A. M. HIGGINS, of Terre Haute, was unanimously elected president of the Lincoln League yesterday at Indianapolis. He has made a good officer and will continue to serve his party well.

SOME of the sidewalks in this city are a disgrace to the name of walk. Many of them are below the level of the street and are more like gutters. Some of them were built on contract and others by private parties. The attention of the city authorities has been called to the matter and they promise, just as soon as the weather permits a general shaking up all along the line. That is as it should be.

At the present rate of income and outgo, it will not be very many months before the incoming administration will be forced to face another deficit, unless a new tariff law is quickly passed. Therefore, the promptitude of the present ways and means committee in getting together facts for the use of the committee of the next congress—which will not be so very different from the present committee, in order that the new tariff law may be passed as quickly as possible, is as welcome to those who will have charge of the national finances as it is to the people in general. We can ask nothing better than that congress will show the same promptitude.

A HORRID sea serpent, four inches long, swam gracefully out of a water hydrant in a Chicago restaurant and this inspires the Chicago Tribune to add a word of caution to the people of that city who are using city water, explaining that a

A BOLD TRICK.

Exciting Chase after a Horse Thief all Last Night.

The man who took Wm. Dills' horse and buggy Friday afternoon from the public hitching rack, possessed a variety of nerve not often shown in this day. Dills had hitched his horse to the rack and shortly afterwards the stranger got in and drove off. He by chance, perhaps, took the Rockville road to the northwest and the rig was recognized by some of Mr. Dills' neighbors. They reported the matter in town as soon as reaching here and the theft of the horse being by that time discovered chase was at once given. Sheriff Buntin and Thos. Darnall went in one rig and later Willis Wood and Mr. Dills in another. The chase was kept up all night and at seven o'clock this morning two of the pursuers had returned.

Thursday night a young man giving a name that might be Wells, Weller, Welker, or something similar registered at the Commercial from Bedford. He had a bottle and made himself friendly to several people. He answered the description given of the man seen with the team, but it was not known certain that he was the one. A stranger by the name of Rayton inquired for mail at the post office yesterday, who answered the same description. Messrs. Dills and Darnall returned last night without having seen the man. They found traces of him where he had inquired about certain roads. Messrs. Buntin and Woods went on and spent the night searching.

Jackson and Walling.

The Cincinnati Post says: It is not believed that the Governor will hesitate to issue a mandate fixing the time of execution of Jackson and Walling as soon as he shall have received official notice of the court's action, although he is allowed by law 30 days in which to decide the matter. At the executive office the officials have refused to make public the petitions asking for clemency in the Jackson and Walling cases. It is learned on the outside, however, that attorneys in both cases have asked a hearing before Governor Bradley. This is again the recently established rule that "no personal interviews for pardons will be allowed."

Private Secretary Roberts said he could not say anything about the matter, but did not believe the rule would be set aside in these cases. It is also known that the petitions asking executive clemency are very voluminous. The fact that Governor Bradley has already expressed a desire to have the cases off his hands strengthens the belief that they will not rest long with him.

Mothers

Anxiously watch declining health of their daughters. So many are cut off by consumption in early years that there is real cause for anxiety. In the early stages, when not beyond the reach of medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla will restore the quality and quantity of the blood and thus give good health. Read the following letter: "It is but just to write about my daughter Cora, aged 19. She was completely run down, declining, had that tired feeling, and friends said she would not live over three months. She had a bad and nothing seemed to do her any good. I happened to read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and had her give it a trial. From the very first dose she began to get better. After taking a few bottles she was completely cured and her health has been the best ever since." Mrs. ADDIE PECK, 12 Railroad Place, Amsterdam, N. Y. "I will say that my mother has not stated my case in as strong words as I would have done. Hood's Sarsaparilla has truly cared me and I am now well." CORA PECK, Amsterdam, N. Y. says: The rumor is again revived here that Col. Crawford will ask for a writ of error to take Jackson's case to the United States Supreme court, and it is likely Col. Washington would do the same for Walling. Col. Washington touched at length on the point of Kentucky jurisdiction and this will form the basis of the attempt at a further appeal. The officials here are not agreed as to whether a right of appeal to the United States Supreme court exists in this case, many holding that the decision in this court is absolute and final.

Cough

Why Iowa Farmers Prosper.

"If the farmers of Iowa are paying off their mortgages and putting money in bank it is not because of the profits made in growing corn and wheat and oats," said Mr. J. B. Newton of the Hawkeye state recently. "Their improved lot within the last decade is due to the fact that they have been subordinating the production of the cereals to the dairy. The Iowa cow has proved of far more benefit as a revenue raiser than 10 cent corn, and the creamery has become firmly established as one of the institutions of the land."

"In the county of Jones the farmers have in bank deposits over $3,000,000, according to the latest report of our State Dairy Commissioner. Here is an object lesson to the agriculturalists all over the Union, for it goes to show that by proper management and attention to the right things farmers can become lenders of money instead of borrowers."

The exchanges are full of the daring deeds of Charley Roberts who was the terror of these states and whose death was mentioned yesterday. The Terre Haute Tribune says of him in part: About the first job of importance he did was the shooting of a man named Carrico at Montezuma. For this he was arrested by Col. Dan Fasig and Detective Dwyer and did a jail sentence at Rockville. He and one Buckford were suspected of the murder of a man named Murphy at Jackville, shortly afterwards, but after being arrested Roberts broke jail at Rockville on March 3, (inauguration day) 1881. The Terre Haute authorities located him, a few days later, in a house near Clinton Locks and went up on the train to get him. A great crowd of farmers and villagers, who had also gotten wind of the affair, armed themselves and the house surrounded before the authorities arrived. Roberts was waiting for night before making a break for the woods, but the arrival of the train precipitated action, and he burst forth like a demon, firing right and left, ran the gauntlet of the bullets and shot, and although wounded, succeeded in making his escape. He was traced to a barn near Nama, where he stole a horse and got out of the country.

Harper's Weekly for February 20th will contain an important analytical and statistical inquiry into the result of the presidential election, illustrated with maps and diagrams, by Thomas Campbell Copeland. There will be an article on the proposed Zoological Garden in Bronx Park, New York. The double page picture of the number will be a drawing by W. H. McVickar, of the Bradley-Martin fancy-dress ball.

John G. Williams, formerly general solicitor, and then general commander of the Vandalia lines, has the reports of the road for eighteen years in one volume. The remarks of President McKean from year to year, which are also included, make interesting reading, as those were the years of prosperity with the company. The bad luck seems to have set in with 1895. The present managers are hoping that this year will end its misfortunes.

Rev. J. H. Hollingsworth, of Greencastle, last evening delivered a splendid address at St. Paul's M. E. church, Harry Maxwell adding to the evening's enjoyment by singing several selections. There was a large audience present. Tonight the grand organ recital by Harrison Wild, of Chicago, will take place. This is the first trial for the elegant organ, and every one is eager to hear it mastered by so great a performer as Mr. Wild. It is said to be the finest organ in the city, and as Mr. Wild is known to be one of the finest organists in America, the recital is sure to be of the highest order.—Lafayette Courier.

Gaynor and Gray, the Counts murderers, have been detected in passing notes to each other by the aid of the prisoner in the cell between them. They would probably not have been found out had not the middleman in the process withheld four of the notes and turned them over to the authorities. What the notes contain is not given out but the prisoners evidently wanted to communicate something important else they would not have risked what they did. They have been kept apart all the time and will be kept that way until their trial.

The Young Ladies Home Missionary Circle met last evening at the home of Dr. Hollingsworth. About twenty of the members were present and enjoyed a supper given by the members in honor of the members who were unable to attend some of the regular meetings. An elegant banquet was served, all the dainties of the season being provided, each member furnishing a share. The feast lasted for an hour, after which pleasant conversation was indulged in. The Y. L. H. M. C. is one of the best managed and most efficient charity organizations in our midst, and their quiet endeavors to hunt out and relieve sickness and distress bear much fruit. Their kind deeds, most of which never reach the public ear, entitle each and every one to the thanks of the community.

Wallace Hollingsworth, of Indianapolis, will be an applicant for the position of coacher of the base ball team of DePauw. Wallace is a hustler and we can recommend him as a genuine up to date ball player. He is on the high road to success and last year made one of the best records in the country. No better man could be secured by the local team.

Salem, Ind., young ladies have banded themselves together in an organization to encourage the real nice young men of the place and hereafter the bad boys who swear, drink, gamble or smoke cigarettes will get the "marble heart" from Salem's pretty girls.

A MAGIC GIFT. [Verses acknowledging some flowers sent him in gratitude for a reading he had given in aid of a charity.] I always believed the fairy tales, For with every year I grow I found that more and more of them Were the truest kind of true. And of all the tales I knew and loved In the days when I was small, You have chosen, to prove its truth to me, The prettiest one of all— The tale of the maid whose lips dropped pearls, And roses and all things sweet, Because she was simply civil and kind To a fairy she chanced to meet. Why shouldn't it happen to girls and boys In the days when fairies flew, Since a few poor latter day words of mine Have been turned into flowers by you? —H. C. Bunner in Scribner's.
