SNEAK THIEVES AT WORK

C. R. Shortridge of Coatesville, was for the second time a victim of a sneak thief when he was relieved of his spare tire and carrier from his Ford car Monday night. Mr. Shortridge parked his car in front of the high school building and attended the Musical program given by the high school orchestra. When he returned to his car he found the tire and rim missing. Mr. Shortridge stated the thief must have a grudge against him as he had several articles taken from his car at the DePauw-Wabash game here last year.

AMERICAN AIRMEN MAKE A BIG JUMP

FLY 350 MILES TO REACH MAIN ISLAND OF JAPAN MONDAY

BLIZZARD IS RAGING

Snow Storm Which Imperiled Flight is Underway and Aviators Will Wait for its Subsiding to go on MINATO, Japan, May 20—Braving a blizzard, America's round the world fliers have reached the main island of Japan.

The three seaplanes piloted by Lieuts. Smith, Nelson and Wade landed in the water off Minato on the northern-most point of the island of Honshu—on which are located Tokio and the principal cities of the empire—a few minutes before a terrific storm, which had made their journey a perilous one, drove down out of the north.

Because of the storm and a heavy fog farther south the airmen gave up the idea of continuing their flight today.

The next jump is to take them to Kasumigaura, the naval base outside Tokio.

The fliers arrived here from Yetereru Island, 350 miles northwest of the Kuriles group. They flew to Yetereru from Paramashiru yesterday.

COUNTY FAIR PLANS ARE GOING FORWARD

Second Mass Meeting of Committees Held at Court House Monday Night.

The County Fair Association held a meeting Monday night at which about sixty were present. Every township was represented with the exception of Jackson, Washington and Cloverdale, several of the Townships having five or more representatives. The interest shown last night was much greater than at any previous meeting held.

A board of directors for the association was chosen as follows: Mr. Charles Edwards, Mr. Chas. Moffett, Mr. Ray Vaughan, Mrs. Morton Fordice and Mrs. Jessie Lane.

Each of the township chairmen, both home economics and township exhibits, were called on and gave what had been done in their township, reporting, if they had not done so, the names of their sub-committees. The chairmen of the livestock committees were also asked to report at this time.

Mr. Fred O'Hair, chairman of the finance committee, after a meeting with township representatives, asked that the premium list in each class be decided upon as soon as possible in order that the committee might know just how much finance would be needed.

Miss Clodfelter, chairman of the Home Economics class appointed a committee to prepare the premium list for this class as follows: Mrs. O. H. McNary, Mrs. Guy Wright and Mrs. George Frank.

No definite date was set for the next meeting of the association but everyone was asked to do his best to develop and strengthen the work in a local way.

AMUSEMENT BAN WILL BE MODIFIED

STRICT PLEASURE MEASURE OF METHODIST CHURCH WILL BE CHANGED

CONSIDERED PROBABLE

Higher Ups at Springfield Conference Believe this Action Will Be Taken Soon

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 20—Modification of the ban on dancing, attendance at theatres, participations in harmless games of chance and other amusements were expected to be ratified by the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church following a vote by the committee on state of church.

Further reduction of the number of Episcopal residences in the United States and possibly elimination of the residence in Paris was anticipated as result of the situation created yesterday by vote on the matter electing new bishops.

The matter of replacing bishops for those now retired is in the hands of the committee on Episcopacy. They will determine the Episcopal residences to be eliminated to conform with Monday's ruling cutting the number of new bishops from five to three.

The following residences were mentioned as liable to be eliminated: Philadelphia, Buffalo, New York, Helena, Mont., Indianapolis, and Paris, France.

After an all morning discussion the order for reducing the number of bishops to be elected, from five to three, was rescinded. Dr. David G. Downey of New York led the fight to rescind the order.

The Episcopal residences at Helena, Mont., and Paris, France, will be eliminated.

WOODS TO RETIRE

WASHINGTON, May 20—President Coolidge has instructed Secretary of State Hughes to accept the resignation of Cyrus E. Woods, American ambassador to Japan, it was made known at the White House today.

Mr. Coolidge has no one particularly in mind to take Wood's place, although he has had a number of names suggested to him, which he intends to study.

PLEASING CONCERT MONDAY

HIGH SCHOOL ORCHESTRA UNDER PROF. SLOANE IN DELIGHTFUL ENTERTAINMENT

MUSIC WEEK FESTIVAL

Monday Evening's Program was Opener for Week of Musical Performances at Local High School

The opening number of the school Music Week Festival was presented Monday night in the high school auditorium by the high school orchestra assisted by the audience in a number of selections out of the song books. The rendition of the program was second to none of the past presentations and was of a surprisingly high type.

Prof. Ralph C. Sloane is to be congratulated on his excellent work and faithful diligence in fostering the first and only orchestra that the high school has ever boasted. Three years ago, he began working with two or three of the pupils, and soon interest began to increase and he had six. From that time on down to the present, the orchestra has increased until there are now forty pieces in it. Three of the original orchestra are in the present organization and there have been two additions in the last three weeks. Two Cellos have been added to the roll.

A soloist, Miss Florence Ellis, has only recently been discovered in the ranks and she made her first appearance before the public Monday night. She rendered two selections, "Ashes of Roses" and "The Birthday," both of which were given in a very pleasing and attractive manner. Mrs. C. W. Otis played the accompaniment. Miss Ellis, bass player received many compliments on her numbers.

Miss Edgarda Sloan, daughter of Professor Sloane, also gave an excellent instrumental solo. The Cello was efficiently brought into play in "A Gypsy Love Song." Mrs. Otis also accompanied on the piano for Miss Sloan's selection.

The house was of a fairly good size but was not as large as had been expected. They applauded the orchestra and showed a great deal of appreciation for all of the selections.

Two pieces which were composed by Prof. Sloane were given during the evening. They were, "Dreams of Childhood," and "Clown Capers," two widely different pieces so far as theme is concerned. They were greatly appreciated by Monday's audience.

Old folk songs featured among the ones sung by the audience; those old songs which never grow old to the ear and heart.

The program was as follows: Stars and Stripes Forever (March) - Orchestra America, song, Audience, Orchestra Raymond Overture - Orchestra Old Folks at Home, song - Audience and Orchestra Dreams of Childhood - Orchestra Clown Capers - Orchestra Ashes of Roses - Orchestra The Birthday - Solos—Florence Ellis Indian Summer - Orchestra Love's Old Sweet Song - Audience and Orchestra A Gypsy Love Song, Cello Solo - Edgarda Sloan Overture Burlesque - Orchestra

After a day's intermission, another number on the week's program will be presented. The Junior High School will present, "The Toreadors" on Wednesday night. An admission of twenty-five cents will be charged to defray expenses. All of the scenery for this program was designed by Miss Roberts, art teacher, and was constructed under the direction of Coach Rhea, by the manual training boys in the High School Shop.

The week will close with a big night Friday night. That's the night that the "blues" will desert Greencastle for it is to be Joy Night.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS BUSY

INDIANAPOLIS, May 20.—Republican leaders of Indiana and candidates for nomination for state offices were all in Indianapolis today in preparation for the opening of the state convention on Wednesday morning.

Candidates had opened headquarters and started intensive drives to line up delegates for the convention, while the G. O. P. leaders were in conference over the problems to come before the convention.

United States Senator Watson was the first leader to reach Indianapolis. The first thing he did was to nail reports that he would permit his name to be endorsed by Indiana Republicans for the nomination for vice-president.

Watson said he has not been and will not be a candidate. Clyde Walb, state chairman, Postmaster General New, and George B. Lockwood, editor of the National Republican, arrived last night.

One of the first problems to be settled by the leaders was a slate for the "big seven" delegates at large to the Republican national convention in Cleveland.

Senator Watson and Chairman Walb are regarded as certain of a place on the delegation. Names of Governor Branch, George B. Lockwood, Postmaster General New, Albert J. Beveridge and half a dozen others are being mentioned for the other places on the delegation.

BUILDING ACTIVITIES INCREASE

GREENCASTLE IS SCENE OF MUCH CONSTRUCTION WORK AGAIN THIS YEAR

MANY NEW RESIDENCES

New Homes and Business Concerns Are Being Erected. Masonic Temple Will Be Building of Beauty

Greencastle is again for the third consecutive season the scene of busy building activities which will last throughout the summer months.

The $60,000 Masonic Temple which is going up at the corner of Washington and Vine streets, when completed, will be one of the show places of the city. No better lot for a building could have been selected by the organization.

William Randel is erecting a large garage on the intersection of Indiana and Columbia streets that will be one of the biggest and best equipped shops of its kind in this section of the state. This salesroom and repair shop will be quite an addition to the business district.

Numerous homes are now under construction or plans have been drawn up for them. Prof. Smith of the Biology department of DePauw University is to build a beautiful home in Northwood this summer. It will be of stone similar to the Phi Kappa Psi house and Tom Nelson, contractor for the stone work on this fraternity residence will have charge of Prof. Smith's home.

M. A. Wolfe has purchased the Ewing McLean property on south Locust street and will remodel the place. F. A. Hays is planning to build a new five-room bungalow on Hanna street near the university ball park. Mrs. E. A. Hamilton has sold a lot just east of her home on Locust and Walnut street to Philander Pruitt and it is said a bungalow will be built there at once.

Besides these building activities, the city will carry on $50,000 in street improvements this year putting in cement sidewalks, curbs and paved streets at various places. There is no doubt but this will be the best year in building and street improving Greencastle has yet experienced.

FIVE DEAD WHEN FLYER HITS EXTRA

FAST INTERURBAN CAR CRASHED INTO EXTRA TRAIN AT ROANOKE.

TWENTY ARE INJURED

Fatal Accident Occurred Monday Evening. Five Are Dead And Twenty Injured in Wreck.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., May 20.—Coroner N. W. Good of Huntington county today placed responsibility for the Roanoke interurban wreck, in which five persons were killed last night, upon the crew of the eastbound "extra" after a preliminary investigation.

Coroner Good was at the scene of the wreck most of the night questioning persons who were in the accident. Today he prepared to start a formal investigation here.

Asked if he would prefer charges against the crew of the eastbound car, Coroner Good said: "There is apparently no other way out of it. The fact that the crew of the eastbound car did not take the siding for further orders makes them responsible for the wreck."

Officials of the Indiana Service corporation on whose lines the wreck occurred were also starting a probe to fix responsibility for the crash. A wrecking crew was still busy early today removing wreckage from the tracks and traffic will probably not be resumed on the line until this afternoon.

Seven of the most seriously injured were taken to Fort Wayne hospitals. Others were removed direct to their homes after receiving medical aid.

WILL NOT VETO BILL WASHINGTON, May 20.—President Coolidge will not veto the tax bill despite passage of the $4,000,000,000 soldier bonus bill over his veto, according to word reaching the capital today.

With the bonus bill actually a law, administration leaders showed a tendency to talk of a veto of the tax measure because of the added drain imposed on the treasury by the measure. Their view is that Mr. Coolidge should approve any tax bill that congress sends him and get the tax question out of the way as a campaign issue.

FRANK M'GILL HELD HERE IN BOOZE CASE

SOUTH PUTNAM FARMER ARRESTED BY OFFICERS ON MONDAY EVENING

FIND EVIDENCE ON FARM

Local Authorities Make Raid After Receiving Tips from Neighbors. Believe He Was Making Liquor

Frank McGill, residing south of Cloverdale, was arrested by Federal Prohibition officer Julius Bryan, Sheriff Leslie Sears and deputies on Monday night about 7 o'clock. McGill is charged with the manufacturing of intoxicating liquor.

The officers here have been receiving "tips" at various times that McGill was operating a still and Monday afternoon a search warrant was made out and the authorities made a trip to McGill's home.

When they entered the house the officers found a large pan of cracked corn which Mrs. McGill stated to be "chicken feed." On one side of the room was a big jar filled with what the police believed to be mash. Other equipment in the room at the side of the stove was also inspected by the raiding squad.

McGill was brought to this city and placed in jail to await a hearing in court. A half-gallon jar of mash was brought along as evidence.

SATURDAY HALF DAY HOLIDAY IS CONSIDERED

Local Postoffice Officials are Considering New System for Mail Carriers During Summer

Postmaster E. R. Bartley has received a special notice from Postmaster General Harry S. New regarding a Saturday afternoon holiday for postal employees. Mr. Bartley said it was under consideration, but no definite steps had been taken. It would be possible for only a few employees to take advantage of the half day off plan at a time here and this could only be done during the months of July and August when the work is the lightest.

The order received by Mr. Bartley is as follows: SPECIAL NOTICE TO POSTMASTERS

Office of the Postmaster General Washington, May 14, 1924 Order No. 493.

Realizing the very general tendency of people toward relaxation from business during the heated season on Saturday afternoons, acknowledging the fact that this business cessation lessens to a limited extent the work in some of our post offices; desiring to be as considerate as possible of those who are serving faithfully, in our great system, and unwilling that the regulations of the department should stand in the way of even very short and temporary respites, though they may be available to comparatively few, I am herein authorizing postmasters to take into consideration the situation which exists in their own jurisdictions during this season. If any employees can be dismissed earlier or allowed an interval off duty on Saturday afternoons, wholly because of having accomplished their usual work either by their own extra efforts or because of slackness of Saturday afternoon business, and in no wise directly or indirectly entailing extra expense to the Government, the postmaster in his discretion may permit this. The department does not contemplate any curtailment of the service. It is anticipated that only a small per cent. of the employees may be able to benefit from this permission, and that in many cities and towns none at all. It is intended solely to extend to postmasters that reasonable latitude which will enable them to grant such permission in case they find that it can be done without loss to the Government and to the service. It is understood that the summer season begins Saturday, June 14, and ends on Saturday, September 13.

HARRY S. NEW Postmaster General.

ENGAGEMENT OF MISS FLOSSIE ALLEN ANNOUNCED

Martinsville Girl Will Wed Rev. Meredith, DePauw Student and Member of Alpha Chi Omega

In making the announcement of the engagement of Miss Flossie Allen, a former student in DePauw and a member of Alpha Chi Omega Sorority, and Rev. Meredith, the Martinsville Reporter on Monday said:

An announcement dinner, beautiful in all its appointments, was given at the Home Lawn Saturday evening at six o'clock by Miss Nell Huffman in honor of Miss Flossie Allen, bride-elect, daughter of the Rev. H. H. Allen and Mrs. Allen.

The dinner was served in the English dining room which was lighted with soft candle light. The table held a bowl of the graceful bridal wreath and tulips in orchid shades for its center piece and a double row of pink tapers in crystal holders extended from the center to the ends of the table.

The favors were a miniature keepsake room for the honor guest and miniature brides for the other guests. Place cards bearing a postman handling a letter with "a bit of news for you" contained the announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Flossie Collins Allen to the Rev. A. L. Meredith of Stockwell June 26th.

Between the courses of the dinner, toasts were given to Miss Allen by Miss Huffman, Miss Burton and Miss Pearce.

The beautiful bridal cake contained the ring, thimble and dime, which were in the pieces received respectively by Miss Woody, Miss Huffman and Mrs. Allen.

Following the dinner the guests enjoyed the evening program of music and a social time in the solarium. The guests other than Miss Allen were: Miss Daisy Wedding, of Indianapolis, Mrs. H. H. Allen, Mrs. M. S. Mahan, Mrs. W. D. Wilhite and the Misses Katharine Burton, Della Pearce, Rose Singleton, Margaret Rose, Ruth Woody, Gladys Bray and Ruth Henson.

TO AFFECT TAXES

WASHINGTON, May 20.—President Coolidge believes that enactment of the bonus will affect materially the amount of tax relief that can be afforded business and the people, it was said on his behalf at the White House today.

The president thinks, however, that while relief will be affected to some extent this year, the effect will be greater in future years, it was said.

BROTHER DIMMED HER LIGHT

Little Anita Impressed Her Callers Until the Rude Boy Came In.

The Knoxes had just moved from the city to a New Jersey town where friendly couples come in to call after supper and housekeepers run in any time of the day to exchange the news.

Anita, six-year-old only daughter of the family, while pleased with the new surroundings and delighted with the friends she was making still felt it her duty, being from the city, to maintain certain formalities, says the New York Evening Mail. Her mother was therefore amused and a little dismayed at unexpected airs her small daughter assumed with the neighbors' children. However, they appeared to take it in good part and for a week Anita seemed in a fair way to become the social leader of her new circle.

If this was her ambition, however, she reckoned without her four-year-old brother, "Boy." The other day when she was exhibiting her dolls to two youthful callers and entertaining them with an extended and perhaps slightly exaggerated account of city life, "Boy" came in from play.

He cast a single look at her pursed lips and proud manner, listened in for a moment to her conversation, then shoved her rudely out of his way. "Aw, you're only a nut," he commented in brotherly fashion. And Anita hasn't tried the highbrow role since.

WHY DID SLEMP GO TO FLORIDA?

WASHINGTON DOES NOT BELIEVE HE WENT SOUTH AS THE MESSENGER OF PRESIDENT.

By EDWARD C. CLARK

Washington.—How far can a secretary to the President go in the matter of expressing the views of his chief without consulting him in advance of the secretarial pronouncement?

The oil investigating committee has been trying to find out why C. Bascom Slemph, secretary to President Coolidge, went to Florida. Mr. Slemph testified that his main motive in going to the southern state was to get a rest. He admitted on the stand, however, that he had talked to former Secretary of the Interior Fall and to Edward B. McLean, both of whom were sojourning in Florida, about matters political and economic. Mr. Slemph denied that he was on any special mission for the President.

The chances are the secretary to the President talked with Senator Fall and Mr. McLean on certain things because those things were very much in the news of the day, and also very much in the minds of the people. It is taken for granted in Washington, however, that the secretary did not go to Florida in any way as a messenger from the President. It would have been an extraordinary thing for a chief executive to employ his secretary for such a matter at such a time, and moreover presidents do not do things that way.

There have been secretaries to presidents of the United States, however, who without directly consulting with their chiefs, would give out information, basing it upon their belief that their knowledge of the president's mind in the matter was accurate. Some presidential secretaries have been free in their discussion of administrative matters, while others have been remarkably reticent on all such matters.

Most Secretaries Reticent.

Secretary Slemph has not been remarkably communicative to the Washington correspondents, although he has not been anything like as reticent as was George B. Christian, his immediate predecessor in the job. Mr. Christian was willing to talk about almost anything except matters of state. He left such matters entirely to President Harding, who talked freely twice a week to the Washington correspondents called together in conference.

Just before Mr. Christian came into office Joseph P. Tumulty was secretary to the president. Mr. Tumulty knew everything that was in Woodrow Wilson's mind but he never disclosed his knowledge. Mr. Tumulty probably knew, as everybody else in the United States knew, that Mr. Wilson had a habit of speaking for himself. He showed on many an occasion something approaching resentment because others had ventured to speak for him. The relations between President Wilson and Secretary Tumulty were, however, of the closest, and no rift came in their relations until a considerable time after the president left the White House. Mr. Tumulty guarded jealousy the information which came to him because of his close contact with his chief.

President Taft had three secretaries in succession, Mr. Carpenter, Mr. Norton and Mr. Hilles. Fred Carpenter could give the sphinx instructions on how to keep silent. Mr. Norton spoke for his chief almost rarely and apparently only when given specific permission so to do. Mr. Hilles was and is an extraordinarily good politician, and, moreover, a man of tact. He spoke for President Taft frequently and, so far as the memory of one who was in Washington during that entire administration goes, Mr. Hilles never was called to account for the openness of his communications.

Mr. Loeb Talked Freely.

William Loeb, Jr., was secretary to President Roosevelt virtually during the whole of his administration. Roosevelt was willing personally to give out information on almost any subject at almost any time, and it may have been this and Mr. Loeb's intimate knowledge of virtually everything that was in the presidential mind which made the secretary feel free to answer on almost any subject.

Some private secretaries are timid and some are fearless. Mr. Loeb was one of the fearless ones. Recollection has it that on only one occasion did he say anything to which presidential exception might have been taken, and this thing was in connection with a minor matter, but which became a major matter in some persons' minds because it involved some things which were in a way personal.

At this writing there is an intimation that Secretary Slemph is to be recalled before the oil investigating committee in order that it may go more deeply into matters connected with his visit to Florida and with his conversations with Fall and McLean. There is a very evident hope on the part of some members of the committee that they can connect the White House up with some of the oil proceedings in a way much more direct than that furnished by the two trivial telegrams which passed between the President and Mr. McLean.

An autograph of Dante has been discovered under the parchment covering of an old book in the communal library of Padri, central Italy.

Friday and Saturday nights of this week there will be an art exhibit in the Junior High School Assembly room. The work shown will be ranging from the primary grades up and including college work. There is no charge and it will be a good chance to see what Greencastle produces in the way of artistic work. While at the High School building Friday night for Joy Night, just go upstairs and view the exhibit.

The last regular weekly chapel of the year was held this morning. The orchestra played some excellent selections. As it was the last chapel the Seniors will have with their old companions, it was a kind of special occasion.

The orchestra played the Stars and Stripes Forever march while the auditorium filled. Several visitors were present. The audience sang some selection accompanied by the orchestra and were favored with some selections by the orchestra alone. One of the impressive numbers was Auld Lang Syne, sung by all of the students and faculty while standing, except the seniors, who remained seated.

The last chapel of the year will be held next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. The seniors will give their final program and the remainder of the day will be occupied with Class day exercises.

The Athletic Board held a meeting this afternoon after school. This will probably be the last meeting of the season.

EUROPE WILL BE THE MAIN ISSUE

PARTY LEADERS SAY FOREIGN AFFAIRS WILL CUT CHIEF FIGURE IN CAMPAIGN.

HAS PUBLIC MIND CHANGED?

By EDWARD B. CLARK Washington.—Democratic and Republican leaders here seem to have become convinced that Europe will be the main issue in the national campaign of next year. This does not mean, of course, that domestic issues will be relegated to the rear, but it does mean that the pleas for support of the candidates of the two parties will be based on the contentions for and against the League of Nations that were so much in evidence in the campaign of 1920.

Seemingly it was the hope of some of the Democratic leaders that America's relation to foreign affairs could be minimized as an issue in the next campaign, but seemingly also their wish in the matter is not to prevail. A majority of the Democratic leaders, since the speech of former President Wilson on Armistice day, favors, it would seem, the entering into a hard fight in behalf of an effort through American influence and participation to straighten out the affairs of the world.

From time to time some men have said that since 1920 there has been a growing sentiment in behalf of American participation in some form or other in European affairs. Even some of the Republican leaders have come to think that some proposition for helpfulness would be advisable as a party measure. This feeling of some of the Republican leaders was voiced by President Harding when he laid before the senate his plan for American entrance into the World court. The plan of Secretary of State Hughes for a financial commission to study the question of Germany's ability to pay also is said to have been in response partly to a recently generated sentiment in many parts of the country.

Opposition is Solid. There are in the ranks of both the great political parties, however, as there always have been, solid phalanxes of men who utterly are opposed to any American proposition to offer help to Europe. These men say that Europe will not accept help in the way that the United States would desire to offer it, and that nothing but resentment and trouble would come if the general American impulse to help anywhere and everywhere were allowed to prevail.

Since the speech of former President Wilson other Democrats have taken the platform to echo his sentiments. Former Secretary of State Bainbridge Colby, in speaking to a great financial organization in Detroit, has said that America has faltered on the "upward pathway" in international affairs which had been blazed by Mr. Wilson. And he asked when this country would resume its place as leader of the world.

On the other hand, there are Democrats and many Republicans with them who have declared that the "upward pathway" of Mr. Colby's conception really is a "downward pathway." The situation in politics as it affects any attempted American intervention into European affairs still seems to be just what it was, unless, as some think, the people who are not politicians have come into a new mind on the subject one way or the other and that these new-minded ones may in the next campaign settle the question, perhaps, for all time.

Coolidge and the World Court. Washington still is curious as to what President Coolidge may say in his forthcoming address to congress on the subject of American entrance into the World court, which was a matter so close to the heart of President Harding and concerning which he made what was virtually his last speech in life. The trend of events seems to make it probable that President Coolidge will say little or nothing about his own administration's proposal for a financial commission to discuss Germany's ability to pay, and because of his trend of things interest is sharpened in what he will have to say, if anything, on the World court proposal.

Since Calvin Coolidge came into the presidency those prominent ones in his party who were opposed to American participation in any form in European affairs have become more and more outspoken in their opposition to the World court membership proposal. Politics, it is charged, will enter into the matter, but whether the President will be moved by political considerations or not, remains to be seen.

There are men who today say directly that if the President shall endorse and press the World court proposal of President Harding he will lose his chance to be nominated by a convention of the delegates of his party next year. There are others who say that he will make his nomination certain if he shall stand by the dead President's proposal. It is only proper to say, however, that there are many men here who declare that Mr. Coolidge will not be moved in the least by political considerations, but will treat the World court matter in accordance with his private beliefs on the subject.

Just Like Him. "I particularly like this dress; it's rich, yet at the same time simple." "Of course, dear! A kind of permanent reminder of your husband."
