. Employee giving was up 11 percent in that division, while firm giving was up nearly 64 percent. There was especially fine employee participation at Greencastle Mfg. Co., whose employee gifts were nearly triple last year's; and Lone Star Industries, Public Service Co., and Angwell Curtain Co., General Telephone Co., IBM, Mallory Capacitor Co., and Putnam County Hospital employees maintained a consistently solid giving record. The total Industry Pacesetter gifts amounted to just under $25,000, approximately 45 percent of the total contributions received in this year's campaign."

"The Commercial Pacesetter Division, headed by Jim Poor, exceeded its goal by 2 percent, but was up 39 percent over last year. This division noted significant increases in both firm gifts, up 52 percent and significant increases over last year in several employee groups, more than double last year's. "Especially strong were the employee groups at First-Citizens Bank, Horace Link Furniture, Montgomery Ward, Kroger Company, and Hook's Drugs. The employees at Hook's had perhaps the highest per capita giving of any company in either division. Central National Bank employees sustained their strong giving record of last year.

"Firms that increased their firm gift in the Commercial Pacesetter Division include the Central National Bank, Greencastle Savings & Loan, First-Citizens Bank, Cash Concrete, Schultz Family Store, J. C. Penney Company, Montgomery Ward, Prevo's, Taylor Graphics, and Russellville Stone. All 20 companies in the Commercial Pacesetter Division may be very proud that they increased their giving by 68 percent over last year taking the total of firm and employee gifts.

"The Education Division, headed by Pat Aikman, came through with another good year, exceeding last year's giving by 1 percent. Especially of note in this division was the contribution by DePauw students, who raised $700, a 40 percent increase over last year; and the Greencastle High School student body, who raised $75 in a classroom competition for the campaign.

"The General Division, reorganized this year by Lois Allee, campaign vice-chairwoman, consisted of the following areas: Bainbridge and Monroe Twp.; Roachdale, Franklin, and Jackson Twp.s.; Russellville, Russell and Clinton Twp.s.; Fillmore, Floyd and Marion Twp.s.; Greencastle and Greencastle Twp.; Madison Twp.; Belle Union and Jefferson Twp.; Cloverdale and Cloverdale Twp.; Reelsville, Warren and Washington Twp.s.

"The division brought in $5,269, a 12 percent increase over last year. Particularly noteworthy performances were turned in by the Cloverdale area, headed by Mildred Sandy (last year's total was more than doubled and this year's goal exceeded by more than 50 percent) and by Reelsville, likewise, which more than doubled their last year's contributions and exceeded this year's goal by nearly 5 percent. The team captain for the Reelsville area was Betty Killian.

"Russellville and Russell and Clinton Twp.s., headed by Judy Jones and Marge Stultz, exceeded their last year's total by about 20 percent and also surpassed their goal this year.

"And Roachdale headed by Evelyn Snodgrass, showed an increase over last year and was just short of its goal. Greencastle again came in just about where we expected them to.

"The Professional Division, headed by Bill Long, accounted for $2,046 this year, a 25 percent increase over last year.

"With reference to out-of-county contributions, Putnam County employees of Allison's have been able this year for the first time to designate Putnam County on their pledge cards. This means that half of what they pledged to the Greater Indianapolis United Way will come back to Putnam County. The total this year will amount to $509 from Allison's, and Bridgeport Brass, out of its Good Neighbor Fund, will send back $1,378 to Putnam County.

D.A.R. Hopes To Raise $400 To Repair Washburn Portrait

History conscious D.A.R.s are merely doing their thing when they go all out in an effort to raise $400 to save a bit of the past for future enlightenment. The $400 is the amount they have pledged to repair a portrait of Civil War General Henry Dana Washburn, given by one of his nieces, Mrs. Laura Florer Stewart, to hang in the large cabin in Robe-Ann Park. The 100 year old portrait of the famous Hoosier for whom the local D.A.R. chapter is named was painted by W. Cogswell. A succession of Sunday picknickers in the summer and school children in other seasons have looked up briefly as their hostesses pointed it out, "This is the Civil War general from Indiana who explored the Yellowstone before it became the United State's first national park."

What else did Henry Dana Washburn do that made him important enough for citizens to want to contribute to a preservation project so future citizens of Greencastle and Putnam County will have an opportunity to know what about him?

In the 39 years of his life, he was able to distinguish himself in a number of ways. He left Vermillion County with the Eighteenth Indiana Regiment, served through the Civil War and when, as Brevet Brigadier General H.D. Washburn, he led his Hoosier Regiment home in September 1865. Governor Oliver P. Morton was the featured speaker in the welcoming ceremony held on the capitol grounds. He returned to Vermillion County where he had already set up a flourishing law practice which was interrupted by military service. He ran successfully for Congress against Daniel Voorhees, and served two terms before his old friend, President U.S. Grant, appointed him Surveyor-General for the Montana Territory. There had been no official exploration of the Yellowstone area since the Lewis and Clark Expedition and most citizens believed the tales of gushing hot springs and wierd natural formations were much too wild to be believed; in fact, this was the response he received in Greencastle when he briefly stopped here while organizing his party. The interesting story of the Washburn-Langford Expedition was published in a series of articles appearing in Scribners Magazine, and one of these tells how the highest peak in the area came to be named Mount Washburn. Unfortunately, Washburn himself survived the rigorous expedition in the rugged wilderness by only a few months. However, his sacrifice bore fruit in that two years after his death in 1870, his dream that this area should be set aside as public land for all to enjoy came true when President Grant officially named Yellowstone our first national Park in 1872.

One other human interest postscript: General Washburn's widow and daughter opened a boarding house in Greencastle for Indiana Asbury students. Although its exact location is not known, there is a strong suspicion that it was the house on the corner of Bloomington and Washington now the home of Mace Aker and his family. It is known that a wedding took place in the boarding house, in 1878, between the general's daughter, Lelia Laura Washburn, and John Brewer DeMotte, then professor of natural philosophy at Indiana Asbury.

Women's Club Plans Trip To Conner Prairie

Members of DePauw Woman's Club will be making a trip to Conner Prairie Saturday, Dec. 8. This will be an especially beautiful time to visit Indiana's historical pioneer settlement since it will be decorated for a traditional Christmas.

A chartered bus will leave the Student Union Building at 8:30 a.m., and after the Conner Prairie tour a stop will be made for lunch and shopping, with arrival back in Greencastle about 4 p.m.

This should be a wonderful way to get in the spirit of the Christmas season, so members should make their reservation now (Dec. 1 is the deadline for reservations) by calling Mrs. William Marley at 653-6178.

Indiana remained a part of the Northwest Territory until 1800 when the territory was divided into sections. Vincennes became the capital of the new Indiana Territory with William Henry Harrison as its first governor. The whole of this area was also claimed by the Miami nation who permitted small portions of land to be occupied by Kickapoo, Potawatomie, Shawnee and Delaware. Among early traders in this area were William and John Conner who established early trade routes through Indiana territory to the Ohio River.

In 1809 as a result of the treaty of Fort Wayne, millions of acres of land in eastern and southern Indiana were opened for settlement, and into this land came scores of early settlers; overland by covered wagon, or the waterways by flatboat or pirogue.

Shelters for the pioneers were usually of log with greased paper serving as windows, and doors made heavy, with a latchstring to be pulled inside in case of attack. The furniture was homemade and crude. Wool and flax was prepared and spun and woven, cut into garments and sewn by hand. The life and times of these early Indiana inhabitants are preserved at Conner Prairie.

Dear Abby

Unsanitary kitchen has her leery of cooked gifts

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: How does one discourage someone [a relative] from sending cookies, cakes, homemade preserves, and other goodies on any and all occasions? [Especially Thanksgiving and Christmas.]

This person is a dear and generous soul, but her kitchen is far from clean, she has a houseful of small dogs running around, and her place smells like a kennel.

I know she spends a lot of time and energy [not to mention the cost of the ingredients] on these things, and we just throw them out. I suppose it wouldn't kill us to eat these gifts, but I get a mental picture of that filthy kitchen, and all those dogs licking the cookie dough off her fingers, and that does it. Any suggestions?

WEAK STOMACH IN W. VA.

DEAR WEAK: You could tell her you're counting your calories [isn't everybody?] and to please help you resist temptation by ceasing and desisting.

DEAR ABBY: We are the parents of six adult children. When our youngest was a senior in college we moved to a retirement community, hoping to make a new life for ourselves. Our two youngest moved in with us—temporarily, they said. That was two years ago, and they are still with us.

We couldn't afford a very large place, so we are very crowded. Not only that, but we still don't have the leisure life I had looked forward to.

Abby, how do you tell two grown children to get out on their own? I would like to set a specific date—like next Monday.

My husband doesn't have the courage to tell the boys to leave, but he feels the same as I. What's the answer? How do other parents handle this delicate situation?

Perhaps I should mention these boys are nonpaying guests.

GOOD OLD MOM

DEAR MOM: Say, "John and Jim" [unless, of course, their names are Bob and Tom], "it's time you left the nest, so spread your wings and take off."

DEAR ABBY: I read a letter in your column from "FRIGHTENED," who was upset because the oil man she invited in for coffee made a pass at her. You told her most men whose jobs took them into homes were straight, and didn't try that. Well, I used to think so, too, but not anymore.

When we were living in town I let a guy who was working on the house next door come in because he asked me for a glass of water. Well, the baby started crying and when I went into his room to check on him, this bum followed me and tried to get funny, but I got away from him. I called up the company he worked for and reported him.

Later we bought a mobile home and once when my husband was out of town I had sewage trouble so I asked the man we rented the space from if he would fix it. Well, he fixed it, and then tried to fix me, too, and I had another battle on my hands.

I am 24 and happily married, and I'd like to know why these creeps always pick on me? Or are all men sex maniacs?

LEARNED A LESSON

DEAR LEARNED: Don't judge all men by the two creeps who gave you a bad time. The lesson you learned, however, is one that all women should learn: Take no chances with strangers!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SO IN LOVE IN GAINESVILLE": Whether he is married or not is beside the point. He SAID he was, which means he wants to end the romantic involvement with you.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Connally Denies Knowledge Of Political Deal

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, the focus of a Senate Watergate committee probe into a controversial milk producers' campaign fund, denies he was aware of any political deal when he recommended that President Nixon increase milk price supports.

The former Texas governor was interrogated by committee lawyers for 2½ hours Thursday evening and told a news conference afterward that dairy industry representatives contacted him about raising price supports in 1971.

His position coincided with theirs, Connally said, but added, "I had no knowledge of political commitments or contributions to the President's re-election campaign." Connally later headed Democrats for Nixon and switched his political affiliation from Democratic to Republican earlier this year.

In December 1971, an attorney for the Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI), wrote Nixon that the Texas-based dairy cooperative was making arrangements to contribute $2 million to the re-election campaign and asked for quick action on cutting imports of ice cream and other dairy products.

The request was granted 15 days later, but three months later, on March 12, 1971, Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin rejected a proposal for a substantial increase in the government support price for milk.

On March 22, the first $10,000 installment of some $427,500 in secret contributions from the dairy industry began flowing into Nixon campaign coffers, and the next day Nixon met with Connally, Hardin, economic adviser George P. Shultz and 16 dairy industry representatives.

On March 25, Hardin reversed his decision and granted a price support increase estimated by the industry to be worth at least $500 million to the nation's dairymen.

Connally said that Jake Jacobsen, an AMPI lawyer, telephoned him prior to the March 12 announcement and asked him to acquaint himself with the subject.

"I told him I knew something about it already, and I agreed that 80 per cent of parity (the Hardin position) was too low," Connally said. The former Cabinet officer added that he conveyed his views to Hardin, Shultz and White House staff members.

Connally did say, however, that Jacobsen told him sometime in 1971 that $10,000 was available for contributions and that Connally was welcome to designate where the funds should go.

"I said I did not want to do so because I was a Democrat in a Republican administration," the former Treasury secretary said.

There have been allegations, apparently from sources associated with AMPI at the time, that Connally received $10,000 or $15,000 for his role in gaining the price support increase.

Connally called that charge "a categorical lie. . . Anyone that supposes he was present when I received a payment is a categorical liar."

Investigators say they have evidence there was such a sum in a bank safe-deposit box and that Connally may have been offered use of it. But Connally insists he never accepted any such offer, and available evidence tends to support that, the sources said.

However, the same sources said the Texas attorney is now at the center of the committee's milk-fund probe and likely will be called as a witness after public hearings resume on Nov. 27.

Officials from three more corporations that gave illegally to the Nixon campaign testified at the public session Thursday. The witnesses represented Braniff Airways, American Airlines and Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

Testimony during the week indicated that top Nixon fundraisers Herbert W. Kalmbach, Maurice H. Stans and Lee Nunn followed a general pattern in soliciting corporate executives for large contributions.

The executives said they were asked to meet a specific quota, usually $100,000, and to make their contributions before the federal campaign-financing disclosure law went into effect on April 7, 1972.

House Fight Expected Over Welfare Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House fight is expected over a key part of a plan to speed up welfare benefit boosts next year under a new federal program covering several million aged, blind and disabled Americans.

Controversy centers on a provision that backers say is needed to help the poor, although opponents claim it would encourage states with the highest benefit levels to hike their own welfare standards at federal expense.

The welfare matter is part of a bill that also would give a two-step, 11 per cent increase in Social Security benefits next year, accompanied by increased payroll deductions to pay for them.

The House was scheduled to debate the Social Security and welfare issues Friday with voting set for Thursday.

The legislation would alter the new supplemental security income program.

Starting Jan. 1, under present law, this federally administered program will take over most of the responsibility for the former system of federal-state aid to the elderly, blind and permanently and totally disabled. The federal government will bear full administrative costs. States would have an option of letting federal officials administer any state supplemental payments.

The law calls for monthly benefits of $130 a person and $195 a couple from January to June 1974, rising in July to $140 and $210. But the House Ways and Means Committee has voted to make this $10 and $15 increase start in January instead of July, and then to hike these amounts to a total of $146 and $219 in July.

However, Rep. Martha W. Griffiths, D-Mich., a member of the committee, complained the action "would allow some states to increase their supplements . . . and have these increases paid for by the federal government. This gets us back into the business of directly financing variable state payments."

This would let California raise its payment for an aged couple from $394 to $409 a month; let Massachusetts go from $340 to $355; Wisconsin from $329 to $344; and New York from $294 to $309, she said, with most of the boost financed by the federal government.

"At the same time that we will be paying for $409 benefits in California couples in some other states will be getting only the basic supplemental security income benefit of $210 monthly. These differences are not justifiable on the basis of different cost of living," she said.

Rationing Possible Says Former Head

WASHINGTON (AP)—The man who ran World War II rationing programs says gasoline rationing will be necessary again if the shortage approaches 20 per cent of demand.

Chester Bowles, head of the Office of Price Administration during the war, said he prefers rationing and opposes a stiff gasoline tax to dampen demand. A tax "would just soak the little guy," he said.

Bowles, now in retirement at his home in Essex, Conn., said the nation might be able to get by without rationing if the shortage is 10 per cent of demand.

The first thing the government will have to watch for in a rationing program is the black market, he said, noting that it almost wrecked the World War II program.

Bowles, also former ambassador to India and Democratic governor of his state, said in a telephone interview that at one point during the World War II program about 15 per cent of the ration coupons were bogus.

He said the Secret Service finally solved the problem by using infrared lights to check for counterfeit coupons.

Asked how the public would react to gasoline rationing now, he said:

"First, they'd think it was great. Then they'd be annoyed. Then they'd get all those stories about cheating. They'd feel they weren't getting their full share."

During the war, he said, the reaction "wasn't too bad, really. But the public is in such a state of confusion now, irritation, anger with the government. You'd probably get more heat than normal."

If the reaction got too bad, the program might break down, he said. But he added: "I don't think it would. People mostly want to do the right thing. But they don't want to be suckered, either."

Bowles, now 72, says the government should keep close tabs on how much gasoline and fuel oil the companies produce from crude oil supplies to guard against a critical shortage of heating oil.

"You've got to be sure you're getting enough fuel oil because gasoline is more profitable to produce," he said.

He suggested that the government's system of allocating wholesale supplies of fuel would have to take care of this problem.

Bowles said he favored set-

Steel Industry Says Oil Cuts Slash Production

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The steel industry contends that any cut in its oil supplies will slash the steel production needed to relieve the energy crisis and cost thousands of jobs.

Steel must have top priority in fuel oil allocations to maintain its current consumption rate, Stewart S. Cort, Bethlehem Steel Corp.'s board chairman, said Thursday.

He appeared at a news conference before an American Iron and Steel Institute meeting. Cort also is the institute's board chairman.

If a cutback to 1972 oil use were ordered, steel production would drop by 12 million tons next year and 60,000 steelworkers would lose their jobs, Cort predicted.

He said a 15 per cent oil supply cut would cost 30,000 steel-making jobs and 6.8 million tons of steel.

"One of the ironies of our current dilemma is that a cut in steel production because of fuel oil controls would only further irritate the energy crisis itself," Cort said.

Ford Denies Offer To Help Swindler

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford has denied that he offered to help convicted stock swindler Louis Wolfson.

The question was raised Thursday by Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., at House Judiciary Committee hearings on the Ford nomination. The hearings resume today.

Ford testified that a lawyer working for him and two other congressmen offered on his own to help Wolfson with his legal problems if he would help their effort to impeach Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

"We never offered any such action," Ford said.

Waldie produced correspondence from Ford's files in which the lawyer, Benton L. Becker, told Wolfson's lawyer that Ford might be of use to his client if Wolfson cooperated in the Douglas investigation.

"The inference is that Becker offered the influence of the congressmen he represented," Waldie told newsmen outside the hearing room.

In a Sept. 3, 1970, letter, Becker told Wolfson's lawyer, William O. Bittman, that Ford and the other two congressmen were looking into Douglas's dealings with Albert Parvin. Becker said it was believed that a conversation with Wolfson "could shed light upon the inner workings of the Parvin Dohrman Co."

Becker concluded the letter by saying, "I am personally sympathetic to your client's present plight and would be anxious to assist him in any way available to me."

A letter from Bittman to Wolfson said that, if he cooperated in the Douglas inquiry, "the congressmen he (Becker) represented probably could be of some assistance to you in connection with your second case."

Wolfson, a millionaire financier, was convicted in 1967 of selling unregistered stock and in 1968 of obstruction of justice.

Ford told the committee that it was clear from Becker's letter that he was making the offer of help for Wolfson on his own and that that offer "became enlarged in Bittman's mind."

Becker, who was present at the hearing, substantiated Ford's view. Waldie said both Becker and Bittman will be called to testify at Ford's confirmation hearings later.

Ford provided the committee an audit of his income taxes for the years 1966 to 1972. The audit was conducted by the Internal Revenue Service as part of the investigation of Ford's qualifications to be vice president.

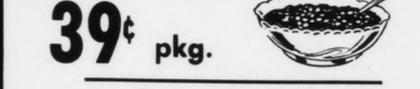

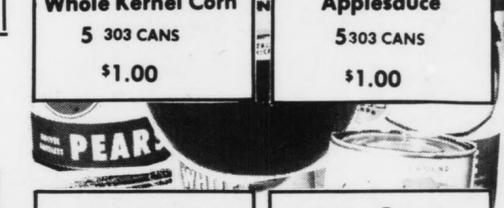

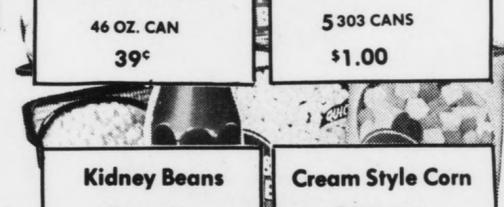

The audit showed Ford's gross income for the seven-year period totaled $454,667, on which he paid total federal income taxes of $150,250.

Meanwhile, the Senate Rules Committee agreed to vote Tuesday on the Ford nomination, raising the possibility he might be confirmed by the Senate next week.

Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., said he is prepared to vote for Ford and predicted the committee will approve the nomination.

South Putnam Stomps North Salem 92-57

Showing speed and skillful shooting ability, the South Putnam Eagles in their opening game Saturday night scored an impressive 92-57 point victory over visiting Blue Devils of North Salem.

Nine out of ten South Putnam Eagles broke into the scoring column with senior duo Craig Sibbitt and Daryl Mayo earning scoring honors of twenty points each. Sibbitt tied the game 2-2 only fifty seconds into the contest, while Mark Cowger assured the Eagles' lead just after Sibbitt's basket by scoring another. From this point lead the Eagles were out in front with a 15 point lead as the first stanza ended, 26-11.

Five South Putnam Eagles tallied fielders to build the quick half-time lead. Mayo, Sibbitt, Cowger, Jeff Burdge and Greg Hammond, all scored in double figures. As the half-time came to a close South Putnam had held North Salem to no fieldgoals, all of the Blue Devil's points came at the charity stripe.

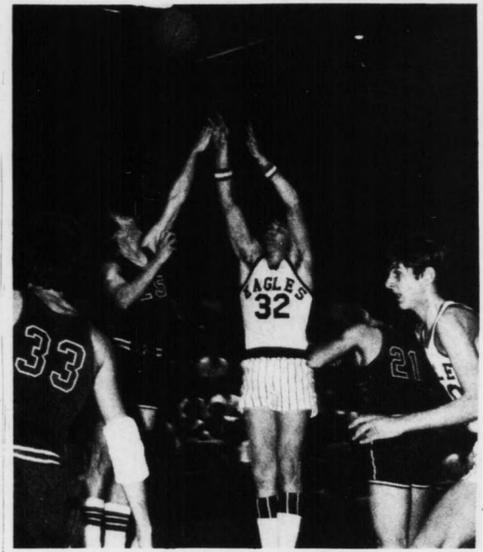

The Blue Devils were never able to effectually diminish the Eagles lead having no way of countering South Putnam quick passing. The Eagles missed only three out of fifteen freethrow attempts for the game.

Beginning the second quarter the Eagles continued their runaway lead with a half-time lead of 21 points, 44-23. During the first-half North Salem used a pressing defense, but the Eagles excellent freethrow shooting and speed maintained their wide scoring margin. North Salem was able to pull within 17 points early in the final period to lessen the Eagles considerable lead. Brent Owen, and Ken Ratliff led the Blue Devils attack scoring and 15 points respectively.

In the third period, the Eagles continued to steadily pull away from the Blue Devils, building their lead to a 28 point buldge, 36-64, as South Putnam scored another fieldgoal with 15 seconds left.

The final stanza saw the Eagles go ahead with a 27 point lead, easily achieving victory.

The Eagles next game will be Tuesday night, November 20 at 8 p.m., when they host Staunton.

South Putnam's high scoring duo Saturday night was Craig Sibbitt, 32 and Daryl Mayo 20, who collected 20 points apiece and propelled their Eagles to a 92-57 pasting of North Salem's Blue Devils on the Eagles home floor. Both Mayo and Sibbitt ripped the nets with outside shooting and quick layups as the strong Eagles defense forced errors and set-up the fast break.

DePauw Set For Unveiling Tonight

The biggest and potentially one of the best basketball teams Elmer McCall has had at DePauw University will have its unveiling Monday at 7:30 p.m. in Bowman Gymnasium.

No admission will be charged for the annual Varsity-Freshman tilt that may give Tiger basketball fans a clue to what is ahead in 1973-74.

McCall lost only one starter from last year's first 10 men and has eight players back who started at one time or another during last season's 8-18 campaign.

Trouble is, McCall is having difficulty deciding who'll get the nod Monday or even Dec. 1 when DePauw opens here against Centre College.

He has returning front line starters Orrin Bargerhuff (6-7, 225), Steve McCabe (6-5, 170), Kyle Fort (6-5, 200), and 6-1, 180 Tracy Ellis, recuperating from knee surgery, to pick from. He has also gained 6-9, 200-pound Dave Pluto and 6-6, 205-pound Bob Allen. Both are junior college transfers from San Jose (Calif.) City College.

Moving up from last year's outstanding JV team, there's 6-4 Dan Saver, 185 pounds, and 6-6, 190 Joe Jessup who saw a lot of varsity action. McCall also has letterman Dave Buckingham, a 6-1, 200-pounder who goes well at forward or guard.

At least five guards are in the battle for starting spots including Joe LeFevre and John Chin, who held the posts last year. LeFevre, gaining strength after having his spleen removed this summer, is 6-3. Chin is 5-11.

Mark Enkes, an off and on starter last year, is back at 6-0. McCall picks up the two starting guards on that 9-4 JV team too. They are 6-3 Neil Dekker and 6-1 Tom Netzel.

"Usually by this time we've had a tentative starting five," McCall said, but for the first time in years it hasn't been that way this fall. We have a lot of people scrambling for starting spots and we have more depth than I can ever remember at DePauw."

Tentative starters for the frosh team will be Mike Sellers and Ed Hackney at forwards. They were outstanding performers on Madison (Ind.) and Quincy (Ill.) prep teams that rated in the top five of their respect states last year.

Rick Huser, a strong 6-7 performer from Fort Wayne Snider, will go at center, and Mike Bevis, a 6-2, 175-pounder from Mt. Vernon, Ill., will start at one guard. Sophomore Ron Hinkel from Lafayette, Ind., will go opposite Bevis.

TURKEY ROASTING TIPS

Turkey roasting times have changed somewhat over the years. Older roasting charts dealt with birds that took longer to mature, therefore, they were less tender. Shorter roasting time reflects improvements in poultry raising and tastier, prettier birds. Unstuffed poultry may require slightly less than the quoted times. The following timetable is based on chilled or completely thawed turkeys. (See last week's instructions on thawing & testing for doneness) Plan on serving each person 1/2 to 1 lb. per person. For pre-frozen, frozen turkeys, follow package directions carefully, do not use this timetable.

TURKEY ROASTING CHART

READY TO COOK WEIGHT	APPROX. ROASTING TIME AT 325° OVEN
8 to 10 lbs.	3 to 3 1/2 hrs.
10 to 12 lbs.	3 1/2 to 4 hrs.
12 to 14 lbs.	4 to 4 1/2 hrs.
14 to 16 lbs.	4 1/2 to 5 hrs.
16 to 18 lbs.	5 to 5 1/2 hrs.
18 to 20 lbs.	5 1/2 to 6 hrs.
20 to 24 lbs.	6 to 7 hrs.

I would appreciate hearing any suggestions or comments you might have.

The WEEDERS GUIDE

By EARL ARONSON AP Newsfeatures

The price of lawn seed is going up just as is that of many things, but the main reason is the weather, rather than labor, fuel and equipment - which, however, are factors.

While the East was having an overabundance of rain, the Northwest was having severe drought just when bluegrass, fescue and perennial ryegrass fields were maturing. Dr. Robert W. Schery of the Lawn Institute describes the Northwest as the nation's lawnseed "breadbasket."

On some drylands, fields were a complete loss; elsewhere yields were reduced. Together these spell shortages and higher prices.

On the plus side, the bad weather intensified a yield trend already under way. Tailored lawngrass varieties bred for disease tolerance, attractiveness, low growth and density, are becoming increasingly popular.

Another problem is the anti-pollution measures. In years past seed fields were burned annually after harvest. This was an inexpensive means of pest control. With restrictions on smoke, growers now must utilize more expensive, less adequate means of cleaning up.

Despite these woes, a penny still buys more than 5,000 seeds in a typical lawn mixture. Even if only half of these sprout, potential exists for covering a square yard with fine turf for one cent.

Autumn is considered the best time of year to seed cool season lawngrasses, the Kentucky blue grasses, fine fescues, bentgrasses and perennial ryegrasses.

Before seeding, cultivate and mix fertilizer generously into the seedbed, about 10-20 pounds of general fertilizer per 1,000 square feet. Use a mechanical spreader for neat, even distribution of seed and later pesticides and maintenance feeding.

Use a surface mulch to prevent drying and be sure to water regularly to keep the sprouting area moist.

To help rehabilitate a lawn, scuff the surface ahead and overseed. There are power thinners or scarifiers that make this chore easier. Killing unwanted vegetation before seeding abets survival of new grass. Water regularly, just as with new lawns.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, Ph.D., M.D.

Elsie (with her Ph.D.) attacks this column. Yet her editor shows that she must be an avid reader of it. But do you believe her when she defends the use of "Ms." by saying any unmarried girls have CHOSEN to be that way? Elsie is naive!

CASE Y-573: Elsie (with a Ph.D.) tried to intimidate her editor.

"Dr. Crane," he smilingly began, "she must still be one of your most avid readers!"

"For look at this letter which she mailed me and you'll see how she keeps up with every column you write."

Then he handed me the typewritten letter, which included these caustic remarks: "Why do you publish his 'Worry Clinic' column daily?"

"Dr. Crane isn't a scholar and he is opinionated, dogmatic and seriously outdated."

"For he has an obsession against the use of 'Ms.' instead of 'Miss' or 'Mrs.'"

"And he seems to think it is 'soured spinsters' who demand the use of 'Ms.' instead of 'Miss.'"

"Doesn't he realize that any girl who isn't married, almost without exception, has CHOSEN to be so?"

"And I shall refrain from his continued obsession with the boudoir!"

"I wonder how he ever managed to get his Ph.D. degree."

"As holder of a Ph.D. myself, I deplore his oversimplification of serious psychological problems!"

PH.D. OR H.S.

Although I obtained my Ph.D. from work at Yale and Northwestern University (and also hold the M.D.) the most important degree anybody can obtain is the H.S. (Horse Sense).

Many of you readers never went to college, yet you have far more gumption (Horse Sense) than a lot of Ph.D. professors.

Plus the impractical legislators, who foist so many nuisance laws and "red tape" forms for Americans to fill out that we are wasting billions of hours looking backwards, instead of planning new business ventures and inventions to keep ahead of Russia.

Need I remind you of the costly alteration of automobile engines to reduce air pollution? Yet cars now are reduced almost 50 percent in gasoline mileage!

Which means this concoction of "drawing board dreamers" has now contaminated the air with almost 50 percent more exhaust fumes.

And is burning out motors by retarding the spark and thus overheating the engine.

Farmers, merchants, professional men and others who formerly were creating our superior brand of living, are now being forced into being unpaid bookkeepers of their past year's records.

Checkout girls and cashiers must also waste valuable time at supermarkets, separating the retail sale tax items vs. the non-tax merchandise.

Many of my fellow psychologists on cloistered campuses and in their ivory towers, resent my stripping away their 5-syllable verbiage from basic human problems, which I explain in 2-syllables.

For then you laymen can solve your own dilemmas without paying high fees for polysyllabic diagnoses that your grandmothers could have made in 10 seconds!

And how many of you readers actually believe that "any girl who isn't married, has CHOSEN to be so?"

The essence of all science is simplicity, yet many pseudo-scientists try to pat themselves on the back by evolving polysyllabic diagnoses for simple problems.

Send for my "Test for Good Teachers," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and rate your faculty on this 50-point quiz.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

A Superpower Reacts To The Growing Energy Crisis

Some Believe, Some Don't

Many Americans see the energy crisis as a real threat and say they are cutting back their energy usage as President Nixon has asked. Others say they don't believe the crisis is as bad as it's portrayed.

"We turned the thermostat down to 69 after President Nixon made his announcement," says Mrs. Stanley Korosec of Cleveland in a typical reply. "It's uncomfortable, but we dress for it. We wear sweaters and put more blankets on the bed."

A random survey shows the most mentioned methods by individuals for cutting back on energy consumption are: driving an efficient 50 m.p.h., lowering the thermostat to about 68 degrees and turning off unnecessary lights.

"We're freezing," says Mrs. William Fridley of Seattle. "We used to keep the thermostat at 75 to 78 degrees. It's turned down to below 70."

She says her family has decided against buying a second car and her husband is talking about joining a car pool.

"I refuse to buy any more ridiculous appliances like electric knives and can openers. We've got just too many conveniences."

But there are some doubters, people who question the depth of the crisis or pooh-pooh it altogether.

Howard V. McCann Sr. of Middleton, Pa. says he hasn't done anything special about Nixon's call. He says he has always been pretty conservative about his use of power anyhow. He says cutting the speed to a maximum of 50 on Pennsylvania roads wouldn't bother him.

"But I actually don't see any reason for it," the skilled mechanic says. "About this fuel shortage, I'm not sure whether to believe them or not. I can't see where it's at right now."

New York City real estate consultant Michael Levine blames the whole thing on political favoritism:

"I won't comply with the President's request. It's just a tactic by Nixon's friends in the oil business to justify a 100 per cent rise in gasoline prices. We've had the wheat deal, the milk deal — this will be the gas deal."

But Arthur Wildhagen of Champaign, Ill., is quite sure there's a crisis. "No gas station is giving me glasses or stadium blankets or God know what this fall" to get his business.

Wildhagen plans to cover the insides of all his windows which don't have storm sashes and to seal all windows with caulking cord.

Ken Patterson, a San Diego businessman, has tried driving on those famous California freeways at 50 m.p.h. "Let me tell you it's tough, with people yelling at you and blowing their horns.

"I'll keep trying, though," Mrs. Ikebalur Chowdhury, of Jefferson City, Mo., says maintaining a 50 m.p.h. average is easy.

"We've always done that," she says. "My husband always drives at 50. I think he's counted three people he has passed on the highway in his life."

GM Urges Elimination Of Emission Controls

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors is urging adoption of a plan to save gasoline by taking emission controls off about 40 million late-model cars. It claims savings could amount to five billion gallons a year.

The savings could be more than three times greater than that in 10 years if proposed federal emissions standards were relaxed, General Motors President Edward N. Cole said in an interview Wednesday.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is weighing taxes on fuel use against rationing as the best way to reduce energy consumption. Officials hope there still is a choice.

The White House said Wednesday the view that gasoline rationing would be only a last resort was shared by President Nixon and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, who has favored a high gasoline surcharge to discourage unnecessary consumption.

But Nixon's top energy adviser, John A. Love, and Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton have predicted that rationing would be necessary by early next year.

Love has said both rationing and fuel taxes may be needed.

In an effort to resolve this question, an energy task force headed by the Office of Management and Budget has made recommendations on fuel taxes its first order of business.

A key administration official who declined to be identified told a newsman Wednesday the task force planned to submit its tax recommendations "within a week."

He said the President "would like us to avoid a rationing system if we could, but most of the senior advisers agree there should be a rationing plan."

The situation holds the potential for a power struggle between Morton's Interior Department, which presumably would manage rationing, and Shultz's Treasury Department, which presumably would administer tax programs.

The administration official said fuel tax proposals could include not only a stiff tax on gasoline usage, but also surcharges on consumption of electricity and natural gas.

Within two or three weeks, he said, recommendations are expected from the task force on the need to ration home heating oil and the need to extend wholesale fuel allocation — now applied to home heating oil, diesel and jet fuel and kerosene — to gasoline and other petroleum products.

In about a month, he said, the task force should produce recommendations on gasoline rationing.

The task force target of sending gasoline rationing options to the White House about one month from now, coupled with Love's estimate that it would take about 60 days to set up the system, appeared to rule out gasoline rationing much before mid-February.

As soon as possible, the task force is also to make recommendations on allocating residual oil among power plants, requiring some power plants to burn coal, cutting airline jet fuel consumption, and imposing mandatory fuel-saving measures.

The task force also is studying the economic impacts of the energy crisis.

Although gasoline rationing received the most public attention, home heating oil was the most immediate problem with winter fast approaching, the official said.

He said the rationing of home heating oil could be started quickly, relying on dealers to limit deliveries to their customers instead of a complicated ration-coupon system.

Crisis

Hits Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — Slowly but surely, the energy crisis is touching on the effectiveness of American military forces at home and around the world.

Inside the Pentagon, the largest single user of petroleum, military officers and civilian bureaucrats are keeping their jackets and suits coats on. The temperature has been dropped from about 75 to below 70 degrees.

On the high seas, Navy ships are steaming at slower speeds, 16 instead of 20 knots. Air Force flying time, for both training and operations, has been reduced, and the use of cockpit mechanical simulators is being increased.

At least three countries troubled by U.S. support of Israel have put the Navy on notice that U.S. ships may no longer refuel in their ports.

However, Defense Department planners have announced no really dramatic plans to reduce the military's consumption of energy.

Officials emphasize the Pentagon accounts for only 2.5 per cent of total U.S. energy consumption, including 3 per cent of oil consumed in the United States.

Deputy Defense Secretary William P. Clements Jr. has ordered a 6 per cent reduction in consumption, meaning a lessening of some Air Force flights and training operations among all the services.

His statement came as plans for gasoline surtaxes or rationing continued to be discussed in Washington.

"We've got some people in Washington who are acquainting people on the Public Works Committee with this proposition," Cole said. "It's being put into perspective."

The five billion gallons is seven per cent of the 69.2 billion gallons of gasoline used in U.S. passenger cars in 1971, the last

Hydroplanes

Part Of Answer

CINCINNATI Ohio (AP) — America's hydroplanes, those streamlined water-spouting machines that skim along at blurring speeds, apparently won't contribute to the nation's energy crisis.

The chairman of the Unlimited Racing Commission, George "Buddy" Byers, told the more than 200 delegates to the 70th annual American Powerboat Association Wednesday that "our big hydroplanes will be a part of the answer to the energy problem."

Byers said the dwindling supply of fuel could be overcome by converting gasoline-using vehicles to methanol or synthetic additives, such as are sometimes used in hydroplanes.

The White House said Wednesday the view that gasoline rationing would be only a last resort was shared by President Nixon and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, who has favored a high gasoline surcharge to discourage unnecessary consumption.

But Nixon's top energy adviser, John A. Love, and Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton have predicted that rationing would be necessary by early next year.

Love has said both rationing and fuel taxes may be needed.

In an effort to resolve this question, an energy task force headed by the Office of Management and Budget has made recommendations on fuel taxes its first order of business.

A key administration official who declined to be identified told a newsman Wednesday the task force planned to submit its tax recommendations "within a week."

He said the President "would like us to avoid a rationing system if we could, but most of the senior advisers agree there should be a rationing plan."

The situation holds the potential for a power struggle between Morton's Interior Department, which presumably would manage rationing, and Shultz's Treasury Department, which presumably would administer tax programs.

The administration official said fuel tax proposals could include not only a stiff tax on gasoline usage, but also surcharges on consumption of electricity and natural gas.

Within two or three weeks, he said, recommendations are expected from the task force on the need to ration home heating oil and the need to extend wholesale fuel allocation — now applied to home heating oil, diesel and jet fuel and kerosene — to gasoline and other petroleum products.

In about a month, he said, the task force should produce recommendations on gasoline rationing.

The task force target of sending gasoline rationing options to the White House about one month from now, coupled with Love's estimate that it would take about 60 days to set up the system, appeared to rule out gasoline rationing much before mid-February.

As soon as possible, the task force is also to make recommendations on allocating residual oil among power plants, requiring some power plants to burn coal, cutting airline jet fuel consumption, and imposing mandatory fuel-saving measures.

The task force also is studying the economic impacts of the energy crisis.

Hydroplanes

Part Of Answer

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — America's hydroplanes, those streamlined water-spouting machines that skim along at blurring speeds, apparently won't contribute to the nation's energy crisis.

The chairman of the Unlimited Racing Commission, George "Buddy" Byers, told the more than 200 delegates to the 70th annual American Powerboat Association Wednesday that "our big hydroplanes will be a part of the answer to the energy problem."

Byers said the dwindling supply of fuel could be overcome by converting gasoline-using vehicles to methanol or synthetic additives, such as are sometimes used in hydroplanes.
