TELEPHONE CALLS. Old Company, Nos. 141, 172, 37, 218. Call any of these numbers or simply THE NEWS and say for the Department you want.

THE NEWS FOR VACATION TIME. Persons leaving the city for summer vacation or on business can have the News mailed to them at any address at the week. Telephone No. 141, 204 3/4.

FOR COUNTRY HOLIDAYS. A few days in the country - away from the danger of the city and the broiling heat of the pavements - out in the open fields, with nothing in sight above nearer than the sky and everywhere birds and flowers and shady trees and running brooks and growing crops. Who does not long for that now and then, whatever his condition in life, and however great the comfort in which he spends his days? And then think what it means to punish children who have had no playground but the street or the alley; whose home is a few narrow rooms in a stuffy block, or a cottage on which the summer sun beats bitterly. It is especially children of such surroundings, that have never been robust, or that have been weakened by disease, for whom the News seeks to find vacation places in the country.

POSTAL REFORM. The Postmaster-General has issued three orders which will have the effect of doing away with grave abuses in the postal service. The law provides that certain classes of mail matter shall be carried at the low rate of one cent a pound. It is entirely within the power of the Postmaster-General to say whether a given publication or class of publications comes within the provisions of the law. Heretofore there has been great looseness in applying the law. The Postmaster-General now proposes to interpret the law strictly. He holds that periodical publications entitled to the cheap rate do not include those having the characteristics of books, but only such as consist of current news or miscellaneous literary matter of both not excluding advertisements, and conform to the statutory characteristics of second-class matter. This rule is sound. You can not make a periodical out of a dozen popular novels by binding them in paper, issuing the independent volumes at stated intervals, and numbering them consecutively. Yet the Government, acting on the theory that such publications are periodicals, has for years given them the one-cent rate.

At the Church Gate. Although I enter not Yet round about the spot Office I hover; And lest I sacred gaze With longing eyes I wait, Expectant of the blest. The minister bell tolls out Above the city's rout, And noise and humming; They've hushed the minister bell; The organ 'gins to swell; Shrill and contented.

My lady comes at last, Timid and stepping fast, Awaiting hither, With modest eyes and cast; She comes, - she's here, she's past! My heart's no longer sad.

Keel undisturbed, fair saint! Pour out your prayer or plaint Meekly and duly; To satisfy your pure prayer Wish not to be denied.

But suffer me to pace Round the forbidden place, Lingering a minute, Lest I should see you wait, And see, through heaven's gate, Angels - William Makepeace Thackeray.

Song. O like a queen's happy tread, And like a queen's fair golden head: But O like a queen's heart for me! Her woman's heart for me!

We wandered where the river gleamed 'Neath oaks that mused and pines that 'A wild thing of the woods she seemed, So quiet and pure as a saint.

All heaven drew nigh to hear her sing, When from her lips her soul took wing, The oaks forgot their pondering, The pines forgot their raving.

And O her happy, queenly tread, And O her queenly golden head, But O her heart for me! Her woman's heart for me! - William Watson in Spectator.

SCRAPS. Montreal has over a hundred miles of electric road. England is a creditor to the world for over $1,500,000,000.

Belgium, according to the census just taken, has 8,800,000 inhabitants. This weather is what the lamented Sherman declared war to be.

The average weight of a sheep's fleece is five and one-half pounds. Munich's Red Cross hospital has for a visiting surgeon the crown prince of Bavaria.

The number of Protestant Christians in India and Ceylon has in fifteen years increased from 1,000,000 to 10,000,000. The Earl of Seaford holds Great Britain's record as a tree planter, with 80,000 trees planted on 40,000 acres in Inverness-shire.

Edward VII wants a higher title than King. Why not call him high, low, jack and knave, and be done with it? - Atlanta Journal.

The plan of having a session of the Legislature next in four years has been seriously considered by the constitutional convention in Virginia. King Edward has established a new decoration, the Conspicuous Service Star, for warrant officers and subordinate officers in the army.

King Edward is rapidly approaching his legal majority. He has been allowed to see in state his first full fight, which interested him keenly. Marshall Hunt, of Iowa, who had been twice Minister of Finance and also envoy to the United States, is dead at 82 years of age.

The only difference between the man who thinks women can't fool him and the woman who knows she can is that she gets fooled a little often. - New York Sun. Don Jernan Risco, the President-elect of Chile, is a relative of the retiring President Errazuriz, and has the support of both Liberals and Radicals.

A circular issued by the prefect of police in Paris orders the prosecution of cabmen and other drivers who in the case of a block-up give vent to their feelings by swearing. Remonstrating with policemen, cab drivers and street car conductors is a serious offense in Austria. Most of the men arrested as public officers, to insult whom was the purpose of the strike, were arrested in stocks and real estate.

unions became too extravagant in their demands. This gentleman frankly said: "For our own sakes we are compelled to fight this movement." Finally, we have convincing proof that the men in the non-union mills needed no coercion to get them into the union, in the fact, revealed by the strike, that large numbers of them are already in the union.

The safer way is to admit that in this, as in all controversies, there is something to be said on both sides. A labor trust is no worse than a capitalist trust. The men are not criminals because they seek to share with the trust in the control of the market. The despotism of the union is no more wicked than the despotism of the trust.

We know nothing of Mr. Shaffer, but we do know that there are labor leaders who are quite as good citizens as Mr. Morgan and the other heads of the steel trust. The strike is greatly to be regretted. It is possible that it might have been averted by the exercise of a little patience and tact. But even so the men are not to be denounced for their mistake, admitting that they have made a mistake. They had the opportunity that has come to them, not for the sake of securing an increase of wages, but in order, as they believe, to prevent the destruction of the union. And they have chosen their time wisely. With prosperous times, and in the midst of a great demand for steel products, and before the trust has become fully established, they press their demands on their employers.

The Postmaster-General has issued three orders which will have the effect of doing away with grave abuses in the postal service. The law provides that certain classes of mail matter shall be carried at the low rate of one cent a pound. It is entirely within the power of the Postmaster-General to say whether a given publication or class of publications comes within the provisions of the law. Heretofore there has been great looseness in applying the law. The Postmaster-General now proposes to interpret the law strictly.

He holds that periodical publications entitled to the cheap rate do not include those having the characteristics of books, but only such as consist of current news or miscellaneous literary matter of both not excluding advertisements, and conform to the statutory characteristics of second-class matter. This rule is sound. You can not make a periodical out of a dozen popular novels by binding them in paper, issuing the independent volumes at stated intervals, and numbering them consecutively. Yet the Government, acting on the theory that such publications are periodicals, has for years given them the one-cent rate.

The second order is aimed at publications having the periodical form, but which are devoid of all other characteristics of periodicals. It is held that, to get the benefit of the second-class rate, a publication must have a subscription price, which must be shown by the publication itself. If it appears that its circulation is not based on its value as a news or literary journal, and that subscriptions are not made because of such value, but because it offers merchandise or other consideration as a premium or inducement, and that the subscription price is merely nominal, then it shall be excluded from the second-class privileges. The final order is that it shall be necessary in returning unsold copies of second-class periodicals. It is thought that a great saving will be effected by this construction of the law. As we have said, it is not a question of making law, but of administering it. Instead of a liberal, we are to have a strict interpretation. In the explanatory statement issued in connection with these orders is the following:

Loose and indifferent interpretation heretofore is responsible for the loss of many millions to the Government. It is believed that when the effect of these changes is thoroughly established many postal improvements will follow, and a letter postage will soon be made possible.

Why should not every laboring man be free to stay out of a union as to join one? or to join one to stay out? It is a free country, is not it?

Lord Pauncefote, the British ambassador, is very hopeful of being able to settle the Sino-American question at the next session of Congress. We trust that he is not too sanguine. His confidence is based on the fact that Secretary Hay has consulted the members of the Senate, both those friendly to the former treaty and those opposed to it, and so has learned just what sort of treaty the Senate would be willing to ratify. One good effect will certainly flow from this way of dealing with the Senate, and that is that it will be impossible for it to be "jealous" of the President and the Secretary of State, or to sink because its leaders have not been consulted. We sincerely hope that a treaty may be negotiated that will be fair and honorable to both nations, and that under its provisions this Government may speedily build or authorize the building of a canal through the isthmus. One thing is certain, and that is that Lord Pauncefote and Secretary Hay have performed their part well.

Our little local rains did not have much effect in cooling the air permanently, yet, like the proverbial "inch on a man's nose," they amounted to a great deal. They soaked the parched ground in spots and gave the crops as far as they went a good deal of encouragement. It is a large country and hard to rain all at once.

It is a pretty hard task to work at politics all the year round. But there are some men in Indiana equal to the task. It is impossible to conceive the motive of the News in alluding to the silence of the Journal in the proposed contracts for the purchase of the enjoin proposal for bids for a contract were published the Journal opposed the scheme in an editorial. The editorial was printed on July 8 - The Journal.

We had quite overlooked this one long expression of the Journal. We are sorry we failed to note it, but it is perhaps not remarkable for the subject has been before the public for a month and there have been many phases of it that have been noted in The News worthy of comment.

A great many men owe their success in life to the mines. Yes, the mines are flooded. The firemen demand an eight-hour day instead of twelve. Their strike at this time, of course, is intended to help the Amalgamated Association, and it is probable that they stand a better chance of winning than the association does, for their demands seem to be more reasonable.

In the whole Chinese business no nation has shown more forbearance and good sense than Japan. Public libraries are yet young in the world and near to us. Where was the first public library of the world located and when? People will be pretty generally surprised to know that it was at Alexandria, in Egypt, in 325 B. C. And for years after this first library was established the whole number of books in public libraries was less than one-seventh of the number that is now in the Boston library. But public libraries played an important part in the literary life of the early part of the last century. There had been gifts of libraries and books in Europe for 300 years or more there had been municipal libraries, but Peterboro was the first town in the world that voted money to form and support a free town library. It did not issue its first catalogue until 1828. This publication shows that the most of its books were religious works, although there were many books of travel and of fiction, and of this the quality was good. It was not until 1862 that this first library received a gift of money from a private source, when it got $80, which was given to it by Miss Susan M. Gates, who was the librarian and also the postmistress of the town and this represented her salary for eight months. It is interesting to know, however, that after this gift was frequent and that this first library was a handsome building and well stocked.

WM. KNABE & CO. Dear Sir: - Through my six months' concert tour through the United States of America, I have used exclusively the Knabe pianos, and I am pleased to be able to state, with fullest sincerity, that I consider them the best instruments of our times. In particular, is the action absolutely incomparable, enabling the rendering of effects which I could hardly have heretofore accomplished. I congratulate Wm. Knabe & Co. heartily upon their superb instruments, and feel convinced that most of my colleagues will join me in my judgment.

THE FASTEST THREE HEATS

REMARKABLE WORK AT BLUE RIBBON MEET. CONEY PACED MILE IN 2:02

Lowered the Track Record, but the Effort was Too Much for Him and He Lost the Race to Anasoda.

DETROIT, Mich., July 18.—The performance of Coney in the first heat of the free-for-all race at Gross Point yesterday was the feature of the third day Blue Ribbon meeting. The black gelding stepped the mile in 2:02, lowering his own record three-quarters of a second and establishing a new record for the track. The effort was too much for him, however, and the race went to Anasoda, who won the next two heats in 2:08, and 2:06. In the second heat Coney carried the others the first quarter in 30, but broke. Anasoda took the lead and reached the half in 34. This was another wonderful performance. The other two starters, Conner and Indiana, were not in the race for first place.

This race broke the world's record for the fastest three consecutive heats ever trotted or paced in a race. The 2:17 trot for the Russell Horse stakes proved a great disappointment, as Metalash, the favorite, was taken sick while waiting for the first heat and withdrawn. Charley Mc then won the event in straight heats.

At Indianapolis, Ind. Indiana horse, whose fast work at Windsor, last week, attracted much attention, easily won the 2:14 race in straight heats. The 2:10 trot proved something of a disappointment, as Dolly Dillon won half the race and was the fast for half her field.

TO KEEP CANADIAN TROPHY

TRIAL RACES FOR SELECTING A DEFENDER. LITTLE FLEET AT CHICAGO

Nine Boats will Begin Their Contests Saturday — Illinois, Cadillac and Milwaukee Favorites, and Yankee a Dark Horse.

The trial races for the purpose of selecting a defender for the Canadian international trophy, which the gallant little thirty-five footer that country are each striving to produce a challenger which will prove equal to the task of lifting the cup, which now occupies the place of honor in the clubhouse of the Chicago Yacht Club. No less than a dozen yachts have been built in Canada in the last two years, and several others are just receiving their finishing touches. No sooner had the challenge of the Canadians been received by the Chicago Yacht Club than an invitation was extended to all of the yacht clubs along the great lakes to assist in providing a defender. Nine trim, speedy and feet-winged little thirty-five footer, each ready to do its utmost or turn a somersault in Lake Michigan have responded, and they are all gathered in the harbor of the Chicago Yacht Club. They daily take a spin up and down the lake to keep in condition.

The Chicago Boats. Five of the yachts are Chicago boats, and are more or less familiar with each other. Of this flotilla the Illinois has so far shown her superiority, and rather holds aloof from the others. The Yankee, whose queer appearance excites as much comment in the feet as would a typical down Easterner should appear in the clubhouse, is the only yacht in the Chicago fleet which will not willingly admit the superiority of the Illinois. The Yankee is something of a freak, and knows it. She is queer from keel to topmast, and what she will do in the trials is largely a matter of conjecture.

NORDHOFF'S CAREER HERE

HE DID NEWSPAPER WORK IN INDIANAPOLIS YEARS AGO.

BECAME A FAMOUS WRITER

He Had a Room at the Old State House and Read Every Book in the State Library Except the Law Books.

The death of Charles Nordhoff at Corona, Cal., brings to the minds of many old citizens of Indianapolis the fact that one time a resident of this city and a writer on the Indianapolis Sentinel. "He was," said Austin H. Brown, "a nephew of Professor Nast, of Greenacres, and also of Thomas Nast, the famous caricaturist. He was induced by Professor Nast to come to this city and study law in the office of Governor Joseph A. Wright. Nordhoff had no taste for the law, but was hungry for literary work. He had a room at the old State House and read everything in the State Library except the law books. I induced him to take a position with me on the Sentinel."

"He accepted, and was reporter, city editor and editorial writer all at the same time. He took his meals for more than three years at my house. This was in 1853-54. "One of the most remarkable pieces of newspaper work of that day was in 1853, when the first Union depot was completed, and the trains of the new roads were then had come in at that station. Nordhoff wrote a history of the roads. It covered about four pages, and was a special edition of the Sentinel."

"Previous to his coming here he had served nine years as a man-of-war, and, lastly, on a whaler. This made him a hearty, healthy man, full of information gathered up all round the world. During the time he was with me he wrote three juvenile books. The 'Merchant Sea Service,' 'Man-of-War Life' and 'Three Years on the Water.' They were published by Moore, Wilstach & Keys, of Cincinnati, after Mr. Nordhoff left me."

Harper Brothers Interested. "H. W. Derby, then a partner of Harper Bros., had made contracts with most of the Western States to furnish books for township libraries. These three books were accepted by him and were largely distributed throughout the State. Derby took a fancy to Nordhoff and had him transferred to work on Harper's Weekly. His first work, as he told me, was in writing matter to fit illustrations that were furnished to him. He continued with Harper a while and was a great favorite with James Harper. He became acquainted with William Cullen Bryant, who then edited the New York Evening Post. Nordhoff became managing editor of that paper."

"He continued in that service a number of years until James Gordon Bennett, Jr., gave him service as editorial writer on the New York Herald. He continued there until 1858, when he was placed in charge of the Herald's editorial correspondence in Washington. He had the reputation of being one of the ablest correspondents ever in that city. I saw him there in 1858. "A few years after that he gave up journalistic work, but Mr. Bennett placed him in charge of the Herald's editorial correspondence in New York. He was the only condition being that he write for no other paper and that he should only write occasionally for the Herald."

"When Mr. Nordhoff was on the Sentinel the paper was printed on a cylinder press; later on a cylinder steam press, which was bought at his suggestion. The paper was then made up at 4 p. m. for the next day. This fact was the subject of many humorous remarks on the part of Mr. Nordhoff, who, before coming here had for six months been on the Philadelphia Bulletin, then controlled by William Lloyd Garrison, who was for Vice-President on the Abolition ticket."

"Among other books written by Mr. Nordhoff was one on the American constitution, which became a text-book in the public schools. "The New Workhouse Hospital. Work on the new hospital at the county workhouse will be completed this week. Col. A. D. Shaw, superintendent, said today he expects to begin placing fixtures in the new ward some time early next week. There are no prisoners now seriously ill enough to be taken to the ward, but it will be ready to receive them by this time next week, should there be any. The greatest benefit to be derived from a separate hospital building, however, is the isolation of contagious diseases, Colonel Shaw believes. Heretofore prisoners have been treated in their cells, and he thinks what their ailment might be. The new hospital is one story in height and of sufficient size to accommodate fifteen or twenty patients."

Death of Mrs. Louise Shaw. Mrs. Louise Shaw, eighty years old, died suddenly yesterday at Lawrenceburg. She formerly lived in Indianapolis and until recently at Moore's Hill, where the body was to-day placed in a vault. She leaves two children, Mrs. Mary C. Lloyd, of Indianapolis, and C. Crocker, of Austin, Tex. She was a woman of great strength of character, of a kindly, generous nature, and beloved by all who knew her."

Mining Law Commission. The commission appointed by Governor Durbin to codify the mining laws of the State consists of the following: W. H. Zimmerman, of Brazil; Jacob Koelsen, of Terre Haute, both coal operators, and James Cantwell, of Carbon, and James Keenan, of Linton, both coal miners. The commission is to report at the next General Assembly."

Questionable Exhibits. To the Editor of The News: Sir—On a recent occasion, in speaking of the various enticements to evil that are in vogue, a certain minister of this city said that some society in Cincinnati had been organized for the purpose of taking away the display, under the nickel-in-the-slot machines, of pictures of nude and questionable females. We think the Cincinnati society is to be commended, and we hope it may be successful in its undertaking. There are three of these nefarious schemes going on in this city, under the attractive names of Edison pictures. One has just been opened here, with organ attachment, giving opportunity to view these pictures of a fast class of females for a penny in the slot. Here is opportunity for reform, and I trust that the display of such pictures is unlawful, that the law may be enforced. In Chicago there are three of these shops on State street within half a block. A prominent attorney told the writer to-day that the Indiana statute is very explicit on this subject, and that such exhibitions are a clear violation of law. G. W. BROWN.

FREE G. A. R. MEN QUARTERS.

Where the Indiana Members will be Taken Care of in Cleveland. Attorney-General Smock, of the Indiana G. A. R., has been notified that free quarters will be furnished to the Indiana veterans at the national Grand Army encampment at Cleveland. The quarters will be at the Rockwell school, Lusler's Hall, St. John's Catholic school and the St. Clair school. The buildings, General Smock says, are well located.

Banking Laws. To the Editor of The News: Sir—What can you say for a party that came into power in 1896 under the declaration of sound and honest money, and further, that we did not need more, but better money; that since that time has caused an inflation of bank notes to such an extent that prices are already unreasonably high, and speculation is beginning to run wild, and still the inflation goes merrily on? As to when the end will come no one can tell, but that it will eventually end in disaster to many no one who is familiar with the results of similar conditions in the past will deny. Many believe that increase in prices and activity in trade, which is the natural result of an inflated currency, was brought about by the election and wonderful influence of President McKinley. To such the reason for the present condition of affairs is of little value. But to those who wish to profit by past experience a thought along these lines may not be amiss.

As I understand the present banking laws, a half dozen men with $1,000 each, who have credit sufficient to borrow $50,000 for sixty or ninety days to purchase the bonds required as a base for their bank notes, can go into a room, fit it up at an expense of $800 or $850, charter a bank, receive their bank notes, pay back the borrowed money for the larger part of them, and be equipped for business. It is true that they do not have much money in their vaults to do business on, but the fact that they have $25,000 in United States bonds in their notes is sufficient to give them credit with their depositors, who have no direct means of finding out the condition of the bank until after it fails, and a portion, if not all, of their deposits are gone. But we have bank inspectors who, what of it? Many a bank has passed the inspection and failed a short time afterward. I mean to refer to the honest and competent bankers. But when laws are made too favorable to adventurers will avail themselves of the opportunities. It seems to me that we have gone a little too far in the mad rush for class laws. But when today he expects to begin placing fixtures in the new ward some time early next week. There are no prisoners now seriously ill enough to be taken to the ward, but it will be ready to receive them by this time next week, should there be any. The greatest benefit to be derived from a separate hospital building, however, is the isolation of contagious diseases, Colonel Shaw believes. Heretofore prisoners have been treated in their cells, and he thinks what their ailment might be. The new hospital is one story in height and of sufficient size to accommodate fifteen or twenty patients."
