F. G. GILMORE.

Death of Wesley Rader.
On Thursday last Wesley Rader breathed his last. Mr. Rader was well-known to nearly everyone in the city and his cheerful face will be sadly missed. Although a great sufferer he bore life's burden bravely and had a kind word for one and all. A more heartfelt tribute was never paid to a comrade than that in his honor by the members of the G. A. R. Post. Mr. Rader was the son of Thomas Y. and Nancy J. Rader. He was born in Monroe county, Ind. June 5, 1846. He enlisted in the war in February 1865. Shortly afterwards he was taken sick with typhoid pneumonia, and sent to the hospital; while there he was stricken with paralysis from which he never fully recovered. He joined the church while in the hospital, was baptised and taken into the church by Chaplain Holman. Mr. Rader was a member of Company E. 145, Indiana Volunteers. Mr. Rader received a pension of $72 per month from the Government. He was perfectly helpless and his death was a release from great suffering.

The remains were buried with military honors on Friday afternoon. Services were held at Locust Street church and were conducted by Rev. Hurlstone, assisted by Dr. A. Martin. Scriptural lessons were read by Drs. Post and Poncher, and Captain Chaffee paid an eloquent tribute to the memory of his departed comrade.

Police Force Change.
Samuel Stone, who has been night policeman for a number of years, and who, by the way has made an excellent officer, has been appointed to a position on the day force. U. T. Ashley, who up till a few weeks ago, was a day "copper" is now on the night watch in place of Mr. Stone.

The Humane Society.
The Greencastle Humane society met on Tuesday night in L. P. Chapin's store and re-organized by electing the following officers:
R. A. Ogg, pres.; L. P. Chapin, sec.; J. R. Lotshar, treas.; Mrs. Mary N. Matson, Mrs. Thos. Bayne, Rev. Morris, E. T. Chaffee, F. A. Arnold, executive committee.

Leg Broken.
E. J. Coyle, a brakeman on the Monon, fell off an engine near Quincy on Saturday last and broke his leg. Dr. Evans set the fractured member and sent Coyle to his home in Lafayette.

COMMON COUNCIL.

Last June Meeting of the City Councillors: All Present.

The tax levy was ordered as recommended by the school board.

The alley between Washington and Franklin streets running from Vine to College Avenue was ordered graded and paved with stone.

In the claim ordinance the Greencastle Water Works Company was allowed its semi-annual rental from Jan. 1, '91 to July 1, '91, $2,250.

City engineer reported plans and specifications for the improvement of Indiana street; same were adopted.

The Engineer also made report of grade for alley between Washington and Franklin streets and same was adopted.

Dr. D. Rogers of the street railway company was present and asked permission of the Council to place the company's tracks on south side of Berry street from Crown to Locust. Hanna moved that the request be granted and that the track be laid by the company under direction of the street committee and City Civil Engineer; and Blake moved to amend that the matter be referred to the street committee and City Civil Engineer to report at next meeting. Adopted.

The claim ordinance was adopted as follows:

Greencastle Water W. Co.	$2250.00
San. J. Stone	5.00
G. H. Nelson	22.50
Ben S. Williams	22.50

Estate Matters.

Dorsey L. Anderson has been appointed administrator of the estate of Margaret A. Duzan. Deceased bequeaths $100 to Maggie Gray; $100 to Western Woman's Christian Missionary Society; $100 to Trustees of Christian church, Greencastle, and residue of possessions to Ida and D. L. Anderson. Will bears date of May 22, 1891.

The will of Rachael James bearing date of June 11, has been filed, with John W. McNary, executor. Deceased gives all property equally to Harriet J. Gorman, step-daughter and Mariah L. Reeves, daughter.

Will of John Rockaway, filed, bearing date of July 1, 1879. The paper bequeaths all possessions and property to his widow, Henrietta Rockaway, during her life, for purpose of supporting herself and family.

Stolen Brass.

On Friday night the car-repairer's tool houses of both the Vandalia and Monon railways were broken open and a quantity of brass taken therefrom. The Monon lost 60 pounds and the Vandalia 45 pounds. The junk is worth 16 cents per pound. On Tuesday evening Marshal Starr arrested Samuel Folsom, a junk peddler, and searched his stock. He there found the brass which had been broken from its original bars into small bits.

The railroad men identified their goods and will send the same back to their supply houses. Folsom was arraigned yesterday and the case set for Friday. The prisoner was put under $200 bail, and states he bought the brass of some boys.

New Military Company.

The new military company is on the boom and everything looks bright for a successful organization. Fifty-eight young men have signed the muster role and on tomorrow evening Lt. Col. Ben. C. Wright, and Quartermaster George Kiser, of the Second Regiment, Indianapolis, will be here to organize the company in true military style.

Fire News.

James Paxton's barn on Madison street was fired by an incendiary on Tuesday morning early. This is the second time this barn has been set on fire. The fire was discovered by passers by who extinguished it before an alarm was turned in. Some paper, saturated with coal oil, had been placed in the barn to which a match was touched.

A Visit to Noah Evans.

The BANNER AND TIMES representative paid a visit to Noah R. Evans in the Putnam county jail last Tuesday afternoon. He was invited in and had quite a chat with the prisoner in the corridor. Mr. Evans occupies the room and one cell in the second floor of the building, and has cool and comfortable quarters. The reporter found him looking well and he talked of crops, his farm prospects, past life, etc., etc. He stated that he was nearly 53 years of age and always used to hard out-door work, and that at first his confinement brought on a light spell of sickness, but that he was now in good health and spirits and was standing his prison life as well as could be expected. Mr. Evans was in the crowd at the State fair nearly twenty years ago when a threshing machine boiler exploded and killed a number of people. He was severely wounded at the time, suffering a broken leg, besides being badly scalded. He wished his friends in Putnam, Hendricks, Boone and other counties to know that he was well and doing as well as he could under the circumstances. He feels under particular obligations to Mr. Homer Foster, his bailiff, who he states, takes excellent care of him and is a model officer. Mrs. Evans visits her husband every few days and under his direction is managing their farm from which they expect a heavy crop.

Hunting a Runaway Couple.

Cyrus Martin has disappeared from his home in Jackson township, Parke county, leaving his wife and two children behind him. He gave out that he was going on an errand in the neighborhood, but instead of doing so he came on to this city, reaching here Thursday. He had not journeyed far until he had appropriated a road-cart and harness belonging to a neighbor, taking them from under a shed by the road-side. But bad as was this conduct, it was pardonable compared with his more heinous offense in robbing his neighbor, James Hood, of his daughter Rebecca. It was never supposed that there existed the slightest intimacy between the two, and the surprise of the two families at their escapade can be imagined. The runaways were seen on Thursday at different points on the road leading to this city. Martin disposed of one of his horses before reaching here, and the other he sold to Black Bros. for $25. He left the cart and harness with them to keep until he called for them on his return "from the South." That was the last seen of Martin, and the supposition is that he and Miss Hood departed on one of the night trains.

She is about twenty years of age, while her abductor is about ten years older. The owner of the team came on here with Mr. Hood and recovered his property. The latter awakened the deepest sympathy by his depression over the erring girl's waywardness. Martin's father was formerly in the meat business on Hanna street in Greencastle.

Handsome Present.

Squire James T. Denny was the victim of a caning affray on Friday last. In an unguarded moment Captain Chaffee slipped up and presented the Squire with a handsome gold-headed cane, a present from Dr. Ridpath and other friends. The day was Mr. Denny's fiftieth birthday and the victim of the surprise handles the stick with becoming dignity.

Sunday School Convention.

The Sunday School of the Indianapolis presiding elder's district of the A. M. E. church will meet in this city, Tuesday, June 30, at 9:00 a. m. Rev. J. Bundy, P. E., presiding. The exercises will be varied and interesting. The pastors, church members and citizens generally are cordially invited.

Fire.

Fire on Monday morning at eight o'clock partially destroyed Clay Lewis' barn on Gillespie street. Cause of fire unknown. The department went down in a good run and saved the lower half of the structure.

Getting a Pointer.

A Macomb county farmer who was on the market with vegetables the other morning, was accosted by a young man, who exclaimed:
"I have a patent hay fork which I am going to travel with this summer, and should like to get a few pointers from you to start with."
"Pointers, eh? Well, what sort?"
"How shall I approach the average farmer?"
"Well, you'll generally find him in the field."
"Yes."

"Jest tell him in a pleasant way what you have got."
"Yes."
"He'll ask you up to the barn to talk it over."
"I see."
"But don't you go. Instead of that make a bee line for your buggy, climb in and scoot your hoss as fast as he kin go for the next six miles."
"But why?"
"Oh, nuthin' much. I only killed six myself last week, but you know it rained purty steady for two days and travel was light."

Indiana Mineral Springs a Great Resort on the Line of the Chicago & Eastern Ill. R. R.
A short rest from the active demands of the average American's busy life is always beneficial. To rest then, is certainly a good remedy in itself, but when you rest how much better it is to go, where you can have the privilege of drinking a water prepared in Nature's own laboratory, bubbling forth pure and sparkling from the earth, the use of which never fails to bring about immediate relief, and a permanent cure for rheumatism, kidney diseases, liver complaint, dyspepsia, catarrh of the stomach and all forms of skin diseases.

If you seek rest and recreation, why not combine it with improved health and the pleasure of spending a few days or weeks, as suits you, at the Indiana Mineral Springs, Warren Co., Ind.? Here you will find every accommodation that $150,000 judiciously expended can procure; a one hundred room, hard wood finished, modern appointed hotel, lighted by electricity, complete water-works system, a cold storage plant, the finest bath house in the West, and a hundred and one points of interest to entertain you. Here you can drink the waters of the Indiana Mineral Springs that will quickly relieve that tired, worn-out feeling, bring color to your faded cheeks, invigorate your system with new life and energy, and make you feel that life is worth living after all.

It is too beautiful a place to write about or even picture in this limited space, so we earnestly urge, if you desire additional information, that you write at once to C. L. Stone, Gen'l Pass & Tkt. Agt. of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad, Chicago, for illustrated and descriptive matter showing in detail the improvements at the Springs and setting forth testimonials from prominent people, who have within the past year been restored to health by the use of the waters of the Indiana Mineral Springs. Any officer or agent of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois R. R. will take pleasure in advising as to the railroad route and rates, or answering any questions pertaining to this great health resort.

What a Journalist Is.
After his lecture before the journalistic class at Cornell University a sophomore asked Eli Perkins when he became a journalist.
"Never," said Eli, "but I do hope that after twenty years more of experience to become a newspaper man."
"Well, what is the difference?" asked the sophomore.
"Just this, my son," said Eli. "A callow reporter calls himself a journalist. As George Welshons says, 'in his first tadpole stage, when his head is swelled,' he is a journalist. If he finally shows great brain and industry, and escapes the fool-killer, he may become a reporter. After years of study and toil, and when his brain is stuffed with wisdom, wit, and discretion enough to kill his own editorials and 'make up' a sixteen-page Sunday edition, then I say, he's a newspaper man."

"Then this is as high in the profession as he can get?"
"Yes, he is now at the pinnacle. By and by, when he gets lazy and stiff and old and stupid they reduce him to the position of editor."
"An editor is a decayed newspaper man with bunions on his brain, chilblains on his heart, corns on his ears and warts and dyspepsia on his liver. The business of the editor is to sleep up town all day and at night he prowls around a newspaper office and at midnight he takes a blue pencil and assassinates every bright and readable idea that the smart reporters have brought in during the day."
"The editor is all epithet while the reporter is all proof. The editor calls a man a chicken thief and gets sued for libel, while the reporter, kodak in hand, interviews him while picking off the feathers in his back yard, and the next day the thief takes a whole advertisement to shut up the newspaper."

"No," continued Eli, "I hope I am a newspaper man, and I dread the time when I shall get old and stupid and have to kill my own bright things which made people glad, sold newspapers, and made America know me."

Weak Women.
The most sensitive nature of the female sex renders women much more susceptible than men to those numerous ills which spring from lack of harmony in the system. The nervous system gives way, sick headache is frequent, the appetite is lost, and other ailments peculiar to the sex cause much suffering. Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiarly adapted to such cases, and has received the most gratifying praise for the relief it afforded thousands of women whose very existence before taking it was only misery. It strengthens the nerves, cures sick headache and indigestion, purifies and vitalizes the blood, and gives regular and healthy action to every organ in the body.

The editor of the Independence (Kas) Star sued a delinquent subscriber for eleven dollars. The delinquent claimed that he never subscribed for the paper and did not propose to pay. The judge instructed the jury that if the evidence disclosed the fact that the delinquent had taken from the office, or caused it to be so taken, they should find for the plaintiff. It cost the man nearly a hundred dollars to settle what eleven dollars would have paid. It pays to be honest, even with a printer.

McDONALD DEAD.

Demise of the Distinguished Indiana Statesman

At His Home in Indianapolis Sunday Night.

Conscious to the Last, He Awaited the Coming of the Inevitable Without Emotion or Fear—Gave Directions for His Funeral Arrangements and the Disposition of His Personal Affairs.
INDIANAPOLIS, June 23.—Ex-Senator McDonald died at 11:35 Sunday night. He was conscious to the last and died painlessly. Early Sunday morning his physician told him there was no hope and that death was a matter of but a few hours. Mr. McDonald replied that he did not contemplate the change with the least trepidation.

During the afternoon the Rev. Mr. Milburn was sent for and administered the sacrament. Then Mr. McDonald called his family and some intimate friends about him, and calmly, serenely, as if the occasion were one of the most ordinary kind, he gave directions for his funeral arrangements and the disposition of some of his personal affairs.

In the presence of all, he said, he wished to give testimony to his faith in God's saving grace. Then he grasped each by the hand and bade him goodby, saying that he could see no more callers.

His auditors thus dismissed, the dying man surrendered himself to the care of his physician to await the coming of the inevitable.

Funeral Wednesday.
The funeral of ex-Senator McDonald has been set for 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Further than this nothing is known as to the particulars.

Biographical.
Joseph Ewing McDonald was born in Butler county, O., Aug. 20, 1819. His early life was spent on a farm, with a short term at a country school. At the age of 12 years he apprenticed himself to the saddler's trade, continuing at it for nearly six years. Up to this time in life he had been a conscientious student, employing all his spare time in mastering the English branches of learning, so that at the age of 18 he was fitted to enter college, which he did, remaining there as long as his means would allow. In 1842 he commenced the study of law, and was admitted to the bar in 1848, being also elected to the office of prosecuting attorney in that year. In 1849 he was elected to the Thirty-first congress serving one term, and in 1856 to be attorney general of Indiana, serving for four years.

In 1874 he was elected to the United States senate to succeed Daniel D. Pratt, and took his seat March 5, 1875. He was chairman of the committee on public lands and the second member of the judiciary committee of the senate. He was a prominent candidate for the nomination of his party for the presidency in 1884, and during the preliminary stages of the contest his triumph did not appear improbable. Of late years Mr. McDonald was associated in the practice of law with John M. Butler, of this city, Mr. McDonald dividing his time between Indianapolis and Washington.

Mr. McDonald was always a consistent and unswerving Democrat of the Jeffersonian school, as exemplified in the life of Andrew Jackson.

MCKINLEY FOR GOVERNOR.
The Great Protectionist to Lead the Republican Hosts of Ohio.

COLUMBUS, O., June 18.—The Republican state convention nominated the following ticket:

Governor—William McKinley, Jr.
Lieutenant governor—Gen. A. L. Harris, of Preble county.
Auditor—E. W. Poe, of Wood county, renominated.
Treasurer—W. P. Cope, of Cleveland.
Attorney general—John K. Richards, of Lawrence county.
Judge supreme court—Marshall J. Williams, of Ross county.
Food commissioner—F. B. McNeal, of Miami.
School commissioner—O. T. Carson, of Guernsey.

The platform contains twelve sections, and indorses McKinley bill and protection; legislation for benefit of agriculture and laborers; protection for American wool; indorses amended coinage act of last congress; demands that everyone has a chance to vote; wants immigration laws strictly enforced; favors economy in government, restraint of combinations, more educational facilities, and return to the government of railroad lands; favors liberal pensions; warmly indorses President Harrison's administration; praises Senator Sherman and members of the last congress; congratulates the president for choosing Charles Foster secretary of the treasury; denounces the late legislature and Governor Campbell's administration.

SMOOTHING IRON EXPLODES.
The Proprietor of a Dye Works Badly Burned.

MUNCIE, Ind., June 22.—At McCordle & Company's steam dye works, yesterday, a very singular explosion occurred, badly burning James McCordle, one of the proprietors. A large automatic self-heating smoothing iron, heated by gasoline, is used in the establishment.
Owing to some neglect in properly arranging the gasoline, the iron exploded with a loud report, throwing the heavy iron through the ceiling. Mr. McCordle was terribly burned about the face and arms from the burning gasoline.

MARVIN KUHN'S TRIAL

For the Murder of William Campeau Begins at Tiffin, O.

TIFFIN, June 23.—The trial of Marvin Kuhns, the alleged Fostoria murderer and desperado, began Monday. The trial promises to be one of the most sensational in the criminal history of northern Ohio. Hon. Perry M. Adams will appear as the leading attorney for the defense, and Hon. George E. Seney will assist the prosecutor. About one hundred witnesses have been subpoenaed.

After the desperate affray near Chermusco, Whitley county, Ind., in which Kuhns was shot seven times, and one of the officers desperately wounded and which finally resulted in the capture of the desperado, it will be remembered, he was finally taken to the Fort Wayne jail, with no thought that he would live twenty-four hours. His indomitable nerve triumphed, however, and he recovered, and in January was brought to this city and committed to jail, where he has since remained awaiting trial for the murder of his companion, William Campeau, at Fostoria, on the night of the 16th of November last.

It developed during his uncompleted examination that he had a wife temporarily sojourning at Prospect, Marion county, and she was sent for and placed upon the stand.

The girl, who is now known to fame as Della Bird, proved an unwilling but good witness, and from her it was learned that the man who had so nearly slipped through the fingers of the officers was the noted Indiana and Ohio horse thief and all-around desperado, Marvin Kuhns, and almost beyond a doubt the murderer of William Campeau.

The girl was not his wife, but his mistress. She has since been held in the Tiffin jail as a witness.

Since his incarceration in the Tiffin jail Kuhns has been guarded night and day. He has not always been a tractable prisoner, but with an occasional diet of bread and water, with deprivation of tobacco, has tamed him somewhat.

Extraordinary preparations have been made to guard against a possible rescue during the trial. The transit from the jail to the court house is across an open space of about forty yards, and the reckless nature of the prisoner and the fact that for years he has been the recognized leader of one of the most desperate gang of cut-throats and desperados in Ohio and northern Indiana, impresses upon the minds of the authorities the necessity for extreme caution. In fact it is an open secret that Sheriff Burman has in his possession a letter which warns him of preparations being made for a rescue.

The Deadly Flobert.
MUNCIE, Ind., June 23.—At Eaton, ten miles north of this city, Warren Remington, 12, was shot by a Flobert rifle. The ball entered the neck, ranged downward and lodged in the backbone. The boy's body at once became paralyzed below the place where the ball landed, and the lad cannot live. A companion was in the act of shooting a bird, when young Remington stepped in front of the gun.

THE LEPROSY COMMISSION, After a Searching Investigation, Will Soon Report.

LONDON, June 23.—The report of the leprosy commission, which has been inquiring since November last into the conditions under which this disease spreads and breeds in India, is approaching completion. The commission is now sitting at Simla, preparing its report, which will present the most exhaustive scientific study of the subject ever given to the world. The commission, which is composed of medical experts, has visited leper hospitals and studied the condition of lepers in prison, in streets and in some isolated leper communities. Every part of India where leprosy prevails has been locally studied with a view to ascertaining how far conditions of environment assist in propagating the disease. Some thousands of cases have been examined, microscopic researches made into the distribution of the supposed bacillus of leprosy and a series of bacteriological investigations conducted, which are said to have given astonishing results, promising the cure of this hitherto irremedial curse. The report, which specially deals with the question of contagion and heredity, will be sent on to the Indian government and transmitted to the home Indian office about the end of the month.

Railroad Wreck.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 23.—A serious accident occurred on the Chicago and Alton railroad yesterday, at a point between Elkhart and Williamsville. Soon after the passenger train passed south, a freight train, with two engines attached, pulled out of Williamsville and started north. After proceeding about two miles it collided with an engine and caboose coming south. Three engines and six cars were torn to pieces, and Engineer George Brown, of Bloomington, was fatally injured. Two other trainmen were slightly injured. The accident resulted from the failure of somebody to display proper signals.

Will Fill the Bill.
RUSHVILLE, Ind., June 23.—Professor A. H. Graham, superintendent of the normal here, has been appointed superintendent of the soldiers' and sailors' orphans' home. This appointment is a good selection, as he is one of the honored citizens of this city, and in every way qualified for the place.

Catholic Knights Excommunicated.
INDIANAPOLIS, June 23.—Father Gavist confirms the report from New Albany that Bishop Chatard has excommunicated thirty-eight members of the New Albany division of the Roman Knights of St. Edward for giving a Sunday excursion, selling beer and dancing.

Valuable Tree.
ENGLISH, Ind., June 23.—James F. Jones, of this place, has just finished sawing a walnut tree which yielded nearly thirteen thousand feet of lumber.

The Thief's Tracks.
A giant thief who was compelled to cross a bed of clay was observed carefully covering up his tracks with sand from a bag which he carried for the purpose.

"Why do you that?" he was asked by an officer who was hiding near by.

"Because," he answered, "I scorn the cheap notoriety of present detection, caring only for posthumous fame."

Twenty centuries afterward, when some degenerate workmen of the period were excavating for the penitentiary which with great propriety was to be erected on the spot, they found his tracks, the sand having blown away and the clay hardened to stone. —San Francisco Examiner.

UNCLE SAM SUED

For Violating the Contract With the Alaska Commercial Company.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—The North American Commercial company, through its attorney, Judge N. L. Jeffreys, has filed a protest with Acting Secretary Spaulding of the treasury department, in which it recites that it has the right to take fur seals from the islands of St. Paul and St. George for the period of twenty years from May 1, 1890, and that it has and will continue to perform the stipulations of its lease. The company states that it was assured a quota of 60,000 seal skins during 1890, and upon such assurance submitted its bid at three times the amount paid by a former lessee. Upon the acceptance of the lease the company made large outlay in buildings and provisions and arranged for transporting 60,000 seal skins to San Francisco. The company says that it was compelled to cease taking seals on the 20th day of July, when the sealing season had not expired, and only one-third of the quota of skins had been obtained, and the company was further prohibited from taking any additional number during this year. On this account the company has sustained a loss of $400,000.

BLAINE AND HARRISON.
Both Will Feel the Country's Pulse, But Not Oppose Each Other.

AUGUSTA, Me., June 19.—Mr. Blaine's health is rapidly improving. He will arrive out and holds conferences by wire with the president at Washington. One of these conferences preceded the signing of the sealing agreement. The sending of the two naval vessels to Behring sea is at Mr. Blaine's telegraphic request. A friend of Mr. Blaine, when asked if Mr. Blaine would be a presidential candidate in 1892, said that there would be no contest for the nomination between Mr. Blaine and Mr. Harrison. The expressed feeling of the country will be their guide. Either will support the other cordially according as this feeling is shown.

SIGNOR CORTE'S VERSION
Of the New Orleans Massacre Undoubtedly Exaggerated.

ROME, June 19.—The Fanfalla states that Signor Corte, late Italian consul at New Orleans, at the request of Premier Rudini, has prepared a report on the New Orleans affair. Signor Corte affirms that the victims belonged to no particular society, but were murdered simply because they were Italians, and were competing in the labor market against natives; that immediately after the murder of the Italian prisoners his American servants ran away, and that he himself and his secretary barricaded the consulate and armed themselves with revolvers, the lynchers having threatened to attack the consulate, and being prevented only by influential citizens intervening.

THE ALLIANCE IN KANSAS.
Its Days as a Political Party Undoubtedly Numbered.

NEW YORK, June 23.—A special to The Sun from Leavenworth, Kan., says: In every county where the Alliance has nominated candidates for office thus far there has been a wrangle, with the inevitable result of a split. The defeated factions immediately withdraw from the party and declare their intention of returning to the old parties. Many reasons are assigned for this unharmonious sentiment, chief among which seem to be a lack of good leadership. The Alliance is in a sorry plight, and its days in Kansas as a political party are numbered.

OFF FOR THE SEA.
President Harrison Will Take a Few Days' Rest.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—The president, accompanied by Mr. Harrison, their two grandchildren, Mrs. Dimmick, Mrs. George B. Williams and Miss Ella Warfield left Washington Thursday morning at 9 o'clock over the Pennsylvania railway for Cape May Point. The cottage there is ready for the party. The president will remain at the seashore until next Tuesday.

Deadly Coal Oil Fumes.
ST. MARY'S, W. Va., June 23.—While making repairs to an old tank William Wilkinson, a prominent contractor, was overcome by the fumes and died of suffocation. His body was found hanging on the edge of the tank after an extended search by companions. Wilkinson was a Pennsylvania.

A Negro Boy Executed.
CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 20.—Sim, Johnson, a negro boy aged 18 years, was hanged here yesterday morning for outraging Alice Baily, a white girl, last April.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE TONIC AND Stomach and Liver Cure

The Most Astonishing Medical Discovery of the Last One Hundred Years.

It is Pleasant to the Taste as the Sweetest Nectar. It is Safe and Harmless as the Purest Milk.

This wonderful Nervine Tonic has only recently been introduced into this country by the Great South American Medicine Company...

- CURES: Nervousness and Nervous Prostration, Nervous Headache and Sick Headache, Female Weakness, All Diseases of Women, Nervous Chills, Paralysis, Nervous Paroxysms and Nervous Choking, Hot Flashes, Palpitation of the Heart, Mental Despondency, Sleeplessness, St. Vitus's Dance, Nervousness of Females, Nervousness of Old Age, Neuralgia, Pains in the Heart, Pains in the Back, Failing Health.

NERVOUS DISEASES.

As a cure for every class of Nervous Diseases, no remedy has been able to compare with the Nervine Tonic, which is very pleasant and harmless in all its effects upon the youngest child or the oldest and most delicate individual.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, IND., AUG. 20, '85. To the Great South American Medicine Co.: DEAR GENTS:—I desire to say to you that I have suffered for many years with a very serious disease of the stomach and nerves.

A SWORN CURE FOR ST. VITUS'S DANCE OR CHOREA. My daughter, twelve years old, had been afflicted for several months with Choreia or St. Vitus's Dance. She was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk, could not talk, could not swallow anything but milk.

INDIGESTION AND DYSPEPSIA. The Great South American Nervine Tonic. Which we now offer you, is the only absolutely unfailing remedy ever discovered for the cure of Indigestion, Dyspepsia, and the vast train of symptoms and horrors which are the result of disease and debility of the human stomach.

Harriet E. Hall, of Wayne County, Ind., says: "I owe my life to the Great South American Nervine. I had been in bed for five months from the effects of an exhausted stomach, indigestion, nervous prostration and a general shattered condition of my whole system."

EVERY BOTTLE WARRANTED. Price, Large 13 ounce Bottles, $1.25. Trial Size, 13 cents. SOLD BY ALBERT ALLEN Druggist, Greencastle, Indiana.

WILLIAM AND HIS SMILE.

The Chicago Police Meet an Original Character in Overalls.

The most original character with whom the police have had to do for months struck town on Tuesday. His name is William Rexford, and he hails from a farm near Sioux City, Ia.

But William was not dismayed. He trudged along Milwaukee avenue, gazing at the sights and attracting no small degree of attention himself.

He priced several revolvers and finally selected a large double action one and said he'd take it. He also said he would take a box of cartridges, and started to load the weapon.

The proprietor anxiously interfered and offered to do the loading himself, fearful that this guileless country lad did not know how. Then Mr. Toborg explained how the weapon worked and handed it back to William with a "four dollars, please," smile, which made William grin broader than ever.

"Hand over yer cash, mister," said William, still smiling, and leveling the loaded revolver at the proprietor's head.

He threw up his hands and gasped, "Murder! murder!" and fell, rather than ran, the whole length of the store and out of doors. There he found Officers Dietz and Rossiter.

The two officers, with dark lanterns and cocked revolvers, searched the rear of the store for the guileless William, and then groped their way down to the basement. William was behind a post, revolver in hand. He received the officers with his habitual grin, and threw up his hands, remarking: "Well, I'll be gosh darned!"

William is lodging at the Rawson street police station, where he has already become a great favorite. He has confided to his new found friends that he thought it would be an easy matter to replenish his pocket-book in Chicago by holding up people.

"But," continued William, in smiling confidence and giving his overalls a hitch, "they ketch'd me and sent me up for a year. Then I went back to farmin'. On my way back to Chicago I stopped off for a week at a place and had just fair luck."

A death by tight lacing is reported from near London. The unfortunate was single, aged 22, a laundress.

He Has Evidence of Curing Hundreds and Hundreds of the Worst Chronic Diseases.

Mr. Solomon Bond, a member of the Society of Friends, of Darlington, Ind., says: "I have used two bottles of The Great South American Nervine Tonic and Stomach and Liver Cure, and I consider that every bottle did for me one hundred dollars worth of good, because I have not had a good night's sleep for twenty years on account of irritation, pain, horrible dreams, and general nervous prostration, which has been caused by chronic indigestion and dyspepsia of the stomach and by a broken down condition of my nervous system."

BRITISH PHILANTHROPISTS.

Strong Language of Carlyle on Those Who "Embarked in Philanthropy."

By way of individualizing for ourselves the philanthropist as Carlyle believed he found him in his own country, we ask first, I think, What is his place in society? what is his relation to others not philanthropists? By way of answer to this question we learn from Carlyle that society is divided into two great genera, as they may be called—the great dumb "inarticulate class" and "the articulate class."

Passing to Carlyle's charges against the class now under consideration, those who, to quote his own words, "embark in the philanthropic movement," his first and heaviest charge, at bottom inclusive of all others, is that they misconceive the situation. It is not that they deny the existence of great public misery—we have seen that they are even impressed and stirred to action by it.

The offenses and omissions of the last 20 years, Carlyle believed, had been every one of them registered against his countrymen in heaven's chancery; had all the while lain there generating frightful interest and compound interest, until at last they had produced the frightful situation the philanthropist would cope with, having for some of its palpable external features abroad an "idle black peasantry," by the thousand, at home, 30,000 "discontented needlewomen who can't sew," scoundrels in jail treated by the method of love, the deserving poor, struggling hard outside to keep their heads above water, further taxed at the risk of their submergence, in order that among scoundrels the method of love may reign; 3,000,000 paupers in the country, "Connaught potentially cannibal," and as "the evangel of freedom and real programme of a new era," the "whitewashing" of the "scoundrel population" and the "sweeping out of the gutters."—Lecture of Robert Nivens.

An Eye to His Riparian Rights. A young business man in town recently bought a strip of land along the lake shore in Lake View, and a short time afterward moved up into the vicinity of the land. His friends say that he did it so that he could watch the land, but this he denies. However, he has a good eye for the main chance.

"It isn't a big strip," he said, "but it gives me riparian rights; that is why I bought it."

"Going to fill in?" he was asked. "No. The waves are making half a foot a month for me by washing up refuse."

This is to show that he has a good business head. It was rumored in real estate circles that he got out on the shore in the morning with a hoe and a rake and pulled in everything that got within reach, but this could not be verified. The following, however, can be:

"Great Scott! There are a lot of boys on my land playing sailor!"

"What of it?" his wife asked innocently. "What of it!" he cried. "What of it! Why, they're digging harbors on my riparian rights. Wait a minute and I'll fix it."

He grabbed his hat and rushed out. "Did you settle it?" asked his wife when he returned a moment later.

"Oh, yes," he replied with the air of a man who had done a good stroke of business. "It's all right now. I told 'em that that was no way to play sailor in Chicago; that they ought to build piers to land their boats at, and now they are building piers and making more land for me every minute."

That's the eye for business some men have.—Chicago Tribune.

He Was Ready. A story overheard ran something like this: "I was sitting in a box at a theatre one evening when one of the men present said: 'I always look around in a theatre for the easiest way of escape in case of fire, or for some way in which I could reach the stage if any accident were to occur there. Now, suppose that actress' gown should take fire. I would step on that garland there, steady myself by the rail with the arm which held my overcoat, reach my foot across to that frieze in high relief and spring thence to the stage. In thirty-five seconds I should have reached her, and have the flames smothered with my coat.'"

"I laughed at him. Well, as it happened that very actress' gown did catch fire, and she gave a piercing scream that almost threw the house into a panic. What did my friend do? Forget all about his fire scheme and lose his head like the rest? Not one bit of it. He did just exactly what he said he would do. His coat was around the woman in less time than it took me to wonder at his activity, and the audience was cheering him. It was a sort of discipline with him, you see." Repeated in print for the benefit of those who may have a chance to play the hero some time.—New York Tribune.

Burdens of Indolence. None so little enjoy life and are such burdens to themselves as those who have nothing to do. The active only have the true relief of life. He who knows not what it is to labor knows not what it is to enjoy. Recreation is only valuable as it unburdens us. The idle know nothing of it. It is exertion that renders rest delightful and sleep sweet and undisturbed. The happiness of life depends on the regular prosecution of some laudable purpose or calling which engages, helps and enlivens all our powers.—New York Ledger.

The wheat harvest is at hand and the farmers are preparing to rake in the grain and the shekels.

HON. JOSEPH E. McDONALD, one of Indiana's greatest men, died in Indianapolis on Sunday last.

STRATHMEATH won the Chicago "Derby" in grand style on Saturday, carrying off the richest western stakes, $19,000.

The wheat fields have at last met their Waterloo and are falling rapidly before the reapers. There is some little mildew and rust but all agree that this Harrison crop is the best in Putnam county for many years. These be indeed good times.

The city council of Anderson has passed a resolution authorizing construction of a city crematory. It is to be used not to burn the dead citizens of that place, but to reduce to ashes the garbage and filth that collects in the street. That is a good way to improve the health of a city.

The number of Italians arriving in this country is diminishing. This week an emigrant steamer arrived in New York with only 153 of them on board, the general average being from 900 to 1000 on steamers of the same line. The decrease is rather hard on the steamship companies, but is a source of congratulation to all good citizens of this country.

The executive committee of the Republican Editorial Association has made arrangements for the annual summer outing of the Republican editors of Indiana which will certainly be more pleasant than any of those previously indulged in. The trip will be by special train over the "Clover Leaf" road to Toledo, Ohio, from which place the party will take a chartered steamer for a tour of the various Lake Erie Islands. The party will leave on July 29.

REPORTS from all parts of the state confirm the impression that Democratic assessors are carrying out the instructions given to them by their party managers to violate their oath and duty in making assessment on property. The purpose is to fix upon Republican assessors the onus of the new tax law. The instances of these discriminations are many and following the impertinent address of the chairman of the party's state committee leaves no doubt that there is a conspiracy to avoid the unpopular effect of the law by which it was intended to force the people to pay the state debt created by Democratic extravagance. Chairman Jewett's circular letter addressed to Democratic committeemen suggested that Democrats charged with fixing the tax rates do so in such a way as to "remove all danger of the people having to pay more taxes" because of the new law. In other words the assessors are to lower the assessment and wherever the Democrats levy the taxes it is to be done with the view of collecting no more than had been done from the people. If this policy prevailed everywhere in the state no increase in revenue would be obtained but on the contrary the debt would be increased.

ACTUAL 'MCKINLEY PRICES.'

Last October "McKinley prices" was a Democratic slogan, says the Indianapolis Journal, McKinley prices for all manufactured goods would be 30, 40, 50, and 60, per cent higher than under the old tariff, was the prediction made in full face type in the free trade organs and proclaimed in confident tones in every Democratic speech. Not long since the Indian bureau awarded contracts for Indian supplies for the next year. There were bids in abundance, and the lowest bidder got the contract. Consequently the prices which the lowest bidder made were those for which they could afford to sell the merchandise. The products of the farm are all higher than a year ago, and many of them considerably higher, but when it comes to manufactures, the article on which the prices were to be from 30, to 60 per cent higher, the general average is lower than a year ago. Take the woolen blanket, the "poor man's blanket", which has been the object upon which so much free trade paths has been bestowed for years and the first article which would show an advanced price, and what appears? The government buys the all wool Mackinac blanket sixty by seventy inches in size, and weighing eight pounds to the pair. Year by year the quality, because of the home competition, has steadily improved. In 1881 these blankets cost $5.52 a pair; last year a better blanket cost $3.36 a pair, and this year, under McKinley prices, with a still better quality, the cost was $3.31 a pair. There is not much of a 60 per cent advance in such a decline. Most of the woolen goods cost about the same this year as last, a few a trifle more, and a large quantity less. Where a slightly higher price was paid, it was for a better article. Blue kerseys, United States army standard, which cost $1.74 last year, cost $1.65 this year; men's hose $2.28 per dozen in 1890, and $2.23 in 1891; cotton duck, for tents, 10.71 cent a yard in 1890, and 9.23 cents in 1891, and so on. The whole range of iron-stone ware was bought cheaper this year than last. The same is true of most kinds of hardware. Tin cups were 5 cents a dozen higher. The whole line of such implements as axes, hoes and shovels were lower this year. Such are the facts about "McKinley prices." Last October they were made a bugaboo; but next October they will be popular.

WELL, Well! What has become of the high wages boom that was to follow close in the wake of the passage of the McKinley bill? Wages have been decreased, rather than increased in the past few months.—Star-Press.

As a matter of fact wages have increased the country over, and especially in the great Republican State of Pennsylvania, where the king coal operators have granted an increased of 10 per cent. in wages. But how about the increased prices that were to come with the McKinley bill? Everything the consumer uses has gone steadily down and free trade liars who asserted so vehemently that they would go up are now not in it on an argument. The country is in for a run of prosperity and the Democratic sheets hate to see it just on the eve of a presidential election. It hurts their stock of wind.

The president's proclamation in regard to seal killing, issued on Monday, ends the negotiations which for some time have been in progress with the British government. Under the agreement the two governments unite in prohibiting seal killing until May 1st, 1892, and to this end United States cruisers are authorized to seize British vessels fishing in the prohibited waters, which are to be turned over to the British authorities for trial. The agreement is a victory to the United States government, and is another verification of the fact that there is an administration now in control that is equal to all great occasions.

The organization of a military company in Greencastle is a good move as it affords those belonging an opportunity to familiarize themselves with military tactics and get the advantage of the splendid drill and exercise at no expense. The boys will be members of the State Militia, and while there is no immediate prospect of having to go to war, they might as well be abreast of the times as are the young men in other cities of the State. They should set out with the determination to be second to none in proficiency.

The attention of the Star-Press is called to the report of City Engineer Throop in this issue. As the S.-P. has been continually howling about no improvements to show for the expenditure of city money it can now enlighten its readers by culling from the excellent paper.

NOTICE.

Delinquent subscribers of this paper will be treated to a statement of account sometime between the 5th and 15th of July. Those who know themselves to be indebted may save themselves the annoyance of a "dun" by calling beforehand and paying. No one need be offended at receiving what they may be pleased to call a "dun." The publisher is the one to be offended. He has paid his good money to send the paper and now has to go to the further expense of sending out invitations to come and pay. Before any one is inconsiderate enough to get mad let him read the golden rule from our point of view. The prospect of fine crops ought to stimulate every one to prompt payment. Do not wait for a statement but come at once and pay or tell us when you can pay. 26-2 M. J. BECKETT, publisher.

The Wheat Crop.

Just now is the busy point in the farmer's life and in Putnam our granger element is particularly busy. The wheat cutting time is at hand and the hum of the self-binder is heard on all sides. So great is the crop this year that there is a great scarcity of machines. For the past three years the machines in the country have been more than ample, but this year is just the reverse. The demand for self-binders and reapers is unusually large, and implement dealers are working day and night to fill orders. All of which is good, good news and such as we are extremely glad to chronicle. May the wheat crop never grow less. Some farmers state that though the stalks are plenty, there are but two grains to the mesh. This cuts the yield some, and is caused by the dearth of rain. Three grains are the average, but the unusually large number of stocks will bring the average to the acre up to about 20 bu., the county over.

New E. & L. Association.

A new Building and Loan and Saving Association has been formed in this city. On Saturday several well-known citizens started out and in a little time secured subscribers to over $50,000 worth of stock. This assured the success of the venture and on last evening the directors and officers were elected and the company formally organized. The Association, as its name implies, is strictly a home one in every respect and starts with flattering prospects. Several plans have been looked over and the best features chosen from them all. This new company with the old established ones now running in the city will be able to handle all the savings of our citizens without calling in any outside companies.

The directors and officers elected are as follows: Directors:—I. Vermilion, M. D. Bridges, Thos. Abrams, E. B. Evans, J. L. Randel, P. O. Collier, F. G. Gilmore, F. A. Arnold, D. C. Hughes, George Hathaway and J. T. Wilson. The officers are:—I. Vermilion, pres., Thos. Abrams, vice pres., J. L. Randel, treas., P. O. Collier, att'y, and Geo. Hathaway, sec. The stock represented to date is $65,000.

New Depot.

The Vandalia railway people have begun the building of their new freight depot in this city. Ground has been broken just east of the passenger depot platform for the new structure and the lumber and material is all made up in sections ready to be put in place. The street railway company will now have to change their tracks as the depot will take the place of their present terminus.

Election of Officers.

At their semi-annual election, the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Presbyterian church, elected the following officers: Pres., Maynard L. Daggy; vice pres., Miss Alice Wakefield; sec., Miss Weible; treas., George Steele.

Frank Lueteke.

On June 12, Frank Lueteke, son of ex-Councilman Charles Lueteke, died of typhoid fever. He was born January 20, 1876, and had just completed the Junior year in the High School. He was noted for his quiet, earnest work, his perfect deportment and gentlemanly bearing toward all. The school and teachers showed their appreciation of him and sympathy with the stricken family by attending the funeral in a body. He was sick but twelve days when death claimed him. He himself knew that death was at hand before the family realized the fact. Some hours before his departure, he told them the Lord called him and he must go. When told that they wanted him to stay while yet with them, he replied that he must go now and assured them that he was not afraid and that they would not weep if they could only see what he saw. He was greatly loved by all the family, for he was sweet and kind in disposition, cheerful and mindful of the happiness of others. The family have the warmest sympathy of their many friends in this time of affliction. [Through mistake mention of the above was left out of our last issue—Editor BANNER AND TIMES.]

"You Can't Get Blood out of a Turnip"
 Neither can you buy good shoes where they don't keep them.
 Your attention is respectfully called to a few facts concerning my store. Every pair of shoes in this stock, from the smallest to the largest, is bought direct from the manufacturers, not on and at credit rates, but with cash and at rock bottom prices. Every pair of shoes in this store is worth the price asked for them and can be purchased nowhere else for less money. There is no jehing in price and no misrepresentation of goods. The different grades of quality range from a good standard article to the very best. The cheaper grades I do not handle. I carry a larger stock of fine shoes than any other two stores in the city. My stock of lace Oxfords for this season is the best ever offered here and embraces a great many choice varieties for the Misses and children as well as for ladies. If you want nice shoes for the little folks, don't fail to see ours. They are both pretty and good. Come and see, by all means. Your patronage is respectfully solicited.

The Law is Valid. INDIANAPOLIS, June 22.—The supreme court Saturday handed down an opinion in the natural gas litigation, holding that the law passed by the legislature...

An Enormous Peach Crop. JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., June 19.—The peach crop of Clark county will be something enormous. The orchard of Dean Brothers and Hotzenburg alone will yield 30,000 bushels of the palatable fruit.

Indiana News. Telegraph Taps Gathered from All Over Hoosierdom. Hope, Ind., wants an insect exterminator warranted to kill fire bugs.

Be Careful of Imported Dried Beef. PERU, Ind., June 23.—The families of A. B. Kissiman, Daniel Whitehead, J. Summers, J. Weist and B. Smith, were dangerously poisoned by eating imported dried beef purchased at a grocery store.

Neck Broken in a Fight. HUDSON LAKE, Ind., June 22.—Robert Hall, a prominent young man of this city, and Byron Landon got into a dispute yesterday over Sarah Hill, a handsome young lady, with whom Hall was desperately in love.

Another Snake Story. JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., June 19.—Rattlesnakes are unusually numerous near Henryville and Underwood, in the Silver hills, this season, and day before yesterday one was killed at the latter place measuring nine feet and having thirty-three rattles.

The Old Partition Fence Again. MARTINSVILLE, Ind., June 23.—Benjamin Black and James Goss, of Gosport, quarreled over a partition fence. When Goss attempted to move it Black shot him. He was found guilty of shooting with intent to kill, and given six months in jail and a fine of $100.

Deaf Mute Killed by Cars. WARSAW, Ind., June 20.—James E. Townsend, a deaf mute, was struck by the southbound passenger of the Cincinnati, Wabash and Michigan railroad a mile south of Milford yesterday, and instantly killed. His home is at Harrisburg, O.

A New Oil Field. MARENGO, Ind., June 20.—Indications of oil become more and more favorable here every day in the well which is being sunk for gas. At a depth of but one hundred feet oil is flowing at the rate of perhaps ten gallons per day.

Man and Horse Killed. ENGLISH, Ind., June 23.—William Corbet and his horse were killed by lightning at Boston, Crawford county, last Saturday evening. Mr. Corbet had taken refuge under a wayside tree where both were found dead the next morning.

Engineer Killed in an Explosion. INDIANAPOLIS, June 23.—Peter Huskins, engineer at Adam's brickyard, was killed yesterday by the explosion of the steam boiler. The body was terribly crushed and mangled. It is not known how the accident happened.

BULLDOG AND REVOLVER.

An Old Quaker Attempts to Shoot His Son While His Dog Mangles Him. CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., June 20.—Wednesday evening Molen S. Sellar, an old Quaker, residing out of Crawfordsville, had a violent dispute with his son William, which ended in the old gentleman calling his son an abusive name. William thereupon started in to thrash his father, but was attacked by the old man's pet bulldog, which threw him to the ground and began to tear his flesh from his body.

A CASTING EXPLODES.

Throwing Molten Metal Over Several Men, Inflicting Terrible Injuries. MUNCIE, Ind., June 19.—An accident occurred at the Muncie architectural iron works that may cost one man's life. While William Langdon, a moulder, was pouring some melted iron in a mold the large casting exploded, throwing the hot metal over the room, badly burning several men. Mr. Langdon, who was near by, was in a stooping position, and had his back and neck covered with the hot stuff, that fairly cooked the flesh to the bones as it could be got off, leaving him in a horrible condition.

Quick Justice.

DELPHI, Ind., June 19.—Samuel Clemson was arrested Tuesday on an affidavit sworn out by his 17-year-old daughter Minnie, charging rape and incest. He was taken into court Wednesday afternoon, pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to ten years in prison. He was placed on a train for Michigan City within ten minutes after sentence was passed. Clemson is 38 years of age, and has his fifth wife. He was a church member in good standing.

Not Guilty.

MUNCIE, Ind., June 22.—After a hotly contested trial, lasting three days, Judge Bundy of Henry county, charged the jurors in the case in which Attorney Clayton B. Tenpler was charged with altering public records. After being out all night and Saturday, the jury late in the afternoon returned a verdict of not guilty.

Valuable Martin Box.

LEAVENWORTH, Ind., June 23.—During the windstorm Sunday the martin-box and pole in the yard of Frank Campbell was blown down. Among other things found in the wreck were seventy-eight brass buttons, four bright needles, a few glass buttons, a handful of broken glass, one silver dime and a $5 gold piece.

Verdict of Manslaughter.

BRAZIL, Ind., June 20.—The jury yesterday, in the case of the state vs. John Brusler for killing Charles Alvis in a saloon fight at Newburg, this county, last winter, brought in a verdict of manslaughter, and affixed his punishment at six years in the state prison. The court room has been crowded all during the trial. The verdict gives universal satisfaction.

Large Output of Coal.

BRAZIL, Ind., June 23.—More coal is being mined and shipped from this county at this time than ever before for the months of May and June. Every day long trains, thirty tons to the car, can be seen headed for Chicago, mostly leaving by the way of the Chicago and Indianapolis Coal railroad, and as a result the miners are busy.

New Use for an Owl.

RICEVILLE, Ind., June 23.—A large owl entered the open window of J. R. Leonard's bedroom during the night and pounced upon a cat. During the fight which ensued, Mr. Leonard awoke and came to tabby's relief, or the owl would have carried her off. The owl was captured and is now chained in the doorway to frighten chickens from entering.

Crimes and Casualties.

Four ladies were killed by a stroke of lightning at a picnic in one of the suburban parks of St. Louis. Oscar Downard and Scott Whalen have been sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Marshal Vogelsong, at Falmouth, Ky. An Illinois Central train ran into an open switch near New Orleans; four were killed and six injured.

John Humphreys, a Knoxville mechanic, was killed by lightning while attempting to close a window.

Mrs. Margaret Keeboe, of Everson, Pa., did not believe in banks and kept her hoardings—some $3,000 in an old satchel. It is a Pittsburg saloon Leonard Hilton was shot through the head by Richard Sholer in a quarrel over a game of craps. Both colored.

Seven negroes were drowned Saturday night near Baltimore, by a drunken man stepping upon the side of a rowboat and capsizing it. Two were women. At McKeesport, Pa., William Myers shot and seriously wounded Mrs. Harding, a neighbor's wife, because she refused to elope with him. He then put a bullet into his own brain.

An excursion train of fifteen cars, on the Nickel-Plate road, was wrecked near Dover, O., Sunday. Henry Rogers was crushed to death, but Keefe was fatally hurt, and a score or more had legs and arms broken, and were badly bruised.

The Republicans are more active than ever in Portugal, and one of their newspapers has been suppressed for the insolent tone of its attacks on the government. They will hardly miss the paper, however, as half a dozen others have sprung up since the ratification of the Anglo-Portuguese convention.

Four People Drowned. PADUCAH, Ky., June 20.—While boating in a skiff at Leonda, Ill., last evening, William Howischer and William Kreipke, white, and two colored men were drowned. The boat was caught by a storm passing over that section and capsized in mid-river. All were swept away before relief reached them.

NATURAL GAS SUPPLY.

Inspector Jordan's Sensational Statements Cause Great Indignation at Muncie. MUNCIE, Ind., June 22.—The newspaper reports sent from Portland quoting State Natural Gas Inspector Jordan with saying the natural gas in the Indiana belt is failing, has caused much notice by Muncie manufacturers and leading citizens, who are making many uncomplimentary remarks that bring the supposed learned man's faculties on that question very much in doubt. Since Mr. Jordan's appointment by the recent legislature he has never been heard of nearer the gas field than Portland, which is several miles from the belt, and if he will come to Muncie, look at the daily register of pressure of a dozen wells owned by the Muncie Natural Gas company, he can there ascertain that the supply has not in the least depreciated. A letter of inquiry from him or anyone else to J. F. Darnall, of the Muncie mill mills, or Henry Blockman, of the Muncie pulp works, which two institutions utilize gas for making nearly two thousand horsepower, will give the facts as they are, in favor of the gas.

Farmers' Quarrel.

TIPTON, Ind., June 19.—A serious difficulty arose yesterday evening between two prominent farmers living just north of this city. Powhattan Dodd and Dr. G. W. Grove are neighbors, and never had any trouble before, but as Mr. Dodd was on his way to Tipton yesterday evening he met Mr. Grove in the road a short distance from his home, when Grove accosted him about throwing down some fence. Mr. Dodd denied having anything to do with it, when Grove used some vile epithets, making for Dodd with a club, but missed his mark, and Dodd struck his assailant with a piece of fence rail, almost braining him. His recovery is doubtful.

Natural Gas Case Decided.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 23.—The supreme court has decided the gas pumping case, in which collusion was charged, although the decision in no way relates to that charge, but is wholly upon the merits of the case. In this decision, covering fifty pages and rendered by Judge Elliott, the law prohibiting the pumping of natural gas is held to be valid and the decision of the Porter county court is reversed. The decision holds that while gas is a commercial commodity, the state may put a limit on its use.

AT THE TABERNACLE.

DR. TALMAGE PREACHES ON VARIOUS KINDS OF PRODIGALS.

The Crew That Was Almost Saved—The Pardoned Criminal—The Godly Sorrow That Leadeth to Repentance.

BROOKLYN, June 21.—Dr. Talmage's sermon this morning was an appeal to young men. Numbers of these came to the Tabernacle services, many of them from country homes, where they received Christian training, which, in the temptations of city life, has been cast off. Dr. Talmage called his sermon "The Homelike Soul," and his text was from the parable of the prodigal son, Luke xv, 11, "I will arise and go to my father."

There is nothing like hunger to take the energy out of a man. A hungry man can toil neither with pen, nor hand, nor foot. There has been many an army defeated, not so much for lack of ammunition as for lack of bread. It was that fact that took the fire out of this young man of the text. Storm and exposure will wear out any man's life in time, but hunger makes quick work. The most awful cry ever heard on earth is the cry for bread. A traveler tells us that in Asia Minor there are trees which bear fruit looking very much like the long bean of our time. It is called the carab.

Once in a while the people reduced to destitution would eat these carabs, but generally the carabs, the beans spoken of here in the text, were thrown only to the swine, and they crunched them with great avidity. But this young man of my text could not even get them without stealing them. So one day amid the swine troughs he begins to soliloquize. He says: "These are no clothes for a rich man's son to wear; this is no kind of business for a Jew to be engaged in—feeding swine; I'll go home, I'll go home; I will arise and go to my father."

I know there are a great many people who try to throw a fascination, a romance, a halo about sin; but notwithstanding all that Lord Byron and George Sand have said in regard to it it is a mean, low, contemptible business, and putting food and fodder into the troughs of a herd of iniquities that root and wallow in the soul of a man is a very poor business for men and women intended to be sons and daughters of the Lord Almighty. And when this young man resolved to go home it was a very wise thing for him to do, and the only question is whether we will follow him.

Satan promises large wages if we will serve him, but he clothes his victims with rags, and he pinches them with hunger, and when they start out to do better he sets after them all the bloodhounds of perdition. Satan comes to us today and he promises all luxuries, all emoluments if we will only serve him. Liar, down with thee to the pit! "The wages of sin is death." Oh, the young man of the text was wise when he uttered the resolution, "I will arise and go to my father."

In the time of Mary the Persecutor, a persecutor came to a Christian woman who had hidden in her house for the Lord's sake one of Christ's servants, and the persecutor said, "Where is that heretic?" The Christian woman said, "You open that trunk, and you will see the heretic." The persecutor opened the trunk, and on the top of the linen of the heretic he saw a glass. He said, "There is no heretic here." "Ah," she said, "you look in the glass, and you will see the heretic." As I take up the mirror of God's word today would that instead of seeing the prodigal son of the text we might see ourselves—our want, our wandering, our sin, our lost condition—so that we might be as wise as this young man was, and say, "I will arise and go to my father."

IN SORROW ONE LONGS FOR A FATHER. The resolution of this text was formed in disgust at his present circumstances. If this young man had been by his employer set to culturing flowers or training vines over an arbor or keeping account of the pork market or overseeing other laborers he would not have thought of going home. If he had had his pockets full of money, if he had been able to say, "I have a thousand dollars now of my own; what's the use of my going back to my father's house? do you think I am going back to apologize to the old man? why he would put me on the limits; he would not have going on around the old place such conduct as I have been engaged in; won't go home; there is no reason why I should go home; I have plenty of money, plenty of pleasant surroundings, why should I go home?" Ah! it was his pauperism, it was his beggary. He had to go home.

Some men come and says to me: "Why do you talk about the ruined state of the human soul? why don't you speak about the progress of the Nineteenth century, and talk of something more exhilarating?" It is for this reason: A man never wants the gospel until he realizes he is in a famine struck state. Suppose I should come to you in your home and you are in good, sound, robust health, and I should begin to talk about medicines, and about how much better this medicine is than that, and some other medicine than some other medicine, and talk about this physician and that physician. After a while you get tired, and you would say: "I don't want to hear about medicines. Why do you talk to me of physicians? I never have a doctor."

But suppose I come into your house and I find you severely sick, and I know the medicines that will cure you, and I know the physician who is skillful enough to meet your case. You say: "Bring on that medicine; bring on that physician. I am terribly sick, and I want help." If I came to you and you feel you are all right in body, and all right in mind, and all right in soul you have need of nothing; but suppose I have persuaded you that the leprosy of sin is upon you, the worst of all sickness; oh, then you say: "Bring me that balm of the gospel; bring me that divine medicament; bring me Jesus Christ."

But says some one in the audience, "How do you prove that we are in a ruined condition by sin?" Well, I can prove it in two ways, and you may have your choice. I can prove it by the statements of men or by the statement of God. Which shall it be? You all say, "Let us have the statement of God." Well, he says in one place, "The heart is deceitful above all things and desperately wicked." He says in another place, "What is man that he should be clean? and he which is born of a woman, what he should be righteous?" He says in another place, "There is none that doeth good, no, not one." He says in another place, "As by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin, and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." "Well," you say, "I am willing to acknowledge that, but why should I take the particular rescue that you propose?" This is the reason, "Except a man be born again he cannot see the kingdom of God." This is the reason, "There is one name given under heaven among men whereby they may be saved."

Then there are a thousand voices here ready to say, "Well, I am ready to accept this help of the Gospel; I would like to have this divine cure; how shall I go to work?" Let me say that a mere whim, an undefined longing amounts to nothing. You must have a stout, tremendous resolution like this young man of the text when he said, "I will arise and go to my father."

THE ABOUNDING MERCY OF GOD. "Oh," says some man, "how do I know if I go back, I would be received?" "Oh," says some man, "you don't know where I have been; you don't know how far I have wandered; you wouldn't talk that way to me if you knew all the iniquities I have committed." What is that flutter among the angels of God? It is news, it is news! Christ has found the lost.

Nor angels can their joy contain, But kindle with new fire; The sinner lost, is found, they sing, And strike the sounding lyre.

When Napoleon talked of going into Italy, they said: "You can't get there. If you knew what the Alps were you wouldn't talk about it or think of it. You can't get your ammunition wagons over the Alps." Then Napoleon rose in his stirrups and waving his hat toward the mountains, he said, "There shall be no Alps." That wonderful pass was laid out which has been the wonderment of all the years since—the wonderment of all engineers. And you tell me there are such mountains of sin between your soul and God, there is no mercy. Then I see Christ waving his hand toward the mountains. I hear him say, "I will come over the mountains of thy sin and the hills of thy iniquity." There shall be no Pyrenees; there shall be no Alps.

Again, I notice that this resolution of the young man of the text was founded in sorrow at his misbehavior. It was not mere physical plight. It was grief that he had so maltreated his father. It is a sad thing after a father has done everything for a child to have that child be ungrateful.

How sharper than a serpent's tooth, it is, To have a thankless child.

That is Shakespeare. A foolish son is the heaviness of his mother. That is the Bible. Well, my friends, have not some of us been cruel prodigals? Have we not maltreated our Father? And such a Father! So loving, so kind. If he had been a stranger, if he had forsaken us, if he had fagellated us, if he had pounded us and turned us out of doors on the commons, it would not have been so wonderful—our treatment of him; but he is a Father so loving, so kind, and yet how many of us for our wanderings have never apologized. We apologize for wrongs done to our fellows, but some of us perhaps have committed ten thousand times ten thousand wrongs against God and never apologized.

I remark still farther that this resolution of the text was founded in a feeling of homesickness. I don't know how long this young man, how many months, how many years he had been away from his father's house; but there is something in the feeling of my text that makes me think of homesick. Some of you know what that feeling is. Far away from home sometimes, surrounded by everything bright and pleasant—plenty of friends—you have said, "I would give the world to be home tonight." Well, this young man was homesick for his father's house. I have no doubt when he thought of his father's house he said, "Now, perhaps, father may not be living."

WAS THE PRODIGAL'S MOTHER DEAD?

We read nothing in this story—a parable founded on everyday life—we read nothing about the mother. It says nothing about going home to her. I think she was dead. I think she had died of a broken heart at his wanderings. A man never gets over having lost his mother. Nothing said about her here. But he is homesick for his father's house. He thought he would just like to go and walk around the old place. He thought he would just like to go and see if things were as they used to be. Many a man after having been off a long while has gone home and knocked at the door, and a stranger comes in. It is the old homestead, but a stranger comes to the door. He finds out father is gone and mother is gone, and brothers and sisters all gone. I think this young man of the text said to himself, "Perhaps, father may be dead." Still he starts to find out. He is homesick. Are there any here today homesick for God, homesick for heaven?

A sailor, after having been long on the sea, returned to his father's house, and his mother tried to persuade him not to go away again. She said: "Now you had better stay at home. Don't go away; we don't want you to go. You will have it a great deal better here." But it made him angry. The night before he went away again to sea he heard his mother praying in the next room, and that made him more angry. He went far out on the sea and a storm came up, and he was ordered to very perilous duty, and he ran up the ratlines, and amid the shrouds of the ship he heard the voice that he had heard in the next room. He tried to whistle it off, he tried to rally his courage, but he could not silence that voice he had heard in the next room, and there in the storm and the darkness he said, "O Lord! what a wretch I have been; what a wretch I am. Help me just now, Lord God." And I thought in this assemblage today there may be some who may have the memory of a father's petition or a mother's prayer pressing mightily upon the soul, and that this hour they may make the same resolution I find in my text, saying, "I will arise and go to my father."

ILLUSTRATION OF THE RESCUED BOY.

A lad at Liverpool went out to bathe, went out into the sea, went out too far, got beyond his depth and he floated far away. A ship bound for Dublin came along and took him on board. Sailors are generally very generous fellows, and one gave him a cap and another gave him a jacket, and another gave him shoes. A gentleman passing along on the beach at Liverpool found the lad's clothes and took them home, and the father was heartbroken, the mother was heartbroken at the loss of their child.

They had heard nothing from him day after day, and they ordered the usual mourning for the sad event. But the lad took ship from Dublin and arrived in Liverpool the very day the garments arrived. He knocked at the door, and the father was overjoyed, and the mother was overjoyed at the return of their lost son. Oh, my friends, have you waded out too deep? Have you waded down into sin? Have you come back? When you come back, will you come in the rags of your sin, or will you come robed in the Saviour's righteousness? I believe the latter. Go home to your God today. He is waiting for you. Go home! But I remark concerning this resolution, it was immediately put into execution. The context says, "He arose and came to his father." The trouble in nine hundred and ninety-nine times out of a thousand is that our resolutions amount to nothing because we make them for some distant time. If I resolve to become a Christian next year, that amounts to nothing at all. If I resolve to become a Christian tomorrow, that amounts to nothing at all. If I resolve at the service tonight to become a Christian, that amounts to nothing at all. If I resolve after I go home today to yield my heart to God, that amounts to nothing at all. The only kind of resolution that amounts to anything is the resolution that is immediately put into execution. There is a man who had the typhoid fever. He said: "Oh! if I could get over this terrible distress! If this fever should depart, if I could be restored to health, I would all the rest of my life serve God." The fever departed. He got well enough to walk around the block. He got well enough to go over to New York and attend to business. He is well today—as well as he ever was. Where is the broken vow? There is a man who said long ago, "If I could live to the year 1891, by that time I will have my business matters arranged, and I will have time to attend to religion, and I will be a good, thorough, consecrated Christian."

The year 1891 has come. January, February, March, April, May, June—almost half of the year gone. Where is your broken vow? "Oh," says some man: "I'll attend to that when I can get my character fixed up. When I can get over my evil habits, I am now given to strong drink," or, says the man, "I am given to uncleanness," or, says the man, "I am given to dishonesty." When I get over my present habits, then I'll be a thorough Christian." My brother, you will get worse and worse, until Christ takes you in hand. "Not the righteous; sinners, Jesus came to call."

DANGER OF PROCRASTINATING.

Oh! but you say, "I agree with you on all that, but I must put it off a little longer." Do you know there were many who came just as near as you are to the kingdom of God and never entered it? I was at East Hampton and I went into the cemetery to look around, and in that cemetery there are twelve graves side by side—the graves of sailors. This crew, some years ago, in a ship went into the breakers at Amagansett, about three miles away. My brother, then preaching at East Hampton, had been at the burial. These men of the crew came very near being saved.

The people from Amagansett saw the vessel, and they shot rockets, and they sent ropes from the shore, and these poor fellows got into the boat, and they pulled mightily for the shore, but just before they got to the shore the rope snapped and the boat capsized and they were lost, their bodies afterward washed up on the beach. Oh, what a solemn day it was—I have been told of it by my brother—when these twelve men lay at the foot of the pulpit and he read over them the funeral service! They came very near shore—within shouting distance of the shore—yet did not arrive on solid land. There are some men who come almost to the shore of God's mercy, but not quite, not quite. To be only almost saved is not to be saved at all.

I will tell you of two prodigals, the one that got back and the other that did not get back. In Virginia there is a very prosperous and beautiful home in many respects. A young man wandered off from that home. He wandered very far into sin. They heard of him often, but he was always on the wrong track. He would not go home. At the door of that beautiful home one night there was a great outcry. The young man of the house ran down and opened the door to see what was the matter. It was midnight. The rest of the family were asleep. There were the wife and the children of this prodigal young man. The fact was he had come home and driven them out. He said: "Out of this house. Away with these children; I will dash their brains out. Out into the storm!"

The mother gathered them up and fled. The next morning the brother, the young man who had stayed at home, went out to find this prodigal brother and son, and he came where he was, and saw the young man wandering up and down in front of the place where he had been staying, and the young man who had kept his integrity said to the older brother: "Here, what does all this mean? What is the matter with you? Why do you act in this way?" The prodigal looked at him and said: "Who am I? Who do you take me to be?" He said, "You are my brother." "No, I am not; I am a brute. Have you seen anything of my wife and children? Are they dead?" I drove them out last night in the storm. I am a brute. John, do you think there is any help for me? Do you think I will ever get over this life of dissipation?" He said, "Brother, there is just one thing that will stop this." The prodigal ran his finger across his throat and said: "That will stop it, and I'll stop it before night. Oh! my brain; I can stand it no longer." That prodigal never got home. But I will tell you of a prodigal that did get home.

TWO RAN AWAY, BUT ONE RETURNED.

In England two young men started from their father's house and went down to Portsmouth. The father could not pursue his children; for some reason he could not leave home, and so he wrote a letter down to Mr. Griffin, saying: "Mr. Griffin, I wish you would go and see my two sons. They have arrived in Portsmouth, and they are going to take ship and going away from home. I wish you would persuade them back." Mr. Griffin went and he tried to persuade them back. He persuaded one to go. He went with very easy persuasion because he was very homesick already. The other young man said: "I will not go. I have had enough of home. I'll never go home." "Well," said Mr. Griffin, "then if you won't go home I'll get you a respectable position on a respectable ship." "No you won't," said the prodigal; "No you won't. I am going as a common sailor; that will plague my father most, and what will do most to tantalize and worry him will please me best."

Years passed on, and Mr. Griffin was seated in his study one day when a message came to him that there was a young man in irons on a ship at the dock—a young man condemned to death—who wished to see this clergyman. Mr. Griffin went down to the dock and went on shipboard. The young man said to him, "You don't know me, do you?" "No," he said; "I don't know you." "Why, don't you remember that young man you tried to persuade to go home, and he wouldn't go?" "Oh, yes," said Mr. Griffin. "Are you that man?" "Yes, I am that man," said the other. "I would like to have you pray for me. I have committed murder, and I must die, but I don't want to go out of this world until some one prays for me. You are my father's friend, and I would like to have you pray for me."

Mr. Griffin went from judicial authority to judicial authority to get the young man's pardon. He slept not night nor day. He went from influential person to influential person until some way he got that young man's pardon. He came down on the dock, and as he arrived on the dock with the pardon the father came. He had heard that his son, under a disguised name, had been committing crime and was going to be put to death. So Mr. Griffin and the father went on the ship's deck, and at the very moment Mr. Griffin offered the pardon to the young man, the old father threw his arms around the son's neck and the son said: "Father, I have done very wrong and

I am very sorry. I wish I had never broken your heart. I am very sorry." "Oh!" said the father. "Don't mention it; it doesn't make any difference now. It is all over. I forgive you, my son," and he kissed him and kissed him and kissed him. Today I offer you the pardon of the gospel—full pardon, free pardon. I do not care what your sin has been. Though you say you have committed a crime against God, against your own soul, against your fellowman, against your family, against the day of judgment, against the cross of Christ—whatever your crime has been, here is pardon, full pardon, and the very moment that you take that pardon your heavenly father throws his arms around about you and says: "My son, I forgive you. It is all right. You are as much in my favor now as if you had never sinned." Oh! there is joy on earth and joy in heaven. Who will take the father's embrace? THE MANIAC, THE CRIMINAL AND THE BRIDE.

There was a gentleman in a rail car who saw in that same car three passengers of very different circumstances. The first was a maniac. He was carefully guarded by his attendants. His mind, like a ship dismasted, was beating against a dark, desolate coast, from which no help could come. The train stopped, and the man was taken out into the asylum to waste away, perhaps, through years of gloom. The second passenger was a culprit. The outraged law had seized on him. As the cars jolted the chains rattled. On his face were crime, depravity and despair. The train halted and he was taken out to the penitentiary, to which he had been condemned. There was the third passenger, under far different circumstances. She was a bride. Every hour was gay as a marriage bell. Life glittered and beckoned. Her companion was taking her to his father's house. The train halted. The old man was there to welcome her to her new home, and his white locks snowed down upon her as he sealed his word with a father's kiss.

Quickly we fly toward eternity. We will soon be there. Some leave this life condemned. Oh, may it be with us, that, leaving this fleeting life for the next, we may find our Father ready to greet us to our new home with him forever. That will be a marriage banquet! Father's welcome! Father's bosom! Father's kiss! Heaven! Heaven!

James Keeps His Place.

There is a small boy working in a mercantile establishment in this town who is not likely to be hanged while he stays in New York state and the present laws stand as they do. More than this concerning this young man it would be rash to prophesy.

Now, the merchant who employs him to do a great many things very badly is large, red of face, pompous and dignified. He was once in the senate gallery at Washington when Roscoe Conkling sat down, metaphorically speaking, on a statesman from Jimtown or some other place. Since that time this merchant has been Conklingesque, particularly when rebuking an employee.

Now the small boy, who may be called James, succeeded the other day in performing some especially villainous action that drew down upon him the wrath of his employer. So he was called into the presence. The dignified merchant expanded his chest, frowned and proceeded to annihilate the small boy with a look. The small boy would not amuse him.

"James," said the merchant haughtily. "Yes, sir," said James not at all haughtily.

"I wish you to listen to me."

"Yes, sir," said James.

"This sort of thing won't do at all, sir."

"Yes, sir," said James.

"There can be no apology for such proceedings! Do you hear, sir?" said the merchant. "I will not hear of an apology, sir!"

"Yes, sir," said James, "but I haven't made none."

Then the sentence closed, and James is not yet discharged. The haughty merchant is still thinking the matter over, and does not see his way clear. James does.—New York Recorder.

Ladies Riding Sideways.

The introduction of the style of riding on horseback side saddle is attributed to Anna of Bohemia, consort of Richard II. She it was, according to Stowe, who originally showed the women of England how gracefully and conveniently they might ride on horseback sideways. Another historian, enumerating the new fashions of Richard II's reign, observes: "Likewise noble ladies then used high heads, and corsets and robes with long trains, and seats on side saddles on their horses, by the example of the respectable Queen Anna, daughter of the king of Bohemia, who first introduced the custom into the kingdom; for before women of every rank rode as men."

Stothard, in his beautiful illustrative picture of Chaucer's "Canterbury Pilgrims," appears, according to the above quoted authorities, to have committed an anachronism in placing the most conspicuous female character of his fine composition sideways on her steed. That the lady ought to have been depicted riding the male fashion might have been inferred, without any historical research on the subject, from the poet's describing her as having on her feet "a pair of spurs sharpe."—Detroit Free Press.

The Great Sun Dragon.

It is the belief among both the ignorant and the educated classes of China that eclipses of the sun are caused by a great dragon which attempts to devour the center of our solar system. An eclipse which was visible in the Celestial empire occurred at a time when the people were celebrating the birthday of the emperor. Now, it is the custom to celebrate such an event clad in the best raiment that can be afforded; it is also customary to wear sackcloth and go into mourning at the time of an eclipse, at least until the sun has been rescued from the great dragon which seeks to devour it. Here, indeed, was a dilemma. At last the emperor was petitioned. He being superstitious as his people, ordered his birthday ignored and commanded the people to go into mourning until the sun shall be "rescued."—St. Louis Republic.

Jenkins Breasts Loose.

Miss Fenderson is one of those lovely, nymphlike maidens who seem the incarnation of some poet's dream of beauty. She is somewhat above medium height, with a lithe, graceful figure, exquisite in its proportions, and a bearing of mingled ease and dignity. The clustering locks of her bright, golden brown hair contrast strikingly with her large, velvety lashes over-arched by strongly marked eyebrows. In moments of animation or excitement the pale rose tint of her cheeks deepens and glazes like "a ray down," and her brilliant eyes glow with redoubled luster. Hers is not the beauty of coloring alone, for her features have a cameo-like delicacy and regularity.—New Orleans Picayune.

The NATIONAL HYMN AS REARRANGED FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR. SANTA CLAUS SOAP

My Country! 'tis of thee, Sweet land of liberty, Of thee I sing; Land where our fathers died; Land where our Mothers cried, Over the wash-tub tied Let freedom ring. My native country thee— Land of the noble, free— Thy name I love; I love thy tucks and frills But oh! what laundry bills; My soul with horror thrills, When I think of thee, Let music swell the breeze, And flow through all the trees, Hail SANTA CLAUS; Let tired mortals wake And gladly try a cake, Let all for cleanliness sake, Join the applause.
