THE DAILY NEWS.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 12, 1878.

SENATOR McDONALD broke silence to-day.

GEN. BEN. SPOONER has been re-appointed U. S. Marshal, after a heavy opposition, which is a very substantial compliment.

A PROMINENT eastern money lender writing to a business man of this city on the subject of a lower rate of interest says: "Our customers think that 9 per cent or at least 8 per cent gold is small enough when they consider what power a crazy congress has in affecting trade and western credits generally."

It is announced for the president that in reappointing General Spooner to the office he has administered so long and so faithfully, that previous service was rather a recommendation for the candidate than a drawback.

That portion of the English fleet ordered to Constantinople, but which has not yet gone, pending negotiation for its entrance, consists of five vessels: the Alexandria, (flagship) 8,000 horse power, armament, 20 25-ton and ten 18-ton guns.

An open letter from The News to the supreme court of Indiana is printed elsewhere. That court made a rule discriminating against this paper in favor of the morning papers, and trying to prevent The News from publishing the decisions on the day they were made.

SENATOR SHERMAN is indignant at the so-called trial of returning board Anderson, and unbosoming himself to the public says the deepest feeling of resentment will exist in the minds of the people at his conviction because of their belief that the returning board officers simply did their duty.

Samuel L. Brown, general agent, Chicago, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy yesterday. Preferred debts $7,600; secured debts, $118,000, with $138,000 assets. Unsecured, $13,000. The assets are only badly encumbered real estate.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday against Daniel F. East, Henry V. Smith and John D. Eastor, of Chicago, all members of the agricultural implement firm which failed recently.

A St. Petersburg dispatch says the Russian troops have positive orders to enter Constantinople, since the powers have determined to send fleets there. The sultan is thought to allow two vessels of each nation to enter the straits.

be restive under these prosecutions. The Louisiana legislature promised to join hands in restoring the prosperity of Louisiana. They are not doing it; while so far as the other party to the contract is concerned, they have done it, and on this account will come the feeling of resentment.

It seems to be pretty clear that the English are going to put their fleet in the Golden Horn, whether they are given the sultan's permission or not, and equally clear that the Russians, on that pretext or without any, will put their army into the city whether the other powers like it or not. Each understands the purpose of the other fully, and means to be in a position to check it if it goes too far, but each is in wholesome dread of the other and talks of mutual co-operation and courtesy and helpfulness to the christians of Constantinople, as if they were allies.

Obituary.

Hon. Mercer Strous, member of congress in 1861-62, died at Pottsville, Pennsylvania, yesterday.

Mr. Conrad, who was secretary of war under Fillmore, died at New Orleans yesterday, aged 73. He had also been a member of the house of representatives and United States senator.

Captain Abner O'Neil, for fifty years a successful steamboatman on western waters, died at his residence near Steubenville, Ohio, yesterday.

William Welsh, of Philadelphia, brother of the American minister to the Court of St. James, fell dead of the heart disease, yesterday afternoon, at Wills hospital, at which place he was visiting at the time. He was president of Girard college and was identified with many benevolent institutions in this city.

Hon. Gideon Welles, ex-secretary of the navy, died last evening at Hartford, from the effects of a carbuncle, which had confined him to the house for about two weeks. He was born at Glastenbury, Connecticut, July 1, 1802, and was consequently nearly 76 years old.

Darius R. Mangum, ex-president of the National Trust company, has been held to bail in $20,000 on a charge of perjury. W. J. Fell and Joseph E. Taylor, spice dealers, Philadelphia, whose suspension was announced last week, were yesterday remanded for trial on a charge of conspiring to defraud Wm. Clark by false representations.

An Open Letter.

To the Honorable Judges of the Indiana Supreme Court: The News respectfully petitions your honorable court for the rescinding of the extraordinary rule forbidding access to decisions prior to the hour of 2 o'clock p. m. of each day and respectfully represents that the said rule not only inflicts a great hardship upon this paper, but also the sincere belief that it was procured from the court by considerations and motives which demand correction and rebuke, as much in protection of the honor and dignity of your honorable court as in justice to The News, against which the rule is unmistakably aimed.

The animus which has inspired the said rule is best disclosed by a recital of the successive steps in the enterprise undertaken by The News of abstracting the supreme court decisions. During the past year The News has obtained a numerous and substantial circulation over the state, reaching by its carrier lists such points as Frankfort, Plymouth, Laporte, Goshen, Warsaw, Union City, Muncie, Seymour, Mitchell, Vincennes, and more than one hundred intermediate towns and villages. From various sources requests have come up from the bench and bar for the publication of the supreme court decisions. This it was decided to do, provided the facilities then and heretofore existing for obtaining decisions on the day of their filing, could be relied on. To this end his honor, Judge Perkins, then chief justice (December last), was visited and was understood to cordially commend the enterprise.

The following is the dispatch sent to Gen. Anderson by Messrs. Sherman, Garfield, Matthews, Hale and White: WASHINGTON, D. C. February 4, 1878. "To General Thomas Anderson, New Orleans: "The undersigned feel it due to you, under the present circumstances, to assure you of our unshaken belief that in the matter wherein you stand charged you are altogether guiltless of any offense against the law; that you are falsely accused and maliciously persecuted; that the proceedings against you, though in the form of law, are without the substance of justice; and we hereby tender our earnest sympathies, and express our hope that the sense of justice and love of peace of the people of Louisiana will protect and not permit the best interests of the whole country to be disturbed by a revival of sectional animosities. In any event we are confident that the American people will redress any injustice of which you may be made the victim."

An Old Offender in Trouble. The notorious Madame Restell, whose career of crime covers a period of 30 or 40 years, was arrested in New York yesterday, charged by Anthony Comstock, of the society for the prevention of vice, with selling to him, on two different occasions, medicine to cause abortion. She was taken to court, and Judge Kilbreth fixed her bail at $10,000. She offered the amount in United States bonds, but the magistrate demanded real estate bail. This the madame could not procure, and she was locked up in the toms.

Congressional. The time of the senate yesterday was taken up with receiving petitions in favor of re-nomination, and the discussion of the silver bill. No other measure of public interest was considered. In the house a large number of bills were introduced, among them one declaring forfeited and opened to actual settlers all lands granted to railroads, where the conditions have been violated. The military academy appropriation bill was discussed without coming to any consideration.

down a newspaper enterprise. The News through its representative has heretofore made a partial and imperfect statement of facts to his honor Judge Biddle, and was able to present him with the following petition, which it is believed would have contained the name of every respectable attorney of the city could opportunity have been offered for signature.

- INDIANAPOLIS, January 10, 1878. To the Hon. Judges of the Supreme Court: The undersigned members of the Indianapolis bar, esteeming as a great convenience and benefit the abstracts of supreme court decisions appearing recently in The Indianapolis News on the same day of their completion by the court, and understanding that some difficulties lie in the way of obtaining said decisions in time for publication on the same day of their filing, would respectfully petition the honorable court to extend such facilities as may be in its power for the procurement of the same.

This petition which was left in the hands of the chief justice, proved of no avail whereupon the following request for a hearing was made to the court.

Representatives of The News now awaiting, regarding the rule of your honorable court fixing the time for filing of decisions as a grievance, ask a very brief audience before the honorable court, to present the same at the close of your consultation to-day. Hoping the request may not be deemed an unwarrantable importunity, your obedient servant, JOHN H. HOLLIDAY, Proprietor of News. Your honors, it will be cause for profound regret throughout the legal fraternity, and on the part of all lovers of fair-play, that the above almost obsequious request should have met with the peremptory denial of your honorable court for even a brief audience. The request was made confidently, presuming upon the simplicity of our democratic institutions, and the right of petition which is granted even in monarchical governments. The extreme action of your honorable court in thus refusing the right of petition, charges the court itself with full responsibility for the disreputable work of those who have influenced its action.

The honorable court has not been asked to extend any partiality to The News—nothing has been asked that could conceivably retard or embarrass the court's business. The request is for the abrogation of a rule which discriminates oppressively against The News, and which is shown to have been procured through motives of personal animosity, by an accumulation of proofs sufficient to remove the reasonable doubt if life were at stake. Your petitioner further asks the attention of your honorable court to the significant fact that in the majority of cases since the adoption of this rule your consultations have closed before 12 o'clock, sometimes as early as 10 o'clock a. m., and perhaps would not average later than 11 o'clock a. m. The fixing of an arbitrary hour so late as 2 o'clock p. m. is further shown to be an unnecessary rule by the action of his honor Chief Justice Biddle, who on an occasion subsequent to its adoption repaired in person to the clerk before that hour to notify him that the decisions were ready to be delivered, whereupon the clerk, taking refuge behind the rule, which he had nurtured, refused to receive them before the expiration of the hour, compelling the chief justice to return and await the pleasure of the clerk in bondage to this most unreasonable rule.

The News will allow no one to go before it in all proper tokens of respect to constituted authority, but it transcends the power of Deity itself to make a right out of a wrong and those who are, by the vicissitude of political fortune, called to the higher duty of weighing equities and discriminating justice in our supreme court, must not champion wrong and oppression if they would retain the respect of the people.

The Anderson Case. The following is the dispatch sent to Gen. Anderson by Messrs. Sherman, Garfield, Matthews, Hale and White: WASHINGTON, D. C. February 4, 1878. "To General Thomas Anderson, New Orleans: "The undersigned feel it due to you, under the present circumstances, to assure you of our unshaken belief that in the matter wherein you stand charged you are altogether guiltless of any offense against the law; that you are falsely accused and maliciously persecuted; that the proceedings against you, though in the form of law, are without the substance of justice; and we hereby tender our earnest sympathies, and express our hope that the sense of justice and love of peace of the people of Louisiana will protect and not permit the best interests of the whole country to be disturbed by a revival of sectional animosities. At a recent meeting in England, which was characterized by much religious excitement, an old man gave expression to his joy by shouting, and continued it until it began to interrupt the services. Brother W— was requested to "go and stop the old man's noise." He went to him and spoke a few words, and the shouting man at once became quiet. "Brother W—, what did you say to the old man that quieted him so promptly?" "I asked him for a guinea for foreign missions," said Brother W—.

Strange Connection of Rivers. In order to test whether there actually is, as was supposed, a real connection between the Danube and the Aach, a solution of phthalin of rosenin was introduced into the former at Emmendingen, and about two or three days after the bright green fluorescence of the solution was seen in the latter. The Upper Danube thus sends part of its waters into the German ocean as well as into the Black sea. There must be a subterranean channel through the five miles of limestone which separates the apparent source of the Aach from the Danube.

The total number of strikes in England in 1877 was 191. If all the people who engaged in them were to work uninterrupted for the next ten years, and at the advance for which they struck, it would not recoup them for all they had lost during the 12 months of 1877. In France strikes are avoided by the council des prudhommes, a tribunal which takes cognizance of disputes between employers and laborers respecting wages. It inquires into the questions at issue, the state of trade, the cost of living, etc. It seeks to do justice to both parties, and its decisions are generally satisfactory.

Thou and I. Strange, strange for thee and me, Sadly afar; Thou art beyond, above, I 'neath the star; Thou whose flowers deathless spring, I where they fade; Thou in God's paradise, I 'mid the shade. Thou where each gale breathes balm, I tempest tossed; Thou where true joy is found, I where 'tis lost; Thou counting ages thine, I not the morrow; Thou learning more of bliss, I more of sorrow.

Thou in eternal peace, I 'mid earth's strife; Thou where care hath no name, I where 'tis life; Thou without need of hope, I where 'tis vain; Thou with wings drooping light, I with time's chain. Strange, strange for thee and me, Loved, loving ever; Thou by life's deathless fount, I near Death's river; Thou winning Wisdom's lore, I strength to tramps; Thou 'mid the scorpions, I in the dust. —[Phoebe Cary.]

A farmer drove to Dubuque, Iowa, a few days ago and rather than pay 25 cents for ferryage, crossed over on the ice; when about half way over his team broke through, and went down in 16 feet of water. Both horses were drowned and the man narrowly escaped with his life.

In finance the Wall street man is now immersed; his speech is of silver, his talk of the trade dollar, his hobby that he could give "points" to congress. In faience his wife is absorbed; she daubs pigments on ugly jars, calls it decoration, and dreams that she is an artist. —[New York Tribune.]

Death from joy is a rare occurrence in this sober, cloudy world. A Sheffield blacksmith who had been in prison for two months, returned to his home on Dec. 10, and on seeing his wife and child was so overjoyed that he ruptured his heart and died before a physician could be summoned.

J. W. Iliff, known as the "great cattle king of the western plains," died at Denver, Colorado, Saturday. He was the most extensive cattle breeder and cattle raiser of the far west, his pasturage region embracing immense tracts in Wyoming territory and Colorado. He was a man of great wealth, energy and public spirit.

The grand master of the state of New Jersey has secured one of the lodges in Patterson for initiating a man who had lost his right thumb by amputation, and suspended the master of the lodge for the remainder of his term. At the same time the grand master declared all initiations of such "imperfect" persons null and void.

Four distinct races inhabit Hungary, the Sclaves, the most numerous; the Germans, who are for the most part a mixed breed; the Magyars, and the Romanians. There are also a great many Jews, who have increased and multiplied exceedingly of late years. For instance, in 1870, Pesth had only 10,000; now it is believed to have 50,000.

At a recent meeting in England, which was characterized by much religious excitement, an old man gave expression to his joy by shouting, and continued it until it began to interrupt the services. Brother W— was requested to "go and stop the old man's noise." He went to him and spoke a few words, and the shouting man at once became quiet. "Brother W—, what did you say to the old man that quieted him so promptly?" "I asked him for a guinea for foreign missions," said Brother W—.

Senator Allison, having charge of the silver bill, is confident the people will not veto it. Persons who hold intimate relations with the president, who have recently talked with him, think that he has been considering what is said to be the old whig doctrine, namely, that the president should not veto any measure which comes to him indorsed by a large majority of representatives of the people in both branches of the congress, and that the veto power is only to be exercised in cases where bills presented appear to the president to be a violation of the constitution. It is certain many leading silver men are more confident now than they were a month ago that the president will not veto the bill. Senator Conkling in response to an inquiry, said to-day that it was not his present intention to speak on the silver question.

The Vote on the Silver Bill. [Washington special.] It may be that the senate will waste all of the present week on the silver bill without reaching a vote. Conkling, Merrimon, Edmunds and Herford are all booked for speeches, and each orator will want a day to himself. Allison, who has charge of the bill, is growing restive under the threatened exuberance of "chin," and may compel the senate after Friday to sit out until a vote is reached.

STATE NEWS.

The pressure on the authorities for relief by the poor of Richmond is strong. The red ribbonites are waxing fat in Terre Haute. The list is now 5,000 strong.

The Peru light guards will give a grand ball on the night of the 14th of this month. The Laporte circuit court has furnished nine state prison candidates for terms of four years each.

The Johnson County Democrat says W. Scott Ray will make an attempt to secure the democratic nomination for congress from that district. The Jefferson county Sunday-school convention "resolved that, as a rule, unconverted persons should not be employed to teach in Sabbath-schools."

John G. Daily, aged 32, a prominent attorney, and a very prominent member of the Masonic fraternity, died at his residence in Boonville, on Sunday. Several of the most prominent citizens of Flatrock township, Bartholomew county will leave in a short time to establish homes for themselves and families in Nebraska.

The democracy of Allen county Saturday selected thirty-nine delegates to the democratic state convention. The delegation will be solid for Wm. Fleming for state treasurer, but have no instructions as to other candidates.

The democracy of Wayne county held a convention at Cambridge city for the purpose of appointing delegates to attend the state convention at Indianapolis, the 20th. Sixteen appointments were made, and everything satisfactorily arranged.

Campbell and Summers, blacksmiths of Loogootee, Martin county, had a difficulty, Saturday night, in which revolvers and knives were freely used. Campbell shot Summers three times, making several ugly flesh wounds. Whisky was the cause.

The Daviess county democratic mass meeting passed resolutions demanding the re-nomination of silver, the repeal of the resumption law, indorsing Senator Voorhees, and instructing delegates to vote for Hon. Henry A. Reed of Martin county for secretary of state.

Dr. Henry Lingle, the oldest physician of Orange county, died at his home in Orleans Thursday night of pneumonia. Also, Dr. Theophilus Ritter, of consumption, at Orangeville. Dr. Lingle has practiced medicine in Orange county for 50 years, and was one of the most prominent men of the county.

A large and enthusiastic silver and green-back meeting was held at the court house in Lafayette Thursday evening, to appoint delegates to the Toledo convention. John L. Miller addressed the convention. Mr. Miller was unanimously chosen to represent that congressional district at Toledo on the 20th inst.

At 2 o'clock Saturday morning a party of coon hunters discovered the horse and buggy of Rev. Julius Hood, of Flatrock, on the bank of Flatrock creek, near his home, about nine miles south of Shelbyville. Mr. Hood had been holding meetings last week at Toor's chapel, six miles west of Shelbyville, and started home late Friday afternoon. The continuous rain for the past forty-eight hours had swollen the river, and it is supposed that having found himself in danger of drowning, he undertook to swim to shore, but with fatal results. Mr. Hood was about thirty-five years old, married, and an exemplary and much beloved man.

The largest democratic convention ever held in Delaware county met at Muncie on Saturday. Resolutions were passed favoring the unconditional repeal of the resumption act; the unlimited re-nomination of silver; and legal tenders for all debts, public and private; the retirement of national bank notes, the same to be replaced by greenbacks; that the republican administration and congressional legislation were the cause of the general business stagnation all over the country. A resolution of commendation for the cowardly action of the republican convention last week in not coming out squarely on the currency question. Some 500 copies of Dan Voorhees's speech were then distributed, and the convention adjourned.

The Warrick county convention of democrats on Saturday resolved for reduction of taxation; the restoration of the silver dollar of our fathers; the immediate repeal of the resumption act; no banks of issue—all currency to be issued by the government; that the democrats and conservatives of Warrick county look upon Indiana's senator, Daniel W. Voorhees, as the Moses ordained to lead the country through its sea of financial troubles; that this convention points with pride to the official record of John Nester, and to his honor and integrity as a man and a citizen, and earnestly re-commends its delegates to the state convention to urge his claims for the office of auditor of state; that the delegates of Warrick county are instructed to vote solidly for him at the state convention.

ENGLISH OPERA.

The Hess English opera season of four nights and a matinee will open at the opera house to-morrow evening with the "Chimes of Normandy," the masterpiece of Aime Maillart, one of the favorite composers of the French opera comique.

The story is an incident of the war in the Cevennes in the early part of the reign of Louis XIV., and the costumes will be quaint and picturesque to suit the period in which the opera is set.

Terrestrial Magnetism.

To the Editor of The Indianapolis News: BLOOMINGTON, February 11, 1878.

The old adage, "A stitch in time saves nine," was exemplified by the timely publication in The News, under the date of the 8th, the account of Dr. Richard Owen's discoveries.

From the Scientific American (of New York), of the date of the 16th, which was received here on Saturday and handed to Dr. Owen on Monday, is the news of somewhat similar experiments performed by M. Bourbouze at Paris, France, though not unfolding as many hidden mysteries concerning terrestrial magnetism.

But Mr. B. did not determine the direction of the currents in the earth's crust nor discover the current from the atmosphere to the earth. Hence we claim for this distinguished son of our state, Dr. Owen, an equal share in the honor and emolument of this important advance and discovery in electricity which is creating quite a stir in the scientific world.

These laws of nature will doubtless, when fully investigated, radically revolutionize the theory and practice of telegraphy, for, in the words of the American, "these prove that continuous aerial currents exist at an altitude capable of serving the purposes of telegraphing except in storms." BLOOMINGTON NEWS.

[Correspondence of The Indianapolis News.] BLOOMINGTON, Feb. 11, 1878.

The democratic convention of Monroe county selected 39 delegates to the state, 16 to the judicial and 21 to the congressional convention; appointed a central committee and transacted its usual business. The county platform was formed, declaring in favor of non-sectarian schools, equal taxation and governmental control over all corporations. Its financial policy demanded: 1. The resumption act to be immediately repealed and the silver dollar re-monetized. 2. National bank notes to be replaced by an equal volume of United States greenbacks. 3. The making of greenbacks legal tender for all debts, public and private, except in certain cases. The delegates to the judicial convention were instructed to vote for and a resolution passed endorsing John W. Buskirk for circuit judge; those to the state for Aquila W. Rogers for state treasurer and K. W. Miers for attorney-general. After an exhaustive financial speech by John B. East, candidate for congressional nomination from this district, followed by others, the assembly adjourned.

For several days the town has been in excitement over the finding of the body of a newly-born babe in the privy vault of the Orchard house. It is supposed to be the child of a waiter girl, who has been arrested and is now in jail. All Monday the coroner's jury sat on the case, but up to 3 o'clock no verdict had been given.

On invitation President Moss left for Terre Haute, on Friday, to deliver an address before the Y. M. C. A., Saturday night and a sermon on Sunday, in the Baptist church.

Henry A. Burt, Miss Lucy A. Maxwell and Albert E. Bryan are the delegates from this association to the business convention of the state oratorical association at Crawfordsville in March.

At the last meeting of the city council the ordinance for the protection of the Sabbath was amended, but for the better. A sidewalk was ordered on Third street, east of College avenue. A new law with penalty was passed requiring the school board of trustees to report in writing each July on the condition, finances, property, the prosperity of the public schools, the number of teachers employed and pupils attending.

The city fathers have requested our mayor to resign on account of financial difficulties between him and them. He has not done so as yet. T. J. T.

A Girl Who Reads Novels.

[Lafayette Courier.]

The evil effect of indiscriminate novel reading had a practical and forcible illustration in this city to-day. Last evening Mr. Kiger, a well-to-do resident of Frankfort and a devoted father, arrived in the city, stopping at the St. Nicholas. He at once conferred with the authorities whose assistance he desired in searching for his daughter Grace, aged 14, who had disappeared from home four or five days ago.

Supposing that she was with her grandmother, no fears had been aroused until yesterday. The above particulars appearing in the morning paper, came to the eyes of Miss Levering, Mrs. C. A. Reynolds and others connected with "The Home," who knew at once that the young girl giving her name as "Lena Rivers," from Frankfort, and who had been at the institution several days, was the lost child. Mr. Kiger was completely overcome when he met his daughter and wept like a child. He was delighted to find her in such good hands and his fears for the worst were soon allayed. Miss Grace or "Lena," as she is pleased to call herself, took everything in the most matter-of-fact manner. She is slightly off her mental balance in consequence of a nervous affection for which she is being treated. The name of "Lena Rivers" she adopted from a novel, and the trip was suggested by the thrilling escapade of some beautiful heroine which her fancy loved to dwell upon. She reads novels incessantly. She is a slave to them.

The coon was fat, weighing 48 pounds at the time of his demise. John W. Northway, a plasterer, living at No. 306 East North street, fell under a Peru train on the North street crossing last evening and received injuries about the head and upper part of the body which were at first thought to be fatal. Later they were discovered to be less serious, no bones being broken and no deep cuts made. When he was carried home he looked as though the life had been crushed clear out of him.

Thomas MacIntire, superintendent of the institution for the deaf and dumb, has issued a circular to township trustees over the state and others concerned, inquiring into the number of deaf-mutes there may be scattered through the state who have never been brought under instruction. The intention of the board of trustees of the institution being to make an increase of accommodations, they want some data to go upon before the proposed buildings are erected.

THE LAST OF THE RENOS. Gov. Williams Issues a Requisition for Him—He May be Tried for an Old Robbery. A requisition was issued by the governor this morning for John Reno, the last living representative of the notorious Reno gang, who is now serving a term in the Missouri penitentiary. He was originally sentenced for 25 years, but Governor Brown, of that state, about the time of the expiration of his term of office, wrote him a pardon releasing him at the end of ten years' confinement. There is quite a wrangle over this pardon, it being claimed that it is of no effect, the governor having issued it after his term of office had expired. For a long time it has been missing, its existence even doubted, but the document has at last turned up and the prisoner is making strenuous efforts for release, which are being strongly combated by the Adams express company officials, who are determined he shall serve the full term of 25 years if he can possibly be kept there. In view of the chance of his release in a few days, under the Missouri governor's pardon, the requisition of Governor Williams will be used to bring him back to Jackson county, in this state, and put him upon trial for the Adams express robbery near Seymour, on the night of October 6th, 1866, when he and four or five others entered the express car on an eastward bound train on the O. & M. road and presenting revolvers at the head of the messenger took his key and rifled the local safe of nearly $18,000. The other members of the gang were hanged about two years after this occurrence, hanged at Seymour and New Albany, leaving John who had skipped to Missouri where he was soon after arrested and convicted of a similar offense, as the only mail survivor of this talented family.

The Suspected Felon Act. From the howl set up by the Sentinel this morning, it is very evident that The News touched the bottom facts in its publication yesterday of the animus that moved the habeas corpus proceedings in the Thomas Lockhart case. The usual wail about oppressing the laboring men, grinding the poor and crushing the unfortunates is raised. It would be a sad thing if Lockhart's rights should not be respected. Lockhart is an ex-convict, and is now under indictment for robbing a prostitute in Madam Starr's Washington street dive of inequity. On this charge he was once convicted and a new trial granted. Before the date of the second trial the prosecuting witness had been run out of the state and the defendant turned loose. Since that time he has lived about in out-houses, barns, stables and freight cars, and a better illustration of the true thieving vagrant could not be dug up in Indiana. That is the kind of a "poor laboring man" Lockhart is. Well, this morning the argument in the habeas proceedings was begun, J. M. Crupser opening on behalf of the plaintiff. Recognizing the importance of the issue Sheriff Pressley has employed Dye & Harris to assist J. E. Heller in the defense, and it is quite likely that the argument will last all afternoon. Then it will be seen whether Judge Buskirk has lent himself to the scheme to overturn the city with crooks.

A Missing Money Package. The Washington specials to the Chicago Times and Journal of yesterday make mention of the mysteriously missing package of $1,830.50 from the treasury at or about the time of the transfer of the office by John C. New to his successor, Mr. Wyman, and also speak definitely of a defalcation amounting to $2,000 by Frank R. New, a nephew of the ex-treasurer. Mr. New, who was interviewed on the subject by a News reporter this afternoon, stated that he had returned the $1,800 package over to his successor, and had a voucher on file showing the transaction. As to the alleged defalcation, by his nephew he claimed to have heard nothing of it until a few days ago, and emphatically denies that the young man was dismissed from the department by reason of any charges of financial irregularities as the dispatches indicate. What became of the $1,800 Mr. New does not know and as he is not responsible for its fate does not seem to worry him much. In regard to the statement that Mr. New made good a $2,000 defalcation from his private funds, that gentleman says he never pretended to have made good any such deficiency from his own means.

The Criminal Court. The grand jury to-day reported several indictments, among the number joint indictments against Weaver, Travis and Daugherty, the Cincinnati murderers, for assault and battery on Marshal Manning and John Graham, the Irvington horse car driver. The mountain laborer and brought forth a mouse. George and Francis Ishmael, Samuel Marshall, Thomas Montgomery and Elias Morrison were indicted for petit larceny, Wm. Corbett for assault and battery with intent to kill Adam Miller, and Mary Harter for grand larceny. They were all arraigned and without exception entered pleas of "not guilty." On the recommendation of the grand jury Frank Cassidy, Lon Reeves, Van Davis and Aaron Montgomery were discharged from custody. Davis and Reeves were the parties arrested recently on a charge of abducting two big-fisted girls. There was too much mutuality for an abduction charge to stick.

Rumored Suicide. The coroner was called this afternoon to investigate the cause of the death of a young lady who died at Isaac Roberts's, one and a half miles west of Broad Ripple, on Sunday last. The story as related to the coroner is that the woman came from Logansport a few weeks ago to her uncle, Mr. Roberts, to be delivered of an illegitimate child, and that on Sunday she committed suicide by taking poison. How much of this story is truth and how much idle gossip the coroner will determine by evening. The name of the unfortunate woman could not be learned.

Buffalo Bill. Buffalo Bill and troupe will repeat their performance of the startling border drama of "May Cody, or Lost and Won," at the opera house to-night. In addition to the expert marksmanship of Mr. Cody, a wonderful donkey and a talented bear are prominent features of the play. The audience last night was both large and demonstrative.
