STATE FAIR WEEK "blows in" with some genuine autumn weather.

The Rev. Justin D. Fulton, the other day "offered" Mr. Capel a little by saying, in effect, that he was a humbug.

Nearly 700 boys and twenty-four girls, in the last three days, have entered the art department of the Cooper union evening classes.

Gen. Longstreet says that the tariff issue is the only thing that will break up the solid south. Then for goodness' sake start the issue.

The San Francisco Argonaut says "Richard Grant White is an ass." If he is, it is a great pity the world isn't full of them.

Mr. Joseph Medill, of the Chicago Tribune, now in New York, gives the following opinion concerning the reduction to two cents by the New York Times:

Its effect will extend like a wave, resulting in deteriorating American journalism. The papers throughout the country will doubtless follow suit.

Another English expression struggling for freedom in this country is "standing for office"—as Mr. Bland has concluded to "stand for the legislature." The American statesman who would succeed can not afford to stand for anything but the post office.

Mr. Blaine touched the popular chord. The misfortunes that befall were enough to be reduced. New York, like all large commercial cities of the world, affects the prices throughout the country, of which it is at the head in regard to business.

As for the revolutionary effect of the change, Mr. Medill agrees with the guess we made at it. But we expected the result to be ultimately "the extinction of most or all of the froth and stuff and frivolity of the circus poster style of newspapers, and the pitchfork style of journalism."

Will Take it Out in Eating. John Alport, a provision dealer, announces his intention of settling the bill of a delicatessen, a Mr. Macle, keeper of a restaurant at No. 10 South street, New York, by eating it out.

When Don't Advertise Protection. We would like to see better wages and fewer monopolies.

from Washington and from New York columns of stuff that could properly be dismissed in a few lines.

The name of the prostitute at New Harrison, Wabash county, has been changed to Dick.

George Colvin, a sneak thief, was captured at Frankfort, dressed in female apparel, the other night.

A postoffice has been established at Winthrop, Warren county, and J. G. Sallor appointed postmaster.

Nathaniel Startman, leading carriage and wagon manufacturer of Delphi, has failed. He left his home on Saturday.

Mr. John Oliver, a prominent farmer living near Franklin, was kicked on the knee by a colt and seriously injured on Saturday.

A yellow rattlesnake four feet and a half long, with thirteen rattles and a button, with eleven black snakes and a rabbit inside of it was killed near Lafayette the other day.

There is but a slight decrease in the enrollment of students at the State university at Bloomington. There are in college proper, 138; in preparatory, 134—369 in all.

The Evansville table factory burned Saturday night, together with a dry house and yard full of lumber. Loss about $13,000; insurance $3,000. It was a co-operative concern.

An eight-year-old daughter of Joseph Elmer, of Noblesville, had her clothing almost burned off her body on Saturday, while playing around a fire of dry leaves. She will probably die.

The store of Thomas Wilkerson, Scipio, Johnson county, was broken into the other night and robbed of a quantity of tobacco and a silver watch and revolver, amounting to $200 or $300.

The notion and dry goods store of Mrs. Stephenson, New Albany, was broken into by burglars on Friday night, and silks, velvet dresses, etc., carried away of the value of about $400.

The Hanover flouring mill, situated ten miles north of Indianapolis, was robbed Saturday night of 1,000 pounds of flour in cotton and paper sacks, some of which was burned with the same.

The man Laquet, shot by the Maddox brothers at Camden, Jay county, a few days ago, is in a critical condition, with little hopes of recovery. The brothers have not been captured.

Henry Boywer, of Greenfield, was pruned trees when he fell to the ground and his left leg was driven into the earth several inches, breaking the leg in three places and so mangled it that it had to be amputated.

John Storm, living near Logootops, was arrested at Mount Carmel, Ill., the other night, having in his possession a pair of pistols and a silver watch and revolver. He had been reading the life of Jesse James, and determined to follow in his footsteps.

A German lady, whose name is unknown, was found in the streets of Columbus, at midnight with two ribs broken and collarbone out of place. She says she was going to Louisville and was taken from the railroad track by a passing train.

At Mt. Vernon, on Saturday, Schneider, the boy murderer, of Van Wye, was sentenced to be hanged. Anderson, his accomplice, who held the young man while Schneider cut his throat, then pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to be hanged. Both will be executed January 1, 1884.

W. J. Idings, of Coatsville, a student in the Duane Central normal college, and his roommate, Jared J. McCollum, of Covington, were arrested Saturday night for the possession of a revolver, Sunday morning, when the weapon was discharged, the ball entering the abdomen of Idings, and ranging upwards to the latter fatally.

Burgess & Goleman, of New Haven, manufacturers of bent wood work have confessed judgment for $70,000 in favor of John W. White, and closed their business. Burgess & Goleman, largely interested in real estate, will lose heavily, as he has indorsed very freely. He has transferred all his real estate.

The frost some days ago did considerable damage in spots throughout Tippecanoe county, but on the whole the outlook is reasonably fair. The frost was in fact in ten days, for fully a large crop as last year, in consequence of the failure of the wheat, and this will make up for frost damage.

Gus Gordon, night clerk at the Lutz house at Wabash, disappeared at the same time with $50 in money brought to the proprietress, Mrs. M. A. Newman, and Charles Lummere, and also a revolver, hat and an overcoat belonging to J. H. Koome, of Elkhart, and later found in a barn in Jay county, and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

My love and I set sail one day From out the morning's silver gray. As I was mired and pensive rather, Aboard the morning's silver gray. That changed to gold whatever was gray, As we sailed on together.

"Oh, heed that, my love!" I said, For in her clouding face I read That she had parted from the sunny weather, "You wonder where the sky is red," I lifted up her drooping head, "I'll be with you together."

"See where we sail!" I cried, Behold The shining of my mother's gold. We'll meet again with pleasant weather, Those rays will soon our bark unfold. Thus, her drooping head consoled, As we sailed on together.

And cheerily we sailed away— "Keep heart of courage, love," I say; "We'll have a sunny weather." "But see, the gold turns swift to gray— "Oh, close your eyes, my love, I pray, As we sail on together."

And soft I crooned until she slept, And her sleep close guard I kept. White dark and darker grew the weather, It seemed to me we only crept, And as another mast I saw, Then we sailed swift together.

I permitted naught to blight Her sleep till darkness changed to light, And waking only when 'twas light, My love knows not there is a night Since we sail together.

Ladies' heels are getting higher. Always too broad—The road to ruin. Puffed sleeves have entirely collapsed. A pair that lost the game—Adam and Eve. Eighteen female telegraph operators are still "out" in New York.

Carrouds, the violinist, has paid $3,400 for the Stradivarius once used by Paganini. The milk inspectors of Boston have found in recent examinations, 40 per cent. of water.

Some Philadelphians are about to settle an extensive stock farm in Kendall county, Texas, and to introduce live cattle. An old frame house in Winona, Me., built 114 years ago, was moved half a mile last week without even cracking the plastering.

Kentucky colonels are said to be amazed at the general belief that Prince Alexander, of Hesse Cassel, thirty years to become a colonel. An old farmer said of his pastor, who was more excited in his preaching than a good man, but he always rakes with his teeth up.

Prof. Thatcher, who taught Latin in Yale college for fifty years, and has been reading for five years on account of failing health, has begun again. Sanscrit has been placed among the optional studies of the senior year at Williams college. Only one student has thus far signified a desire to take it.

Each lady attending the Globe theater, Boston, opening night, received as a present a complimentary copy of the "Globe" for the evening given so much as a free clove. London Truth cannot discover why it is more inmodest for a girl to exhibit her more modestly in a knickerbocker dress on the sand than to exhibit the upper half of her person in an evening dress in a drawing room.

Canada's new liquor law prohibits sales in towns that vote to prohibit them in otherwise license commissioners the power to refuse license at discretion. It bars must be closed on Monday morning. The Westinghouse Air-Brake company has declared an 80 per cent. dividend. The more profits this company makes the more profitable its business is. A gentleman in Portland, Me., had a pre-arranged dinner at a restaurant. At 10 o'clock in the night his household was awakened by the clerk of the drugist, who said that poison had been given by mistake. The gentleman had taken one small dose and was in a stupor. Another dose would have killed him.

It was said of a certain governor of New York that he was the best man in the state for a partying that when a barber who had the misfortune to cut him exclaimed, "Beg pardon, governor," he promptly replied, "Certainly! You are inside of the barber's shop and take one. I always carry a few pardons about with me already signed."

"Would you kindly tell me when the next train starts for New York in P. M.?" "O'bull!" "The next train, madam?" "Sure!" he has gone ten minutes." Lady: "How annoying! Perhaps, sir, you could inform me at what time the train goes to O'bull?" "I'm sorry that I can. It's been taken off this month, and there's no last train at all, at all!" [Punchy Folks.]

The old "Ice Furnace" in Bath county, Kentucky, is said to be the oldest furnace of the West. It commenced operations in 1791, and continued running forty-seven years. It was built by James Caldwell, who was host by General Jackson at the battle of New Orleans were manufactured at Slate Furnace. Many balls made at that time and not shipped, are on duty in Eastern Kentucky door-tops.

Russia has a continuous territory unparalleled by any country in the world. Stretching from the Baltic to Behring straits it is a continuous strip of land. It has a long hand, and, on the other, almost touches the territory of the United States. The czar's empire reaches nearly half round the world. It is said to be the largest of the world.

Mr. E. H. Shields, of Good Hope, Miss., is the inventor of a big gun, which he calls the "Mississippi Sweetstake," and describes it thus: "The gun shoots 4,000 balls at the explosion of one cap. It will kill 100 men of a regiment of 100 men at a distance of 100 yards. It has forty-nine barrels all combined in one, and each barrel shooting one ball. It is a horizontal plain from the others. Shooting a distance of 100 yards, it will cover a space of 100 yards, filling a want long felt."

Mr. Horace McVicker, who has the venerable theatrical manager, has launched out in business for himself, and the eastern dramatic papers have many flattering words for him. He is a descendant of the famous McVicker family, who were an eminent member of the family was the famous Rev. Mr. Vicker, of Wakefield, whom Oliver Wendell Holmes Goldsmith immortalized in a play written especially for Mrs. Langtry, Young's Opera House. McVicker was named after the old Roman poet, Horace Flaccus. [Chicago News.]

A Youthful Poet Disturber. In the recorder's court at Patterson, N. J., Friday, Leonard Follen, a four-year-old boy, was arraigned on a charge of having assaulted a woman by three years in the name of the Style. The youthful prisoner was dressed in a knit waist and skirt, and tearfully sobbed out his story. The other boy had some cake which he refused to share, and for his meanness he was hit on the head with a stick. The recorder put the young prisoner under bonds to keep the peace.

Great Reduction of Time. In 1836 the best railroad time between New York and New Orleans was five days, and a passenger had to make nine changes, many of them long rides from depot to depot. In 1869 the time was reduced to four days; in 1873 to three and a half days; and in 1875 to three days and only one change. Now the time has been reduced to fifty-eight hours.

Killed by Accident. Saturday night the boiler of the engine running the saw at the bridge, now being constructed over the Red River for the Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific railway, near Shreveport, La., exploded with terrific force, killing five men and wounding five others, who were at work at the night fire.

The names of the killed, all of whom are white, are: J. Humphreys, of Mason City, Ia.; James Cameron, of Pierce City, Mo.; William Thomas, John Mallory, John Burr, Galveston. The wounded are: Willis Jones, Cincinnati, slightly in the head; James Gill, Junction City, Ky., on head and breast; Al. Watkins (white), Parkersburg, W. Va.; scalded; Charles Henry (colored boy), Seaside.

An explosion of fire works in an outbuilding of the Pittsburg exposition, last night, resulted in the death of a horse, jockey and three race horses and the destruction of 900 feet of stabling. The horse was Polka Dot, owned by J. W. Small, Kalamazoo, valued at $2,000. The jockey was valued at $4,000. Polka Dot's rider, Thomas Rogers, of Kalamazoo, suffocated.

A piece of timber, weighing half a ton, fell into the Woodward shaft at Kingston, Pa., Saturday afternoon, precipitating to the bottom four workmen who were timbering the shaft sixty feet up. There were twenty feet of water in the shaft and the men were drowned. Their names were George Bulg, Thomas J. Davis, Edward Phillips and Isaac Bean. All except Davis leave large families.

Two miners, Patrick Sullivan and John McNeil, were killed on Saturday morning by a cave-in on the Iron Hill Consolidated mines, near Leadville, Col.

Lawlessness in the Army and Navy. (Washington special Courier-Journal.) An epidemic of law breaking and dishonesty appears to have broken out and spread among officers of the army and navy until it has assumed alarming proportions. It has even affected the lads in the military academies, where honor and obedience to law are among the chief things taught. Within a week three cadets have been dismissed from West Point for conduct unbecoming cadets and gentlemen, and half a dozen cadets have been dismissed from the naval academy for law breaking. Secretary Chandler has now in his hands, awaiting action by the president, the cases of two officers sentenced to dismissal. One is a commodore, who assigned his pay account for the same period to different persons. The other is a lieutenant convicted of drunkenness. Secretary Lincoln is considering the case of Lieutenant Col. Higgs, who has been found guilty of issuing duplicate pay accounts, his third offense. The judge advised the general head court martial papers in the cases of Capt. Hubbard and Lieutenant Robinson, the latter sentenced to dismissal for duplicating his pay accounts. Major is hunting for the court martial papers, who stole about $2,000 of government money recently and fled. To crown all, the secretary of war will be called upon to approve or disapprove the sentence of a court martial in the case of a chaplain, who is accused of signing and issuing duplicate pay accounts.

A Serious Difference. The difference of opinion as to whether promotions in the civil service are to be determined by competitive examinations is becoming so great that the civil service act may be in a measure nullified. The commissioners say promotions should only be made after a competitive test. The executive officers of the government, on the other hand, claim that the law contemplates nothing of the sort, and they further declare that their construction of the law is just as good as that of the commissioners.

A Short Cotton Crop. [Albany (Ga.) News and Advertiser.] There can no longer be any doubt about the cotton crop in Southwest Georgia being shorter this year than has been known since the war. The drought and caterpillars together have cut the crop down to less than half an average yield.

Baking Bread on Sunday Unlawful. At New York city, the court has decided that baking bread on Sunday is not necessary for the good order, health or comfort of the community and was therefore contrary to the code. As it was a test case the prisoner was only fined $1.

CITY NEWS.

Judge Adams is holding court in Hendricks county. Mary Donahue, petit larceny, has been committed for grand jury action. Mr. C. E. Merrill, the inventor, has returned from Washington with a patent for an improved spray pump, which he thinks will revolutionize the business. Saturday afternoon and evening the District Telegraph distributed 25,000 copies of the Ladies Magazine. Another cargo of similar publications is expected to arrive in a few days. Raymond W. Clark, of Hamilton county, forty-four years ago, borrowed $500 from the college fund, on which he has paid interest and cents aggregating $1,378.00. To-day he paid the principal of the loan. Thomas J. Hamilton, of the city, was called for trial to-day in Judge Taylor's room. Plaintiff was injured by a fall into Pogue's run, owing to the washing away of the Market street bridge, and he demands $5,000 damages. The Charley Holland nuisance case is 'on' to-day in the Criminal court. Holland is engaged in the sale of intoxicants at Broad Ripple, and the temperance people are trying to have his place declared a nuisance under the law. In the mandamus proceedings of W. H. Draper vs the state auditor to compel the latter to draw his warrant for $18,199.44 in payment of five volumes of the Revised Legislative reports, in which there was a ruling for plaintiff, the defense has taken an appeal to the supreme court. Saturday Van Camp & Co. found themselves with nearly 7,000 bushels of tomatoes on hand, and as their packing capacity was only 5,000 bushels per day, the word was passed in the west end, and over 1,000 bushels of good tomatoes were gratuitously distributed among the families in that section. Oliver Powers, of Cartersburg, and George Winston, of Plainfield, drove to the city yesterday, and last evening started homeward on a 7:30, the horse being driven along West Washington street at a gallop. Patrolmen Quigley and Mack, attempted to check him, and Quigley finally overhauled them after a square foot chase, stinging over a square. To-day the defendants were sent down for fast driving. Arrest of McCoy. George L. McCoy, of Cassletown, was arrested, Saturday night, on a grand jury indictment charging him with securing and converting mortgaged goods and chattels, and he was placed under $1,000 bonds, with his father, James L. McCoy, and John W. Bronson as sureties. The complainants are Seymour, Sabin & Co., of Stillwater, Minn., and the prosecution springs from a business matter of some two years standing, wherein defendant executed a chattel mortgage on his horses, growing corn and a road wagon, to secure payment for a steamer purchased of the company. The machinery, in damaged condition, and a portion of the mortgaged property recovered under the face of the above prosecution, is being sold to-day at Cassletown, under order of the court, and some trouble was manifested, growing out of threats against Cal Roeder, who is attorney for the firm, and who has brought down upon himself the wrath of McCoy's friends on that account. Roeder went to Cassletown this morning and his sheriff accompanied him.

GOV. PORTER'S PURPOSE. He Will Not Call an Extra Session Unless there Should Arise an Overwhelming Demand, or He Should Find it Utterly Impossible to Do the State Business—The State's Safe and Money. An Indianapolis correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal of Saturday has a long screed published, in which Gov. Porter and his administration is reviewed from a professed independent standpoint. A newspaper interviewed the governor, this morning and his answers were made to interrogatories based upon the article in question. "Governor," asked the reporter, "will you call an extra session of the legislature?" "I will not unless I find that the business of the state can not possibly be done without it, or unless there shall come an overwhelming popular demand for it. My position is this: The legislature cannot meet the general appropriation bill. Pending my consideration of the metropolitan police bill, the passage of the appropriation bill will be re-considered as a measure against me, and to compel me to send in my veto of the police bill before the expiration of the constitutional period allowed me for the consideration of bills. At that time the chairman of the commission appointed to distribute the state's contribution for the relief of the sufferers from the Ohio river flood, nearly every moment of my time was occupied in attending to that imperative duty. It was my right, as it was also my duty, to consider the police bill as long as the constitution would allow me. The legislature could not force me to do otherwise. My action at that time was a result of the general sentiment of the people of the state and many democrats personally assured me that I had acted properly in the premises as related in the popular protest against calling an extra session. Such was the tenor of public sentiment at that time and unless there be manifested, as I at first remarked, an overwhelming demand for an extra session at the expiration of the present term, or, unless I find it utterly impossible to transact the business of the state without legislative assistance, a special session will not be called. "How about meeting the interest on the state debt, making provision for the losses of the state university, etc., etc.?" "The emergency has not yet arisen, and will not until November 1. Consideration of these things will then be had, and the powers of the executive under the law will then be determined. "Will the state treasurer and auditor repair the state's safe as directed by you and recommended by the experts?" "Those gentlemen have not yet refused to do so and I must allow them reasonable time. If they still refuse to make the repairs or if at an expiration of reasonable time they find that they show no disposition to make the repairs, I shall immediately apply for a mandamus from the court to compel them to do so. "Do you own any stock in any bank which may have any of the funds of the state either loaned or in its vault?" "I own stock only in the Indiana National bank, and not a dollar of the state's money is in it nor has there been. When comptroller of the treasury I refused to assist although then a stockholder, in making the bank a United States depository, a privilege it might have secured had I not occupied the position I did. THE WACHSTETTER CASE. The Jury Find the Defendant Guilty and Assess a Robust Penalty. The argument in the Wachstetter case closed Saturday evening, and within two hours the jury had agreed upon a verdict of guilty, with a penalty of five years in the prison north, and $500 fine. The fine was changed from $1,000 to $500, because the law prescribes an amount not exceeding double the value of the property stolen. Mr. Wachstetter was greatly set back upon hearing the result, although there is an impression, in viewing the weighty testimony against him, that he anticipated a mild dose. His counsel gave notice of the usual motion for a new trial, and the defendant was then remanded to the custody of the sheriff, and is now in jail. It is doubtful if he secures a new trial, at least save by appeal to the supreme court, and in the meantime he will be compelled to assume the stripes of penit and do the state some service for his offense against its laws. The result was received by the general public with surprise and satisfaction. There was a fear that his wealth, coupled with an ingenious defense, might effect a release, but his counsel found themselves over-weighted from the start, and as the case was so great they will not be apt to hear of a new trial. The jury on the first ballot stood 11 to 1 for conviction, and a number of them favored a two years imprisonment. Like the juries selected late in the criminal court, it was an exceptionally strong one, its members consisting of John D. Taylor, Lewis B. Vilesy, John Keeling (farmer), Charles Johnson, John M. McLean, David Nicholson, Jr., C. Irvin, John Tarleton, D. Veltman, J. J. Ralph, Joseph W. Lunt and John C. Walker. The court, in the morning, the court, the jury for two weeks, and the McCarty's, as co-defendants with Wachstetter, will therefore, not be reached until some time in October. Hogan McCarty, it is understood, relies upon an alibi, and will endeavor to show that the time when the robbery was committed and he was attending a baseball match. He will have to build strongly for the result of the Wachstetter case, in that he and Billy are pretty near in the "nine-hole." Taken altogether, the case is a grand triumph for the state, and the court authorities, as well as the police, are justified if they indulge in self-congratulation. Banged With a "Billy." Patrick Greely and James McAllister while taking a social glass in Quinn's saloon, on East Washington street, last evening were met by Frank Burke, who began growling over some trouble he had had with some of Greely's relatives. Greely and Burke "joked" a few moments, then adjourned to the sidewalk, clinched and rolled into the gutter. McAllister stood by a while, and then, suddenly, and without warning, Patrick O'Day banged him over the head with a "billy," making cut on his forehead. McAllister walked off, and then O'Day turned his attention to Greely, whom he was unable to offer further resistance to. Burke then returned to the saloon, and the battle in Burke's favor, and he skipped away in time to avoid arrest. Greely was badly cut about the head, and his wounds were dressed by police surgeon Hodges. Soon after the affray O'Day was arrested for intent to kill, and this morning the mayor caused him to be grand jury action. He offered no defense during the preliminary examination. Burke is still at large. All the men are employed in Kincaid's pork house. Mrs. Spratt's California Property. Mrs. A. J. Spratt, who went to New York in quest of valuable papers relating to California property left her by her husband, returned yesterday morning. Her search for several seasons deprived the matter of sensational features. The late George W. Jewell, who died six months ago in New York, had left the property of her husband in trust, and the papers passed into the hands of Albert Leavitt, her executor, who had become insane, and was in a private asylum. Mrs. Spratt, however, received satisfactory assurance that the papers were safe in New York. Miss Jewell, a sister of the deceased millionaire, is also suffering from mental derangement. Mrs. Spratt denies that she suspected Miss Jewell and Mr. Leavitt of having escaped. Mrs. M. M. Spencer, the well-known modiste at 128 North Illinois street, will make dresses, during the coming fall and winter months, at her reduced popular prices, namely: $5 for silk and $5 for worsted dresses. Cloaks and other garments proportionally low. No visitor to the city and state fair should return home without seeing the beautiful statuary and monumental work of A. A. McKain, 20 East Market street. There is no finer, better or cheaper in the state. Indianapolis Grain Market.
