

THE HONORED DEAD

THE GRESHAM FUNERAL SERVICES AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

THE PRESIDENT, HIS CABINET AND REPRESENTATIVES OF ALL THE FOREIGN GOVERNMENTS IN ATTENDANCE.

THE BODY COVERED WITH THE FLAG AND BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS.

HONORS TO THE DEAD SECRETARY OF STATE—THE EARLY MORNING SCENES AT THE ARLINGTON—AT THE EXECUTIVE MANSION—MESSAGES OF CONDOLENCES.

Special to the Indianapolis News.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—With all the impressive but quiet dignity of one of the highest Government officials, interposed with the profound and almost dazing tribune which is paid to a statesman, the body of Walter Q. Gresham, late Secretary of State, was borne away from Washington to-day at noon to his last resting-place in Chicago.

The crowds, which by thousands thronged the parks and streets along the line of the funeral march, were orderly and reverent, marked contrast with the demonstrations at the funeral of the late Mr. Blaine. There was no call for a display of police power, and no accidents incidental to the ceremony.

The Early Morning Scenes.

Lafayette Park, which occupies the block directly in front of the White House, and commands the entrance to the Arlington Annex, where the remains of the late Secretary lay in the early morning, presented an animated scene as early as 7 o'clock. Before 9 o'clock the military organizations were drawn up in line along Pennsylvania avenue, in front of the White House, extending from Seventeenth street on the west to the fourth street on the east, and down Fifteenth street to F street, commanding completely the War, State and Navy Departments, the executive mansion, the Treasury Department and the Department of Justice.

The Funeral Procession.

At 9 o'clock the doors to the room where the body lay were opened, and the family and the friends of the late Secretary Gresham, in an agony of grief, were almost carried from the room by her son Otto, and was followed by her daughter, Mrs. Gresham, and her two sons, Mr. Andrew and Mrs. McGraw and Captain Fuller. Meanwhile Mrs. Carlisle and other ladies of the cabinet were gathered around the casket, borne by eight stalwart sergeants of the Fourth Cavalry, and the casket was placed in a cedar casket, bearing a gilt plate with the name of Walter Q. Gresham, Chicago, Ill.

Previous Funerals at White House.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—Secretary Gresham was the third great official in the cabinet circle held in the White House in recent years. The first was the late Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Tracy, of President Harrison's cabinet, who met a tragic death by jumping from the windows of the White House in 1877. Harrison requested that the bodies of the dead should be taken to the executive mansion, and this was done. Before the late Secretary's remains were placed in the casket, the body of the late Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Sherman, was taken to the White House, and his remains were placed in the casket.

Many Expressions of Sympathy From Well-Wishers.

Washington, D. C., May 28.—Among the messages of condolence received by Secretary Gresham's family are the following: From ex-President Benjamin Harrison, at New York:—I beg to tender to you and your children my sincere sympathy in your bereavement.

Messages of Condolence.

Washington, D. C., May 28, 1896. "Edwards, Chairman. The family of Walter Q. Gresham are fully appreciative of the kind sympathy that you have expressed to them in their private grief. They conclude to accept immediately to Chicago, where the funeral will take place at 10 o'clock to-morrow."

The Ex-Confederates.

Chicago, May 28.—Chicago is beginning to swarm with ex-Confederates and guests, who have come to attend the dedication ceremonies of the new Soldiers' Monument to be erected in Old Wood's Cemetery. Yesterday every train from the South brought one or more persons of this description, and they are being taken to the program of entertainment for the day.

retary and Mrs. Lamont, First Assistant Postmaster-General, and Secretary of the Treasury Britton and Mrs. Britton and a few other intimate friends were with the sorrowing and stricken family.

The Distinguished Mourners.

By 10:45 o'clock the vast East Room was nearly filled. Ex-Secretary Britton, with his wife, was one of the first official arrivals. Closely following him came the Japanese minister, Mr. Kurino, with his wife. The remainder of the diplomatic corps arrived in rapid succession.

In Historic Surroundings.

The Fomeroy House, in which the dead Secretary lay, is one of the oldest occupied by the President. The locality is rich in historic reminiscences. Opposite was spread Lafayette Square, the most spacious park in the city, while beyond, the old Madison House, now the home of the Commodore Club, while farther down Lafayette Place were the old Taylor house, now the residence of the late Secretary.

ODD AND ECCENTRIC WAYS

A MAN APPARENTLY DROWNS HIMSELF BUT REAPPEARS.

Battle With Tramps at Ft. Wayne—Masonic Graves From Jerusalem—A Lucky Investment—Lackey's Assaults Arrested.

Special to The Indianapolis News.

Jeffersonville, Ind., May 29.—Not an odd figure in a present condition in the prison, but the "Star" Trotter, as he is known to the authorities, Wm. Morris, Trotter will be liberated soon, and he will be shipped back to Terre Haute, whence he was sent, though he is really a Jeffersonville man. Trotter was a well-known, brilliant sort of a fellow around here, but not particularly obnoxious, that is, he was not a trouble-maker. He, his little brown dog and the woman he lived with, Belle Tubor, were familiar figures in this city. One night Trotter took his dog and she feared arrest, and that his conscience troubled him, and he proposed to commit suicide. That night, May 5, 1882, Martin Heifrich, of Louisville, found a man sitting on the ferry dock at the Ohio, with his head resting on his hands, who told him that he intended to jump into the river and drown himself. With that he sprang from the dock and disappeared. Effects which he had left on shore proved that it was Trotter. He was found in the river in July, 1882. Since that time he has been a frequent visitor to the prison, where he was recognized by the people here as Trotter. He had been sent to prison in four-year terms for criminal assault.

Trotter related to friends that he had dived from the ferry-dock and swam half mile, then he went ashore and was discovered by the people. He was believed to be dead, he left for Terre Haute, where he was shot by a man named John Oldridge who froze his feet, and one hand to be partly amputated. What caused him to make his disappearance he has never told.

A BATTLE WITH TRAMPS.

Deputy Sheriff Hadly Wounded and a Tramp Fatally Shot.

Ft. Wayne, Ind., May 29.—Yesterday afternoon Deputy Sheriff Ryan, Harold Stout and Culler, and patrolman Tanner were directed to arrest a number of tramps who were rendezvousing in the Pittsburg railway yards, and one of the tramps started to run, with Ryan and Stout in pursuit. The pursuit was through a field, in which three suspicious-looking fellows were evidently hiding, and the deputies gave them attention. This precipitated a conflict. One of the tramps was Ryan, and as Ryan attempted to disarm him, he pulled trigger, the bullet missing Ryan and hitting Harold Stout in the foot, and he also shot him in the leg. Another one of the crowd shot Harold in the hip, while the first who had started to run, Ryan shot into the man's abdomen, and he was dropped to the ground. Reinforcements were brought to Ryan and Stout, and after a running fight of some distance, in which fully twenty shots were fired, all of the fellows surrendered. The fellow shot through the bowels gave his name as William Walrath, of Akron, O. The other two registered as Charles Stone, of Chicago, and Henry Duffy, of a safe-cracking outfit was found in their possession. He confessed to the safe-cracking, and may not recover. The bullet which struck Walrath passed through his intestines, severing the large intestine. This morning Stone and Duffy were committed in default of $5,000 each, on a charge of assault with attempt to kill the deputy sheriff.

Walrath was found hanging down Stone's back, inside of his clothing. Walrath, the wounded man, who was shot through the abdomen, is still alive. Two fine diamond-pointed axes were found hidden in his clothing, and they were taken to the police. Deputy Sheriff Harold is in a dangerous condition. He is being treated by a physician named Martin, a deserter from the regular army.

DEPAUW UNIVERSITY FUNDS

COL. J. W. RAY, EX-TREASURER, REPLIES TO CRITICISMS.

He Cites the Fact That the DePauw Estate Contributed More Money Than the Entire M. E. Church Since 1807.

Col. John W. Ray, ex-treasurer of DePauw University, publishes a statement in the Journal today refuting the recent criticisms on the financial management of that institution, and taking exception to many of the charges made. Colonel Ray states that after the death of W. C. DePauw, which occurred in May, 1857, after the specific bequest was made, it was soon that in the residue of his estate, out of which 40 percent was to go to Purdue, was about $1,500,000, which would make about $600,000 for the university. The will provided that $100,000 should be paid to Purdue, and the balance to the university, which the institution was to pay to his heirs an annuity of 6 percent, the annuity to terminate with the death of the widow. The first year's annuity was $10,000, and in 1894, $40,000 had been paid to the university, on which annuities amounting to $240,000 were due. The university has published. The will also provided for supplementing current receipts, to help pay current expenses, etc., $10,000 in all, to be paid $5,000 for the first year, $5,000 for the second year, $10,000 for each of the next two years; $10,000 for each of the next two years; $10,000 for each of the next two years, making the entire amount, as detailed, $80,000, while the gross sum is $100,000. In June, 1884, the university received $10,000, which was paid on this account $11,150.32, while, as the will reads, there was due $47,500; over $36,000 had been received by the university. Colonel Ray reports that the sale of the land near Chicago was conducted in 1884, and the proceeds were $125,000, which was paid to the surviving DePauws did not get the cash. Instead, the proceeds have been brought to the estate, and have been properly accounted for to the Board of DePauw University. No loss accrued to the university, says Colonel Ray, from the school of music, save about $100 or $125. The university has received $100,000 from the school on its own account, he went in debt about $3,000, for which the university is responsible. Colonel Ray claims that the loan to the Haughey interests has such that any prudent man would have refused to make the loan. The plan being destroyed by the fire, the trustees have proceeded to settlement as fast as the financial condition of the country will warrant. It is pointed out that the trustees have not been able to raise the money, and that the income of $75,000 suspended, and no one thought that the trustees had mismanaged the fund. The trustees have not been able to raise the money, and that the income of $75,000 suspended, and no one thought that the trustees had mismanaged the fund.
